RECIPROCITY WILL MEAN THE CLOSING OF THE QUAKER OATS CO'S BIG MILL HERE

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING MONDAY

Eighty Per Cent of the Canadian Business Would Go to the United States Mills—Mr. Denham Refuses to Make Comments—What Mr. Stuart Said.

The Toronto News contained the rather startling (to Peterborough people) information last night that if the reciprocity deal went through the Quaker Oats Company, one of Petterborough's largest industries, would practically close down. This phase of the matter, bringing the question of trade and tariff matters close home to the people, has caused a great deal of perturbation and a meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade has been called for Monday night to consider this and the general question of reciprocal trade relations with the United States.

When seen to-day in regard to the News' article, Mr. Denham refused to say anything about it for publication. It has been generally understood, however, that the reciprocal agreement will have, in any event, a detrimental effect on this important Peterborough industry, meaning the transferring of much of its business to the United States.

The Toronto News says—A number of concrete instances that have come to the knowledge of The News demonstrate more convincingly than argument, the effect that the reciprocity agreement will have on the industrial developments of this country.

Mr. Stuart, president of the Quaker Oats Company, a large American concern, with a Canadian branch at Peterborough, was in the city a few days ago from Chicago, and he stated that if the proposed agreement is adopted at least 80 per cent. of the business now done at Peterborough will be transferred to the United States.

LASH ON THE EXPORT BUSINESS.

Mr. Z. A. Lash, K.C., who met Mr. Stuart, said this morning.—"Eighty per cent. of the output of the Peterborough mills is for export. If the agreement is adopted the result will be that our grain will go free into the United States, and there will be a tax on the bye-products which millers call the offal. The market for these bye-products in Canada is not large enough to consume the entire output of them, for the milling operations here are so much greater in proportion to the population that the local demand does not take up all these products. Therefore, these products have to be exported for sale in the United States.

"Instead of both grain and all its products entering the United States free, grain is to be admitted free and the products are to be taxed. The result is, adding the amount of the tax to the cost of manufacture here, the products cannot be sold in the United States at a figure which would return actual cost, without speaking of realizing any profit.

MILLS WOULD BE AT A DISADVANTAGE HERE.

"This means, therefore, that the mills at Peterborough will be at such a disadvantage compared to the mills in the United States, that the Quaker Oats Company will be obliged to transfer to their mills in the United States all this export business which now amounts to about 80 per cent. of the total output at Peterborough." "This would mean practically the closing down of the Peterborough mills."

MERCHANTS PROTEST

Reciprocity Condemned by Associated Boards of Trade.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—By a vote of 97 to 18 the Associated Boards of Trade, before the close of their convention in the City Hall yesterday afternoon, passed a strong resolution protesting against the ratification of the reciprocity agreement with the United States.

The resolution was moved by R. S. Gourlay, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, and seconded by Hon. E. J. Davis of Newmarket, a member of the late Liberal Government of Ontario. Mr. Gourlay said the reciprocity question was one that should be discussed by Boards of Trade. He did not wish the members to deal with it in a political way.

The resolution was a lengthy document. It stated, in substance, that the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of the policy pursued in the developments of her trade and natural resources, involving the expenditure of millions of dollars upon railways, canals and other means of transportation between the east and the west.

If the reciprocity agreement went through, further development along these lines would be handicapped and the present expenditure would to a great extent be lost. Reciprocity with the States would greatly tend to check the growth of trade between the various parts of Canada and of the rest of the Empire, and it would be a disturber of trade and commerce generally. There were also the million or more foreigners to consider. If such an agreement went through they would in time become in sympathy with the United States, and it would become more and more difficult to preserve the autonomy of Canada.

WHY VEHICLE WHEELS ARE NOT BEING MANUFACTURED NOW

(Farmers' Sun.)

A factory located in Peterborough county was some time ago engaged in the manufacture of wheels for vehicles. It is stated that wheels are not being made there now.

The Sun is given these reasons for the discontinuance of this form of industry:

The Peterborough county factory found those controling other factories, engaged in the same line, selling what are called "A" wheels at the price of "B" wheels, the latter being of a lower grade. The Peterborough concern naturally experienced difficulty in face of such competition. Then a proposition was made. The Peterborough company were offered $5,000 a year for ten years to quit manufacturing wheels altogether. Rather than continue to face destructive competition the offer was accepted, and manufacturing of wheels ceased.

That is the story the Sun heard at various points in Peterborough during a Grange campaign last week. It was told by men in a position to know the facts.

Is this merely a specimen of the means by which the number of industrial establishments in Canada has been reduced from 75,000 to 15,000 in sixteen years?

WHITE PLAINS IS VISITED BY FIRE

Million Dollar Loss, One Death and Six Firemen Injured.

Special to The Review.

White Plains, N.Y., February 23.—A destructive fire, which swept the principal business section of this place to-day, caused a loss of one million dollars. One man died from excitement and six firemen were badly injured.

Sentiment Against It.

New York, Feb. 23.—Col. E. Pryce-Jones, M.P., who has been in Canada and the west for several weeks, says that the general feeling in Eastern Canada is against reciprocity, as it is feared that the trade from Western Canada would be diverted to the United States.

In the western sections the farmers generally were uncertain as to the benefits, and Col. Pryce-Jones said he thought that if the matter was put up to a vote at the present time it would be defeated.

Canadians generally, said the colonel, ridiculed the talk of annexation.

BLIND HERO OF VELDT TO WED MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER

Trooper Mulloy Has Never Seen His Prospective Bride

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—A marriage of much interest to Canadians generally will be consummated in the Methodist Church at Waddington, N.Y., on Friday, March 3, when Trooper L. W. R. Mulloy, the blind hero of the South African campaign, will lead to the altar Miss Jean Munro, daughter of a Seattle, Wash., milionaire, and herself the possessor of half a million in her own right.

Trooper Mulloy will be in the novel position of having never seen his bride, as the romance which culminated in the present engagement only began after he received the terrible injuries in the war which resulted in his complete loss of sight, he having met her in London, England, about six years ago.

The trooper himself gave out the news of his intended nuptials, surprising a party of friends by calmly remarking that when they next saw him they would see him "double."

Miss Munro is an accomplished musician and the possessor of a magnificent soprano voice. She has studied in Italy for five years, and was a companion of Madame Tetrazzini, the noted opera singer. Mulloy recently received the appointment of secretary of the Conservative Association of London, Eng., and besides this is secretary of the Imperial Pioneer Association.

It is anticipated that he will now enter politics, and stand in the Conservative interest on his return to England for one of the two constituencies offered him at the recent general elections.

The marriage will be very quiet.

WON'T BE IN IT

Melbourne, Feb. 22.—Premier Fisher announces that Australia will not be represented by troops of triumphal arches at the festival of the Empire during coronation week. Such celebrations will be left to individual enterprise.

ANOTHER CASE FOR THE SESSIONS

Trial of Col. Munro Deferred—Chief Witness is Absent.

Special to The Review.

Toronto, February 23.—Owing to the absence of F. W. Stair, one of the chief witnesses in the trial of Col. Munro, who is charged with making false returns to the Government in the Farmers Bank case, and which was called for to-day, the trial has been deferred. It will, in all probability, be called for the general sessions, which begin March 7.

Knox Church Notice

St. Petersburg, February 23.—Owing to the intercession of foreign powers, Russia will settle her differences with China by arbitration.

MOVES AGAINST NICKELODEONS

Quebec, February 22.—Sir Lomer Gouin has given notice in the Legislative Assembly that on Thursday next he will move the first reading of a bill concerning moving picture exhibitions.

The object of the measure is to make it illegal for children under fourteen years of age to attend moving-picture shows unless the children are accompanied by their parents or guardians.

BOTH PARTIES LINE UP TO EXPRESS LOYALTY TO BRITAIN

Liberals Support Resolution by Mr. Monk.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The resolution, moved by Mr. Monk, pledging loyalty to the Empire, was precipitated unexpectedly when the House of Commons was about to resume the discussion of the reciprocity agreement yesterday afternoon. For a second time the Nationist leader in the House intervened in the debate in a sudden and spectacular manner.

It brought the leaders on both sides back to the firing-line, roused a spirit of acrimony among members that for a time kept the Speaker busily engaged in interpreting and applying the rules.

The motion was unanimously approved.

"The opponents of this agreement," said Hon. Mr. Fielding in summing up before the motion carried, "have, unwisely and unjustly I think, sought for party reasons to convey the impression that there is a portion of the people of Canada who are not loyal to the institutions of our country and the Empire. I believe that every man of them, and every man on this side, and every citizen of the Dominion is bound to maintain the position of Canada as an integral part of the British Empire. But since my hon. friends opposite think that, in view of their record, it is necessary to make a declaration to that effect, I am going to help them make it."

Mr. Monk sought to trace back the origin of the public feeling of unrest in regard to annexation to alleged secessionist sentiments of many years ago on the part of members of the Government. The charges met with prompet and explicit denials from Messrs. Fielding and Lemieux. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, amid great Liberal enthusiasm, promptly accepted the resolution as expressing a truism which no Liberal doubts, but which might help the Conservatives to harmlessly flaunt their loyalty. Mr. Borden, who was confessedly taken by surprise by his lieutenant's latest move, could only cite in support of the annexation fears he himself expressed isolated excerpts from the recent speech of Champ Clark in the United States Congress.

Sir Wilfrid replied briefly, and concluded with the statement that "there was no necessity for this motion. It affirms a principle of which everybody is persuaded, and which no one needed to affirm. But in order to make it doubly sure, in order to affirm not only to this country, but to the other side also, that this discussion in which we are engaged does not mean what has been stated by my hon. friend, Mr. Monk, it may mean, I shall for my part vote for his motion, and I hope all on this side of the House will vote for it also."

Mr. Borden, who followed, stated that the Prime Minister should have brought in such a resolution himself. "I can tell him this," declared the Opposition leader, "that if this proposition means anything, it means commercial union in the end." He claimed that the U. S. House of Representatives had not accepted the proposal on economic grounds, but for the reason that it would lead to political absorption.

W. F. Maclean declared there were annexation germs in the agreement. It was a surreptitious agreement, and removed from Parliament the right to make the tariff. It was concocted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "the new czar of Canada, and Taft, the czar of the United States."

Following approval of Mr. Monk's motion, Mr. Ames continued the debate, its adjournment being moved by Dr. Clark of Red Deer.

Wood Alcohol Poisons Five.

Montecillo, N.Y., Feb. 23.—Four persons are dead and one is dying yesterday as the result of drinking wood alcohol by mistake Tuesday at Horton, N.Y. The dead are: James Kelly, aged 56; Thomas Kelly, 38; Mrs. Thos. Kelly, 34; and Thomas Harvey, 40. Mrs. Thos. Harvey is dying.

The beverage was partaken of freely at a family reunion.

Attempt at National Suicide.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—J. S. Willison, editor of the Toronto News, addressing the Women's Canadian Club here yesterday on reciprocity, described the proposed agreement as being an amazing attempt at national suicide.

75,000 Barrels of Potatoes Burned.

Eadton, Maine, Feb. 23.—Eight potato store-houses containing 75,000 barrels of potatoes were burned yesterday. The total loss is $100,000, divided among a dozen buyers and farmers.

THIS IS A LIVE BILL

Calls for Cancellation of Chauffeurs License on Second Conviction.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Automobile and assessment law amendments held the floor at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. Toronto members were rather startled by the motion for the second reading of the bill to amend the Assessment Act, as they thought it was not to come up for another two weeks. The actual understanding was, however, cleared up by a Ministerial explanation.

Valentine Stock, South Perth (Lib.), spoke at length in moving the second reading of his bill to require that chauffeurs and drivers of automobiles to convey with them their permit or license, the same to be endorsed upon conviction for violation of the statute, and to the Provincial Secretary for cancellation on the second conviction.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said that substantially the regulation called for was already embodied in the present act. He thought the third conviction preferable for cancellation of the permit.

S. Clark, West Northumberland, favored cancellation on the third conviction.

The bill was allowed to go to committee to consider the question of when the conviction should entail cancellation.

W. Proudfoot, Centre Huron, introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act. It provides simply that in cities of over 50,000, where a passenger has to stand, through all the seats on a street car being occupied, the passenger shall only be bound to pay a fare of two cents. Half fare was not proposed because of the half-cent difficulty. The objects is to prevent overcrowding by striking at the company's revenue.

S. Charters introduced his bill respecting the control of municipal telephone systems, and A. Studholme reintroduced his bill for the enactment of provincial woman's suffrage.

Hon. W. J. Hanna's consolidation bill with respect to the local improvement clauses of the Assessment Act, was proceeded with in committee. The Provincial Secretary stated that clauses to which objection was made should be allowed to stand.

FRENCH WAR MINISTER DEAD

General Brun Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke.

Special to The Review.

Paris, February 23.—General Brun, Minister of War, died suddenly to-day following a severe attack of paralysis.

Seattle Women Vote.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 23.—Returns in the City Council election on Tuesday indicate that the majority of the reform candidates were victorious. A large majority of the 22,000 women who had registered voted. The percentage of men voting was smaller.

The first 18 candidates are entitled to run for the final election of a council of nine, which is to rule the city under a modified form of government by commission.

Toronto Woman Injured.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 23.—Mrs. Hattie Weaver of Toronto was injured when a Pere Marquette passenger train leaving Detroit jumped the track on an open switch at Rose Centre, five miles south of Holly, Mich.

The engine and mail car overturned, and the day coach, in which Mrs. Weaver was riding, left the track.

VETO BILL IS CHEERED

Measure to Curtail Power of Lords Passes First Reading.

Asquith Refused to Argue for a Compromise.

London, Feb. 23.—Premier Asquith was the recipient of a tremendous ovation from his supporters in the House of Commons last night when the Parliament bill, otherwise known as the veto bill, a measure designed to curtail the power of the Lords, was passed on its first reading by the Government's full majority of 124, the vote being 351 to 227.

The Nationalists first rose in their places, cheering wildly and waving their hats. The Liberal members quickly emulated their example. This exhibition of enthusiasm was repeated a few minutes later as the Prim Ministr quietly left the scene of his victory in his initial action against the Lords.

The debate yesterday maintained a good oratorical level, but presented few new points. The dominant note of the Unionist speeches was an invitation to the Government to settle the matter by agreement. Fred. T. Smith, in a slashing attack, accused the Government of outraging the convictions of half of their fellow-countrymen on a matter that could never be settled except by consent. The British people, he said, would support the Opposition in any resistance, however desperate, they might offer to the bill.

Right Hon. George Wyndham also urged the Government to accept the invitation to settle the question by agreement. Otherwise, he declared, sooner or later the Opposition would repeal the bill.

To these persuasions, Winston Spencer Churchill, the Home Secretary, concluding the debate for the Government, replied that the Ministers would not have 50 supporters left if they agreed to enter such a conference now. He contended, as compared with the referendum, the Government's moderate proposals were the veriest Toryism, and no step would be neglected to carry the bill swiftly into law. The Government did not fear the referendum as a check on progressive legislation, but regarded it as a vicious system, especially unsuitable for this country, and its adoption would lead to Jacobinism, Caesarism and an[illegible]chy.

Van Horne Doesn't Like It.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Sir William Van Horne has just returned from Cuba, highly disgusted at the proposal put forward to carry through the Fielding-Paterson reciprocity measure.

"I am too much disgusted to talk about it," he said yesterday. "Just think of it. Our Government returns show that the commerce per capita of the people of Canada is $97 per head, while the commerce per capita of the people of the United States is $33 and some 55 odd cents per head. Naturally they look on us with a covetous eye, and this proposal for reciprocity is theirs. Now we are actually proposing to remove the mill dam, and you know what happens when the mill dam is removed—the waters find a common level. It is humiliating and disgusting to find such a deal as this one proposed by Messrs. Fielding and Paterson being seriously entertained. I won't trust myself to say another word about it. Here, just say that my opinions on the subject are summed up in the following," and Sir William sat down at his desk and wrote:

"Re reciprocity agreement—I am sick and ashamed—to sick and too much ashamed to say anything about the subject."

Dorothy Arnold Still Missing.

Atlantic City, Feb. 23.—"I am confident that Miss Dorothy Arnold is alive. I have tried to reach her since my return from Europe, but I have failed. I have not given up hope." Geo. S. Griscom, jr., suitor for the hand of the missing New York heiress, made the foregoing announcement here. He spoke through Roger O'Mara, the Pittsburg detective, who for ten days has conducted for the Griscoms the search for Miss Arnold, who is the daughter of a New York millionaire, and has been missing since mid-December.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill, P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

UNION LABEL

A SMITHSONIAN FALLACY

During the last week or so, a series of meetings have been held in Peterborough County under the auspices of the Dominion Grange, a body of farmers whose ideal in the matter of political economy seems to be very correctly voiced by the Farmers' Sun. The speakers included Mr. Drury, who presented the farmers' case on December 15 at Ottawa to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. At these meetings the old Goldwin Smith free trade theories were propounded, and on the face of them, look very plausible indeed.

Here is one of the statements made by Drury, the quotation being taken from the Farmers' Sun:

"A man with a $4,000 mortgage on his place thinks he has something to handle. At 5 per cent. this costs $200 a year. That is no more than the burdens, direct and indirect, which the protective tariff places upon the average farm."

Suppose that the protective tariff were wiped out entirely, meaning a commercial annexation of Canada by the United States. In the case of Peterborough, would the Canadian General Electric works be located here? Would not the electrical instruments and machinery now being made here be sent from the big Westinghouse factory at Pittsburg? There would be no $2,250,000 paid out in wages annually to Canadian citizens. The employment on this vast amount of manufacture would go to American citizens; the profits of the labor would go to build up the United States. The Canadian farmer would be reducing himself to the position of a "hewer of wood, and a drawer of water" to the Americans, instead of finding an ever increasing home market right at his door, growing and expanding.

This Peterborough case is but a sample of many others. Hamilton has 33 branches of American industries. It is very prosperous, through the immense amount of work provided for its increasing population. This in turn demands the farmers' produce, and as good prices—and in some cases, better—are paid as on the American side. The farmers of the district were never more prosperous than they are to-day, as a class, and this comes as a result of a moderate protective tariff.

It may be that a farmer might buy his needs in the line of manufactured goods at $200 a year cheaper, if cheap American goods were admitted. But with his home market demoralized, with the industrial life supporting him gone, his loss would be a good deal more than $200 a year. To ship ordinary farm produce costs money—and with a country reeking with industrial ruin he would have to ship his surplus, for which he now gets a first-class market right at home.

This is the old and stable argument over again. When the home market consumes at least 75 per cent. of the farmers' products at good prices, is it not sound business, paying in dollars and cents, to the farmer to do nothing to disturb the prosperity of that greatest of assets—his good home market? The freight rates he would pay shipping his surplus to the big centres, to find a market in the event of the destruction of home manufacturing, would more than cover the trifling addition to general cost the tariff may impose. This tariff business is a game that works two ways.

USING THE INTERNATIONAL

Peanut politics seem to flourish on the Intercolonial Railway, notwithstanding the fact that the road is now operated by a board of management. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier held his meeting at the Monument Nationale in Montreal last summer two things were necessary. One requisite was to fill the hall—not in itself much of a task—and another was to fill it with Liberals who would not interrupt the Prime Minister with unpleasant questions. It will be remembered that Mr. Bourassa had addressed a monster meeting a short time before and public feeling in Montreal was running strong against the government. It was, therefore, decided to bring the crowd from the city of Quebec, and for this purpose an excursion train was run on the I. C. R. which gave a rate of $1.50 for the round trip. That this was unbusinesslike sufficiently appears from the fact that neither the C.P.R. nor the Grand Trunk attempted to meet the rate. These roads, together with the I.C.R., belong to a traffic association whose rates are under the supervision of the Dominion Railway Commission. The lowest permissible rate for such an excursion would be $2.70 net to the railway. Had this rate, or any other usual excursion rate been given all three lines would have competed.

This led Mr. Stanfield, the Conservative member for Colchester, N.B., to make a very pertinent remark. It appears that last summer there was a big political picnic held at Truro, N.S. This town owns a beautiful park, containing the celebrated falls, named after Joseph Howe. The meeting was to be addressed by R. L. Borden and the Conservatives naturally asked for an excursion rate on the I.C.R. Needless to say, they did not get the astounding rate afforded to the Laurier meeting, but they were promised the usual excursion rate for a large gathering. On the day of the meeting people who went to the various stations along the I.C.R. to take trains for Truro found that no excursion tickets were to be had. Mr. Stanfield and others in charge of the Truro meeting, telegraphed and telephoned the head offices of the I.C.R. at Moncton, N.B. The best they could get was an excursion rate which involved every passenger buying a ticket for a circus which happened to be performing at Truro at that time. In short, the people who went to Truro were fairly forced into patronizing a circus which they did not want to see, and which they could only see by staying away from the Borden meeting.

Of course, the blame is now put on some nameless clerk who, it is said, was punished for not having sent out the circular authorizing an excursion rate for the Borden meeting. It is sufficient, however, that the wrongdoing of this alleged clerk made so little impression upon the Minister of Railways that he was unable, in reply to a question, to state to the House whether the clerk had been punished or promoted.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Prussian plumber who has been appointed to the House of Lords should be an expert on underground methods.

Travers is travelling around the business section of Toronto in the evening. Is this not going it rather strong with a prisoner sentenced to six years in the penitentiary?

The effects of reciprocity will come rather close home to Peterborough if it loses the Quaker Oats concern. If "restricted reciprocity" will do that, what would "unrestricted reciprocity" its twin brother, do?

Anthony Drexel, millionaire (not the pugilist) is shocked at being charged $1.75 for two eggs and a cup of coffee in New York. The restaurant keepers apparently thought that Anthony would feel quite relieved at the price.

An automobile party of six went over an embankment near Pittsburg, and two women in the party were pinned under the overturned machine in ice-cold water. The men fled. They must have a very candid opinion of themselves after that action.

This is the comment of the Toronto Globe on the manifesto against reciprocity by the eighteen leading Toronto Liberals.

Robert Hobson and F. J. Howell, two strong Hamilton Liberals, moved and seconded the resolution condemning the reciprocity measure at the Foster meeting at Hamilton. Arguments will not get away from the fact that any measure of reciprocity is utterly unsatisfactory to all Canadians who are not machine-bound or blind.

THE CURSE OF THE NATION IS CONSTIPATION

"Fruit-a-tives" Alone Cures This Disease

A famous scientist states that Constipation, or non-action of the bowels, causes more deaths than all other diseases combined. Constipation inflames the Kidneys, ruins digestion, is the foundation of Rheumatism, poisons the blood, causes Headaches, Neuralgia, Nervousness and Insomnia.

Constipation is caused by a weak or sluggish liver. Bile, the only purgative of the body, is secreted by the liver, which in turn should pour out into the intestines sufficient bile to move the bowels. Unless the liver is active, there cannot be enough bile to move the bowels regularly, and Constipation is the result.

"Fruit-a-tives", the famous fruit medicine, will always cure Constipation because it acts directly on the liver—relieves the congestion—increases the quantity of bile—and strengthens the bowel muscles.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Liberals are calling it by a new name. It is "restricted reciprocity." In 1891 Sir Wilfrid Laurier went to the country on a platform of "unrestricted reciprocity" and was defeated. The change in 20 years in the object is slight. "Restricted reciprocity" is but a step towards "unrestricted reciprocity," and the country is of the same mind on this as it was in 1891.

CAVAN NEWS

Special to The Review.

Cavan, Feb. 23.—The contract for the graining and renovating of the English Church, has not yet been let, but we surmise that a Peterboro firm is interested in the matter and in all probability will do the required work. The whole church is to be overhauled, painted and fixed up equal to new.

The Messrs. Nill & Son, are busy shipping elm logs these days to Peterboro. It is understood that Messrs. Finlay & Co., have bought logs to a large extent around here and have engaged Messrs Nill to load the same at Cavanville, to be taken to their factory in town. Mr. Nill already has two and one half cars loaded with logs and expects to complete the third the end of the present week.

The live stock and seed judging course at Millbrook, held under the auspices of the Provincial Farmers' Institute Society, were appreciated very much by the residents of both Millbrook and Cavan, many farmers attending and exhibiting. Among those present were Jas. Kennedy, C. and E. Sisson, J. W. Gardiner, A. A. Kennedy and Ed. Morton.

The basket social held on Friday night at Matchett's school house, was a great success. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity by many from near and far. The total proceeds amounted to well over $25.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 1000 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1320 hogs and 700 calves. There was no actual change in the condition of the market, prices being well maintained by drovers on account of the fact that the bulk of the stock came from Toronto, for which high prices were paid, consequently sellers could not accept lower bids and get out even. This tended to check the demand some from butchers and in consequence trade was rather slow.

Choice steers, sold at 6½c, good at 6c to 6¼c, fairly good at 5¾c to 5¾c, fair at 5c to 5¼c per lb. The demand for good fat cows was fair at 5c to 5½c, and the commoner ones brought from that down to 3¼c per lb. A few good bulls sold at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades ranged from 3¾c to 5c per lb.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices declined 25c per cwt., which was attributed to the more liberal supplies and the fact that packers were not anxious for stock, having sufficient on hand for the balance of the week. Sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Calves were more plentiful and cheaper with prices ranging from $4 to $12 each, as to size and quality. The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet and prices were unchanged, with the former selling at 4¼c to 4½c, and the latter at 6¼c to 6½c per lb.

At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, there were 250 cattle, 25 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 200 calves. The only important change in this market was the decline in prices for hogs of 15c per cwt., and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.60 per cwt., weighed off the cars. The trade in cattle was quiet at steady prices.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

She pressed his hand and turned away, casting upon him a smile so sweet and yet so sorrowful that I wondered how this woman could speak to a man of future happiness. She brushed past me without seeing me.

Darzac remained standing in the same spot, looking after her. Suddenly he said violently:

"Yes, happiness must come! It must!"

My thought took form. As I beheld the gesture of defiance and rapture I dared to say to myself, "If he should be Larsan!"

To the gesture of this man my mind answered with the cry, "This is Larsan!"

I was white with terror, and when I saw Darzac coming in my direction I could not refrain from a movement which revealed my presence while I was trying to conceal it. He saw me and recognized me, and, grasping me by the arm, he exclaimed:

"You were there, Sainclair—you were watching. We are all watching, my friend. And you heard what she said. Her grief is too great. I can bear no more. We would have been so happy. She imagines that she is to be pursued by eternal punishment. It was necessary for the frightful tragedy of last night to prove to me that this woman did love me once. Yes, for one moment all her fears were for me, and I, alas, have blood on my hands only because of her. Now she has returned to her old indifference. She cares no longer. Her only desire is that the old man shall be kept in ignorance."

He sighed so sorrowfully and so sincerely that the abominable idea which it had harbored fled from my mind. I thought only of what he was saying to me—of the sorrow of this man, who seemed to have lost completely the woman whom he loved in the moment when the woman had found a son of whose existence the husband continued to be ignorant. In fact, he had in no way been able to understand the attitude of the Lady in Black as regards the facility with which she had detached herself from him, and he found no explanation for this cruel metamorphosis other than the love heightened by remorse of Professor Stangerson's daughter for her father.

Then the frightful fancy that he was Larsan assailed me, and I demanded:

"How did it happen that the sack was empty?"

He was not in the least taken aback. He replied simply:

"Rouletabille must tell us that." Then he pressed my hand and wandered away through the undergrowth of the garden. I looked after him and said to myself:

"I have gone mad!"

Now he was standing erect upon the western boulevard, which looked like a pedestal beneath his feet. The rays of the moon enveloped him with a cold and mournful light. Is it you, Darzac, or your specter or the ghost of Larsan come back from the house of dead? I speak as though it were years since we had been locked up in the chateau, and it was now just four days.

He began to walk again. I was certain no longer. There is something in his walk which is not Darzac's, something in which I seem to recognize Larsan, but what?

He was almost upon me. He passed by. He had not seen me.

"It is Larsan! I could swear that it was Larsan!"

But he paused for a second and gazed sorrowfully upon all nature slumbering around him—him whose suffering was in loneliness and solitude—and a groan escaped his lips, unhappy soul that he was!

"It is Darzac!"

And then he was gone, and I remained there behind my hedge overwhelmed with the horror of the thought which I had dared to harbor.

I was still beneath the arch of the gardener's postern, and I was just about to enter the Court of the Bold when it seemed to me that I heard something moving. It sounded as though a door might have been closed. Then there was a sound as of wood striking on iron. I thrust my head out from under the arch, and I believed that I could see the shadow of a person near the door of the new castle. I snatched my revolver from my pocket and with three steps was at the place where I believed I had seen the shape. But it was there no longer. I could see nothing but darkness. The door of the castle was closed, and I was certain that I had left it open. I was disturbed and anxious. I felt that I was not alone. Who, then, could be near me?

I listened attentively for more than five minutes without making the slightest sound. Nothing! I must have been mistaken. But nevertheless I did not even strike a match, and as silently as I could I ascended the staircase which led to my chamber. When I reached it I locked myself in and only then began to breathe freely.

The effect on my mind was so strong that at last I said to myself: "I shall never know peace again until I am certain that Darzac is not Larsan. And I shall take means to make myself certain one way or the other on the first occasion."

Yes, but how? Pull his beard off?

Suddenly I threw off the bedclothes, jumped up and cried almost aloud, "Australia!"

An episode had returned to my mind of which I have spoken at the beginning of this story. The reader may remember that at the time of the accident in the laboratory I had accompanied M. Robert Darzac to a druggist. While his injuries were being attended to he had been obliged to remove his study coat, and the sleeve of his shirt had fallen back, leaving his arm bare through the entire session with the druggist and placing in full view just above the right elbow a large birthmark, the shape of which resembled that of Australia as it appears on the maps in the geographies. Mentally while the chemist was at work I had amused myself by trying to locate upon the arm in the positions which they occupied on an actual map the cities of Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide, etc., and directly beneath this large mark there was another smaller one which was situated like the country known as Tasmania.

And in this sleepless night it was the thought of Australia that came to me. I had scarcely had time to congratulate myself upon having found a means to prove decisively the identity of Darzac and to try to devise some way of bringing it to an immediate test when a singular sound made me prick up my ears.

Breathless, I hurried to my door, and, with my ear at the keyhole, I listened. Some one was now ascending the staircase, and some one who desired his presence to be unknown.

All at once, as I was leaning on the broken balustrade, I saw the shadow again. It was lighted up by the moonbeams as though it were a flambeau. And I recognized Robert Darzac.

He raised his head and looked in my direction as though he felt the weight of my eyes upon him. Instinctively I drew back. And then I returned to my post of observation just in time to see him disappear into a corridor which led to another staircase winding up to the battlements. What could this mean? Was Darzac spending the night in the new castle? Why did he take such precautions not to be seen? A thousand suspicions crossed my mind, and I felt that I must set my spirit at rest immediately. I must follow Robert Darzac and discover "Australia."

I reached this door, and, finding it locked, I gave three little taps, certain that he was inside. And I waited. My heart was beating wildly. All these rooms were uninhabited, abandoned. What should M. Darzac be doing in one of these haunted chambers!

"Is it you, Sainclair? What is it, my friend?"

"I wanted to know what you could be doing here at such an hour?" I replied, and it seemed to me that my voice was that of another man, so great was my terror.

"You see. I am preparing for bed."

And he lit a candle, which was placed on a chair, for there was no night stand in this dilapidated apartment. A bed in one corner—an iron bed, which must have been brought there during the day—and a single chair comprised all the furnishings.

"I thought that you were going to sleep near Mme. Darzac and the professor on the first floor of la Louve?"

"The rooms are too small. I was afraid of inconveniencing Mme. Darzac," answered the unhappy man bitterly. "I asked Bernier to fetch me a bed here. And then what difference does it make where I am, since I do not sleep?"

We were both silent for a moment. I was ashamed of myself and of my wretched suspicions. And, frankly, my remorse was so great that I could not refrain from giving it expression. I confessed everything to him—my infamous ideas and how I had even believed when I saw him wandering so mysteriously over the new castle that it was upon some evil errand, and so had decided to go and look for the "Australia" birthmark.

He listened to me with such an expression of reproachful sorrow that it wrung my heart; then he quietly rolled up his shirt sleeve, and, bringing his bare arm close to the light, he showed me the birthmark, which made a sane man of me once more.

"You may rub it as much as you choose," said Darzac gently. "It will not come off."

I begged his pardon a thousand times over, with tears in my eyes, but he would not forgive me until he had me pull at his beard, which remained firmly attached to his chin, instead of coming off in my hand.

Then only he allowed me to go back to my room, which I did, cursing myself for an idiot.

CHAPTER XVI.

A Living Tomb and a Baffling Murder.

MY thoughts turned to Rouletabille. What was he doing now? Why had he gone away? As I lay there puzzling my brain over the outcome of the affair I heard some one knocking at my door. It was Pere Bernier, who brought me a brief note from my friend which had been handed to Pere Jacques by a little lad from the village. Rouletabille wrote:

> I shall return early in the morning. Get up as soon as this reaches you and be good enough to go fishing for my breakfast and catch some of the fine trout which are so plentiful among the rocks near the Point of Garibaldi. Do not lose an instant. Thanks and remembrances.
> ROULETABILLE.

This communication gave me more food for thought, for I knew by experience that whenever Rouletabille seemed most occupied with trivial matters his activity was really most thoroughly engaged with important subjects.

I dressed myself in haste, provided myself with some old tackle which was furnished me by Bernier and set out to obey the request of my young friend. As I went out of the north gate, having encountered nobody at that early hour of the morning (it was about 7 o'clock), I was joined by Mme. Edith, to whom I showed what Rouletabille had written. The young woman was greatly dejected over the unexplained absence of her uncle, remarked that the letter was "so queer that it made her nervous," and she informed me that she intended to follow me to the trout streams.

A Resourceful Community.

"We didn't know what to do about Piute Pete," said the Crimson Gulch citizen. "He was a real good feller, but he would be careless about shootin' up the populace."

"Did you straighten out the matter?"

"To some extent. We elected him sheriff, thereby makin' it look a little more legal."—Washington Star.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

MEDICAL RESEARCH.

Romance of the Discovery of the Cause of Malaria.

In the history of research are many romances. Of the discovery that malaria was caused by mosquitoes, it is related how Dr. Low and Dr. Sambon lived in the malarious Roman Campagna without quinine. They retired at sunset to a mosquito proof hut, with double doors and windows of wire net, and they did not leave until sunrise. The fact that they remained immune, while the attendants, sleeping outside, contracted malaria, confirmed the belief that the mosquitoes were responsible.

But how did they carry the disease? At first it was thought to be by water. To settle the question live mosquitoes which had bitten infected peasants were sent home and two members of the school submitted to be bitten by them. They both went down with malaria. Again, how did the mosquitoes transmit the germ?

By cutting sections of the proboscis the malarious parasite was found. It breaks through the skin of the proboscis and is transmitted at the time of the sting. From the first conjecture to the final proof was a series of careful experiments, ending with the slicing of the mosquito's proboscis. Now, this is finer than fine hair. It is necessary to stop to think. For it is easier to imagine the triumph of the proof than the delicate operation that produced it.—London Standard.

Political Animosities.

Political animosities today are seldom carried into private life. In the past just the opposite was the rule. "Coke of Norfolk" once stated that when he was a child his grandfather took him on his knee and said, "Now, remember, Tom, as long as you live never trust a Tory," and he used to add, "I never have, and, by George, I never will." G. W. E. Russell, too, tells of an eccentric maiden lady whom he knew in his youth who, having spent her life in the innermost circles of aristocratic Whiggery, always refused to enter a cab until she had extorted from the driver an assurance that he had never carried cases of infectious disease, that he was not a Puseyite and that he was a Whig.—London Graphic.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Sun Life Assurance Co.
OF CANADA

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

THE MARTIN SENOUR CO., LTD., PAINT SHOW WINDOW

In the west window of the Best Stove Company is to be seen a tastily arranged display of "100 pct." paints and varnishes, the product of the Martin Senour Paint Co., Ltd., of Chicago.

The display is entered in the paint window competition of the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stovedealers' Ass'n. and is the work of E. A. Whitten, of Bracebridge, whose efforts on other occasions occasions has brought to him first-prize honors.

The company has a record that it may well feel proud of. In 1904, no business was carried on in Canada. Now "100 pct." is used all over the Dominion. Large manufacturing plants are in operation at Montreal and Winnipeg with Toronto, Halifax and Vancouver as distributing points. The head office for Canada is at Montreal, where W. H. Gerke, the Canadian general manager, is located. Exclusive agencies are to be found in all cities and towns with the protection of the company who do not sell to jobbers. And behind the paints, specialties and varnishes is a company, known for its straight business principles and whether goods are purchased in large or small quantities, the customer has the assurance that he is getting just what a reputable company represents— "100 pct" pure.

The Best Stove Company are the local agents and its sales have increased 25 per cent, during the past year. J. H. Conover, manager of the Toronto branch, and W. T. Fleming, eastern representative, are in the city in the interests of the company during the convention and are at the Hotel National. The Toronto distributing agency is at 217-219 Victoria street.

SIXTY-ONE REGISTRATIONS AT THE SHELTER DURING YEAR

Annual Meeting of Children's Aid Society—Election of Officers—Warm Praise for the Ladies Who Have Lent Their Assistance

Reports were read, and officers for the year 1911, elected, at the meeting of the Children's Aid Society, held yesterday afternoon in the City Council Chambers. There was a fairly good attendance and T. F. Matthews presided.

After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, J. E. L. Goodwill, the secretary of the society, read the following report, which was received and adopted on motion of Messrs. Goodwill and Burnham.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

To the President and Members of The Children's Aid Society of Peterborough.

Ladies and Gentlemen—I have the honor to present the annual report as secretary of your Society. The year just closed has been one of great activity and can be placed on record as another year of splendid progress. The work of the society has been similar to that of former years, namely, investigating cases of alleged cruelty and neglect to children, serving warnings upon parents and others having children in charge, and where these warnings have not been followed by improvement in the homes, then having informations laid, and the parties brought before the courts, and generally caring for all alleged and dependent children brought to our attention in this city and County.

Mr. Cochrane and myself have attended all trials before the magistrates relating to juvenile offences as well as the investigations and trials of those charged with neglect and ill treatment of children. In this connection I wish to place on record our appreciation of the assistance furnished us by Mr. J. J. Kelso, in having Mr. Guuton, Provincial Inspector, and also the Rev. Mr. Miller act with us and strengthening our hands in several important matters. Both of these gentlemen proved invaluable to us, the former in his prompt and efficient manner in investigating with our Mr. Cochrane, and prosecuting the Belmont cases and the latter in adjusting certain difficulties concerning certain children that were removed, and of placing so many of the children taken from the district.

The homes containing our wards have all been visited during the year and I have received on the whole, very encouraging reports from the Government Inspectors. The demand demand for children for adoption has been, as in former years, for children from ten years upwards, but the majority of the children passing through our hands have been under nine, so that our shelter has been in a congested state, almost continuously throughout the year.

Mr. Cochrane has as usual been carrying on an aggressive campaign in all branches of our work, and too much credit cannot be given to him for his efficient services, and in this connection I wish to point out that his work has increased by more than four fold, since the year in which his honorarium was first granted, and I think that the increased demands upon his time should be taken into consideration by the Society this year

The Shelter has, as usual, been kept up to a high standard of efficiency under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Henry, to whom too much praise cannot be given for their careful attention and care given to the children.

I wish also to take this opportunity to extend our thanks to our many benefactors, our old ones who have not forgotten us, and we have made a number of new ones. From the very generous response given by the citizens of Peterborough to our Tag Day Campaign it is very evident that our work continues to commend itself.

From my connection with the work of the Society, I consider that the work of your officers would be very materially lessened especially in that branch dealing with juvenile delinquents, if the Curfew By-Law was strictly enforced, and if Legislation was enacted and enforced, prohibiting children under the age of twelve years being present in places of amusement after eight thirty o'clock at night unless accompanied by their parents or guardians. I am informed that it is astonishing the number of boys and girls under school age that are to be seen in the places of public entertainment and on the street at a late hour at night in this city. I do not wish to be understood as finding fault with the class of amusement furnished by our local places of entertainment, as I am given to understand they all carefully eliminate those objectionable features of which we hear so many complaints from other cities, but I do consider that it is our duty to be watchful and to be on the alert to take action to check any features which may be produced detrimental to our boys and girls.

In conclusion, I wish to thank our committee of ladies. The Tag Day campaign would not have been the great success it was had it not been for the untiring work of our ladies. We could not have cared so effectually for so many children in the Shelter had it not been for the faithful work of the sewing department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The treasurer's report was read by P. Campbell, and adopted. A very satisfactory financial condition was revealed. It was as follows.

RECEIPTS

Dec. 1, 1909. Balance on hand	$ 82.55
Received during year	3465.81
	$3,548.36

DISBURSEMENTS

Total payments for year	1,988.24
Balance on hand	1,560.12
	$3,548.36

George Cochrane, agent of the society, gave a brief verbal report of his work during the past year. He referred to the very large number of children in the Shelter this year, and also to the excellent work of the sewing circle, composed of ladies of the society.

T. F. Matthews also made reference to the great indebtedness of the Children's Aid to the ladies for their work in connection with the tag day canvass.

J. H. Burnham, in referring to the secretary's report wherein is mentioned the deplorable condition of affairs in a locality so near to us, namely in Belmont township, was of the opinion that as Mr. Cochrane the agent, in his official capacity, his salary had done such splendid service should be raised in proportion.

On his motion therefore, which was seconded by R. W. Travers, it was decided that his salary be permanently raised $50 a year. Carried.

T. F. Matthews, the president, in speaking in regard to Mr. Burnham's suggestion said that in the work of the society, the responsibility must necessarily fall upon a few shoulders principally, and the Children's Aid Society was fortunate in having such capable officers.

William Henry, superintendent of the Shelter called the attention of the officers to the leakage in the cess pool beside the shelter. The matter was referred to the executive. The eave troughing also needs repairing.

The election of officers followed and resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Mayor Morrow.
President—T. F. Matthews.
Vice Pres.—R. W. Travers.
Secretary—J. E. L. Goodwill.
Treasurer—Peter Campbell.
Solicitor—J. E. L. Goodwill.
Hon. Physician—Dr Amys.
Agent—George Cochrane.

During the year there have been several changes in the Board of management of the society, the following having left the city, Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. Hughes Charles and Mrs. Garvin.

The old Board of management was re-elected with the following additions, to replace the members who have left the city: Mrs. Pearce, Mrs. Ruddy, Mrs. Hopwood, Mrs. Gibbs, and Judge Huycke.

The new members of the sewing circle are Mrs. Hopwood and Mrs. Scott.

The following is a summary of the work of the society for the year.

Sixty one children registered in the shelter. Nineteen passed through its hands to be distributed. Fifty-three became wards of it and eight were temporarily placed in the shelter. One was sent to the industrial school and one to the Orillia Asylum and five returned to parents.

The monthly average of changes in the shelter was twelve.

HORSES WERE ON FOR A LONG JAUNT

Parted With Occupants of Hack and Headed for Warsaw

The team of a local liveryman ran away last night and the owner is out on a search to day. The horses which are spirited, were hitched to a hack and while taking a young lady from McDonald Street to Wolsely Street, became frightened, and getting beyond the control of the driver, bolted, running towards the Warsaw road. The occupants were deposited on the roadside in a rather undignified manner, while the horses continued with the sleigh. Farmers coming to the city to day picked up some of the fragments of the hack. The horses were reported to be at Warsaw this morning.

Rev. Father Chas. Oliver Caron is dead at Kenora, aged 66.

RECIPROCITY TO BE DISCUSSED BY BOARD OF TRADE

Meeting Called for Monday night Eight O'clock in the City Council Chamber

A meeting of the Peterboro Board of Trade is called for Monday evening, in the City Council Chamber, at eight o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting is to deal with the subject of Reciprocity and, as this question is pre-eminent to Canadians, and one, by which the industries of Peterboro are affected, the attendance of members and citizens should be large.

THEATRICAL

"My Cinderella Girl" Scored a Big Hit at the Grand

The applause of the audience at the Grand last evening, was hearty and continuous while Franker Woods and his company of fun makers presented "My Cinderella Girl" in three acts The songs were catchy and well sung, and altogether, the performance was highly pleasing. Franker Woods as Tom Harrington, the captain of the Siwash Baseball nine, got into trouble in bunches, and his cheerful and breezy manner in making exits, brought down the house Preferring the baseball game to college studies, his letters to the "old man" at home had been visa versa, and he finds himself up against it when "pop" visits him at the Finney College Inn. The situations which follow are very laughable, the suspicions of father being chased to the winds by "the ever ready with an explanation my son."

The third act shows the great baseball game, with captain Tom finally receiving permission from his father and Dean Thornton in time to break into the game and bang out the long hit that wins the contest for the Siwash team.

Mr. Woods was given excellent support and the stage dressings which are true in every detail assist materially in the success of the production.

VALUABLE HORSE LOST TO LIVERY

Animal Stepped Into Drain on Charlotte Street

Robert Gibbs lost one of his fine chestnut horses last night. When travelling west over the Charlotte Street crossing, the horse stepped into the drain, which the Peterborough Radial Railway has made to run the water off their tracks, and a bone in its shoulder was broken.

Dr. Johnston, who is an insurance inspector, went over the ground this morning and stated that damages may be collected from the party responsible for the ditch.

Dr. Johnston further stated that an insurance company always paid the value of the policy when a horse breaks a leg, as the animal is very seldom of any use as a result.

The drain was filled up this morning. There are many more places along the streets of the city, which are dangerous, and should be looked after.

This is the second animal from the same livery to meet with an accident this winter, another horse having sustained a broken leg some time ago.

Mr. Gibbs intends entering a suit for damage.

HIS OFFENCE COST HIM TEN DOLLARS

Driver of Coal Co. Made Improper Proposals

A driver for a local fuel company was fined $10 this morning by Magistrate Dumble for making improper proposals to a married woman, residing with her husband and family in the south end of the city. The wife had immediately asked the driver to decamp.

The husband of the complainant in the witness box, said that his wife had told him about the occurrence as soon as he arrived home from work at 11.15. He went immediately to see the prisoner, and asked him for an explanation of his actions.

His Worship, in summing up the facts of the case, strongly denounced the actions of the accused.

"If women of the city are to be insulted in such a manner without protection it would be a sad condition of the law" commented his Worship.

He therefore imposed the fine mentioned, which is the highest allowed under the Act relating to such cases,

PETERBOROUGH HONORED BY FAMOUS ACTOR

Albert Chevalier the World Known Coster Singer and Actor Here Saturday Night — Comment by One Who Knows.

The announcement that Albert Chevalier is to appear at the Grand Opera House in this city on Saturday evening will be welcomed by many. If there is one figure on the English stage that is dear to the heart of the Englishman, especially the Londoner, it is Chevalier. He has been before the public for many years, in many different characters, and has a world-wide reputation. In previous years it has always been impossible to get him to appear in any of the smaller Canadian cities, and in order to have the opportunity of seeing him one had to go to Toronto and Montreal. Peterborough has gained a reputation of being a good "show town" amongst theatrical organizations, and that is why we are getting so many of the highest attractions this season.

Chevalier's work is almost too well known to be necessary to tell of it. We are all familiar with those coster songs, "My Dear Old Dutch," and "The Old Kent Road," while thereare not many who have not whistled or hummed "Mrs. 'Enry 'Awkins."

Chevalier is even more of a favorite than Harry Lauder, though perhaps not as well advertised, and those who miss seeing him on Saturday night will surely regret it. His quaint humor is very enjoyable, and as Daddy Dufard he is inimitable. The play is a charming one, with many little "homey" touches that really please, and there are many laughs during the evening.

After all, in this busy world, where life has such a serious side, it is the laughs that we need to tone us up and keep us in trim. So, lay aside business cares for one evening and spend it with Chevalier in "Daddy Dufard."

EXHIBITION AT ARMOURIES WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Awards Made in Window Dressing Competition.

Delegates Visited Manufacturers To-day.

The armories presented an extremely animated scene last evening, the building being taxed to its utmost to accommodate the throngs of people who swarmed in and out the entire evening.

The special attraction last night, besides the Hardware Convention was the presence of the 57th Regimental Band, under the leadership of Mr. Glidon, who gave a lengthy program of exceptional merit.

The immense crowd was very appreciative of their efforts, and the band came in for a considerable number of commendatory remarks. The majority of those present were unable to obtain seats, so that the proceedings took more the form of a promenade, minus the promenade cards. Quite a number availed themselves of the seats in the galaries at either end of the building. The view from here was one of remarkable brilliancy.

The exhibits also were very favorably commented on by many, and any novel ideas in the way of advertising goods well patronized.

The following was the program given by the band—

1. March—Bonnie Brier Bush.
2. Overture—Guy Mannering.
3. Indian Intermezzo—Valley Flower.
4. Clarionet Solo—Bandsman Miller
5. American Sketch—By the Swanee River.
6. Novelet—The whistler and his Dog.
7. Idyll—Forge in the forest.
8. Highland patrol.
9. Reminiscenses of the Plantation.
10. Clarionet Solo—Bandsman Miller

'God Save The King

At the session of the convention yesterday afternoon, the hall was well filled and President Cinnamon occupied the chair.

H. T. Kirk, of New Westminster, B.C., president of the B.C. Hardware Dealers' Association, Mr. F. C. Lariviere, Montreal, Honorary member of the Ontario Association, Mr. Hunt, of London, and Mr. Maxwell of Iver & Johnson Arms Co., of Pittsburg, who will address the delegates to-night, were amongst those present.

Short addresses were made by Messrs. Lariviere, Kirk, Maxwell and Hunt.

PRIZE WINNERS

The secretary announced the awards of Tuesday's window dressing competition as follow:

1st.—Charles H. McGibbon, Peterborough Hardware Co.

2nd.—Mr. H. J. Hanwell, Kingan Hardware Co.

The results of yesterday's contest will be announced this afternoon and to morrow's contest, a stove contest, will complete the series. These competitions are open to any visiting dealer or clerk, who will be provided with materials and window space by local dealers.

Reports were read, and at the close of the session, the delegates were photographed outside the armouries by F. Roy.

This evening, at the Collegiate Institute auditorium, L. Merdel will take a large group by flashlight.

This morning the delegates visited the plants of the C. G. E., Co., and the Quaker Oats Co., and other manufacturing concerns.

To night, a concert and luncheon will be given by the Association to members, guests and exhibitors, in the Collegiate Hall. Address on "Price Maintenance," by W. Maxwell of the Iver Johnston Arms and Cycle Works, Fitchburg, Mass., "Price Maintenance."

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING AT GEORGE STREET

Last evening the lecture rooms of George St. Church held a gathering of the congregation and friends on the occasion of the annual meeting. It has been the custom to get together in previous years at this time, and hear the results read of the financial affairs from the several societies and organizations within the church and Sunday school—a sort of cleaning house, so to speak, for the year.

Mr. D. W. Dumble occupied the chair and made a neat address, saying that the reports, having been printed in the year book and brought before the church members, would be taken as read.

A short program was given, to which Mrs. Downey contributed a reading and Mrs. W. Routley a song. Mrs. Kendry had kindly loaned the use of her large Victor gramaphone and many excellent selections, both vocal and instrumental, were reproduced to the delight of the audience.

The ladies of the Ladies Aid Society served refreshments, of which there a great plenty and to spare.

The meeting closed with the usual exercises.

North Wellington Liberals endorsed reciprocity, and elected R. M. Hazelwood, of Clifford, president.

$50 INCREASE

For Driver of Lindsay Fire Department

A special meeting of the town Property Committee was held last night to consider the resignation of Mr. James Bell as caretaker of the fire hall and driver of the fire team.

It was moved and carried that an increase of $50 be granted to Mr. Bell and the chairman was instructed to tell the second driver that it was his duty to ring the bell and then get out with the other wagon.—Lindsay Warder.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

KNIGHTS OF THE CUE ARE ALL GOOD BALL PLAYERS

That practically every great hitter in baseball has been an expert pool or billiard player is a rather interesting fact that came to light last night while Jack Doyle was trying to get Hal Chase to play a three-cushion billiard match before the teams went south for practice.

Chase and McGraw are both experts with the cue, and it was while they were being discussed that Pop Anson called attention to the fact that all of the great hitters were good with the ivories. Anson is a greater expert than either McGraw or Chase at billiards, and it is also true that he was probably the heaviest hitter that baseball has ever had.

Whether his aptitude for billiards is due to the ball player's good eye at the bat, or whether his good eye at the bat is due to billiards, is an open question. The records seem to bear out the former. All of them became good billiard or pool players after having made a reputation in baseball. The same keenness of sight is required in both.

"There is no doubt," explained Anson, "but that good eyes are required to become expert at either baseball or billiards, and when I was manager of the old Colts I always encouraged my players to try and become pool or billiard players, so as to develop their eyesight. I know it helped me and I believe it helps others. A man must have good eyesight to be a good hitter, and if he has good sight it is comparatively easy for him to become expert with the ivories."

The idea struck the crowd as being so novel that the records were brought in and they show that with the possible exception of Willie Keeler and Hans Wagner all of the hitters have been billiard players. Johnny Kling of the Cubs, was at one time champion pool player of the world. Anson says the keen eyesight that helped him to win the championship also helped him to be a great catcher.

Hal Chase has been a crack billiard player as well as a crack batter since his boyhood. McGraw has a hitting average of more than 300 for seven years, and he is now considered one of the best amateur billiard players in the country. Sherwood Magee is very handy with the ivories, and so is Frank Chance, of Chicago.

Larry Lajoie the great hitter of the Cleveland club, is an expert pool player and has taken part in several amateur tournaments. He says that his good eye at pool and baseball is due to the fact that he has never allowed himself to read after dark for more than 10 years. He thinks all ball players would be benefitted if they did not use their eyes by artificial light.

Ty Cobb thinks so well of his billiard playing, that he has challenged Hal Chase to a match the first time they meet in Detroit. Eddie Collins is a crack pool player, and while a Columbia student he was one of the best players in the school.

GOTCH LOST BOUT TO AMERICUS

Took Champion Over 50 Minutes to Get One Fall

Boston, Mass., February 23.—Frank Gotch, champion heavyweight wrestler of the world, lost his handicap match to Americus, of Baltimore, at Mechanics' Hall. He contracted to throw Americus twice in an hour, and secured but one fall, that coming after 50 minutes and 25 seconds.

Gotch was atop throughout most of the match, but Americus was the more active. Gotch finally caught his man with an arm bar and body throw and hurled him to the mat for the first fall. Americus succeeded in stalling off the champion in the remaining nine minutes and 35 seconds.

SPORT TALK

Carl Morris, "the white hope," is an American, 'way back as far as records go. His father was an easterner—a German-Yankee—and his mother a Cherokee Indian.

His father is an eastern man, said to be part Yankee and part German. Morris is probably considering the mixed blood of the Cherokee 90 per cent. white man, but he counts as an Indian under tribal law and under the rules by which the government gives allotments to the aborigines. Some horse on the 'white man's hope' enthusiastics, isn't it! And yet—how appropriate it would seem should a black man be beaten by a real American, descended from the genuine Americans who were on the job before C. Columbus discovered the large area."

CUP GAMES ARE ON TO-DAY

Lindsay and Local Rinks in Annual Competition

The contest for the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup is on to-day. Four rinks went to Lindsay to-day and four Lindsay rinks came to Peterborough. Skips Neill, Medd, Sturgeon and Davidson, with their rinks, are representing the locals in the northern town.

The following are the rinks playing here—

C.G.E. TEAM WAS FIVE BEHIND

In Exhibition Game at Lakefield —Score 6-1

The C.G.E. office hockey team journeyed to Lakefield last night to play a game with a team of that burg. The pen-pushers scored the first goal and thought the game was going to be a light lunch for them. They were, however, not counting on their opponents, and when the gong sounded Lakefield was ahead by six to one. The return game will be played here next week.

PUCKLAND

Midland won at home with Whitby last night 4—2, taking the round by 10—7.

Argonauts and Parkdale played to a 3—3 tie in the first of the Senior O.H.A. semi-finals. The second game will take place Saturday night.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

In the bowling last night the Midgets beat the Millards by the score of 1157-940.

G. Lawson of the Midgets made a single game score of 199. This looks good for the silver spoon. W. Flowers has been leading since Monday with 183.

LIGHTING BY GAS.

It Was a Costly Process When It Was First Established.

The first incorporated gas company was the National Light and Heat Company of England, established in 1809. In America the first gas company was incorporated in Baltimore in 1816, the second one in Boston in 1822, and the next one was the New York Gaslight company, incorporated in 1823.

Prior to 1830 the gas business of this country was nominal, but the price probably was responsible for its slow development. From 1824 to 1828, says Moody's Magazine, the New York Gaslight company sold gas to consumers at the rate of $10 a thousand cubic feet.

The first artificial illuminating gas was produced in England about 1726 by one Dr. Hales, but not until 1786 was a practical test made. In that year the Earl of Dundonald of Scotland arranged an apparatus by which he lighted his castle with gas. The same year William Murdock of Birmingham, England, introduced gas as a light in his workshops at Redruth and Cornwall.

As Mr. Murdock was the first man to reap any commercial benefit from the discovery of the use of illuminating gas, he may properly be accredited as the father of modern public utilities. In 1813 London bridge was illuminated by gas, and five years later gas was in general use throughout the main part of London.

Red Letter Days.

The origin of a "red letter day" has been traced back to the third century. Gregory, bishop of Caesarea, zealous for the conversion of pagans, found them unwilling to give up their customary recreations at the festivals of their gods, so, taking a leaf out of their book, he instituted festivals in honor of saints and martyrs. This example soon led to the institution of holy days, now corrupted into holidays. In old almanacs all such holy days were set forth in red ink, the rest being in black; hence the term "red letter day" for any notable occasion. Others say that the origin of the expression is much more recent and is due to the fact that Saints' day, the 5th of November, the king's birthday and accession and King Charles' day were similarly marked off in red as holidays for the Bank of England, evidently in the times of the later Stuarts. —London Telegraph.

SWEATING FOR MONEY'S SAKE

Conspicuous in the throng upon the decks of the Kaiser Wilhelm II. while she was being laboriously warped into her berth at Hoboken one day last September, were fifteen dignified matrons. At least they tried to look dignified, but realizing that they were conspicuous, and being still more distressingly aware of the reason therefor, they made rather a poor fist of it. For all the fifteen were swathed in obstreperously Persian lamb coats which would have been admirable garments for an Arctic winter excursion and yet it was a grilling hot day. The seasons kept fashionably late hours in New York, spring lingering into summer and summer lapping over into autumn.

At the imminent of sunstroke the fifteen kept their new fur coats closely buttoned throughout the wearisome time that it takes to moor a big steamer. Perspiration streamed from their red faces as they staggered down the gang plank and distributing themselves among the littered sections of the torrid deck, began the vigil of the baggage. By the time her trunks were all assembled ready for the customs examination the lucky first one was on the point of collapse. When asked to acknowledge her signature on her declaration she could only gasp and nod her head. The inspector to whom the document was handed glanced at it, then at the new Persian lamb coat.

"That is a handsome coat you have on, madame," he remarked, seemingly bent on making conversation.

"Yes, I think it is rather fetching," murmured the melting one, finding her voice again, for no woman is ever too far gone to rise to a neatly turned compliment.

"It has the real Persian cut. You must have purchased it abroad."

"Oh yes! You cawn't get such furs at home."

"I see you forgot to include it in your declaration."

"Why, I'm wearing it. Don't you see? I'm wearing it."

"That makes no difference whatever. You will observe that the law distinctly says that only one hundred dollars' worth of goods purchased abroad may be admitted duty free. If you will kindly step to the desk, madame, I think you will be allowed to amend your declaration."

No thermometer would have recorded that matron's temperature when she realized that she had sweltered in vain, and that she must pay $130 in duty before she could take her prize away. Her impotent rage was scarcely assuaged by the knowledge that each of the other fourteen was making the same discovery in other parts of the dock. There are times when misery is too much engrossed with its own unhappiness to care whether it has company or not — From "Making the Tourist Honest," in March Technical World Magazine.

Power by End of Week.

Hamilton, Feb. 23.—The power situation here has not changed, and few of the factories are working.

The Board of Control has received an assurance from W. C. Hawkins, the general manager of the Cataract Power Co., that power will be on for everybody at the end of the week. The board will wait until then before deciding upon insisting upon the company securing an immediate introduction of power from Hydro-Electric Commission.

The trouble about the latter is that it is not of the same cycle as the Cataract, and an expensive transforming station would have to be built before power could be supplied that would operate the plants of the local factories.

If conditions do not improve, the erection of this station will be considered.

Army Service Corp Officers.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Army Service Corps Association officers were last night elected as follows: Hon. president, Sir Fred. Borden; hon. vice-president, Gen. McDonald; president, Lieut.-Col. Biggar; vice-president, Col. Stewart, Montreal; secretary-treasurer, Capt. Dean; executive committee, the above officers, Lieut.-Col. Langton and Capt. Pell.

A Rude Jolt.

London, Feb. 23.—A sub-committee of the education committee of the London County Council presented a report at a meeting of that body yesterday, containing a revised list of books for the school lending libraries. Among the books struck off the list by the sub-committee were biographies of Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin and George Washington, and the book "From Log Cabin to White House."

Asked to explain the reason for this elimination, John Dennison Pender, chairman of the committee, said that the books were regarded as objectionable on account of "their extreme lack of refinement and also because they were written in American and extremely vulgar American at that."

The report was referred back to the sub-committee.

Is Pool Cornering Rubber?

New York, Feb. 23.—Financiers supposed to be identified with the leading rubber companies of this country and Europe, have formed a bull pool to corner the supply of crude rubber in the United States and Europe. Crude rubber has advanced to [illegible] a pound, a jump of 47 cents a pound since Jan. 19. The syndicate already has taken, it is said, in Wall street, 2,200 tons of the crude Para product out of the market and stored it in Brazil.

Population of Germany.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—The official census concluded in December last shows the population of Germany to be 64,896,881. The figures in 1905 were 60,641,278.

The population of Prussia, the chief state of the German empire is 40,157,573.

Would Strengthen Garrison.

Kingston, Feb. 23.—During the debate in the Legislature yesterday on the question of organization of a local defence force, one of the chief military officers intimated the probability that the Jamaican garrison would be considerably strengthened by Imperial troops in event of the Panama Canal being fortified.

Want to Federate With Canada.

Nassau, B.W.I., Feb. 23.—At a large meeting, Nassau's leading citizens declared in favor of a federation of the British Islands with Canada as a province of the Dominion. Several prominent Canadians were among the speakers, their addresses being warmly received.

Smallpox Among Indians.

London, Feb. 23.—The smallpox outbreak on the Oneida Indian reserve is spreading and there are now six cases among the redskins. In addition there are two cases in Westminster.

Tea Time Talks

Tea Spoils with Age

No tea is fit to drink after it is two years old. That is the age limit of tea quality and benefit. The best tea is the freshest.

"Salada" Tea owes much of its world-wide reputation to its sale fresh from the plantation. The leaves are fresh picked every week the year 'round; then dried, sorted and packed in air-tight lead packages. Every five weeks a new picking of "Salada" comes fresh from plantation to purchaser.

Bulk teas, carried year after year, lose their freshness.

Yearly Sales Over 20,000,000 Packages

Ask your grocer for "Salada" Tea or send for a free trial package which makes 25 cups of delicious tea. We will mail it to you without charge. Say whether you use Black, Mixed or Green Tea and the price you pay per pound.

NEWS NOTES FROM NORWOOD

Special to The Review.

Norwood, Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston, of Salt Lake City, Utah, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pearce last week.

We are pleased to note that Mr. Joe Doherty, who has been ill with typhoid fever, is able to be out again.

E. P. Cuffe is in Toronto on business.

Rev. W. B. Tucker, B.A., B.D., attended the Dominion Alliance convention in Toronto last week. Mrs. Tucker and Albert also visited in the city.

Miss Jessie Young is in Toronto attending the spring millinery openings.

Miss Annie Birt is visiting friends in Toronto.

Earl Laing and Misses Belle Howson and Mabel Laing spent Sunday in St. Helena, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Beavis.

Mrs. F. H. Birt has returned from visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Waters entertained a number of their friends on Friday evening.

A number of Norwood young people attended the dinner in South Dummer church on Monday evening.

Mr. Fred Doherty, of Galt, was home last week.

Manager McLean has decided to put on another carnival on Wednesday evening, February 22. The prizes are on exhibition in W. Sedgwick's window.

Mr. Arthur Searight spent the week-end at Jermyn, the guest of Mr. Leonard Armstrong.

At a recent meeting of the Norwood Council Jas. Calder resigned the clerkship and E. J. Laing was appointed in his place for the ensuing year.

Mr. McKillican of Maxville, Glengarry, stopped off here on Thursday to spend a few hours with his son, Mr. C. McKillican, of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pakenham entertained a number of their friends on Thursday evening last.

Mr. Douglas Pettigrew, of Chicago, is home on a visit to his father, Dr. G. A. Pettigrew.

A local corps of Boy Scouts will likely be organized here in the near future.

The entertainment which was to have been given by the Methodist Sunday school scholars in the town hall on Friday evening, has been postponed for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Nicholls, head salesman for the Peter Hamilton Co., of Peterborough, has been here for a couple of days this week in the interests of the firm.

E. P. Cuffe has had the interior of his store thoroughly overhauled. The walls and ceiling have been tastefully papered, the wood-work has been re-painted and a new office installed.

Notwithstand the efforts of the Norwood egg circle to place their eggs on the market offering the highest prices, for the new-laid article, the price, which a few weeks ago was up to 38c, has fallen to 24c. per dozen. It was expected when the circle was formed that the members were sure of obtaining at least 30c a dozen all summer, but it appears that the law of supply and demand is still at work regulating the prices of the eggs, as well as the other produce of the farm.

Mr. F. B. Garlick, who suffered a heavy loss last week by fire, has had his insurance claim adjusted very satisfactorily. While Mr. Garlick's loss was quite heavy he succeeded in saving a considerable portion of his effects and received $750 in compensation for his loss.

Mr. D. Sedgwick has also had his claim adjusted on the damage done to the house and is putting men to work this week to do the necessary repairs.

MORE INFORMATIONS MADE OUT IN FARMERS' BANK CASE

Proceedings Taken Against Other Officials of Trusts and Guarantee Co.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—While the hearing of the conspiracy prosecution of the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, J. R. Stratton, J. J. Warren, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and C. H. Smith in the Police Court yesterday morning was brief, it was fraught with interest, inasmuch as it was immediately followed by the committal of all the defendants for trial at the March sessions when Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan declared that the crown will be ready to proceed with the case. Immediately following the hearing an information was laid by Inspector of Detectvies Duncan charging Matthew Wilson, K.C., who has acted as counsel for Mr. Warren and C. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., with conspiring with Travers to procure Travers to give an undue preference to the company as creditor of the bank as against the other creditors, by altering the nature of their claims.

The basis of this charge was disclosed in Travers' evidence at the close of Tuesday's hearing of the case in which he declared that he had been pressed to consolidate a secured loan of $175,000, with an unsecured deposit of $190,000, and induced to put up an additional security of $300,000 in notes to secure the consolidated debt. A summons was issued returnable to the Police Court to-morrow morning.

The charge of illegally taking the currency of the bank as a pledge against Messrs. Stratton, Warren and Morden was called and the two former were arraigned while Mr. Morden appeared by counsel. All pleaded not guilty, and it was arranged to have the case adjourned from week to week to allow Mr. Warren to go west on the understanding that all agreed to appear in person or by counsel whenever called, and, if the former, to allow a committal to be made in their absence.

Another important development of the day was the statement of Inspector Duncan that he would require the presence of Travers in the city for at least three weeks, and perhaps longer. Travers will be heard again to-day in the case of Col. Munro, former president of the bank, who comes up before Judge Winchester in the County Judge's Criminal Court upon the charge of making false returns to the Government. It is understood that Mr. Dewart, counsel for Col. Munro, intends to admit that the returns were false and that they were signed by his client and will confine his defence to the contention that there was no knowledge of their incorrectness or wilful deception. In this event, F. W. Stair, proprietor of the Star Theatre, will be the crown's star witness, as he has said that he warned Col. Munro about a year ago that the bank was in an unstable condition and advised him to look into the matter. The case will not go on, as Mr. Stair is in Florida and will not return for some time. But Col. Munro will be arraigned and asked to plead to the charge.

Yesterday a proceeding was begun on behalf of the liquidator to have it declared that the alleged consolidation of the loan to the bank by the trust company and the deposit of the company with the bank, whereby it is alleged by Travers that an unsecured deposit of $120,000 was secured by notes and other, was placed as a secured claim, and which is said to have been since paid by the liquidator was a fraudulent and improper transaction whereby the Trust Company received an improper preference, and that it be set aside and the proper transaction established. This will be heard by Referee McAndrew.

At yesterday morning's hearing Mr. Corley rose to say that he had no further evidence to offer and to ask that all the defendants be committed for trial.

"Then all will be committed," replied the magistrate.

"Just a moment," exclaimed Matthew Wilson, K.C., counsel for Mr. Warren. "I want to cross-examine Mr. Stockdale. This he was allowed to do and Mr. Stockdale, manager of the Toronto office of the Trust Company, was put in the box.

Mr. Wilson led him over the points touched upon by Travers in the closing of his evidence on Tuesday.

He led him over various matters which had been touched upon before.

"Regarding that $295,000 loan, was it a consolidation?" enquired Mr. Wilson.

"It was a new loan," replied Mr. Stockdale. "This was on Nov. 2, 1910."

"Were there any subsequent loans?"

"Yes, four., Nov. 11, $3,575; Nov. 15, $7,000; Nov. 17, $15,000; Nov. 18, $8,000."

"That indebtedness to the company has since been all paid off?"

"Yes."

In cross-examination, Travers admitted that Mr. Warren did not know that any illegal act was in contemplation in connection with the loan to Travers. He further said that Mr. Warren was not a party to the misrepresentation or fraud made or practiced on the Finance Department, which led to the issue of the license to the bank to do business. When Travers went to Mr. Warren he presented a letter from Mr. Thomas Fyshe, general manager of the Merchants' Bank certifying to Mr. Travers integrity and ability as a banker.

A CORNER IN FEATHERS

AMUSING TALE OF THE RETURN FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

The Volunteers Who Robbed a Merchant of His Ostrich Plumes After the Boer War Proved Too Clever for the Searchers, But Their Plot Was Finally Discovered—Then the Innocent Privates Profited.

Towards the close of the Boer War a company of volunteers were camped at Green Point, Cape Town, awaiting to embark on their homeward voyage. It was during this temporary stay in Cape Town that the following amusing incident took place. Every day a number of Jews went round the camp offering a collection of curios for sale, which the soldiers readily bought to take home as presents. One morning the daredevil of the company (a sergeant who had narrowly missed being reduced to the ranks on many occasions) went round the camp and gave the following order: "The general commands that all goods offered for sale by hawkers in this camp shall be confiscated." The command was taken seriously, as the N.C.O. was on duty at the time he gave it.

Presently a hawker came into camp carrying a Gladstone bag full of ostrich feathers. He entered one tent smiling, and saying "With your permission" knelt down and opened the bag. As he was displaying his feathers and talking freely with the men two crept quietly behind him with a blanket, and before he was aware of anything he was trussed up, a struggling mass of humanity in the blanket. The bag and contents were immediately pounced upon and carried to another tent by the culprits to divide the spoil. On opening the bag a great surprise was in store for them, for instead of their captive being an unlawful hawker, as they supposed, the contents proved him to be the representative of one of the leading firms in Cape Town.

Here the men were in a fix, they could not go back now, for the man had got loose from his bonds and was searching around for his bag. Had he reported his loss to the officer at once a search would undoubtedly have been made and his bag found, but he went to his firm, who reported the case by letter. During the night a consultation was held by the men, and it was decided to carry the thing out to the full extreme, as it would go hard with the persons who tried to explain matters. Various suggestions were given, and it was decided to throw the bag into the sea and distribute the contents. But how was the feathers to be hidden, for a search was sure to be made the following morning, and the company was due to sail in the afternoon? A bright idea struck one of them, and each took a feather and thrust it down the barrel of his rifle and replaced the sight protector.

Early next morning a search was made whilst the men were on parade, but without avail. Nothing further was heard of the matter until the wagons were packed and all were ready for marching to the quay. The march had just begun when an officer came riding up and thundered the words, "Halt! Each man take one kit, open contents on the floor, and stand by for inspection."

It was amusing to see the expression on the face of the officer as he poked about the articles with his cane. He no doubt thought that if the report of the man was true he would surely find the feathers packed in some kit bag at the last moment. Nothing of an incriminating nature was found, and the men were allowed to proceed to the ship.

On arrival at the vessel another surprise was in store for the men, for every rifle was immediately handed over to the arms room. A few days later, as the armory-sergeant was cleaning the rifles, he came across a feather snugly concealed in one of the rifles. He placed it back again, thinking it was a new way which the soldier had thought of to bring his feathers home safely. But the next rifle was the same, and the next, which aroused his suspicions, and he sent for the officer of the company. All the rifles were overhauled and about fifty feathers found.

The officer was in a dilemma, for he dare not send them back, still he did not wish to let the men have their ill-gotten gains, so he placed a feather in each of the rifles which had not contained anything. On arrival at the barracks the men proceeded to take the feathers out, but great was their consternation to find that the rifle of every man who was in the plot was empty, whilst those who had had nothing to do with the affair had a beautiful feather each. No doubt many pretty girls are wearing those feathers now in their hats, little thinking of the many eventful episodes which those feathers had passed through.

SOLICITOR HALL ANALYSES EVIDENCE IN STRATTON TRIAL

He Says That There Wasr't a Tittle of Evidence to Warrant the Committal for Trial.

Mr. R. R. Hall, solicitor for Hon. J. R. Stratton, has given the following to the Peterborough press for publication:

What is the charge against Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren?

Mr. R. R. Hall says it reads as follows:—

"That in the year 1906 they did, contrary to law, conspire, confederate and agree with the Provisional Directors of the Farmers' Bank and others to obtain by false representation, deceit and fraud from, or through the Treasury Board of the Dominion of Canada to open for business under the provisions of the Bank Act, to the detriment of the public."

What is your opinion, Mr. Hall, of the evidence which was given in support of that charge?

"In my judgment there has not been submitted to the court one tittle of evidence upon which a commitment for trial should be based, but on the contrary the evidence at the trial entirely exonerates Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren from any wrong-doing in connection with the Farmers' Bank."

"What are your reasons?" asked the reporter, "for forming such strong opinion?"

"In the first place, the only misrepresentation that was made," said Mr. Hall, "to the Finance Minister and the Treasury Board of the Dominion of Canada was contained in a declaration made by W. R. Travers, then General Manager of the Farmers' Bank, wherein he swore in these words: "On the 23rd day of October, 1906, there had been actually bona-fide subscribed 5,757 shares of the Capital Stock of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, and I have had personal knowledge of the applications and subscriptions, and each and all of the said subscriptions is and are on the printed form of application, a copy of which is now produced and marked Exhibit "C," to this my declaration, and that said subscriptions appear on the stock books of the said bank, and that a sum beyond $250,000 thereof in each case has been actually paid in by the subscribers of the same."

Was that statement wholly incorrect?

"No," said Mr. Hall, "the evidence showed that there was 5,757 shares subscribed, and that the stock-holders had actually paid in on account of their subscription almost $200,000.00 in cash, and that Travers personally hypothecated to the Trust Company certain notes made by the shareholders and raised thereon $80,000.00, which sum at Travers' request was paid over openly to the Order of the Bank of Montreal, who are the bankers for the Dominion Government, and the cheque on its face showed that it was to be deposited with the Finance Minister and the Receiver General of the Dominion of Canada for the account of the Farmers' Bank."

"Where, then," said the reporter, "was there any wrong and concealment on the part of the Trust Company?"

"None whatever," said Mr. Hall. "It is quite apparent upon the face of the transaction, so far as the Trust Company was concerned, that it was engaged in a perfectly legal transaction, because any school boy knows that there is not the faintest objection to lending money upon notes which are made by financially responsible people, and the very fact that the cheque was marked payable to the Bank of Montreal, and showed the purpose for which it was intended, shows conclusively that there was not the slightest pretence to conceal from the Treasury Board the source from which the money came.

Had Mr. Stratton or Mr. Warren any knowledge of Travers' false declaration?

Mr. Hall said: "Travers swore positively in his evidence that he never told either Mr. Stratton or Mr. Warren, or anyone connected with the Trust Company that he made a false and misleading declaration to the Finance Department, and that no one in any way connected with the Trust Company knew of the existence of such a declaration."

Did the Trust Company assist him to get the certificate from the Finance Minister?

"No," said Mr. Hall. "Travers swore positively that neither Mr. Stratton nor Mr. Warren nor anyone connected with the Trust Company, had lent him any assistance whatever, with the Finance Minister or his Department, and that they had nothing whatever to do with the obtaining of the certificate from the Treasury Board."

Did Mr. Stratton or Mr. Warren make any profit out of the transaction personally?

Mr. Hall said in answer to this question "that Travers swore, and the books of the bank bear out his statement, that neither Mr. Stratton nor Mr. Warren received one single cent out of the transaction, but that the Trust & Guarantee Co. received interest on their money, and a bonus for making the loan, which in itself was a legitimate transaction."

What do you think of the result of this investigation?

"I consider," said Mr. Hall, "that the commitment of Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren on this charge does them a great injustice, and under the circumstances it is nothing more than a travesty on justice and an unjust attempt to saddle upon them the cause of the failure of the Farmers' Bank, with the management of which they, personally, had nothing whatever to do, either directly or indirectly.

"What is being done with the real culprits, enquired the reporter.

"Apparently nothing beyond the conviction of Travers. I understand that about a million dollars' was looted from the Farmers' Bank. It is incomprehensible to me why the authorities do not get after the real culprits who looted the bank, instead people of trying to drag into the affair the names of innocent people who did not contribute in the least degree to its failure."

TWELVE HUNDRED MEMBERS IN C.G.E. BENEFIT SOCIETY

Flourishing Conditions Evidenced at Semi-Annual Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the Mutual Benefit Society of the Canadian General Electric Company was held at the Y.M.C.A. parlors last evening and the report of the President, W. S. Robinson, showed the Society to be in a flourishing condition. The membership is now twelve hundred.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

To the officers and members of the C. G.E. Mutual Benefit Society;

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In presenting this, my first semi-annual report as president of this society, permit me to return to you my sincere thanks and heartfelt appreciation of the honor you have conveyed upon me in electing me to the honorable position which I occupy to-night as your president. And when I say honorable position, it is with a feeling that it is no small thing to be chosen to preside over such a splendid institution as the C.G.E. Mutual Benefit Society embodying as it does some twelve hundred of the citizens of our fair city.

I am pleased to state that during the term just closed there has been no questions arising of a contentious nature requiring the consideration of the department representatives.

The term has been a fairly successful one, as you will see upon a study of our treasurer's report.

We have been enabled during the term to return to the reserve fund the one hundred dollars ($100) drawn out to meet the heavy demands during the previous term.

And in addition we have added another fifty dollars ($50) to the reserve, giving us a total balance of nineteen hundred and thirty-six dollars and fifty-seven cents ($1,936.57) to carry on our beneficent work.

During the term we have signed one hundred and eight benefit claims for a total expenditure of nine hundred and thirty-one dollars and forty-seven cents (931.47); also one death claim of thirty dollars ($30.)

We are pleased to state that the society has only been called upon to pay one death claim as against three during the previous term.

I am pleased to report that the business of the society has been most carefully looked after by your secretary, Mr. Shannon, and the funds have been most zealously taken care of by your treasurer, Mr Harding.

And it gives me great pleasure to add that the society's physician, Dr. Marshall, has been most assiduous in looking after the sick during the term; endeavoring at all times to deal fairly between the society and its members, there having been only two cases during the term where members thought they had not received full justice, caused from a lack of knowledge of the by-laws of the society.

And I wish to impress upon the members the importance of a more careful study of our by-laws.

A more full and complete statement of the receipts and expenditures for the term is embodied in the report of our treasurer, therefore, I will not touch upon them further, leaving that officer to deal more fully with that part of the work.

Again thanking you, I have the honor to be

Yours faithfully,
W. S. ROBINSON,
President.

Local Man Bereaved

Word was received to-day by Jas. Lewis, Aylmer Street, of the death of his father at Stouffville, last evening. The late Mr. Lewis is survived by his widow and a family of five sons and three daughters, all of whom with the exception of Messrs. James and Albert of this city, reside at Stouffville.

SIR JAMES ON RECIPROCITY

"President Taft struck the keynote of the question when he said, 'Canada is at the parting of the ways.' The idea hidden under this expression indicates the view held for many years by all intelligent Americans, namely, that when the proper time comes Canada will drop away from the British Empire like ripe fruit from the tree. Champ Clark said nothing more than has been said from day to day by the best men in the United States. It is obviously impossible to quote them in this short statement, but the language of Senator Beveridge, J. J. Hill, and many others puts the desire, intention and belief of the American people beyond a doubt.

"Canada's manhood began after and perhaps because of, the abrogation of the old reciprocity treaty. We have grown to nationhood, our interprovincial relations are complete and satisfactory, and there is an intense desire, indeed determination, on the part of our people to elaborate and strengthen the ties which bind us to the Empire, with a view to the continuity of British rule and British institutions in North America. Reciprocity will mean the undoing of the work of years.

WILL MEAN RUIN.

"Our transportation facilities, which cost hundreds of millions, will be perhaps fatally injured, the aspirations of Canadians for Imperial and national unity will be throttled, and, as the American press declares, this latter question will be headed off and settled for ever. Our interdependent provincial trade will be ruined, the progress and growth of our great cities stopped; in fact, the orange will be sucked dry and the skin left with us. As the Washington Star thoughtfully observes—'The isolation and humiliation of the colonial position will not be forever endurable.'

"However, Canada will not submit tamely to being wiped off the map."

COSTLY MEAL FOR THIS YOUNG MAN

Was Unruly in Dominion Chinese Cafe

Two glasses of whiskey sufficed to put a well-known local young man in a fighting mood last evening. For breaking a window in the Dominion Chinese restaurant and refusing to pay for his lunch, cost him only $5 at police court this morning, $3 of the same going to re-imburse the Chinamen for the broken window.

A HORRIBLE FIND BY STORE CLERK

When one of the clerks in S. A. Oke's fruit store opened a crate of pineapples yesterday, he discovered a beautifully tinted snake, fully three feet in length, comfortably curled up between the wrapping paper on the top of the box.

The box came from Florida and the snake must have crawled in after it was packed, and enjoyed a free ride right through. When it was brought to light at Mr. Oke's store it appeared to be numbed, and was safely handled. The clerk killed it and it is now in a glass bottle in alcohol at the store.

Mr. Oke was unable to say just what type of reptile it was.

PROTECTION FOR THE FARMER IS COMPLETELY WIPED OUT

Two Hours of Guerilla Tactics Bringing Up Resolutions and Protests From Outside Fairly Exasperate Messrs. Fielding and Paterson—Dr. Clarke, the Free-Trader of Red Deer, finds Himself In His Element

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The sudden change in the situation regarding reciprocity in the House of Commons brought about on Wednesday was continued yesterday. There was a splendid display of guerrila tactics by the Opposition. The Government, more than ever, was placed on the defensive, and on a question affecting the operation of the pact with nations signatory to the favored nation treaty, R. L. Borden completely worsted the Minister of Finance. For two hours the Opposition obstructed the House getting into committee of ways and means. One member after another spoke on the motion, until both Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson gave evidence of anger and exasperation.

The ball was started by C. L. Owens (E. Northumberland) reading a telegram from Washington that Senator Cummins would introduce an amendment to the tariff law of the United States admitting all Canadian manufactures free of duty.

On the motion to go into committee. E. Gus Porter (W. Hastings) started skylarking. He read a resolution of protest from the strawboard manufacturers of the country.

W. E. Knowles (Moose Jaw) responded with a resolution from the Swift Current Board of Trade, "Viewing with satisfaction that a reciprocal tariff agreement had been reached with the United States," as it would help agricultural interests and bring about closer relations between the two countries.

The Kootenay member, E. S. Goodeve, was next on his feet with protests from the Kootenay Farmers' Institute, and two other British Columbia organizations.

W. E. Middleboro (N. Grey) drew the attention of the Minister of Finance to the resolution of the associated Boards of Trade at Toronto, moved by R. S. Courlay and seconded by E. J. Davis.

Then followed other interruptions. Members produced more protests. B. B. Law (Yarmouth, N.S.), had one in favor of it.

At this point Hon. Wm. Paterson took a hand. As honorable gentlemen opposite had given the House some information, quoting from newspapers and otherwise, he would like to read an article from The Summerland Review, a fruit publication in British Columbia in support of free fruit. "The subject of the article is 'Sober Second Thoughts,'" said Mr. Paterson, while the members roared.

Geo. Bradbury (Selkirk), also contributed to the procession of protests.

After further cross-firing Mr. Borden said that apparently the Ministers did not understand the agreement with the United States, and had better hand it over to someone who did.

It was five o'clock when Dr. Michael Clarke, the Liberal orator from Red Deer, arose to continue the reciprocity debate. He quoted the president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the Grain Growers of Alberta and Manitoba, and the Grange of Ontario, all societies representing many farmers, to prove that the farmers were in favor of the measure.

Touching on the annexation argumentfi Dr. Clarke said that annexation meant revolution: It meant the dismalting of the Parliament Buildings, the hauling down of the flag and the removal of the Canadian capital to Washington. Revolution had never taken place except where discontent prevailed. The restriction of trade, as in the case of the United States, had led to revolution.

Richard Blain (Peel) made a speech on behalf of the farmers.

Mr. Blain charged the Government with "taking away at one stroke of the pen every ventige of protection that the farmers ever had." He read over the free list, comprising live animals, poultry, grain of various kinds, fresh vegetables, etc. "The Conservative party is in favor of protection for the farmer; the Liberals are opposed to it, but are charging a duty on those commodities that the farmers need."

Dr. Molloy (Provencher) followed with a racy western speech, in which he said that western farmers did not propose to be dictated to by a bunch of Toronto millionaires.

Hon. Clifford Sifton moved the adjournment.

FOR THE CORONATION CONTINGENT

Ottawa, February 24.—Lieutenant-Colonel James W. Woods, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, has been appointed second in command of the Canadian militia contingent to the Coronation. He will also be the Officer Commanding the unmounted portion of the contingent.

Lieutenant-Colonel Victor A. S. Williams will command the mounted section. As previously announced, Colonel H. H. McLean, M.P., will be the Officer Commanding the whole Contingent.

PREMIER IS DOWN ON SPECIAL BONUSES BY MUNICIPALITIES

He Will Give Short Shrift to Contravention of the Law.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Vigorous denunciation of municipal bonusing and Algonquin Park bills, and an animated discussion on the pure milk act, gave zest to the proceedings of the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Col. Matheson, in moving the second reading of the bill to authorize the expenditure of $500,000 for the re-purchase of Algonquin Park limits, said that over 300 square miles would be immediately bought back for $290,000. They were at the headquarters of large rivers.

J. J. Craig, East Wellington (Con.), made a fighting speech in support of his bill to prohibit bonuses by municipalities. The City of London, he said, was in danger of losing all her manufacturies by tempting offers from rival municipalities. He would appeal to the Premier to give more backbone to the private bills committee to stop the enactment of special bonus bills, which were an open defiance of the general law and a crying evil. "It is up to the Premier to remove a condition of affairs that is intolerable."

Sir James was promptly on his feet to respond to his supporters' appeal. His tone was vigorous and determined and left no doubt in regard to the Prime Minister's attitude.

The Premier said he was very much interested in what had been just stated. He would be sorry to learn that the private bills committee showed a disposition to countenance evasions of the law. He would do his utmost to stop, as far as he could do so. both for the credit of the Legislature and the province, the passage of bonus bills which should never be carried in any well-regulated municipality in defiance of the laws of the land.

Hon. J. S. Duff moved the House into committee on the pure milk bill.

D. Reed, South Wentworth (Lib.), spoke strongly against the local option allowed with respect to municipalities making a higher standard than the minimum set by the bill. He declared the latitude allowed to municipalities made the bill a "freak" and a case of "checkerboard legislation."

Hon. A. G. MacKay supported Mr. Reed's contention.

W. K. McNaught and W. D. McPherson vigorously endorsed the bill as submitted.

Hon. A. G. MacKay declared it "one of the most hollow bills that had ever wasted the time of this committee."

The committee rose and reported the bill, which was given its third reading.

Dr. Pyne reported for the Department of Education to the members of the Legislature yesterday. The report shows that there were 779 first and second class teachers, with 96 fewer thirds than the year before, as the result of opening three more normal schools and closing model schools.

In urban schools the average salaries of teachers is $1,000 and $532 for male and female, increases of $14 and $16 respectively. In rural schools the salaries were $484 and $399, increases of $22 and $17 respectively. The teachers increased by 189.

The urban attendance increased by 6,078, but the rural schools decreased by 2,997.

Expenditure on the elementary schools was $8,161,423, an increase of $197,597, while the cost per pupil increased 32 cents, all for salaries.

Continuation schools continued from 128 to 135.

The salaries for high school teachers rose $56 on an average, with an increased attendance of 1,189.

REFUSED BY JOB

WANT SELLING TIME SHORTER

Citizens League Would Close Bars Earlier,

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The dove of peace reigned over the second temperance meeting of the Canadian Citizens' League in Labor Temple last night, and the temperance workers of Toronto by a large majority endorsed the movement for a reduction in hours as instigated by Alderman McCarthy.

Rev. B. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, still contended that as all the temperance people were not agreed on the method that should be adopted to secure shorter hours, the question should not be made one of municipal politics, but that the Government should be requested to reduce the hours during which liquor should be sold throughout the province.

The resolution moved by Rev. Dr. Hincks and seconded by Rev. R. M. Dickey, was amended to include cities of over 100,000, as it was believed this would make it of effect in the larger centres where local option was not submitted, and it would render it a public bill and the Government would be able to discuss it.

Silver Mine in Nevada is on Fire —Some Entombed.

Special to The Review.

Tonopah, Nevada, February 24.—At least fifteen miners are believed to be dead in the Delmont silver mine, which is now on fire. Several others are entombed a thousand feet below the surface, and their chances for escape are nil. Rescue parties are being organized, but there seems to be little hope.

Charles R. Robertson Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—As a result of an attack of pneumonia, Charles Robert Robertson, general manager of the Canadian Associated Press in Great Britain, died at the Wentworth Hotel, Brighton, at midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Robertson was the youngest son of the late John Robertson, wholesale dry goods merchant, Toronto, and only surviving brother of J. Ross Robertson. He was born on Nov. 8, 1840, at the family home in Simcoe street. Mr. Robertson was educated at Upper Canada College, and afterwards entered his father's warehouse and mastered the dry goods business.

EXPLODING RETORT BLEW OUT END OF A LONDON BUILDING

Fifty Employes Were Away at Dinner and Escaped.

London, Ont., Feb. 24.—With a terrific explosion, the sound of which could be heard all over the east end, a retort at the Toasted Corn Works blew the end out of the new large building recently erected here by the Kellogg people.

The explosion happened at 12.45 just when the fifty employes were out of the factory for their luncheons. But two men were in the building when it shook like a leaf. Both of these escaped.

The retort was blown from one end of the building to the other and is now hanging out of the hole in the wall it made for itself. The damage will be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

THEY CANNOT RAISE RATES

Commerce Commission Squelches Railway Plans.

The Most Important Problem Yet Decided.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission decides against the railroads in both the eastern and western cases. The decision, eagerly awaited by railroads and shippers alike, was handed down late yesterday afternoon.

The cases are the most important that have ever come before the commission. The decisions were in the nature of a surprise to railroad officials and other experts, who have followed closely the proceedings, a majority of whom believed the commission would grant some increase to the western lines, if not to the eastern.

After considering exhaustively the whole subject, however, from every viewpoint, the commission could not see its way clear to grant any advance in rates, although it concedes that in the case of some of the roads an increased revenue is needed.

In the so-called southwestern cases. the commission declines to disturb either the commodity or the class rates, thus in effect authorizing the advances recently made by the roads except as to the third, fourth, fifth and sixth classes, on which the old rates are ordered restored.

The carriers are ordered to cancel the advanced tariffs on or before March 10. If they fail to do this, the commission will order a suspension of proposed advances and fix the existing rates for two years. In the western case the carriers entered a powerful plea for increased revenue, to put into improvements and betterments.

Both the eastern and western cases were brought to public attention in the spring of 1910. Just prior to the enactment of the existing interstate commerce law, which, in part, became effective on June 18, 1910, the railways of official classification territory—41 in all—and those of the Western Trunk Lines Association territory filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission's tariffs making general increases in their freight rates.

The tariffs filed by the eastern lines increased the first class rate between New York and Chicago points. The proposed advances affected approximately fifteen per cent. of the total freight tonnage and amounted to $27,000,000 a year.

Approximately the same amount of tonnage was affected by the increases proposed by the western lines, but the class rates were not affected in any way.

Commissioner Prouty concedes that the increase in the labor accounts of the eastern roads during the last year has been from five to eight per cent. of their pay rolls, aggregating, for the forty-one lines, approximately $35,000,000 a year. The opinion holds, however, that "the carriers have not, by showing that the increases in wages more than equal the increases in rates, made out the reasonableness of the proposed advance in rates," because, it is indicated, "it appears that during the year ending June 30, 1910, the net earnings of these railroads aggregated $51,000,000 more than during the year 1909." While it is admitted that this is not conclusive against the propriety of the advances, "it does show that we cannot conclusively presume from an increase in operating expense that there should be a corresponding increase in transportation charge."

It is laid down as a principle that "no general advance in rates should be permitted until carriers have exhausted every reasonable effort toward economy in their business," and the opinion is expressed that railroad operators have not given to this subject the attention which it deserves.

MINISTERS AND LAYMEN WILL LAUNCH CHURCH UNION IDEA

A Body Which May Soon Be Paralleled In Other Denominations Is Launched In Toronto With a View to Bringing About Co-operation In Lines of Endeavor Upon Which the Supreme Council Shall Agree.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—A movement which will undoubtedly take rank as tory of the most important in the history of the churches of Canada for many years, was launched yesterday when at a meeting of about fifty representative ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian Churches of Toronto, and other centres, held in the schoolroom of New St. Andrew's Church, a strong organization, to be known as the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches, was effected.

The movement is the outcome of decided dissatisfaction with the proposed basis for organic union of the Protestant churches and if hopes are realized, similar organizations will soon spring up in the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and Congregational Churches.

Among those present were: Rev. F. Crawford Brown of New St. Andrews, Rev. B. Strachan, Rosedale; Rev. A. Robertson, St. James' Square; Rev. A. L. Geggie, Parkdale; Rev. D. T. McKerroll, Rev. Dr. McLeod, Barrie; Rev. R. G. McBeth, Paris; Rev. Dr. Smith, St. Catharines; Principal McKay, Westminster Hall, Vancouver.

Rev. D. McLeod acted as chairman, and A. H. McGillivray, Weston, as secretary.

In the course of the discussion there was revealed an increasing feeling throughout the church against the union of the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches on the basis at present proposed. It was felt that one of the strongest arguments against the organic union of these three churches was its limitations.

The view that obtained among those present was unanimously in favor of a federation of all the Protestant churches that would prevent overlapping in the home and foreign mission fields, and that would stand for the ushering in of the Kingdom of Christ as the present movement for organic unity among three denominations merely could not. A strong organization was effected, the name to be the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches.

After considerable discussion a statement was adopted tentatively as an indication of the direction which the movement would take:

"We ministers and members of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, affirming our belief in the scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the primary source and ultimate standard of Christian faith and life; affirming our faith in Jesus Christ as the only head of the church, recognizing the value of the teaching of the great creeds of the ancient church and maintaining our allegiance in the evangelical doctrines of the reformations, desire to proclaim our love for the brethren of Christ's visible body and our assurance that the ultimate unity of the church is being brought nearer with every increase of spiritual life. Because of history, traditions, sentiments and convictions which have become a part of our nature, we do not think the time has arrived when the various evangelical branches of the church of Christ can give up their name and identity and their particular methods for the realization of the kingdom, without much needless injury.

"Yet we herewith proclaim our belief in and our desire for a closer union and a more definite co-operation of all the evangelical branches of the church of Christ in Canada. We propose that these shall form a federal union to conserve and further common interests at home and abroad; that each branch should preserve its identity and autonomy and should be allowed to carry on its work in a way best suited to its genius and outlook.

"In order that each branch of the church may have the fullest liberty and the largest opportunities to realize its ideal and at the same time to make its best contribution to the religious life of the world, there should be a general council, made up of representatives, lay and clerical, from the different branches entering into the federation. This council shall have the advisory oversight of the work of the churches within the Dominion of Canada in all matters upon which the various churches may agree to cooperate, having in mind the principle that the universal church is the divine agency for the establishment of the kingdom, and the various denominations are of value only in so far as they minister to its well-being.

"In the home field, the council shall seek to so arrange the forces of the federating churches that the best interests of the community and the church shall be concerned, that the increasingly complex problem of our national life shall be more adequately dealt with and that all people within the Dominion shall have opportunity of coming into vital contact with our Lord and Christ. The council should address itself as far as possible to the solution of the increasingly difficult problem in our great centres of population.

"We believe such a federation will hasten the kingdom of our blessed Lord and establihs a right understanding among all those who are named according to the name of Christ."

It was agreed to defer the election of officers until a meeting to be held Thursday next at 1.30 p.m., in the schoolroom of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Lieut. Co. Biggar was elected president at the annual meeting of the Canadian Army Service Corps Association.

700 CASES NOW

Ottawa, February 24.—The typhoid fever total in Ottawa to-day passed the 700 mark and there are believed to be many cases not officially reported. There was only one death today.

CROSSINGS TO REMAIN

Board of Railway Commissioners Answer Peterboro Deputation.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, February 24.—The Board of Railway Commissioners decided to leave all the crossings on the Canadian Pacific Railway as they now are, following the request of a deputation headed by R. C. Braund, which waited on that body to-day.

Schooner Burton Burned.

Kingston, Feb. 24.—The schooner Burton, formerly the Picton, owned by the Donnelly Wrecking Co., was partially destroyed by fire. It is believed boys set the vessel on fire.

Four more navy recruits have been accepted by the medical officer. They are W. H. Leach, J. E. Leach, A. Bain and A. Aveling, who will enter as signallers.

A Beekeepers' Association.

Welland, Feb. 24.—A meeting of beekeepers was held in the grand jury room of the county buildings yesterday to form a beekeepers' association for the Counties of Lincoln and Welland. J. F. Dunn of Ridgeway was elected president, and Wilfrid Bowen of Niagara Falls, secretary-treasurer.

Choice of Method of Execution.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 24.—Condemned men in Nevada will have their choice of death by hanging, shooting or poison, if the law compiled by the code commission, which will be presented to the Legislature, is approved. Hydrocianic acid is the poison alternative mentioned.

Express Robber Released.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 24.—It was learned yesterday that William Dobson, sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary a year ago for his part in the robbery of $4,000 from the Canadian Express Co., in November, 1909, was liberated two weeks ago.

CASES WERE LEFT OVER

Wilson and Morden Cases Will be Heard March 3.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—No evidence was taken against Matthew Wilson and W. S. Morden to-day when the case was called in court. It was adjourned until March 3. They are charged with conspiring with W. R. Travers to obtain for the Trusts and Guarantee Company preference over other creditors of the Farmers' Bank.

Booksellers' Arrested.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Arthur G. Virtue, 339 Church street, and Albert Britnell, 241 Yonge street, were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday mornin, charged with offering for sale, selling and circulating obscene literature in the shape of Balzac's Droll Stories, the unexpurgated works of Guy de Maupaszant and the Arabian Nights Tales, unexpurgated.

Both pleaded not guilty and were remanded a week.

Huge Drydock For Esquimalt.

Victoria, Feb. 24—Official announcement is made that the British Columbia Marine Railway Co. will build a drydock to cost $3,000,000 at Lang's Cove. Esquimalt. The dock will be 900 feet long and 100 feet wide. It is the intention to equip a modern shipyard for the construction of cruisers and destroyers for the Pacific squadron of the Canadian navy at Esquimalt.

Wholesale Expulsion of Jews.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—Governor Maklahoff has begun a widespread expulsion of the Jews from the Province of Tchernigov, a government in Little Russia. Two hundred and nineteen families in one district, including wealthy landowners and manufacturers, were marched through the heavy snowdrifts.

Women His Victims.

London, Feb. 24.—Felix Franz Alfred Ogilive, who describes himself as a German engineer, is charged with a multiplicity of wives, and with defrauding his victims. Three illegal alliances are alleged.

According to evidence, Ogilvie in 1905, in San Francisco, married a widow named Louth before a magistrate. In a more recent case, it is asserted that he took his bride to a well-known hotel and next day drugged her and decamped with her jewels and cash. To a third victim he is accused of having represented himself as an engineer employed by the Standard Oil at $30,000 a year.

At this point Hon. Wm. Paterson took a hand. As honorable gentlemen opposite had given the House some information, quoting from newspapers and otherwise, he would like to read an article from The Summerland Review, a fruit publication in British Columbia in support of free fruit. "The subject of the article is 'Sober Second Thoughts,'" said Mr. Paterson, while the members roared.

Geo. Bradbury (Selkirk), also contributed to the procession of protests.

After further cross-firing Mr. Borden said that apparently the Ministers did not understand the agreement with the United States, and had better hand it over to someone who did.

It was five o'clock when Dr. Michael Clarke, the Liberal orator from Red Deer, arose to continue the reciprocity debate. He quoted the president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the Grain Growers of Alberta and Manitoba, and the Grange of Ontario, all societies representing many farmers, to prove that the farmers were in favor of the measure.

Touching on the annexation argumentfi Dr. Clarke said that annexation meant revolution. It meant the dismalting of the Parliament Buildings, the hauling down of the flag and the removal of the Canadian capital to Washington. Revolution had never taken place except where discontent prevailed. The restriction of trade, as in the case of the United States, had led to revolution.

Richard Blain (Peel) made a speech on behalf of the farmers.

Mr. Blain charged the Government with "taking away at one stroke of the pen every ventige of protection that the farmers ever had." He read over the free list, comprising live animals, poultry, grain of various kinds, fresh vegetables, etc. "The Conservative party is in favor of protection for the farmer; the Liberals are opposed to it, but are charging a duty on those commodities that the farmers need."

Dr. Molloy (Provencher) followed with a racy western speech, in which he said that western farmers did not propose to be dictated to by a bunch of Toronto millionaires.

Hon. Clifford Sifton moved the adjournment.

FOR THE CORONATION CONTINGENT

Ottawa, February 24.—Lieutenant-Colonel James W. Woods, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, has been appointed second in command of the Canadian militia contingent to the Coronation. He will also be the Officer Commanding the unmounted portion of the contingent.

Lieutenant-Colonel Victor A. S. Williams will command the mounted section. As previously announced, Colonel H. H. McLean, M.P., will be the Officer Commanding the whole Contingent.

PREMIER IS DOWN ON SPECIAL BONUSES BY MUNICIPALITIES

He Will Give Short Shrift to Contravention of the Law.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Vigorous denunciation of municipal bonusing and Algonquin Park bills, and an animated discussion on the pure milk act, gave zest to the proceedings of the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Col. Matheson, in moving the second reading of the bill to authorize the expenditure of $500,000 for the re-purchase of Algonquin Park limits, said that over 300 square miles would be immediately bought back for $290,000. They were at the headquarters of large rivers.

J. J. Craig, East Wellington (Con.), made a fighting speech in support of his bill to prohibit bonuses by municipalities. The City of London, he said, was in danger of losing all her manufacturies by tempting offers from rival municipalities. He would appeal to the Premier to give more backbone to the private bills committee to stop the enactment of special bonus bills, which were an open defiance of the general law and a crying evil. "It is up to the Premier to remove a condition of affairs that is intolerable."

Sir James was promptly on his feet to respond to his supporters' appeal. His tone was vigorous and determined and left no doubt in regard to the Prime Minister's attitude.

The Premier said he was very much interested in what had been just stated. He would be sorry to learn that the private bills committee showed a disposition to countenance evasions of the law. He would do his utmost to stop, as far as he could do so, both for the credit of the Legislature and the province, the passage of bonus bills which should never be carried in any well-regulated municipality in defiance of the laws of the land.

Hon. J. S. Duff moved the House into committee on the pure milk bill.

D. Reed, South Wentworth (Lib.), spoke strongly against the local option allowed with respect to municipalities making a higher standard than the minimum set by the bill. He declared the latitude allowed to municipalities made the bill a "freak" and a case of "checkerboard legislation."

Hon. A. G. MacKay supported Mr. Reed's contention.

W. K. McNaught and W. D. McPherson vigorously endorsed the bill as submitted.

Hon. A. G. MacKay declared it "one of the most hollow bills that had ever wasted the time of this committee."

The committee rose and reported the bill, which was given its third reading.

Dr. Pyne reported for the Department of Education to the members of the Legislature yesterday. The report shows that there were 779 first and second class teachers, with 96 fewer thirds than the year before, as the result of opening three more normal schools and closing model schools.

In urban schools the average salaries of teachers is $1,000 and $532 for male and female, increases of $14 and $16 respectively. In rural schools the salaries were $484 and $399, increases of $22 and $17 respectively. The teachers increased by 189.

The urban attendance increased by 6,078, but the rural schools decreased by 2,997.

Expenditure on the elementary schools was $8,161,423, an increase of $197,597, while the cost per pupil increased 32 cents, all for salaries.

Continuation schools continued from 128 to 135.

The salaries for high school teachers rose $56 on an average, with an increased attendance of 1,189.

REFUSED BY JOB

WANT SELLING TIME SHORTER

Citizens League Would Close Bars Earlier,

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The dove of peace reigned over the second temperance meeting of the Canadian Citizens' League in Labor Temple last night, and the temperance workers of Toronto by a large majority endorsed the movement for a reduction in hours as instigated by Alderman McCarthy.

Rev. B. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, still contended that as all the temperance people were not agreed on the method that should be adopted to secure shorter hours, the question should not be made one of municipal politics, but that the Government should be requested to reduce the hours during which liquor should be sold throughout the province.

The resolution moved by Rev. Dr. Hincks and seconded by Rev. R. M. Dickey, was amended to include cities of over 100,000, as it was believed this would make it of effect in the larger centres where local option was not submitted, and it would render it a public bill and the Government would be able to discuss it.

FIFTEEN ARE DEAD IN MINE

Silver Mine in Nevada is on Fire—Some Entombed.

Special to The Review.

Tonopah, Nevada, February 24.—At least fifteen miners are believed to be dead in the Delmont silver mine, which is now on fire. Several others are entombed a thousand feet below the surface, and their chances for escape are nil. Rescue parties are being organized, but there seems to be little hope.

Charles R. Robertson Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—As a result of an attack of pneumonia, Charles Robert Robertson, general manager of the Canadian Associated Press in Great Britain, died at the Wentworth Hotel, Brighton, at midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Robertson was the youngest son of the late John Robertson, wholesale dry goods merchant, Toronto, and only surviving brother of J. Ross Robertson. He was born on Nov. 8, 1840, at the family home in Simcoe street. Mr. Robertson was educated at Upper Canada College, and afterwards entered his father's warehouse and mastered the drv goods business.

EXPLODING RETORT BLEW OUT END OF A LONDON BUILDING

Fifty Employes Were Away at Dinner and Escaped.

London, Ont., Feb. 24.—With a terrific explosion, the sound of which could be heard all over the east end, a retort at the Toasted Corn Works blew the end out of the new large building recently erected here by the Kellogg people.

The explosion happened at 12.45 just when the fifty employes were out of the factory for their luncheons. But two men were in the building when it shook like a leaf. Both of these escaped.

The retort was blown from one end of the building to the other and is now hanging out of the hole in the wall it made for itself. The damage will be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Ottawa, February 24.—The Department of Naval Affairs has received a message that the new Canadian cruiser Rainbow had caught the steamer Edric, of Seattle, fishing within the three-mile limit and was proceeding to Esquimault with the Edric in tow.

Reciprocity Evidence All In.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 24.—Hearings by the Senate Finance Committee on the Canadian reciprocity agreement were closed at 3.45 p.m. yesterday.

The committee met at 10.30 o'clock to-day to consider the question of making a report to the Senate.

THEY CANNOT RAISE RATES

Commerce Commission Squelches Railway Plans.

The Most Important Problem Yet Decided.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission decides against the railroads in both the eastern and western cases. The decision, eagerly awaited by railroads and shippers alike, was handed down late yesterday afternoon.

The cases are the most important that have ever come before the commission. The decisions were in the nature of a surprise to railroad officials and other experts, who have followed closely the proceedings, a majority of whom believed the commission would grant some increase to the western lines, if not to the eastern.

After considering exhaustively the whole subject, however, from every viewpoint, the commission could not see its way clear to grant any advance in rates, although it concedes that in the case of some of the roads an increased revenue is needed.

In the so-called southwestern cases, the commission declines to disturb either the commodity or the class rates, thus in effect authorizing the advances recently made by the roads except as to the third, fourth, fifth and sixth classes, on which the old rates are ordered restored.

The carriers are ordered to cancel the advanced tariffs on or before March 10. If they fail to do this, the commission will order a suspension of proposed advances and fix the existing rates for two years. In the western case the carriers entered a powerful plea for increased revenue, to put into improvements and betterments.

Both the eastern and western cases were brought to public attention in the spring of 1910. Just prior to the enactment of the existing interstate commerce law, which, in part, became effective on June 18, 1910, the railways of official classification territory—41 in all—and those of the Western Trunk Lines Association territory filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission's tariffs making general increases in their freight rates.

The tariffs filed by the eastern lines increased the first class rate between New York and Chicago points. The proposed advances affected approximately fifteen per cent. of the total freight tonnage and amounted to $27,000,000 a year.

Approximately the same amount of tonnage was affected by the increases proposed by the western lines, but the class rates were not affected in any way.

Commissioner Prouty concedes that the increase in the labor accounts of the eastern roads during the last year has been from five to eight per cent. of their pay rolls, aggregating, for the forty-one lines, approximately $35,000,000 a year. The opinion holds, however, that "the carriers have not, by showing that the increases in wages more than equal the increases in rates, made out the reasonableness of the proposed advance in rates," because, it is indicated, "it appears that during the year ending June 30, 1910, the net earnings of these railroads aggregated $51,000,000 more than during the year 1909." While it is admitted that this is not conclusive against the propriety of the advances, "it does show that we cannot conclusively presume from an increase in operating expense that there should be a corresponding increase in transportation charge."

It is laid down as a principle that "no general advance in rates should be permitted until carriers have exhausted every reasonable effort toward economy in their business," and the opinion is expressed that railroad operators have not given to this subject the attention which it deserves.

Chatham, February 24.—Several bruises have been found on the body of both Dr. A. Hutchinson and his wife, who were smothered by gas fumes in their home last night. A full investigation will be made at tonight's inquest.

MINISTERS AND LAYMEN WILL LAUNCH CHURCH UNION IDEA

A Body Which May Soon Be Paralleled In Other Denominations Is Launched In Toronto With a View to Bringing About Co-operation In Lines of Endeavor Upon Which the Supreme Council Shall Agree.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—A movement which will undoubtedly take rank as tory of the most important in the history of the churches of Canada for many years, was launched yesterday when at a meeting of about fifty representative ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian Churches of Toronto, and other centres, held in the schoolroom of New St. Andrew's Church, a strong organization, to be known as the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches, was effected.

The movement is the outcome of decided dissatisfaction with the proposed basis for organic union of the Protestant churches and if hopes are realized, similar organizations will soon spring up in the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and Congregational Churches.

Among those present were: Rev. F. Crawford Brown of New St. Andrews, Rev. B. Strachan, Rosedale; Rev. A. Robertson, St. James' Square; Rev. A. L. Geggie, Parkdale; Rev. D. T. McKerroll, Rev. Dr. McLeod, Barrie; Rev. R. G. McBeth, Paris; Rev. Dr. Smith, St. Catharines; Principal McKay, Westminster Hall, Vancouver.

Rev. D. McLeod acted as chairman, and A. H. McGillivray, Weston, as secretary.

In the course of the discussion there was revealed an increasing feeling throughout the church against the union of the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches on the basis at present proposed. It was felt that one of the strongest arguments against the organic union of these three churches was its limitations.

The view that obtained among those present was unanimously in favor of a federation of all the Protestant churches that would prevent overlapping in the home and foreign mission fields, and that would stand for the ushering in of the Kingdom of Christ as the present movement for organic unity among three denominations merely could not. A strong organization was effected, the name to be the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches.

After considerable discussion a statement was adopted tentatively as an indication of the direction which the movement would take:

"We ministers and members of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, affirming our belief in the scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the primary source and ultimate standard of Christian faith and life; affirming our faith in Jesus Christ as the only head of the church, recognizing the value of the teaching of the great creeds of the ancient church and maintaining our allegiance in the evangelical doctrines of the reformations, desire to proclaim our love for the brethren of Christ's visible body and our assurance that the ultimate unity of the church is being brought nearer with every increase of spiritual life. Because of history, traditions, sentiments and convictions which have become a part of our nature, we do not think the time has arrived when the various evangelical branches of the church of Christ can give up their name and identity and their particular methods for the realization of the kingdom, without much needless injury.

"Yet we herewith proclaim our belief in and our desire for a closer union and a more definite co-operation of all the evangelical branches of the church of Christ in Canada. We propose that these shall form a federal union to conserve and further common interests at home and abroad; that each branch should preserve its identity and autonomy and should be allowed to carry on its work in a way best suited to its genius and outlook.

"In order that each branch of the church may have the fullest liberty and the largest opportunities to realize its ideal and at the same time to make its best contribution to the religious life of the world, there should be a general council, made up of representatives, lay and clerical, from the different branches entering into the federation. This council shall have the advisory oversight of the work of the churches within the Dominion of Canada in all matters upon which the various churches may agree to co-operate, having in mind the principle that the universal church is the divine agency for the establishment of the kingdom, and the various denominations are of value only in so far as they minister to its well-being.

"In the home field, the council shall seek to so arrange the forces of the federating churches that the best interests of the community and the church shall be concerned, that the increasingly complex problem of our national life shall be more adequately dealt with and that all people within the Dominion shall have opportunity of coming into vital contact with our Lord and Christ. The council should address itself as far as possible to the solution of the increasingly difficult problem in our great centres of population.

"We believe such a federation will hasten the kingdom of our blessed Lord and establihs a right understanding among all those who are named according to the name of Christ."

It was agreed to defer the election of officers until a meeting to be held Thursday next at 1.30 p.m., in the schoolroom of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Lieut. Co. Biggar was elected president at the annual meeting of the Canadian Army Service Corps Association.

700 CASES NOW

Ottawa, February 24.—The typhoid fever total in Ottawa to-day passed the 700 mark and there are believed to be many cases not officially reported. There was only one death today.

CROSSINGS TO REMAIN

Board of Railway Commissioners Answer Peterboro Deputation.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, February 24.—The Board of Railway Commissioners decided to leave all the crossings on the Canadian Pacific Railway as they now are, following the request of a deputation headed by R. C. Braund, which waited on that body to-day.

Schooner Burton Burned.

Kingston, Feb. 24.—The schooner Burton, formerly the Picton, owned by the Donnelly Wrecking Co., was partially destroyed by fire. It is believed boys set the vessel on fire.

Four more navy recruits have been accepted by the medical officer. They are W. H. Leach, J. E. Leach, A. Bain and A. Aveling, who will enter as signallers.

A Beekeepers' Association.

Welland, Feb. 24.—A meeting of beekeepers was held in the grand jury room of the county buildings yesterday to form a beekeepers' association for the Counties of Lincoln and Welland. J. F. Dunn of Ridgeway was elected president, and Wilfrid Bowen of Niagara Falls, secretary-treasurer.

Choice of Method of Execution.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 24.—Condemned men in Nevada will have their choice of death by hanging, shooting or poison, if the law compiled by the code commission, which will be presented to the Legislature, is approved. Hydrocianic acid is the poison alternative mentioned.

Express Robber Released.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 24.—It was learned yesterday that William Dobson, sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary a year ago for his part in the robbery of $4,000 from the Canadian Express Co., in November, 1909, was liberated two weeks ago.

CASES WERE LEFT OVER

Wilson and Morden Cases Will be Heard March 3.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—No evidence was taken against Matthew Wilson and W. S. Morden to-day when the case was called in court. It was adjourned until March 3. They are charged with conspiring with W. R. Travers to obtain for the Trusts and Guarantee Company preference over other creditors of the Farmers' Bank.

Booksellers' Arrested.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Arthur G. Virtue, 339 Church street, and Albert Britnell, 241 Yonge street, were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday mornin: charged with offering for sale, selling and circulating obscene literature in the shape of Balzac's Droll Stories, the unexpurgated works of Guy de Maupaszant and the Arabian Nights Tales, unexpurgated.

Both pleaded not guilty and were remanded a week.

Huge Drydock For Esquimalt.

Victoria, Feb. 24—Official announcement is made that the British Columbia Marine Railway Co. will build a drydock to cost $3,000,000 at Lang's Cove, Esquimalt. The dock will be 900 feet long and 100 feet wide. It is the intention to equip a modern shipyard for the construction of cruisers and destroyers for the Pacific squadron of the Canadian navy at Esquimalt.

Wholesale Expulsion of Jews.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—Governor Maklahoff has begun a widespread expulsion of the Jews from the Province of Tchernigov, a government in Little Russia. Two hundred and nineteen families in one district, including wealthy landowners and manufacturers, were marched through the heavy snowdrifts.

Women His Victims.

London, Feb. 24.—Felix Franz Alfred Ogilive, who describes himself as a German engineer, is charged with a multiplicity of wives, and with defrauding his victims. Three illegal alliances are alleged.

According to evidence, Ogilvie in 1905, in San Francisco, married a widow named Louth before a magistrate. In a more recent case, it is asserted that he took his bride to a well-known hotel and next day drugged her and decamped with her jewels and cash. To a third victim he is accused of having represented himself as an engineer employed by the Standard Oil at $30,000 a year.

UNION LABEL

QUAKER OATS CO.

While we have no desire whatever to drag into the reciprocity fight the Quaker Oats Company yet the fact is indisputable that if the agreement goes into effect, one of Peterborough's leading industries will be hurt, and this is too important for Peterborough to let pass. President Stuart told Z. A. Lash, K. C., of Toronto, that the agreement would mean the transfer of eighty per cent of the business done at the Peterborough mills to the American mills of the company, meaning the practical destruction of the Canadian milling end, except perhaps for local consumption.

Under the reciprocal arrangement oats will enter the United States free. But the bye-product, or the offal produced in the milling will not, and the sale of these bye-products cuts a considerable figure in reducing the cost of manufacture. In fact, so important is the sale of these bye-products that if there is no market for them, the manufacturing will be shifted to where there is a ready market. There is very little market in Canada for the bye-products, or offal, and without this market manufacturing in Canada in a large way will cease.

Apart from the question of politics, is it not lamentable that the Government of Canada will go ahead to make trade agreements against the wish of the great majority of Canadians, which are bound to hurt the industries and the working class. The doubtful benefits to the farmers will be offset by the injury done to many Canadian institutions, and if this reciprocal deal is but the preliminary to a wider measure—this is but natural—the whole move is not only against the interests of individuals, of communities, but of the nation as a whole.

AN IMPORTANT AFFAIR

James J. Hill says that the reciprocity pact with Canada is the most important event to the United States since the civil war. In this, most of us are inclined to agree with Mr. Hill. That astute and long-sighted railway magnate peers into the future, and he discerns what the probable finish will be. It will be Canada's national finish.

Columns and columns, ream after ream of paper are being used in the discussion of this momentous question, affecting most vitally the position and future of Canada as a nation. And the importance of the issue warrants it. This is the most important matter of public discussion to Canada since Sir John Macdonald went to the country in 1891, at the time when Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that he preferred the Yankee dollar to the British shilling, and two years before Hon. Mr. Lemieux was engaged in arguing for annexation.

The question facing the people of Canada to-day is not so much one of mere dollars and cents. To gain an added customer looks good, but when he is twelve times as big and powerful, it behooves us to watch how we go about dickering with him. The little candy he offers us, in the shape of trade inducements, may be only for the purpose of coaxing us closer, until we are kidnapped unawares.

Canada has a grand and glorious heritage. Canada has the makings of a great and powerful nation; a loyal and faithful part of the British Empire. There is no denying the strength of the British sentiment in Canada, from one end to the other.

Why, then, should we imperil that imperialism of which we are so fond of boasting, by flirtations with Uncle Sam? Hon. Clifford Sifton says that the fewer trade entanglements Canada has, of any sort, the safer it will be, and he is a venturesome Canadian who disagrees with this view. There is no reason why Canada should not work in harmony with the United States, as two closely allied neighbors. The two countries, by reason of their geographical intimacy, cannot do otherwise. But this constitutes the danger in Canada's position. Were the United States a nation of only equal population and resources to Canada, this country could afford to deal openly and freely with it, on an equal basis. But powerful and growing as she may be, Canada is yet a commercial pigmy beside the great United States and its immense interests, and as the much weaker country it behooves Canada to move very carefully.

The wave of popular opinion against the reciprocal measure, which the Ottawa Government thought was such a coup, is gaining, gathering, accumulating every day. We do not doubt that the Government would gladly see the United States Senate turn the measure down, thus saving the situation at Ottawa.

As a matter of fact, when Fielding and Paterson got back to Ottawa, it was figured out that the agreement had as much chance of passing the United States Congress and Senate as the proverbial snowball has in the superheated region. Laurier figured on getting the credit for making an agreement that would suit the free trade sentiment, without arousing the antagonism the actual operation of such a measure would create. The evident sincerity of Taft in going ahead with the measure, and the prospect that it will go through, to the great displeasure of most Canadians, has put the Laurier crowd into a very tight corner. Can they wiggle out?

Representative Gaines' resolution in the House of Representatives suggests absolute reciprocity with the United States, and an all-American tariff against the world. This was absolutely the situation discussed in 1891, which led Sir John Macdonald to make his famous declaration—

"The adoption of this policy would involve, among other grave evils, discrimination against the Mother Country. It would, in my opinion, inevitably result in the annexation of this Dominion to the United States.

"The question which you will shortly be called upon to determine for yourselves resolves itself into this—Shall we surrender our possession of the great heritage bequeathed to us by our forefathers and submit ourselves to direct taxation for the privilege of having our tariff fixed at Washington, with a prospect ultimately of becoming a portion of the United States.

"As for myself, my course is clear. A British subject I was born, a British subject I will die. With my utmost effort, with my last breath, will I oppose the 'veiled treason' which which attempts by sordid means and mercenary proffers to lure our people from their allegiance."

EDITORIAL NOTES

In a few years, dear reader, be careful not to burn your finger with the fire-crackers on July 4th.

Jim Hill's four million dollar terminal station in Winnipeg is ready, on paper, waiting for the conclusion of the reciprocity pact that delivers the west into the hands of the American railways.

Sir William Van Horne is the latest prominent Canadian to register his opposition to the Laurier reciprocity pact. He says "I am too much disgusted to talk about it. I am sick and ashamed—too sick and ashamed to say anything about the subject."

A Michigan farmer-member of the State legislature, has presented a resolution to the House calling for the annexation of Canada. This annexation business in the United States seems to be as popular as the Merry Widow waltz when it first came out.

If a bill presented to the Nevada Legislature becomes law, condemned men will have their choice of deaths by shooting, hanging or poison. Hydocyanic acid, a drop of which on the end of the tongue, will cause instant death, is the poison to be used. Not having much water in Nevada, they haven't included drowning, the easiest and pleasantest of them all.

R. K. Kherigan (The Khan) twenty years ago, sounded a battle cry against continentalism — the continentalism that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would drag an unwilling nation into in 1911. The Khan's eloquent lines apply now, as then—

"For this is the land of the true and the leal
Where freedom is bred in the bone,
The southerner never shall place his heel
On the men of the northern zone."

Munro Trial Postponed.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The charge against Col. James Munro, former president of the Farmers' Bank, was called yesterday before Judge Winchester in the county judge's criminal court. The colonel did not appear, as his counsel, H. H. Dewart, K.C., was delayed by a late train from Ottawa. Later in the day it was arranged that, as the crown could not go on owing to the absence of F. W. Stair, the principal witness for the prosecution, who is in Florida, the case will stand until the March sessions, unless Mr. Stair be sooner here and both parties ready to go on.

Matthew Wilson, K.C., and W. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., will be called in the Police Court this morning upon the charge of conspiring with Travers to procure him to give an undue and unfair preference to the company as a creditor of the Farmers' Bank in respect of the alleged consolidation of a $120,000 deposit, with a secured loan of $175,000, for which additional securities were alleged to be advanced.

Yesterday Travers was not brought up from the jail until the afternoon. He was kept at the detective office, while Inspector Duncan spent some time with him. Inspector Duncan also spent considerable time at the bank offices.

COLD WEATHER SORES

Some people's skin is so tender that in winter they are never long free from cold sores, blisters, cracks, etc. For such Zam-Buk is really fine. Mrs. Drummond, of Thetford Mines, Que., writes: "For some years, as soon as cold weather has started, my little daughter's face and hands have been covered with rough, watery patches, which before long turned into nasty sores. These would itch and smart terribly. They remained on her face from Fall until Spring for three successive years, and we could get nothing which did her any good, until a short time ago I started using Zam-Buk. Now, after Zam-Buk treatment, the sores have entirely disappeared, leaving her skin as smooth and clear as is possible."

Zam-Buk also cures eczema, ulcers, piles, abscesses, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all stores.

A Calgary exchange says—With his heart beating a tattoo, young "Bill" Faux walked down the steps of the Dominion land office this morning with his chin in the air and his chest expanded.

At the depot he met his wife. She was radiant. "Bill" slapped her on the back, thrust his hand into his inner pocket, and pulled out two sheets of crumpled parchment. There was the coat of arms of the Dominion of Canada on the top of each sheet. They were certificates entitling him to "N. W. quarter of 23, township 21, range 25, west of the 4th."

In other words, these two documents gave him settler's rights to 160 acres of fertile land located four and a half miles from Three Hills, Alta.

Then the happiest pair of young folks that ever started out to make good in the history of the west started off to a hotel.

The Faux's, who are natives of Peterborough, Ont., have waited outside the Calgary land office, relieving one another for the past five days and nights.

Yesterday there was a fight on the land office steps when an attempt was made to oust the Faux's from their place at the office door.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—For the first time in nearly three years May wheat to-day sold under 90c a bushel. The market verged on demoralization. Disappearance of buying power was the chief cause. Decidedly nervous feeling prevailed at the close, which was at a net decline of 1⅛c to 1⅜c to ½c. The end of the day left corn ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c to ¾c down; oats off ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c, and hog products at 2½c to 5c to 15c to 17½c advance.

The Liverpool grain exchange closed ¾d to 1d lower than yesterday on wheat and ¾d to ⅞d lower on corn. Antwerp wheat closed 1⅛c lower, Buda Pest 3⅛c lower and Berlin 1⅛c lower.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

We started to fish for Rouletabille's trout. Mrs. Rance and I both removed our shoes and stockings, but I concerned myself more about the dainty bare feet of my pretty hostess than about my own. She clambered into the pools and crept among the rocks with a grace which enchanted me more than I dared express. Suddenly we both desisted from our task and pricked up our ears at the same moment. We heard cries from the shore where the grottoes are. We distinguished a little group, the persons in which were making gestures of appeal. We hastily rushed to the beach, and in a few seconds we learned that, attracted by moans, two fishermen had just discovered in a cave in the grotto of Romeo and Juliet an unfortunate human being who had fallen into the chasm and who must have been there helpless for several hours.

The quick conjecture which rushed into both our minds at once proved to be the right one. It was Old Bob who had been fished out of the cave. When he had been drawn up on the beach in the full light of day he certainly presented a pitiable spectacle. His beautiful black coat was torn and covered with mud, and his white shirt was as black as tar. Mme. Edith burst into tears and nearly went into hysterics when she found that the old man had a broken collar bone and a sprained foot. And he was so pale that he looked as if he were going to die on the spot.

Happily the case was far less serious than it at first appeared. Ten minutes later he was, according to his own orders, stretched out on his bed in his room in the square tower. But could any one believe that he absolutely refused to be undressed, even so far as to have his coat removed, before the arrival of the doctors? Mme. Edith, more and more nervous, installed herself as his nurse, but when the physicians came Old Bob ordered his niece not only to leave his room, but to go out of the square tower altogether. And he insisted that the door should be locked after her.

This last precaution was a great surprise to us all. We were assembled in the Court of the Bold, M. and Mme. Darzac, Arthur Rance and myself, as well as Pere Bernier, who haunted my footsteps, awaiting the news. When Mme. Edith quitted the tower after the arrival of the medical men she came to us and said:

"Let us hope that his injuries won't be serious. Old Bob is solid as a rock. What did I tell you about him? I have made him confess, the old sinner! He was trying to steal Prince Galitch's skull, which he believed to be more ancient than his own—just the jealousy of one savant toward another. We shall all laugh at him when he is cured."

At that moment the door of the square tower opened, and Walter, Old Bob's faithful servant, appeared. His face was pale, and he seemed very nervous.

"Oh, Mme. Edith," he cried out, "he is covered with blood! He doesn't want anything to be said about it, but he must be saved."

Edith had already rushed into the square tower. As to us, we dared not utter a word. Soon the young woman returned.

"Oh," she sobbed, "it is frightful! His whole breast is torn open!"

Rouletabille reached the castle about an hour after these events. He cut short my demands for an explanation and asked me immediately if I had made a good catch.

"Oh, yes; a very good catch! I fished up Old Bob."

He started violently. I shrugged my shoulders, for I believed that he was counterfeiting surprise, and I went on:

"Oh, you knew very well what kind of fish I should find when you sent your message!"

"You certainly must be unaware of the purport of your words, my dear Sainclair, or else you would have spared me the trouble of protesting against such an accusation."

"What accusation?" I cried.

"That of having left Old Bob in the grotto of Romeo and Juliet, knowing that he might be dying there."

"Oh, nonsense!" I cried. "Old Bob is far from dying. He has a sprained foot and a broken collar bone, and his story of his misfortune is perfectly plain and straightforward. He declares that he was trying to steal Prince Galitch's skull."

"What a funny idea!" exclaimed Rouletabille.

"Do you believe that story? And—and that is all? No other injuries?"

"Yes," I replied. "There is another injury, but the doctors declare that it is not at all serious. He has a wound in the breast."

"And how was this wound made?"

"We do not know. None of us has seen it. He would not even permit his coat to be taken off in our presence."

As soon as we came to the chateau we encountered Mme. Edith, who appeared to have been watching for us.

"My uncle won't have me near him," she said, regarding Rouletabille with an air of anxiety different from anything I had ever noticed in her before. "It's incomprehensible!"

"Ah, madame," he replied, "I assure you that nothing in the world is incomprehensible when one is willing to take a little trouble to understand it." And he offered her his congratulations upon having had her uncle restored to her at the moment when she was ready to despair of ever seeing him again.

Here we were joined by Prince Galitch. He had come to ask for news of his old friend Bob, of whose misfortune he had learned. Mme. Edith reassured him as to her uncle's condition and entreated the prince to pardon her relative for his too excessive devotion to the "oldest skulls in the history of humanity." The prince smiled graciously and with the utmost kindliness when he was told that Old Bob had been attempting to steal his skull.

The prince asked for the details. He seemed very curious about the affair, and Mme. Edith told how her uncle had acknowledged to her that he had quitted the Fort of Hercules by way of the air shaft which communicated with the sea. As soon as she said this I recalled the experience of Rouletabille with the flash of water and also the close iron bars, and the falsehoods which Old Bob had uttered assumed gigantic proportions in my mind, and I was sure that the rest of the party must hold the same opinion as myself. Mme. Edith told us that Tullio had been waiting with his boat at the opening of the gallery abutting on the shaft to row the old savant to the bank in front of the grotto of Romeo and Juliet.

"Why so many twists and turnings when it was so simple to go out by the gate?" I could not restrain myself from exclaiming.

Mme. Edith looked at me reproachfully, and I regretted having even seemed to have taken part against her in any way.

"And this is stranger yet," said the prince. "Day before yesterday the 'hangman of the sea' came to bid me adieu, saying that he was going to leave the country, and I am sure that he took the train for Venice, his native city, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. How then could he have conveyed your uncle in his boat late that night? In the first place, he was not in this part of the world; in the second, he had sold his boat. He told me so, adding that he would never return to this country."

There was a dead silence, and Prince Galitch continued:

"All this is of little importance, provided that your uncle, madame, recovers speedily from his injuries and again," he added, with another smile more charming than those which had preceded it. "If you will aid me in regaining a poor piece of flint which has disappeared from the grotto and of which I will give you the description. It is a sharp piece of flint twenty-five centimeters long and shaped at one end to the form of a dagger—in brief, the oldest dagger of the human race. I value it greatly, and perhaps you may be able to learn, madame, through your Uncle Bob what has become of it."

Mme. Edith at once gave her promise to the prince, with a certain air of haughtiness which pleased me greatly, that she would do everything possible to obtain for him news of so precious an object. The prince left us. When we had finished returning his parting salutes we saw Rance before us. He seemed very thoughtful. He had his ivory headed cane in his hand and was whistling, according to his habit, and he looked at Mme. Edith with a strange expression.

"I know exactly what you are thinking, sir," she said, "and you may keep on thinking for aught I care."

She stepped near Rouletabille.

"At all events," she exclaimed, "you can never explain to me how when he was outside the square tower he could have hidden behind that panel."

"Madame," said Rouletabille impressively, looking at her as though he were trying to hypnotize her, "if God is with me, before night I shall explain to you all that you wish to know."

A little later I found myself in the lower parlor of la Louve, tete-a-tete with Mme. Edith. I attempted to reassure her, seeing how restless and nervous she was. But she buried her pale face in her hands, and her trembling lips allowed the confession of her fears to escape them.

"Let us go out into the air," she said impatiently. "I can't breathe in this place." We entered the garden. It was approaching the hour of noontide, and the court was a dream of perfumed beauty.

I looked at Mme. Edith. Beads of perspiration stood out on her forehead, and her face was as pale as death. Edith led the way toward the postern gate. The vault of this postern formed a black arch in the light, and at the extremity of this tunnel we perceived, facing us, Rouletabille and Darzac, who were standing at the edge of the inner court like two white statues. Rouletabille was holding in his hand Arthur Rance's ivory headed cane. Motioning with the cane, he showed Darzac something on the summit of the vault which we could not see, and then he pointed us out in the same way. We could not hear what he said. The two talked together for a few moments with their lips scarcely moving, like two accomplices in some dark secret. Mme. Edith paused, but Rouletabille beckoned to her, repeating the signal with his cane.

We went on until we reached the vault, and the others watched us without making a movement to meet us.

We had come up close to them by this time, and they bade us turn around with our backs toward the court so that we could see what they were looking at. There was on top of the arch a stone, now loose, which seemed in imminent danger of falling and crushing the heads of the passersby. Rouletabille asked Mme. Edith if she had any objections to its being pulled down until it could be replaced more solidly.

"A good idea," she answered.

Rouletabille handed the ivory headed cane to Darzac, asking him to perform the feat of dislodging the stone, which was part of a carved escutcheon, the shield of the Mortola.

"You are taller than I," he went on. "See if you can reach it."

Darzac seized the stick. He stretched upward and struck with great vigor at the object, which clattered to the ground.

Suddenly behind me I heard the cry of a man in his dying agony.

We turned with one impulse, uttering an exclamation of horror.

We all stood there, shivering, our eyes wide with horror. Who was dead? What expiring breath had emitted that terrible sound?

Rouletabille was the most terrified of us all.

Mattoni, who was passing through the garden and who had also heard the cry, rushed up. He hurried behind him.

When we had passed the shade of the eucalyptus we found the cause. The cry had come, indeed, from a soul passing into the unknown. It was Bernier—Bernier, in whose throat sounded the death rattle, who was trying in vain to rise and who was at the last gasp of his life. It was Bernier from whose breast flowed a stream of blood and who, with one last fearful struggle, summoned strength enough to utter the two words "Frederic Larsan!"

Then his head fell back, and he was dead. Larsan always, forever. Here yet again was his mark—a dead body and no one anywhere near who could have committed the murder by any possibility of human reason.

We rushed into the square tower, the door of which still stood open. We entered in a body the bedroom of Old Bob, passing through the empty sitting room. The injured man was lying quietly on his bed within, and near him a woman was watching—Mere Bernier. Both were as calm and still as the day itself, but when the wife of the dead concierge saw our faces she uttered a cry of affright, as though smitten by the knowledge of some calamity. She had heard nothing; she knew nothing. But she rushed into the air like a streak of lightning and went straight, as though impelled by some hidden force, directly to the place where the body was lying.

And now it was her groans that sounded on the air under the terrible sun of the Midi over the bleeding corpse. We tore the shirt from the dead man's breast and found a gaping wound just above the heart.

THE BUDDHIST HADES.

Eight Easy Stages of the Most Awful Kinds of Torture.

The places of torment to which all wicked Buddhists are to be assigned on the day of final reckoning is a terrible place of punishment. This Buddhistic hell is divided into eight "easy stages."

In the first the poor victim is compelled to walk for untold ages in his bare feet over hills thickly set with redhot needles, points upward. In the second stage the skin is all carefully filed or rasped from the body and irritating mixtures applied. In the third stage the nails, hair and eyes are plucked out and the denuded body sawed and planed into all sorts of fantastic shapes. The fourth stage is that of "sorrowful lamentations." In the fifth the left side of the body and the denuded head are carefully roasted, Yema, the Buddhistic Satan, superintending the work. In the sixth stage the arms are torn from the body and thrown into an immense vat among the eyes, nails and hair previously removed. Then in plain hearing of the sore footed, blind, maimed, roasted and bleeding victim the whole horrid mass is pounded into a jelly. In the seventh stage the other side of the victim and his feet are roasted brown, and then comes the eighth and last stage, in which the candidate is thrown into the bottomless pit of perdition.

DEADLY MINE GASES.

White Damp, Firedamp, Black Damp and the Fearful After Damp.

"White damp is the gas most feared by the miners, for its properties render it difficult to detect, inasmuch as it is tasteless, odorless and colorless and when mixed in the proportion of about one part gas to nine parts air is called "firedamp" and becomes explosive to a degree hard to realize unless one has seen its effects.

Black damp, unlike white damp, is heavier than air, a nonexplosive gas which may be detected by its peculiar odor. Again, unlike the other, its effect is to suffocate and extinguish fire. This gas is so heavy and moves with such a sluggish flow that occasionally, when miners have been trapped in a mine following an explosion and have detected the black damp creeping in upon them by its smell, they have been able to stop its advance by erecting dams or barricades along the floor, building them higher as the volume of gas increased and keeping the air within their little inclosure comparatively clean by rude improvised fans.

Following an explosion, these two gases become mingled and form a mixed gas, possessing all the dreaded qualities of each, which is known as "after damp," and it is the mixture of gases which destroys any life that may remain following a mine disaster. —Atlantic Monthly.

Late Rising Birds.

A pair of singing birds had been advertised for sale.

"The property of a late rising family," the dealer stated.

"I wound up with that clause," he said, "so possible purchasers would not be scared off by the prospect of an unearthly chattering at 5 o'clock in the morning. Birds can be trained to keep any kind of hours. If they are brought up by a family of nighthawks they learn to go to bed at midnight and get up at 9 a. m., along with the rest of the folks, but if they are tucked in right away after supper they wake up the neighborhood at a correspondingly early hour the next morning. It is advisable for any person who is likely to lie abed until noon to inquire into the early training of a bird before buying."—New York Sun.

American Golf.

Certainly you are in good luck as a golfer if you go to America at all, for they are gloriously hospitable in that land, and, so far as I could see, the idea that some have here—that the American's notion of the object of playing a game is purely to win it, not to enjoy the playing—is perfectly mistaken. I never had the impression more strongly anywhere of being in the company of men who were playing the game for pleasure, not for the mere sake of winning the match. But then it is certainly true, as I heard one of their judges (I mean a legal judge, though he was a judge of golf, too) say in an after dinner speech that it is "the cleanest sport in America."—Horace Hutchinson in London Telegraph.

The Voice of the People.

Lady John Russell visited Paris as a girl in 1830 and witnessed the somewhat artificial enthusiasm for Louis Philippe, who had just been placed on the throne by the revolution. "It is said," we are told, "that any small boy in those days could exhibit the king to curious sightseers by raising a cheer outside the Tuileries windows, when his majesty, to whom any manifestation of enthusiasm was extremely precious, would appear automatically upon the balcony and bow."

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

Horticultural Society Up in Arms Against Practice of Making "Short Cuts"

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the directors of the Horticultural Society, held in the office of the city engineer last evening, and following a discussion on the question of vandalism, as it has existed in the city parks, and particularly Central Park, it was decided to impress upon the City Council and the Board of Police Commissioners, the necessity of drastic measures being undertaken to put a stop to the practices which have caused so much damage to this particular park.

What the society objects to is the practice of citizens taking short cuts, thereby making unsightly paths through the park, and this in the face of an expensive sidewalk having been constructed along the north boundary of the property.

There is no objection to citizens using the cinder path, as that is what it is there for, but when not in good condition for use, the granolithic sidewalk should be the route taken, and not cow trails made on either side of the cinder path and in other places.

H. SOWDEN APPOINTED AS CARETAKER OF HOSPITAL

His Tender of $400 Was $80 Lower Than That of Other Applicant

The Property committee of the City Council, at a meeting held last night, decided to accept the application of H. Sowden, for the position of caretaker at the Isolation Hospital. The amount of his tender, $400, was $80 lower than that of the other applicant. Wm. J. Andrews.

The appointment will date from March 1, and is for one year, with the salary to be paid in monthly installments.

Sowden will be assisted by his wife who will do the cooking. They have only one child, a son, nine years of age.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The Peterboro Light and Power Co., submitted a proposition for lighting the hospital, and it was decided that the meter system be adopted, and the company requested to proceed with the installation of the line.

TO REST AT THE LIBRARY.

A reproduction of Mercury, which was the work of Miss Katharine Wallis, was turned over to the Library Board, who will take such steps as are necessary for its future.

INSURANCE

The matter of insurance on the furniture in the hospital was left in the hands of the chairman. The value of the furniture will probably be between $1500 and $1600

While the question of improving the lighting system of the city building so as to conform with rules of the Fire Underwriters' Association, was discussed, nothing definite was done.

Some time ago, the Inspector of the Association wrote the secretary, with a list of defects in the system. Recently the Davis Thompson Co., gave notice of an advance of 15 cents on the rates on account of the defects.

To make the changes, it will be necessary to re-wire the buildings.

LIKED THE WORK OF LOCAL TALENT

Numbers on Program at Hastings Concert Well Received

The Hastings Star has the following to say of local talent at a concert in that place.

Miss Choate with her violin numbers, as usual captivated the audience from her first appearance, and her rendering of Annie Laurie was worth the price of admission alone.

Mr. Asa Huycke, an old Hastings boy, but now of Peterboro, was a surprise to all who had not heard him lately. His grand baritone voice in all his numbers showed how much he has improved since his last appearance here, and stamped him as one of the coming vocalists of this country. Mr. Huycke has a grand full toned baritone voice, and his rendering of his various numbers was a real treat.

Miss Deane, of Peterboro, the accompaniste of the evening, performed her arduous though generally unappreciated task in a manner that contributed no lithe to the success of the programme. She also gave the opening number, a piano solo which was heartily received.

SEE 'DADDY DUFARD'

Chevalier the Famous Actor at Grand To-morrow Matinee and Night—Send Your Young People

The appearance of Albert Chevalier as Daddy Dufard at the Grand to-morrow evening is the first opportunity the people of the city have had of hearing this great character artist. To those who are familiar with the names of famous actors, this announcement will be received with great pleasure. Judging by box office advance sales there will be a crowded house to greet Chevalier at both afternoon and evening performances.

"Daddy Dufard" is such a quaint, charming play that the young people will be sure to enjoy it thoroughly and as the prices for the matinee are reduced there should be a large turnout of the younger set.

"Daddy Dufard" is designated as a character comedy, being something on the order of the "Music Master," a play that has been a wonderful success. It is the story of the struggle of a talented young actress to make her way on the stage. There is an interesting story running all through the play and it is replete with humor.

In the scene in the music hall Chevalier will have an opportunity to render a few of his character songs including those well-known coster songs, "The Old Kent Road," "Mrs. 'Enery 'Awkins" and "Dear Old Dutch."

The prices for the evening performance range from 50c. to $1.50, with a charge of 25c. in the gallery; while while for the matinee the charge for children is 25c. all over the house and for adults from 35c. to $1.00. Do not miss the chance of seeing this great actor.

REALIZED WELL ON HIS BIG SALE

A highly successful and productive sale was conducted yesterday at the farm of Andrew Nelson, lot 19, con. 4, Otonabee.

C. Stapleton and Son were the auctioneers for the sale and some remarkably good sales were made.

The cows were of a high grade, and averaged from $46 to $92.

Heifers 2 and 3 year-old sold from $42 to $64. The horses were for general working purposes. The working team sold for $360. The colts averaged from $60 to $140.

The farm implements also sold for a very fair price.

HARDWARE CONVENTION AND EXHIBITION IS CONCLUDED

Officers Elected for the Year

Next Convention to be Held at Guelph

The exhibition at the Armouries was again visited by many citizens last evening and to-day the exhibits are being removed from the building.

At yesterday's session of the convention officers for the year were elected as follows;

President—Mr. R. C. Chown, Belleville.

1st Vice-President—M. S. Madole, Napanee.

2nd Vice-President, H. Occomore, Guelph.

Executive—W. F. McPherson, Prescott; R. H. Blackmore, St. Thomas; Wm. Magladery, New Liskeard; W. W. Bennett, Gananoque; C. W. Conn, Tilsonburg; D. McNab, Orillia.

Secretary—W. Wrigley, Toronto.

Treasurer—John Caslor, Toronto.

Auditors—S. M. Burt and J. W. Peacock, Toronto.

Retiring President Cinnamon expressed his pleasure in vacating the chair in favor of President Elect Chown, who was then installed and took charge of the meeting. The latter, who is the youngest President the association has ever elected asked for the co-operation of all the members. He thought the hardware retailers had not participated in the advance of the country's profit as had the jobbers, manufacturers and agriculturists.

President Cinnamon moved that Col. MacLean, proprietor of "Hardware and Metal," be elected a life honorary member of the association, seconded by Ald. Occomore, of Guelph, and carried unanimously.

To Secretary Wrigley the president gave the credit of the success of the convention. Mr. Wrigley said such was not the case, giving much of the credit to the men behind the secretary. The real success, he said, was due to the exhibitors and the travellers. He suggested that the hardware yell be given in honor of Mr. Bennett, of Iron Age Hardware, which was enthusiastically done.

ADDRESSES.

Mr. T. W. Caley, of the Peterborough Lock Co., said he had spent 36 years in the manufacture of builders' hardware, and that it was by accident he came to Canada. It was on the understanding that the sole object was Canada for Canadians. "Canadians," he said, "could manufacture just as good goods in Canada as in the United States." German and British goods he quoted as the chief competition. He pointed out that in England the buying power of a dollar is one-third more than in Canada, and in Canada wages are 100 per cent. higher. To live and grow in this country, the manufacturer must have the support of the Canadian jobber and retailer.

J. J. Turner, of J. J. Turner & Sons, to whom the association is much indebted for assistance in connection with the arrangement of the exhibition booths, was the next speaker. Mr. Turner eulogized Secretary Wrigley for his activity in connection with the association and complimented the organization upon its success. Mr. Turner said his capital when he came to Canada 42 years ago was ten shillings. His success he attributed to quality, and his goods are even being shipped to England. He is now selling goods to the man with whom he served his apprenticeship as well as to several other large English concerns.

It was decided that the convention of 1912 be held in Guelph.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the retiring president.

THE SOCIAL EVENING.

The meeting in the Collegiate Institute last night, was a fitting climax to the big convention. W. M. Maxwell's address on "Price Maintenance" was listened to with keen interest and met with general approval. Prof. Gliddon's orchestra and Harry Bennett's made a big hit with their program of entertainment and even Sol Waffle was satisfied with the cream and sugar supplied by the caterer in the buffet lunch.

WINDOW DISPLAYS.

The awards in the window competitions were;

Paint window—H. J. Hanwell, Kingan Hardware, first; E. A. Whitten, Best Stove Co., second.

Stove window—E. A. Whitten, Higgins Hardware Co., first; R. P. Best, Best Stove Co., second.

NEWS FROM QUEEN'S

Special to the Review.

Already the authorities at Queen's are looking to the closing exercises of the present session and forward to the work of the summer session. The first summer session was held last year and proved such a decided success that the permanence of the institution at Queen's seems assured. Kingston has many advantages to offer the summer student. Not only can excellent boarding and rooming accommodations be secured at very moderate rates, but no better spot could be found in which to enjoy the hours of leisure. The beautiful Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence and all the attractions of the Rideau lie at hand, and the facilities for boating and canoeing are unequalled.

The session will begin in the first week of July and will continue into the middle of August. The courses offered this year are as follows:—A course in English by Prof. McDonald; German, Prof. Macgillivray; French, Prof. Campbell; Mathematics, Prof. Matheson; Physics, Prof. Baker; Public Speaking and Reading, Prof. Greaves, and Animal Biology, by Mr. Klugh. The public speaking classes are worthy of special mention as Prof. Greaves, who is in charge, was formerly assistant to Prof. Curry, of the Boston School of Expression. Clergyman and teachers of Canada who have attended in Boston may now enjoy the same training at Queen's. While the classes in all courses are designed especially to meet the needs of teachers of public, continuation and high schools, the school is open to any who wish to attend, although, of course, those wishing to write the regular examinations must conform to the university regulations. Any who expect to attend should send in their applications at an early date to the Registrar of the University. If an opinion can be formed from the enthusiasm of the students last year, or from a consideration of the city's natural advantages for such a work, the summer school at Queen's promises to be one of the most attractive in the country.

On Friday next the Canadian section of the Society of Chemical Engineering is to meet at Queen's. The program for the gathering is to consist of a dinner and three papers on explosives. A paper will be given by Dr. Leo F. Guttman, of Queen's, on the Manufacture of Explosives. E. W. Monk, Esq., of the Hamilton Powder Co., will discuss the "Care, Handling and Use of Explosives," and C. J. Coll, Esq., of the Acadia Coal Co., will contribute a paper, on "The Use of Permitted Explosives."

Rev. J. W. H. Milne, of Ottawa, was the visiting preacher at the University last Sunday. The services were held in Grant Hall, and an even larger congregation than usual assembled. The services of the coming Sunday will be in charge of President MacLachlan, of the International College at Smyrna, Turkey.

The University is at present being favored with a visit from Rev. J. D. Barnes, who has come to enlist students in the Home Mission work of the Presbyterian Church for the coming summer.

LINDSAY WON THE CUP BY 12 SHOTS

Locals Were up Here, But Behind in Games at Lindsay

Lindsay won the cup in the annual Lindsay-Peterboro competition, held yesterday. On the local ice Peterboro won by thirty five shots, but in Lindsay, Messrs. Neill, Medd, Sturgeon, and Davidson lost by forty seven shots, giving Lindsay the round with twelve points to the good.

Two of the games here were very evenly contested, skips Sisson and Lang playing to a tie, and skip Flavelle beating his opponent skip Connal by three shots.

The following were the rinks and the scores of the games played here.

Lindsay.	Peterborough
H. McMullen	J. Brightman
T. McConnell	Ross Cameron
E. Gregory	R. M. Waddell
R. Butler	G. H. Giroux

It has been suggested that these rinks, which played in Lindsay, play the local ladies.

The rink would be closed to spectators—if such would be the wish of the former.

CONVENTION MEN LOST BY ONE SHOT

The local curlers played against five rinks from the Hardware Convention delegates last night. The visitors were all from different clubs, but but gave Peterborough a very close run, the latter only winning by one point.

The following were the rinks—

LOCAL BANKERS DEFEATED BY 3-2

Last Game With Lindsay Money Men.

The Lindsay bankers triumphed over a local septet at that place last night. The score was 1—1 at the half and 3—2 at the finish against the visitors. The game was fast throughout, with Byron Green handling the bell.

The Lindsay team had three ringers on their line-up, one of whom was Newton of the O.H.A. juniors. Ross was the best man on the ice.

Those who accompanied the team were Messrs. H. Walkey, G. Clarke, W. Eastwood, E. Hatton, W. Sheffield, M. McClennan, F. White, L. Stevens, J. McClennan, V. McCartney and E. Brumwell.

The teams were—

The local bankers' septet has a return game with Lindsay, one with the C.G.E. office, and another with Campbellford. Manager Brumwell states that as soon as his team redeems itself for the defeat of last night the challenge of the Rink Rats will be attended to.

Kingston, Feb. 23.—Frontenac players say that the Oshawa junior hockey team seems bound to try and win by some method, when it cannot beat Kingston on the ice. They claim Oshawa had representatives here today making enquiries about all the Frontenac players, particularly with reference to the time of residence. Everything was found in Frontenac's favor. Oshawa has found that it might just as well not have bothered about Marchand, as Frontenac's have filled the goal gap in such a way that they still remain undefeated.

WAS SHE TO MARRY HACKENSCHMIDT

New York, Feb. 23.—For two hours to-day, the White Star liner Oceanic churned through the cakes of floating ice which blocked the North river, in an attempt to make her pier at the foot of West Twenty-First street Four tugs were summoned to her aid, but despite their combined efforts the big liner could not be brought in close enough to allow the use of regular gang planks.

A plank forty feet long was lowered and on this in single file and grasping the rail to steady themselves in the strong wind, the passengers walked timidly to the pier.

The liner reached quarantine last night, but Captain Haddock was advised by wireless to lay up until this morning on account of the large quantities of ice in the river and bay.

Among the passengers was Mrs. Maud Russell, a stately blonde, who report has it, came here to marry Hackenschmidt, the wrestler. Mrs. Russell denied the report to a reporter.

"Mr. Hackenschmidt and I are just good friends and are not engaged," she declared. "I am a Londoner, you know, and interested in sports. I just came there to see him wrestle."

SPORT TALK

After being a baseball star in the big leagues for 17 years, Wee Willie Keeler has at last passed to the minors, the New York National League club tranferring him to the Toronto club of the Eastern League.

Keeler was one of the greatest batters the game ever had. For the first 13 or 14 years in the big league, or from the year 1894 to 1906, inclusive, the little outfielder batted over the .300 mark. His best year was in 1897, when he batted .432 at Baltimore.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 24—William ("Farmer") Baldwin, claimant to the mat championship of Iowa, sustained a broken neck in a match with "Dad" House here last night. He is not expected to live many hours.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 24—Al Kaufman, the heavyweight pugilist, was married here last night to Miss Annette Zelos of San Francisco, a chum of his school days.

Alpine Club Climb.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—At the Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters yesterday the official announcement was received that the sixth annual climb of the Alpine Club of Canada will be held during the last week of July, and the first week in August, in the Alpine meadows above Sherbrooke Lake, and close to the Great Divide.

Three More Judges.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Information was received yesterday by officers of the Montreal Bar to the effect that three additional judges for the Circuit Court will soon be appointed.

It is the intention of the Government to appoint two judges of the French tongue and one of the English tongue.

Humane.

An Atlanta man not long ago met a darky who was driving a horse so thin that it staggered as it walked.

"Why don't you put more flesh on that nag?" indignantly demanded the Atlantan.

"Scuse me, boss," replied the driver, "but I's doin' de best I kin. Cain't yo' see, boss, dat po' hoss kin hardly carry what little flesh he's got on him now?"

Gets Wiser.

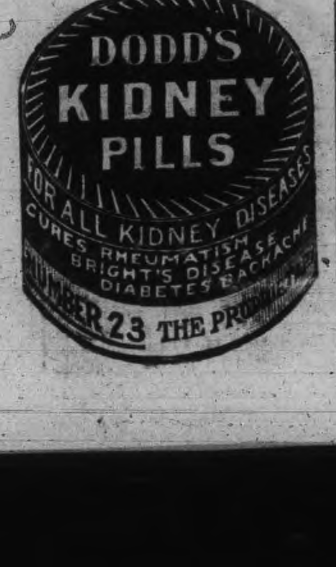
Dubley—Every young man thinks he'd be perfectly happy if he could only have his own way.

Wise—Yes, and the older he grows the happier he is to think that he didn't have it.

Not a Musician.

"Is that gentleman a musician?" asked the inquisitive Mrs. Smith of the elevator boy as a long-haired individual left the elevator.

"No, ma'am," was the response; "he ain't no musician; he's a singer."



FEATS OF MARKSMANSHIP.

Wonderful Shooting of Captain Bogardus and Dr. Carver.

Old gentlemen of the period just after the war will tell you sadly that there are no such shots as there used to be. In this connection it is interesting to note that $1,000 was wagered against $100 that the champion of the world could not hit a hundred consecutive birds. Many amateurs, not to speak of professionals, frequently make such a score without arousing comment in these days. Captain Bogardus was to be allowed three trials. If he lost the first two and made the third the money was his, and, by the way, he used a twelve gauge, full choke, ten pound gun, and his load was five drams of black powder with No. 9 shot. He loaded his own shells or had them loaded according to his directions.

While shooting in England his load was challenged by one of his defeated rivals, who asserted that the champion's phenomenal scores were the result of his superior shells. The captain suggested that in their next match both contestants should use his ammunition, to which the Englishman eagerly consented. The captain was delighted, for well he knew what would happen to the action of the light and delicate English gun under such a charge. Before the match had proceeded very far the Britisher withdrew—for massage.

With the invention and success of the ball tossing machine a craze for ridiculously high scores swept the country. Five thousand balls in 500 minutes, 5,194 out of 5,500, in seven hours and twenty minutes—these were some of the stunts that delighted the hearts of the gun people of that day. One man, the English crack, Dr. Carver, shot for six consecutive days, breaking 60,000 balls out of a possible 64,881. The wonder is that there remained of his shoulder anything more than pulp. True, it is on record that after the three-thousandth shot at such an exhibition in Gilmore's Garden, New York city, the contestant had to pry open his trigger fingers by main force and only succeeded in continuing in the match by frequent immersions of arm and shoulder in hot water.—Outing.

It Paid to Be Wrong.

It does not always pay to be right. The champion St. Michael's hockey team paid a visit to Boston during the holiday season and played a couple of games there. As considerable interest was taken in the visitors, some enterprising youths thought they would prepare pennants to sell to the crowds. Most of them argued this way, "What are the natural colors for an Irish college? Why, who ever heard of team with a name like that which did not use green and white? Ireland for ever?" On the day of the game, they were plenty of pennants made up of these colors.

When the sale was being energetically pushed in the rink, a youth came on the scene with pennants made of light and dark blue. He had gone to considerable trouble in order to be correct, and laughed at his careless business opposition. To his dismay the crowd apparently did not care what St. Michael's colors were, but choose what they thought they ought to be. The green and white sold well, while the man who had taken pains to be right found that he was in wrong.

Veteran Coachman Killed.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 24.—Edward Quade, for nearly twenty-five years coachman for the U. S. Secretaries of War, was killed in a runaway accident here yesterday.

He was driving Secretary Dickinson's little two-year-old grand-daughter Helen Dickinson, and her governess, both of whom escaped injury. The horses were frightened by a piece of paper blown by the wind, and the driver was thrown from his seat.

Called to London Church.

London, Ont., Feb. 24.—Rev. W. R. McIntosh of Elora has been called to the pastorate of the King street Presbyterian Church, to succeed Rev. Jas. Rollins, now of Peterboro.

ABOUT THOSE LETTERS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I and others observed the two letters in your most valuable paper last evening re "Chimes and Chinese Fund." We have come to the conclusion that one was sensible, the other rot, or rotten. How is it you fill your paper with such rubbish. The difference between them makes one believe that one of them is intelligent, the other is not.

OBSERVER.

To the Editor of the Review,

Sir,—The following editorial of the Montreal Witness on the present policy of the Papacy, is decidedly interesting. The Witness says—

"We have been asked by certain French Liberals to say something about Archbishop Begin's effort to suppress the Liberal press. Although as citizens of a democratic, self-governing country, we are infinitely interested that the people should exercise a free choice, we have been rather inclined to let our fellow-countrymen fight their own battle in that respect, lest we should weaken their hands. We have repeatedly said that the present policy of the Papacy and of those prelates who allow themselves to follow its extreme lead, is rapidly alienating the peoples. Its effect has been seen in France, Spain, Portugal, Germany. The faithful in this country are not essentially different, and the results will be the same here. We should regret it very much if we thought it was making the people any less religious. But we have no faith at all in religion which is simply enforced submission to authority. Instead of uplifting men, it depresses them. Their minds must be free before they can exercise real faith at all. The French of Canada have taken great interest in Canadian and provincial autonomy. But they cannot have self-government at all—it will be clerical government—if they cannot have any press but that which has the clerical imprimatur. It cannot be said that it is none of our business, as it will be clerical government for us also."—The Witness.

Yours,

OBSERVER.

SPENT $50,000 TO SAVE THEIR SON

Erie, Pa., Feb. 23—Aston V. Hoover, of Crawford county, convicted of the murder of his wife, was hanged here to-day.

The aged parents of the doomed man had spent their life savings of $50,000 in attempting to save him from the gallows. Hoover had been tried twice for wife murder.

When he was convicted the second time his old father and mother attempted to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment, but were unsuccessful.

They were at the jail this morning and their parting was a pathetic scene.

Jean Champagne, employed at a Montreal sawmill, was killed while adjusting a circular saw.

SHE CURED HIS SPRAINS

The Second One Was Higher Up Than the First

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Goodby, goodby!" called Leonard as the three cars rolled down the drive, tossing back a rainbow color of flying veils and waving hands. When they had disappeared he limped up the steps to the veranda and threw himself in a wide hammock with a groan of relief.

"Confound these shoes!" he muttered wrathfully, surveying the trim tan oxfords at the end of the hammock with an evil glance. "Eights he said they were, and when I tried them on they felt just right. By Jove, I believe he tricked me with a pair of sevens! The next time I buy shoes in haste I suppose I'll repent, as I'm doing now. Why in thunder I didn't bring another pair along—wow!" Mr. Leonard had untied the perky brown ribbon bow and painfully withdrawn a gorgeously clad foot from the tight shoe.

A churring whiz on the bluestone drive made him aware of the fact that some one had arrived.

He dived down after the shoes, thrust them behind his back, brought down his toes and tucked them under a hastily snatched cushion.

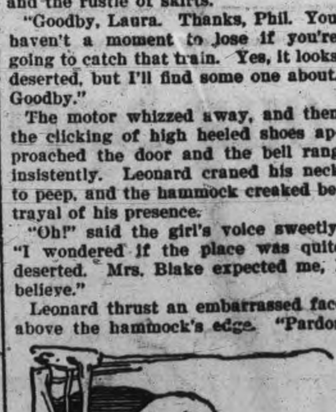
His back was to the drive, but he heard a low murmur of voices and a man's quick step, then a lighter step and the rustle of skirts.

"Goodby, Laura. Thanks, Phil. You haven't a moment to lose if you're going to catch that train. Yes, it looks deserted, but I'll find some one about. Goodby."

The motor whizzed away, and then the clicking of high heeled shoes approached the door and the bell rang insistently. Leonard craned his neck to peep, and the hammock creaked betrayal of his presence.

"Oh!" said the girl's voice sweetly. "I wondered if the place was quite deserted. Mrs. Blake expected me, I believe."

Leonard thrust an embarrassed face above the hammock's edge. "Pardon



"LIES," SAID JACK.

my not getting up—er—but the fact is—er—I'm suffering from a sprain. I'm Mrs. Blake's brother, and I'm sorry to say that the whole push have gone off for the day—a picnic at the beach, I believe—and every servant has either gone along or taken her afternoon off. If you will sit down"— He indicated a comfortable rocker at some distance from his hammock, but the girl ignored it and sank down into a deep wicker seat at the foot of his couch.

"And you had to remain behind because of the sprain?" she asked sympathetically. "What a pity!"

"They left a lunch for me in the dining room, you know," explained Leonard, trying not to stare at the lovely face framed in the soft dark hat. He loved bronze tinted hair and deep blue eyes shaded with golden brown lashes and creamy skin tinged with pink and a perfect nose and a—

The lips parted in a little smile, showing just the sort of pearly teeth that Leonard admired. "I'm Marion West. Mrs. Blake asked me for the week. I was coming yesterday, but was prevented, so I wired her this morning I would arrive tonight on the 6:30."

"I'm Jack Leonard," said that young man, mentally anathematizing the ill fate that made him appear at such disadvantage when this delightful visitor was to be entertained. "My sister has gone for the day—er—I don't suppose she expected you till 6:30. I might take you out in my car—perhaps we could catch them up. I know the road." He made a tentative movement, remembered his predicament and sank back. His ribs encountered the sharp soles of the shoes, and he uttered a slight groan.

"Oh, dear, you have hurt yourself," cried Miss West compassionately. "Don't stir, please. I shall get along famously until they return. Perhaps I'll knock around the links—my clubs are here.

"I'll caddy for you," volunteered Leonard eagerly, and then again he recollected. "Darn the luck," he muttered under his breath.

"Never mind; it is rather warm for golf. I shall go in the farthest corner and read awhile, Mr. Leonard," she said, stripping off her white gloves and removing the hat from her pretty hair and fluffing it up with ringless fingers. "You are to take a good long nap. I believe you were asleep when we drove up."

"Don't go," pleaded Leonard. "I couldn't sleep a wink, you know." Then slyly and with a strong effort to turn pale he added, "It pains like the dickens, you know, and when I'm talking to you I don't mind it a particle."

"Really?" she asked incredulously. "When did you sprain it and how?"

"Yesterday—er—I should say immediately after my people went out this morning. Slipped, you know, and twisted it. Funny things, sprains, eh?"

"Very," agreed Miss West demurely. Bringing forth a dainty workbag, she produced a piece of embroidery and busied herself with intricate stitches. "Haven't you done anything to reduce the inflammation—applied a cold compress or anything like that?"

"Nary thing," returned Mr. Leonard cheerfully. "Pained me so I couldn't think what to do, so I went to sleep, lulled by pain, you know. Ever had the toothache?"

"Never."

"Well, this is like a toothache in the ankle," went on Mr. Leonard, elaborating his story with much care and quite reckless of consequences, "if you can imagine such a thing."

"I cannot. Fancy a toothache in one's ankle!" Miss West laughed more heartily than the occasion seemed to warrant, and Leonard, chilled by dark suspicion, wriggled his rascally toes still farther under the protecting cushion until that ruffly protection came very near dropping over the edge of the hammock.

"You seem awfully uncomfortable," volunteered Miss West. "Cannot I do something for you—fetch a drink of water, turn your pillow—anything?"

"Thank you, no. I'm doing famously," said Leonard eagerly. "My back's a bit strained too. Makes me restless. I'm afraid I'm bad company."

"Indeed no! You are most entertaining," assured the girl sweetly. "And here is relief in sight. Surely this motherly looking creature can be no other than your absent cook!"

"Maggie—ah, yes," murmured Leonard helplessly, craning his neck to observe the approach of the squat form of the O'Brady who once had been his nurse and was now his sister's cook. "She will go immediately to the kitchen," he continued as if by the power of suggestion he could sidetrack the oncoming disaster.

But she didn't go immediately to the kitchen. She paused in the path beyond the veranda and caught Leonard's eye with her own keen blue orb.

"Aha, Master Jack! And is this the way ye go to the city fer attending to important bizness? Shame on ye for a lazybones—a-staying home in the hammick when ye might be courtin' most anny wan of them swate girls at the picnic!"

"Mr. Leonard has met with an accident," explained Miss West, suddenly appearing before Maggie O'Brady's astonished eyes. "He sprained his ankle, and it has not yet been attended. You might bring some ice water and bandages.

With murmured exclamations of distress at her favorite's disaster and a bewildered wonderment at the vision of beauty on the veranda, Mrs. O'Brady pounded around the path to the kitchen.

"Oh, by Jove!" groaned Mr. Leonard helplessly. "I don't need Maggie, you know. My foot feels much better; I shall be able to walk before luncheon. Just head her off, won't you, please?"

Miss West's pretty brows went up in puzzled inquiry. "I should think you would want it attended to, Mr. Leonard. You are suffering, and just a compress of ice water on your ankle will reduce the inflammation. Surely you will let her bandage it for you."

"Never!" cried Mr. Leonard wretchedly.

Miss West laughed merrily—peal after peal of laughter that rippled from her pretty throat so contagiously that Jack Leonard joined in, although he did not understand in the least what it was all about.

The girl bent over her workbag a moment and then turned to him with dancing eyes. "I have here a cure for your indisposition, Mr. Leonard," she said demurely. "While you apply it I shall run and tell Mrs. Maggie you are cured." She held out between her dainty fingers a long embroidery needle threaded with purple silk, the very color of the socks between the pillow.

"Upon—my—word!" gasped Jack, blushing furiously. "You knew all the time, Miss West?" He nodded toward his feet.

"Yes, indeed, from the very first—they show so plainly from beneath the pillow. And the yellow shoes—you have had one under each arm, and you have been so uncomfortable! I've been dying to tell you, but it was so funny, and you fairly fascinated me with the multiplicity of your—fabrications, shall I say?"

"Lies," said Jack, "plain, everyday lies." And then he told the story of the tight shoes and the inquisitive toes and the brother-in-law, who inconsiderately wore nines. "What would you do if you wanted to get around and take somebody motoring across country?"

"While Maggie is conducting me to my room I advise you to put your offending shoes on Mr. Blake's big boot trees and let them stretch. Then you can find a pair of tennis shoes somewhere, and, presto we shall go motoring—if you meant me."

"There is nobody else," said Jack fervently.

"And the sprain—it is better?" laughed Miss West.

"Worse—it is higher up, cardiac region, and very serious," answered Mr. Leonard, placing his hand on his heart.

In the course of time Miss West found a cure for that sprain also.

EDITING AN ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Strenuous Times In Getting Out an Early French Work.

Many adventures befell the French eighteenth century encyclopedia. More than once the production of that work, regarded by authority as revolutionary, had been stopped, eight days of imprisonment in the Bastille for the printer being one incident. At the very last moment, after Diderot had corrected the final proofs, the printer and his foreman secretly slashed the articles right and left, cutting out everything that seemed even possibly dangerous, and burned the manuscript. Diderot discovered the atrocity too late when referring to one of his own mutilated articles. But the most remarkable point is that for years very few persons knew of what had happened, even the contributors remaining in ignorance. They had had enough of their own articles when writing them.

Voltaire tells a pleasing story of Louis XV.'s conversion to the merits of the encyclopedia, according to the London Chronicle. The talk one night at a Trianon supper turned on sport and thence to gunpowder, as to the composition of which the party could not agree. Mme. de Pompadour lamented their all round ignorance. For instance, she herself did not know what her rouge was made of or how her silk hose were manufactured. "'Tis a pity," said the Duc de la Valliere, "that his majesty confiscated our encyclopedias, which cost us 100 pistoles."

The king recalled that he had a copy, and three valets were sent for the twenty-one volumes and staggered back with seven each. Gunpowder, rouge, silk stockings, were all found there. Some found answers to legal problems that troubled them. The king discovered the rights of his crown set forth, and in his satisfaction he allowed the confiscated copies to be returned.

Novel "Parcels."

Two girls, aged six and five years respectively, the daughters of English parents residing in Strathcona, Alberta, traveled recently all the way from England unattended.

They were put on the train at Sheffield labelled like parcels of merchandise. A broad leather belt surrounded the waist of each, with painted letters reading, "To Mr. M——, H—— Strathcona, Alberta, per S.S. Empress of Britain, care of Canadian Pacific Railway."

The little pilgrims arrived safely with a cartload of toys given to them by the passengers on the boat, with whom they became great favorites.

Epidemic Stops Initiations.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Until the present typhoid fever epidemic is over, no new members will be initiated into the Independent Order of Foresters in Ottawa. An order has been received by each of the fourteen local courts from Dr. Millman of Toronto, supreme high physician.

This is the first time in the memory of old fraternal men that an epidemic has become so serious as to prompt action as above.

AT HOME WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Ladies of St. Peter's Held Linen Shower in Aid of St. Vincent Orphanage

The success which attended the Ladies "At Home" held yesterday afternoon and evering in the St. Alphonsus Lyceum far surpassed the expectations of the ladies.

They were more than delighted with the attendance, and considering that it was the first of its kind, the success of the "At Home" is all the more remarkable.

The affair took the nature of a linen shower in aid of the St. Vincent Home for children, and the generosity of those who attended was not in any way limited.

In the afternoon, the ladies entertained and served refreshments. In the evening, a splendid program of musical numbers was given, and an informal dance followed.

The ladies who composed the two committees, to whose active efforts considerable of the success of the affair is due were: Entertainment committee—Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, Mrs. McFadden, Mrs. McGrath, Miss Nevin, Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Merrell, Mrs. Geo. Ball, Mrs. McQuillan and Mrs. Donahue. Refreshment committee—Mrs. J. Daly, Mrs. Shannon, Mrs. Tooley, Mrs. LaPiante, Mrs. Sheeny and Mrs. Sharpe.

ASSAULT CASE WAS DISMISSED

Complainant Withdrew the Charge

A case of assault was dismissed by the Magistrate this morning, after considerable conflicting evidence had been heard. The complainant said that he went down to his sister's house, to obtain a settlement about some money he had lent her, and when down there had been assaulted by his nephew.

The nephew told a straighforward story however which seemed to appeal favorably to the magistrate, and he suggested that the complainant withdraw the charge to which he agreed.

THE OFFICERS OF ST. LUKE'S W.A.

The annual meeting and election of officers of St. Luke's Women's Auxiliary took place yesterday afternoon in St. Luke's Sunday School room. The president, Mrs. Gaskins, was in the chair, and opened the meeting with devotional exercises, after which, the reports were presented by the respective officers. A comprehensive view of the work of the year was then given. A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a life membership to Mrs. E. Langfeldt. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon.-President—Mrs. E. A. Peck.
Hon. Vice Pres.—Mrs. J. Phillips.
President—Mrs. Gaskins.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. E. Langfeldt.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. T. Moore.

After this meeting refreshments were served.

REV. ARMSTRONG HERE SUNDAY

To Speak at the Presbyterian Churches of the City

Rev. E. A. Armstrong, assistant secretary of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will pay a visit to this city on Sunday. He will speak in St. Paul's church Sunday morning, at St. Andrew's in the afternoon and will address the Young People's Society at Knox church in the evening.

Rev. Mr. Armstrong, who is a strong speaker, is well known here, having visited this city in connection with the Young People's Institutes.

OBITUARY

The Death of Wm. Campbell

The death occured last night of William Campbell of Bailieboro. The deceased was in apparently poor health yesterday, and death came suddenly during the night.

He was 61 years of age, well-known and highly respected. Surviving besides his widow, are three sons and one daughter, who are Messrs. W. S. Campbell of Peterboro, James C. and Harry Ross; and Miss Olive Campbell There were also several brothers and one sister.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at one o'clock.

A New Device

Four Belleville men have invented and patented an ingenious device to facilitate the handling of films for moving picture machines. It enables the operator to project a much clearer and steadier picture, and eliminates the rewinding device, now so much in use.

Steadily Improving

The young mail clerk who had parts of his body badly frozen, while walking from Norwood to the home of his uncle near Indian River, is still in the hospital and steadily progressing under the care of Dr. McNulty. Amputation was not necessary.

Immigrant Is Recovering

The young immigrant who broke his arm at Belleville this week and was brought to Peterborough, where a position was awaiting him, is recovering nicely. The farmer who had engaged him, came into the city for him to-day, unaware of the accident which had befallen his man. He will likely, however, take the man and his family out to his place, as the husband will soon be able to work.

NARY A KISS IN TEN LONG YEARS

New York, Feb. 24.— A despatch from Boston to The Tribune says, Married ten years and never was kissed. This is a story based on fact. Arthur H. Trower, of South Boston, is the unlucky individual who has been married ten years, and has never been kissed. And that isn't all for Trower has more hard luck staring him in the face.

His wife, Emily, who is authority for the statement that she has never once kissed her husband during the ten years of their married life, has brought contempt of court proceedings against him for failure to pay $15 a week alimony as ordered by the court. She was granted a divorce last month on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. Trower says that he isn't able to pay the alimony.

SUCCESS OF THE REV. W. S. MAJOR

Now of Montreal and a Former Rector at All Saints' Church

The February number of the "St. George's Monthly," the parish chronicle of St. George's Church, Montreal, contains some very pleasing references to the work of the Rev. W. S. Major, former rector of All Saints parish in this city.

The annual report of the St. George's Men's Bible Class which was formed in December, 1909, and has steadily increased in numbers, zeal and helpfulness, speaks warmly of his work in this particular. When the class organized, a constitution by which it was to be governed was drawn up by Rev. Mr. Major, to the satisfaction of the members of the class, the objects of which are, "Bible Study" Christian Culture, Mutual Helpfulness and the extension of Christ's Kingdom throughout the world." Mr. Major was chosen to guide the class in the Bible study which choice the secretary affirms was "the master stroke of our work," as under his able guidance the study has proved most instructive and beneficial and has been the means of enabling the members to better fulfil the other objects for which they are banded together.

The following paragraph from the pen of the Rev. Canon J. Paterson Smyth, rector of the parish, also appears—

"The Men's Association met in Church last Wednesday evening for an impressive ceremony. Eighteen of their number, grown men, were being confirmed by the bishop, receiving the Apostolic rite of "laying on of hands that they might receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." It is a further indication of the spiritual growth in that Association and most heartily do I congratulate their president. Mr. Mayor, on this result of his intercourse with them. He deserves all the affection which they have for him. And now this gives him a higher satisfaction and reward,

NO CONVICTION ON THE EVIDENCE

Youth Charged With Theft Must Report Monthly

Earl Schwier, the sixteen-year-old youth who was charged with stealing several small articles, including socks and pincers, from the lumber camp of Dickson brothers, Smith township, appeared before the county court this morning.

The evidence was not sufficient to convict him, and Magistrate Edminson, therefore, allowed him his liberty requiring him, however, to report on the first day of each month, commencing in April.

County Constable Cochrane made the arrest.

It appears that the youth hired to work with Dickson Brothers, at their lumber camp. He commenced work on a Thursday and left the camp the following morning, and soon after several articles were missed.

William Murray and the Dickson Brothers gave evidence, they being also employed at the camp.

When asked to tell his story in the witness box young Schwier said that he knew nothing about the goods that were stolen. When he hired with the camp it was on the understanding that he would not have to stay in it alone. He objected to the amount of swearing which went on in the camp.

Schwier has a bad record. He got into difficulty at Mr. Mervin's butcher shop at one time, and has spent part of a term at Mimico Reformatory, from which place he escaped.

In defending his conduct since then, the prisoner said that he had been converted.

Magistrate Edmison was very lenient with him, and advised him to try and secure some permanent employment at which he could earn an honest living.

Robert Townsend, a sectionman living near Nobles, was struck by a G. T. R. express near Eastwood and killed.

The $30,000 summer residence near Walkerville, of Tracy McGregor, of Detroit, was burned yesterday.

CANADIAN NOTES AND EVENTS OF INTEREST

BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT HAS PROVED SUCCESSFUL

SASKATCHEWAN LADS DO THE THING ON BIG SCALE.

Youth of the Prairies Keep Up the Old Spirit and Tradition of the Riders of the Plains In Their Military Training — Light Horse Is Made Up of Boys From 14 to 17 Years of Age.

Out on the fertile prairies of Saskatchewan the cadet idea has been carried to its highest development in Canada in the successful Horse Mounted Cadets. Five troops of boys from the age of 14 to 17 have been formed, annual encampments are held at which, for eight days, the lads follow the routine of the ordinary cavalry corps in camp. The training is thoroughly practical, the syllabus laid down for cavalry at camps of instruction being carried out in its entirety.

The idea is now three years old and its success is evidenced by the fact that each year has witnessed an expansion of the cadet corps, which now embraces units from Grenfell, Broadview, Moosomin, Indian Head, and Wolseley. The efficiency of the cadet regiment is promoted by the fact that prairie-bred boys seem to ride as a matter of course, and all of them are in a position to command the use of a mount at any time. The same element has contributed in large measure to the remarkable results secured by the cavalry corps recruited in the prairie provinces since autonomy introduced the militia to the Northwest, where previously the only scarlet jackets were those worn by the "Riders of the Plains," the Royal Northwest Mounted Police.

The 16th Light Horse Mounted Cadets wear smart khaki kits, with stiff-brimmed sombreros, carry the regulation rifle, and use regulation saddlery loaned for the encampments by the parent corps. The lads take the keenest interest in the work and it is no exaggeration to say that for efficiency and smartness they will give any regiment of militia cavalry in Canada a stiff brush for honors.

The cadet corps is an adjunct, in a sense, of the 16th Light Horse, one of the newer cavalry regiments on the Canadian Militia roster, which has already attained a splendid reputation for smartness, keenness and efficiency. The corps originally comprised four independent squadrons, formed in 1906, soon after autonomy was achieved. In April, 1908, a regiment was formed under the command of Lieut.-Col. R. J. Gwynne, who originally raised and commanded D squadron. The corps comprises the regimental staff of nine officers and 23 non-commissioned officers and men; and four squadrons each embracing six officers and 68 non-coms. and men on a peace footing. The temporary headquarters are at Grenfell, where the C.O. resides, and squadrons are located at Grenfell, Moosomin, Regina and Moose Jaw, with troops in adjacent towns and villages.

The regiment is at present armed with the Ross rifle and bayonet, all members above the rank of corporal carrying swords. The full dress is scarlet with lemon facings, while Wolseley helmet with cavalry spike and chain for state occasions. For undress, scarlet and blue serges are worn with steel chains, and blue breeches with single yellow stripe. Khaki uniform, general service pattern, is usually worn. The regimental crest is a silver semi-circle of maple leaves surrounding a moose head in gold, with the motto "For King and Empire."

Generals French and Otter and Col. Williams, inspector of cavalry, have inspected the 16th Light Horse, and warmly commended the work done by the regiment and the state of the lines. Manoeuvring exclusively by signal and the performance of the rough-riding squadron, whose members put their horses down from the saddle, then fire over the recumbent mounts, have especially pleased inspecting officers from year to year. Half the horses in the corps are thus trained to work that is rarely expected from militiamen. The cavalry efficiency cup in M.D. 10 has been captured by the 16th Light Horse ever since it was put up for competition.

The recital of the success attending the 16th Light Horse and its cadet branch would be incomplete without more than passing reference to the commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Gwynne. The latter is from an old army family, Major.-Gen. Gwynne (retired) having commanded the Shropshire Light Infantry and many members of the family having served in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers as becomes an ancient Welsh line. Lieut.-Col. Gwynne has resided in Canada for many years, for a considerable portion of which he served as overseer (a post paralleling that of reeve in an Ontario municipality) at Grenfell. As a result of his work in this capacity, Grenfell is probably the most attractive town on the prairie stretches of the C.P.R.

On entering the militia Lieut.-Col. Gwynne devoted the major portion of his time to the corps under his command. He has secured every certificate issued by the schools of instruction, and had the distinction this fall of being appointed to command the Royal School of Musketry at Rockcliffe, a distinguishing evidence of appreciation and confidence on the part of the Militia Department.

The regiment pulls solidly together, good work is never overlooked, efficiency is observed and utilized and splendid discipline is secured without any manifestation of the iron hand that every member of the regiment knows is concealed within the velvet glove. The corps as a whole realizes the value of the work done by its commanding officer and it is probable that no commanding officer in the whole militia force has the respect and confidence of his subordinates to a higher degree than the officer who has brought the 16th Light Horse to the very front rank of Canadian cavalry regiments.

The trip over the Canadian Rockies is taking a high place in public opinion. Switzerland has long been the recognized European country for mountain scenery, but now the Canadian Rockies are fast coming into their own, and the bent of travel is westward. And it is only right that it should be. Nowhere on God's earth is there more wealth of color or more picturesqueness of panoramic display. Winding rivers, great fields of glaciers, small villages nestling at the bases of the hills, all flash by one after the other as the train tugs and strains its onward way, than in this Dominion of ours. Nature has played some queer pranks among these hoary summits. Six miles from Laggan, the highest point of the mountains a small stream running through a valley of the hills meets with an unusual fate. Unaided by any human means, the stream divides, one branch going to the right and the other to the left, eventually to mix their waters, the one with the Atlantic and the other with the Pacific.

At this point the stream has been crossed by a rugged arch, on which are the words "The Great Divide." This is one of the most famous points of interest on the mountain journey, and is a favorite stop-over point with tourists from every corner in the world.

COLD STORAGE FURS IN WINNIPEG

There is woe in Winnipeg. In the year 1909 there was such an extraordinary rush for furs among the votaries of fashion that prices soared to the clouds. All kinds of furs were in brisk demand. Muskrat skins, which, when divested of long hair and properly dyed, readily pass for seal, jumped 100 per cent. in value. Other skins, lynx, wolf and mink, found ready sale. So promising was the business that hundreds of thousands of skins were put in cold storage in anticipation of speculative profit. But, alas! fashion is a fickle jade. Furs are no longer a necessary adornment. The trappers have trapped in vain and the dealers are in the dumps. Muskrat skins, which a year ago brought 80 cents to $1.10, are now selling at 35 to 45 cents, according to color, while mink is selling as low as $3.50, which last season brought $6. Winnipeg weeps.

RUDYARD KIPLING TO MEDICINE HAT

Author Is Against City Changing Its Fine Old Indian Name.

Rudyard Kipling has written a characteristic letter to the citizens of Medicine Hat on being informed that the city contemplated changing its name. He assumes that the reasons actuating the citizens are that the name Medicine Hat has become a stock joke among the newspapers as "the place where the weather comes from."

A resident wrote Mr. Kipling telling him of the proposed change and setting forth that the name was a translation of the old Cree name of the place and rich in Indian tradition.

Mr. Kipling in his reply told the citizens to hold joyously and proudly to the present name of the town, which, he declares, "has all hell for a basement," and go forth as the only city officially recognized as capable of freezing out the United States. He thinks Medicine Hat can well afford to bear such a name when he remembers a few places in the United States, such as Schenectady, Tonawanda, Cohoes, Poughkeepsie, Podunk, Schoharie, Potomac and Oneonta.

Mr. Kipling also wrote:

But it is people and not prospectuses that make cities, and time has sanctified the queer syllables with memories and association for millions of our fellow creatures. Once on a time these places were young and new and in process of making themselves.

That is to say, they were ancestors with a duty to posterity, which duty they fulfilled in handing on their names intact, and Medicine Hat is today an ancestor, not a derivative nor a collateral, but the founder of a line.

To my mind the name of Medicine Hat has an advantage over all the names I have quoted. It echoes, as you so justly put it, the old Cree and Blackfoot tradition of red mystery and romance that once filled the prairies; also it hints, I venture to think, at the magic that underlies the city in the shape of your natural gas.

Believe me, the very name is an asset and as years go on will become more and more of an asset. It has no duplicate in the world. It makes men ask questions and, as I knew more than twenty years ago, draws the feet of the young men toward it.

It has the qualities of uniqueness, individuality, association and power. Above all, it is the lawful, original sweat and dust won name of the city, and to change it would be to risk the luck of the city, to disgust and dishearten old-timers not in the city alone, but the world over, and to advertise abroad the city's lack of faith in itself.

Many western towns are getting tired of the old names given them by the frontiersmen, and many outsiders are afraid they will adopt new names. Rat Portage now sounds like a sleeping car or an apartment house. Kenora is its name, to the disgust of those who would have the last great west retain the picturesque.

Moose Jaw thus far holds true to the old. So do Drinkwater, Saskatchewan, and Pinchers Creek, Alberta, and White Fish, Ontario.

Building Activity.

Tremendous building activity in some cities of the west is shown in a comparative table covering 27 cities, which appears in the January number of Construction. It will be observed that Regina and Moose Jaw, however, are somewhat laggardly, while Port Arthur shows tremendous strides: Berlin, $27,950; Brandon, $4,400; Brantford, $98,400; Calgary, $590,604; Edmonton, $52,606; Fort William, $411,480; Halifax, $24,350; Hamilton, $329,225; Kingston, $23,965; Lethbridge, $69,755; London, $31,074; Montreal, $905,427; Moose Jaw, $52,000; Ottawa, $230,100; Peterboro, $8,570; Port Arthur, $182,016; Prince Albert, $240,500; Regina, $50,240; Saskatoon, $184,210; St. John, $66,900; St. Thomas, $44,300; Sydney, $15,737; Toronto, $2,040,030; Vancouver, $1,897,885; Victoria, $104,259; Windsor, $84,200; Winnipeg, $371,200.

THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT

Sir Andrew Fraser Will Come to Canada to Attend Conventions.

Sir Andrew Henderson Leith Fraser, K.C.S.I., who, according to a recent cablegram, has agreed to come over to Canada next autumn to assist in a series of conventions to be held under the direction of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, is one of the greatest living lay authorities on the practical side of missionary work in the east. He has been quoted as saying, as one who has had experience as a very high public official in India, that the missionary is the most powerful agent of lasting Imperialism now working in India. Sir Andrew's father, Rev. A. G. Fraser, D.D., was an eminent minister of the Scottish Presbyterian Church, while his mother was the daughter of another clergyman of the same denomination, Rev. J. Shaw. Such being his parentage it is easy enough to understand his taking an active and intelligent interest in church work. He was educated at the Edinburgh Academy and Edinburgh University, obtaining at the latter the degree of M.A. in course and that of LL.D. honorarily. In his twenty-third year, he, in 1871, entered the Indian Civil Service, and remained actively engaged therein until 1908, when he returned to Scotland, taking up his residence at Auchenleish, in Perthshire, where he has exceptional facilities for gratifying his ruling passion for the game of golf, and where he delights to entertain missionaries and other toilers in the Indian field, who may be after a spell of hard work recuperating in the old land before returning to renew the up-hill fight against fanticism, superstition, ignorance, and disease in Britain's Asiatic Empire. In his hospitality to missionaries Sir Andrew Fraser recognizes no denominational lines. His activities in the Indian service covered a wide sphere. He was a member of the historical Hemp Drugs Commission, which investigated the grave evils resulting from the general use of numerous vile drugs, and whose report resulted in the enactment of drastic remedial laws of the greatest importance. For two years he was Land Revenue Officer, an appointment which brought him directly into touch with all the local governing bodies in the country, and also with those holding Government concessions. The Government revenues increased materially during his administration, and incidentally many injustices and petty hardships imposed upon the poorer classes of natives disappeared. In recognition of these services he was created C.S.I. For some time he held the important appointment of President of the Police Commission, using his influence to keep down the illicit sale and use of opium and other harmful drugs, and making a determined effort to put a final stop to child murder and kindred heathenish practices, which in a few remote places had contrived to survive in spite of the law. From 1903 until 1908 he had the honor of holding one of the most dignified and influential appointments under the Government of India, that of Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and the year he received his commission to this office he was created K.C.S.I. Lady Fraser, who is Sir Andrew's second wife, is a daughter of Col. H. I. Lugard, I.S.C.

A CANADIAN IN THE BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS

Sir Charles Day Rose, Bart., Comes From Montreal.

Sir Charles Day Rose, Bart., who was recently elected by Newmarket to the British House of Commons in the Liberal interest, is not merely a native of Montreal, but was a very well known character in the commercial metropolis when a young man. In fact, as a boy attending the High School, he made a reputation for himself as a football player, a snowshoer and a swimmer. Later, being sent for several years to Rugby he distinguished himself as an athlete at that great English school. He had the honor of playing on the "School" football team, won a place on his "house" cricket team, and captured the championship of the school at broad jumping. He became, in fact, a fine all-round athlete, and when he returned to Montreal he figured conspicuously in the local athletic world, being always a sure selection for the city's best lacrosse, football, and cricket teams in those days. He was an active and energetic officer in the militia, too, being a captain in the old Montreal Garrison Artillery and in 1870 commanding his company at the skirmish at Trout River, on the Huntingdon frontier, when the Fenians were driven from their entrenchments by the volunteers supported by H. M. 69th Regiment. Shortly after this event he left Montreal to join his father and brother who had taken up their residence in England.

Sir Charles Rose, who was created a baronet by King Edward VII. in 1909, is the second son of the late Right Hon. Sir John Rose, Bart., who in his time was a very prominent figure in the public life of Canada. This former Canadian statesman was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and while yet a mere strippling, came to Canada with his parents and the rest of his family, and settled in the Eastern Townships. For a short time after he came to this country he acted as a tutor, and then went to Montreal to study law. He was called to the Bar of the Province of Quebec in 1842, and being a good speaker, a close student, and a hard worker and withal possessed of a striking appearance, he soon acquired a large practice at the Montreal Bar, the Hudson Bay Co. and many other large corporations being among his clients. After less than five years practice he was made Q.C.

On entering political life he was offered the position of Solicitor-General in the Macdonald-Cartier administration of the old province of United Canada. As Commissioner of Public Works, it devolved upon Sir John Rose to take charge of the arrangements made for the extended trip through Canada of King Edward VII. (then Prince of Wales). Sir John attended to every detail personally, and accompanied the royal visitor throughout. His Royal Highness was intensely pleased with all he did and with Sir John as a personality, and thus was laid the foundation of an intimate relationship which has existed ever since between the royal family and that of Sir John Rose.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

It is said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was among the first to congratulate Archbishop Gauthier on his appointment to Ottawa.

A FEW CANADIAN PULP STATISTICS

According to statistics collected by the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior, there were 622,129 cords of pulpwood used in Canada during the year 1909. Of this the total value at the mill was $3,404,080. In spite of a decline in the price of pulpwood, the value of the wood consumed increased more than $550,000 over that used in 1908, the quantity used being more than 30 per cent. in advance of that used in the previous year. There are some sixty pulp mills in the Dominion.

Three-fifths of the pulp wood cut in Canada during 1909 was exported to the United States for manufacture. Nearly all this wood went from Quebec.

The manufacture of the pulp wood exported in 1909 kept 69 out of the 251 pulp mills of the United States running at full capacity for the year. Had it been manufactured in Quebec, it would have kept running 71 mills of the same size as those now running in Quebec.

TEN YEARS OF OUR CENTURY

Ten years of "Canada's Century" is now on record. There is one phase of Canadian development which the story of a decade brings out very prominently. On January 1, 1901, there were half a dozen cities in Canada worth talking about—as centres of development. To-day there are a score. Ten years ago the two first cities were little more than half their present size. Winnipeg was just emerging from the fur-post era with forty thousand population, plank sidewalks, and for the most part wooden buildings. Vancouver was an isolated seaport town—a city only by statute and in the promise of things to come. Victoria was mainly a residential big town. Edmonton had 2,000 population and no railway. Calgary was still a big cow-town with a few sandstone blocks. Regina was a huddle of wooden buildings in a sea of treeless land. Saskatoon was a temperance village, with a train three times a week. Prince Albert was just getting over its failure to corral the Klondike outfitting trade. Medicine Hat knew nothing of the gas in its basement. Fort William and Port Arthur were a pair of stopping places half asleep on the edge of Lake Superior. The "Soo" was just beginning to be an iron centre—with Clergue as the dominant factor. Brantford was a small market city, and Ottawa had not yet discovered Chaudiere horse-power.

CANADIANS WHO HELPED MRS. EDDY

It will be of interest to Canadians to know that two of the chief lieutenants of the late Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy and men who helped to make her great success, are Canadians.

Mr. Archibald McLellan, chairman of the board, had the confidence of Mrs. Eddy, who, despite her deeper interest in spiritual matters, had a knowledge of the world which made her an excellence judge of men. He is also the editor of the Christian Science publications issued in Boston. Mr. McLellan was born in New Brunswick in 1857 and when a boy went to Boston. He was admitted to the Bar in Chicago. Mr. McLellan became actively identified with the Christian Science movement in 1895 and since 1907 he and Gen. H. M. Baker have been trustees of the property of Mrs. Eddy.

Mr. Adam H. Dickey, private secretary to Mrs. Eddy and a director, spent most of his life in Kansas City, Mo. He was born in Toronto, Ont., on June 26, 1864, and received his education in the model schools of that city. In 1881 he went to Kansas City. He was converted to Christian Science in 1897, retired from the manufacturing company and in 1899 became a Christian Science healer. At that time the Scientists had no church in Kansas City and Mr. Dickey was influential in building up the first church of that faith. Mrs. Eddy summoned him to Boston three years ago and offered him the place of private secretary, which he accepted. Her last official act was to recommend his appointment to the board.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS FOR BRANDON

Samuel Hooper, provincial architect for Manitoba, is preparing plans for new Government buildings, to cost over $3,000,000, according to estimates. The proposed buildings include new legislative buildings, a new agricultural college and a new asylum at Brandon, to replace that destroyed by fire about six weeks ago.

Welland's Remarkable Growth.

Statistics which have just been compiled, show that Welland has had a greater growth during 1910 than during any previous year in her history. When the new factories which have located in the town are completed in 1911, it is expected that the population will practically double again, as it has done each year during the past three years.

"Few large fortunes can now be made in any part of the world except from one cause--the rise in value of real estate."

THE PRESENT CLARESHOLM

WHILE the opportunities in the "Last and Greatest West" are varied and unlimited, and untold numbers of the best investments are overlooked in the mad rush for the goal, the primary principle of successful Real Estate investment is foresight.

CLARESHOLM is eighty-one miles south of the City of Calgary and ninety miles north-west of the City of Lethbridge; on the Canadian Pacific Railway, their receipts at this point run from $30,000 to $50,000 per month. The Company is building this year, 1911, a new Railway Station and Offices to cost at least $25,000.

CLARESHOLM, in Sunny Southern Alberta, is surrounded by the best Wheat Land, (the best in the Province), and in the year 1908 more grain was shipped from this station than from any other point west of Winnipeg, viz., 1,500,000 bushels, while in 1909 the yield was increased to 2,600,000 bushels.

The unique position of CLARESHOLM, both geographically and topographically, assures its continued prosperity, and it will always hold the proud distinction of being "The Leading Grain Town of the West."

CLARESHOLM is the best Town in Southern Alberta, and at present prices, Real Estate will bring large profits to the fortunate investors. Factory and warehouse property will be in great demand. Property on the main street is NOW selling on the CLARESHOLM market at from $150 to $200 per frontage foot.

With the advent of the announcement of two mammoth elevators, (making six in all, with a capacity of 600,000 bushels), to be erected this year in addition to the proposed entrance of TWO NEW RAILROADS to assist in transporting the enormous yield of ALBERTA RED, in the famous CLARESHOLM DISTRICT, the possibilities of CLARESHOLM present themselves as the OPPORTUNITY OF THE YEAR.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is unable to handle the grain with satisfaction to the Elevator Officials and farmers and their complaints have been heard with favor by the officials of the new railroads, viz., Canadian Northern Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Besides the mammoth yields of grain, the coal industry of the district, which heretofore has practically been left undeveloped, will be in operation, supplying fuel for its railways and local industries. To the west of the town, 10 miles distant ranching has been successfully carried on by old, experienced companies for 20 years. The city of Calgary will have a population of from 75,000 to 100,000; Lethbridge will have at least 35,000, and CLARESHOLM'S growth during this period with the many advantageous steps of development will be 10,000 or 15,000 to say the least. Property values, business and industrial franchises will be at a premium. AN ALPINE CLUB SONG.

Mr. L. S. Amery has well expressed the spirit of the Canadian Alpine Club in the following verses, appearing in its journal. They are an adaptation of the well-known Harrow football song, "Forty Years On," written by E. E. Bowen, and set to music by John Farmer:

Forty years on, when afar and asunder
Parted are those who are singing to-day,
When you look back, and forgetfully wonder
What you were like in your work and your play;
Then, it may be, there will often come o'er you
Glimpses of days when your pulses beat strong;
Dreams of the mountains shall float then before you,
Echoes of notes from our camp-fire song.

Chorus:
Follow up! Follow up! Follow up!
Hear it ringing again and again;
'Tis the call of the heights to the plain,
Follow up! Follow up!

Oh! the great days in the distance enchanted,
Days of fresh air in the snow and the sun;
How we rejoiced as we toiled and we painted—
Hardly believable forty years on.
Then, you will say, not a feverish minute
Strained the weak heart or the wavering knee
Was the day hard? We were bound to be in it,
And neither the last nor the faintest were we.
Follow up! etc.

Forty years on, growing older and older,
Shorter in wind as in memory long,
Feeble of foot and rheumatic of shoulder,
What will it help you that once you were strong?
God, give us summits to stir our endeavor,
Peaks to be conquered in earnest or fun;
Grant we mount eagerly, fearlessly ever,
Twenty, and thirty, and forty years on.
Follow up! etc.

Now the great peaks watching silently o'er us,
Sentinel guards of our camp and our land,
Bid you remember the morrow before us,
Bid us take thought for the task we've in hand;
So from the camp-fire we must be going;
Wishing each comrade a pleasant good-night;
Soon on the summits the dawn will be glowing;
We must be there to salute her aright.
Follow up! etc.

AYRSHIRE CLUB MEETING CALLED

To Take Place at Campbellford —All Breeders Invited

There will be a meeting of the Mente District Ayrshire Breeders' Club at 10 a.m., Tuesday, February 28th, in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Campbellford. The Ayrshire breeders of Peterborough, Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland and Durham are represented by this club. All breeders of pure-bred Ayrshires are cordially invited to be present on this occasion.

The speakers secured for this occasion are—H. S. Arkell, of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa; W. F. Stephen, of Huntington, Quebec, and H. B. Cowan, of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough. These men need no recommendation. Addresses relating to dairying and to Ayrshires will be given. Make it a point to be present.

READY FOR A JOKE.

The Customs Official Had a Sense of Humor Himself.

In the smoking room of the Hotel des Iles Britanniques at the lovely resort of Mentone, on the French Riviera, some three years ago two Englishmen met. After half an hour's conversation the Englishman from Manchester said to his new acquaintance from London:

"I say, old fellow, would you mind taking a small parcel for me to Paris and have it sent to this address there? I'm leaving for Milan in the morning."

The Londoner willingly consented to do this much for one of his countrymen.

"Awfully good of you. I'll have the boy take the parcel to your room in the morning," acknowledged the Englishman bound for Milan.

In the morning the package was left at the other's room.

"So that is what he calls a small parcel," he exclaimed. "And what might it contain? A package of such size the custom officers would certainly want opened. What—cigarettes and 3,000 of them! Is it possible that any one could have the audacity to ask such a favor—to smuggle 3,000 cigarettes into France! That chap shall pay for this, for I shall declare these cigarettes and leave them to be called for when the duty is paid."

The Londoner left Mentone that afternoon. The following day he was in Paris at the Gare de l'Est, his luggage ready for examination.

"Anything dutiable?" asked the customs officer.

"Nothing," replied the Englishman, "excepting in that parcel there."

"What does it contain?"

"Three thousand cigarettes," said the Londoner, with a smile upon his face—a smile of embarrassment at having such a parcel with him.

The Frenchman raised his hands in the air and laughed heartily. He, too, was as ready for a good joke as any one, and on each piece of the Englishman's luggage went his O. K. cross.

Hardly realizing what had happened, the Londoner found himself riding in a taxicab along the streets of Paris with the parcel of 3,000 cigarettes under his arm and nothing left to do but to deliver it as he had been asked.

BEAT THE BANK.

A French Naval Officer's Daring Expedient at Monte Carlo.

Those who have visited Monte Carlo have heard of if not seen the pitiful ruin of many an unfortunate person who has lost his last franc in playing at roulette in that palatial gambling den. All are not so fortunate as to have an armored cruiser at their disposal, as was the case with a French naval officer some years ago. He had gone ashore in the morning with naught in his pockets but his own earnings. By noon it was all gone.

If he but had another 500 francs he was sure of winning. During those morning hours of failure he had worked out a system, and with just a few francs more success was certain. He would use the ship's money. Perhaps it was not just the right thing to do, but in another two hours he would be able to return it, would have recouped his own loss and have won who knows what fortune besides.

At sunset he returned to his ship a ruined man. The system, like all systems of the sort, had failed. What was to be done? To return home would mean a dishonorable discharge, lifelong disgrace, if not even more severe punishment. Death seemed the only alternative. But no; he would make one final attempt to save himself. He would force the authorities of Monte Carlo to return to him what he had lost or he would blow up their gambling palace!

As soon as he was again on board his order was: "Clear decks for action. Raise the muzzle of every gun and let them point toward the heights of Monaco."

Whatever the sailors might think of such an order mattered little; obey they must. With all haste a messenger was sent ashore with a note, and the captain meanwhile paced the deck in silence awaiting the reply—a reply which meant life or death to him.

Finally the messenger returned carrying a bag of gold coins. That night the French cruiser weighed anchor and quietly steamed out into the Mediterranean, her captain happy that he had fared no worse and the authorities of Monte Carlo only too glad to be rid of so dangerous a visitor.—Washington Star.

Virtuous Indignation.

"The reporter who came to see about the fancy ball was a horrid creature."

"Why?"

"He asked for my picture to publish with the account, and I told him indignantly I did not care for such notoriety. Then I had to go out of the room a minute and forget my picture, which was lying on the table near where he was standing, and"—

VERBAL PITFALLS.

Traps That Await English Speaking Tourists In Portugal.

THERE ARE NO TOES THERE.

But, Then, One Has Twenty Fingers to Make Up the Loss, Fingers of the Hand and Fingers of the Foot—Oddities of the Verb "to Walk."

The Englishman or American in Portugal who thinks in his own language and tries to speak in the language of the country he is visiting is a great smile producer.

For instance, you never marry anybody in Portugal unless—strange paradox—you happen to be a priest. You marry "with" your beloved Maria, and the priest marries you both. In the same way you never dream about anybody, but always "with" them.

When the landlady at your boarding house is ladling out your soup you call out, "Arrive." You are telling her to arrive at the stopping point—in other words, that you don't want more than she has put out. When you see a child that you want to fondle at the other side of the room you say to her, "Arrive here." And the child promptly "arrives."

In England when we speak of walking we refer to a certain use of the legs. But the Portuguese verb "to walk" has many more significations. In Portugal not only do the people walk, but also the carts and cars walk, the trains walk, a balloon walks, and a boat walks. Stranger still, the hands of a clock walk round the face! A clock, by the way, never goes; it "works."

Unless you are very intimate or very rude you never say to your fair partner at dinner, "Will you have some bread?" etc. You inquire, "Will your excellency have some bread?" or, "Will the lady have some bread?" the "lady" meaning not some other lady, but your fair partner herself.

In spite of winter you are never cold in Portugal unless you are a corpse. You are "with" cold. In the same way you are occasionally "with" heat, "with" headache, "with" hunger or "with" thirst. When you have occasion to discuss the weather you say, "It 'makes' cold," "It 'makes' fog," etc. On your way home from an entertainment you tell your companion that it "makes" dark.

If speaking of her husband a wife says he is a "tame" man. She merely means that he is a man of peace and justice.

The word "house" means more than with us. Your buttons share your own privilege of living in a house. The buttonholes are called "houses of the buttons." The squares on a chessboard are also "houses." You don't say, "I'm going to shave." You say, "I'm going to 'do' the beard." Neither do you say on the way to the barber's, "I'm going to get my hair cut," but you say, "I'm going to cut my hair."

When you are in Portugal you have twenty fingers, but no toes. If you want to make a distinction you say "fingers of the hand" or "fingers of the foot." Instead of telling the servant to set the table you tell her to "put" it. When you go to the theater you "assist." You don't mean by that that you "come on" nor even that you do a little scene shifting. You mean that you are there.

Residents in flats who meditate taking a holiday in Portugal will be relieved to hear that no one plays the piano there. They merely "touch" it. Neither do they ring bells. They "touch" them also. But they "play" stones, meaning that they throw them, and a ship at sea "plays" when it pitches and tosses.

Be careful how you tell your landlady that you intend to dine out or she may think, with a shrug of the shoulders, that you intend dining "outside"—i. e., in the garden. In answer to the kind inquiries of your friends don't say that you are well; say that you are "good." Be careful in your use of words. Some words similar in form are widely different in meaning, as an American missionary once discovered to his cost when preaching in Brazil, once a Portuguese colony. His subject was "The Prodigal Son," and he gravely informed his hearers that when the young man returned home his father killed for him the fatted beetle! But he had merely made a mistake in one solitary vowel.

A "sleeping" bridge means a bridge that is immovable (not a drawbridge). Stagnant water also "sleeps." So do trucks or trains that wait anywhere during the night. When they laugh in Portugal they "untie themselves to laugh," and when they cry they "unmake themselves in tears." A persistently unfortunate man says, "I am so unlucky that if I fell on my back I should break my nose!"—London Answers.

Hopeful Names.

Two bright looking colored boys about seven years of age laughingly accosted a lawyer on the street. The man stopped and asked the boys their names.

"Johnsing," was the reply. "We'se twins."

"Well, what are your first names?" insisted the amused questioner.

"Mah name," answered one, "is Soda, and his name," pointing to the other, "is Saleratus. Maw done lose all de others, and she give us names she find successful in raisin'."—Newark Star.

DINING ON SEA URCHIN.

Queer Way In Which the Glutton Starfish Devours Its Prey.

Fights to the death are common between sea urchins and starfish. The starfish when ready for battle raises one of his arms toward the sea urchin. The urchin shoots out all his bristling spines, or needles, and, in addition to his always visible arms, brings out an arm that is never seen unless it is needed for active use. This usually invisible weapon is a sort of nipper, edged with teeth. During one fight between a sea urchin and a starfish the starfish, with a sudden movement, broke off the pincers of the urchin.

The pincers remained imbedded in the flesh of the starfish. Finding his chief weapon gone, the urchin drove all his needles into the back of the starfish, not all together, but one after another, with all the method of calculated action. As the needles entered the back of the starfish the starfish broke them, one by one. The urchin, rendered powerless by the loss of his needles, made a few mechanical movements in self defense and then lay motionless and powerless on the water. After a few minutes' hesitation and a close scrutiny of his subject the starfish approached the urchin and prepared to devour him. But as the urchin was six times larger than his mouth he turned out his stomach in the manner noted by naturalists as a common maneuver of certain animals and, having rejected his stomach lining, inserted the urchin's carcass, spines and all. During the time consumed by him in the struggle of digestion he was closely observed. Having writhed in agony for some days, he began to show a change of appearance. The distention of his middle decreased, and his movements lost their spasmodic character. Later he was seen to move with more activity. One morning, warmed up for action by the power of the sun's heat, he moved his stomach rapidly from side to side and from top to bottom and rejected the spines, fins, bone plates, jaws—everything that had not disappeared during the process of digestion. The elimination accomplished and his appetite satisfied, the starfish replaced his stomach in its normal position and resumed the even tenor of his life.—Harper's Weekly.

The Great Art of Dying.

To die without rebellion and without weakness is the masterpiece of a man. A mountain guide whose name the London Mail does not mention in narrating the story of his heroism, with two others, was leading a party over one of the most dangerous passes of the higher Alps.

The men, as is usual, were tied together by a long rope. As they scaled a wall of ice they slipped on the edge of a frightful chasm. The guide was at the end of the rope.

Without his weight there was a chance for the others to regain their footing; with it his experienced eye told him there was none. With instant courage he drew his knife from his belt and said quietly to the man next him:

"Tell mother how it happened, Edmond."

He cut the rope and fell, never to be seen again.

Absentminded George Dyer.

At Clifford's inn lived George Dyer, who lives in history chiefly as the man who walked out of Elia's house in Colebrooke row and into the New river, neck deep, and had to be revived by Lamb and his sister with hot brandy. Lamb was never tired of relating the incident. Dyer, an inoffensive, absentminded old scholar, had Leigh Hunt's friendship as well as Lamb's, and the other essayist has told how, calling on Dyer in answer to an invitation to breakfast, it was to find no butter, no knives and no spout on the teapot. Dyer was so wedded to life in the inn that he wedded his laundress too.—London Spectator.

The Largest Islands.

Australia has long been classed as the least of the continents and not as an inland. The largest islands are graded downward in the order of their size, as follows: Greenland, 850,000 square miles; New Guinea, 312,000; Borneo, 280,000; Madagascar, 230,000. In the absence of exact surveys these areas are rough estimates and must be considered only as approximations, but it is not likely that careful measurements will introduce corrections so large as to change the order of the four. Australia is but slightly smaller than the continental United States excluding Alaska.—Exchange.

WILL MR. STRATTON BOLT FROM HIS PARTY WHEN THE RECIPROCITY VOTE IS RECORDED

WILL ANNOUNCE HIS POSITION SOON

Peterborough People Totally Opposed to the Agreement—Manufacturers and Merchants Very Outspoken.

The Toronto News says:—Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P. for West Peterborough, is on the horns of a dilemma over the proposed reciprocity agreement.

His constituency embraces the whole of the city of that name, with the exception of that portion formerly known as Ashburnham.

In this latter section there are no industries—it is purely residential locality—but in the balance of the municipality manufactories abound.

Fully fifteen thousand people are dependent upon these for their means of livelihood, and it looks as though Mr. Stratton, if he wishes to again represent his present constituency in the House of Commons, would have to bolt, along with a lot of other Liberals who are contemplating that move, when the vote is taken on the reciprocity pact.

That Mr. Stratton is none too assured of his position was indicated when he was approached this morning by a News representative for an expression of opinion on the question now before the House.

Mr. Stratton was told that manufacturers and wholesalers in Peterborough were very outspoken on the subject, but he did not appear anxious to follow their example.

Mr. Stratton was seen just as he was about to attend a meeting of the board of the Traders' Bank, of which he is vice-president, and, as he removed his muffler he remarked:

"I have been so busy the past couple of weeks over court matters that I have been unable to give any thought to the questions of the day. I am going to Ottawa next week, however, and before the vote is taken I shall have something to say regarding reciprocity."

"Will you say whether you are likely to be in favor of, or opposed to, the agreement?" asked the reporter.

"You are interviewing me now for publication, I presume," suggested Mr. Stratton."

"Certainly."

"Well," pursued the former Provincial Secretary, "you merely say that I shall announce my position in good time. Meanwhile three weeks are likely to elapse before the vote is taken. There is lots of time for me to talk."

LEND MONEY TO SETTLERS

The Argument for Proper Way of Colonizing New Ontario.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Cabinet Ministers and the Opposition leader paid the Labor party the compliment of sitting attentive listeners yesterday afternoon to a lengthy address by the representative of labor. The back benchers were conspicuous by their absence, however.

W. H. Hoyle, chairman of the committee on standing orders, said that he was glad to be able to report to the House that, for the first time in its history, the committee would be able to complete its work with but the one extension of time, which expired yesterday.

Sir James Whitney stated that Hon. Col. Hendrie, chairman of the select committee, on the bill respecting the protection of scaffolding, had found a difficulty in securing a quorum. He therefore moved the addition of Messrs. Kohler, Fisher and Bradburn to the committee, five members to form a quorum. The motion was agreed to.

Hon. Col. Matheson moved the House into committee on the bill authorizing the expenditure of $5 0 000 for the re-purchase of timber limits in Algonquin Park.

Hon. Col. Matheson said the holdings to be immediately paid for covered 350 square miles. The annual income from matured timber would be $12,000 to $13,000 in perpetuity.

Sir James Whitney said that the Lieutenant-Governor had assented to an order-in-council for the limits to be immediately seceded.

Hon. A. S. MacKay asked for certain detailed information which is in the possession of the Minister of Mines, who was out of the city. The bill was accordingly left over.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, S. Clarke and D. Reed criticized the outlay of $5,000 for experimental fruit tree spraying as too limited to be effective. Mr. Clark said the amount should be $100,000.

Hon. J. S. Duff contended that, for educational purposes, $5,000 was sufficient, and the estimates were passed.

When the colonization estimates were reached, A. Studholme announced that he would probably take until midnight to express his views. He, however, confined himself to one hour and twenty-five minutes. The criticism was an earnest repetition of his budget debate argument that the true way to colonize New Ontario was to follow the example of New Zealand in advancing money to land-seekers whether Canadians or immigrants, to enable them to take up new territory.

He denounced the bonus of $5 a head on servant girls and farm laborers who were brought here with a lien on their wages, as a vicious and unnecessary method of lowering the scale of wages for demestic servants and agricultural help.

TWO FATALITIES IN TRAIN WRECK

Passenger Train Derailed and Cars Went Down Embankment.

Halifax, Feb. 25.—The Halifax and Southwestern train from Iddleton for Lunenburg was wrecked near New Germany last evening. Two men were killed and five persons were more or less badly injured. The cars took fire and the passengers were rescued through the roof, which had to be cut. It was impossible to get out by the door. The accident, it is thought, was caused by spreading rails. The engine and two or three box cars went along all right, but the baggage car and passenger car at the rear jumped and fell over a ten-foot embankment, lying on their side.

In a few minutes after the cars fell over, the baggage car took fire, and the flames afterwards spread to the passenger coach, which held 12 persons. Within the baggage cars were four men. Standing on the outside was Orien Sargent, the baggagemaster. He was thrown to the ground and the car fell on him, causing instant death.

People ran to the baggage car and opened the door. They pulled out three men, and, thinking that was all, they diverted their attention to the passengers. One had been left, however, and he perished in the fire that burned the baggage car, if he had not been killed in its fall. His name was Lock McLaughlin.

Axes were used and the skylights of the passenger coach were cut away and the passengers pulled out. They were seriously bruised, but none fatally injured.

BEAUTIFUL CHIMES

A college professor was walking across the campus with the dean of one of the colleges when the chimes in the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chimes is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days ——."

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable Dean.

"I say the chimes are very, very beautiful. They make me think——."

"What?" yelled the dignified old Dean again.

"The chimes—the chimes—how beautiful they ——."

"Speak louder!" cried the Dean once more. "I can't hear you for those infernal bells."

PETERBOROUGH WILL GET A HEAVY BLOW IF PACT PASSES

Booksellers Say Workingmen Are Feeling Worried Over Situation—May Mean Lessened Prosperity to Many Employees

The Toronto News says: The trade of retail booksellers has been unsettled as a result of the proposed reciprocity agreement.

Only yesterday a Peterborough bookseller refused to place an order with a wholesaler in this city on the ground that several of the big factories had virtually notified their thousands of hands that if reciprocity went through they might expect to be laid off or to be placed on short time.

"Peterborough bookseller," said the president of the largest publishing house in Canada, "came in to our warehouse to buy some text books. We tried to interest him in fiction, but that was impossible. He told us that they couldn't sell anything down there. All the people on salary were holding back until they saw which way the thing was going. Manufacturers and wholesalers," he said, "had notified their employes that they should be prepared for anything; for a cut in wages or to being laid off altogether.

EVERYBODY MARKING TIME.

"And that has been our experience generally," added the Toronto publisher. "There is a general disposition the part of the buying public to hold off until the reciprocity question is settled. Undoubtedly business in our line has been greatly disorganized. And for that reason I fail to see. Ninety per cent. of our books are imported and we are not only willing, but glad to pay the duties. Like others, we are disposed, though at some expense to ourselves, to aid in building up a nation in this Dominion.

MICHIGAN FARMER WANTS US

Lansing, Mich., February 24.—Representative Fiske, of the second district of Jackson county, who is a farmer, introduced this annexation-of-Canada resolution yesterday:

"Whereas, there has recently been introduced in the Congress of the United States by Representative Bennet, the following resolution:

"That the President be requested to commence and continue negotiations with the British Government to secure the annexation of the Dominion of Canada to the United States.

"And whereas, there seems to be in this State at this time considerable sentiment in favor of a closer relationship with Canada, therefore be it

"Resolved, by the House, the Senate concurring, that it is the sense of this Legislature that annexation is the true and only equitable solution of the problem, and that we therefore favor the passage of the so-called Bennet resolution; and be it further

"Resolved, that upon passage of this resolution copies be sent to Michigan senators and representatives in Congress."

The motion, according to the rules, goes over for one day.

RECIPROCITY BILL GIVEN BACK SEAT BY CONGRESS

Small Chance for Measure in Present Session.

Must Take its Turn on the Calendar.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Opponents of the Canadian reciprocity agreement attempted to put a quietus on legislation on the subject when the McCall bill to carry out the provisions of the agreement late yesterday was reported "without recommendation" from the Senate committee on finance. So far as the present session of Congress is concerned they took a long step toward accomplishing their purpose.

As only a few days remain to put the bill through a hostile body, the speeches against it were accepted generally as its death knell, until a resurrection should come in an extra session.

Senator Bailey, the Democratic leader, expressed the opinion that the best interests of the agriculturists would be served by the defeat of the bill. The Texas Senator said that while the agreement admitted wheat and cattle free, it retained the duty on flour and beef meat.

"Civilized people eat flour and not wheat, beef and not cattle," he said. True it was, he continued, that the agreement provided for free wood pulp, but this change in the tariff laws would mean the loss of almost $500,000 of revenue to the Treasury annually. He had been informed, he said, that this change would be worth $5,000,000 to the newspaper and magazine publishers, but for himself he could not consent to a measure which gave such a preference to the rich as against the poor and needy.

Senator Hale concurred in all that Mr. Bailey had said and added that while the bill had been reported without recommendation, the committee had done so in the face of the fact that an unquestioned majority could otherwise have been had for an adverse report. Coming to the consideration of the bill on its merits Mr. Hale said:

"It is my understanding that the bill will take its course in accordance with the feeling and desire of the Senate, whatever that may be. If the Senate does not choose to take it up, that course will be within its clear right, and any effort on the part of anyone, of whatever authority, to drive the Senate now or at anytime, would be an assumption of power which would be unwarranted."

Senator Stone of Missouri, minority member of the committee, announced his intention of supporting the measure on the ground that it would be in the line of wise and progressive statesmanship.

The bill went on the calendar, where it is subject to consideration whenever the Senate may decide to take it up.

BUREAU FOR UNEMPLOYED

Will Supply Men or Women For all Parts of Province

Montreal, Feb. 24.—In two weeks' time the Provincial Government will open a public employment bureau on Craig street. Men and women of all grades will be supplied to fill positions in all parts of the province. Provincial Factory Inspector Guyon will be in charge of the work.

"Every man," he said, "will be asked by our expert as to his capabilities in the line of work he desires. This will protect the manufacturer and allow us to stand behind a man. We limit our works, however, just at present to the British subject and Canadian born.

"Our rooms will be fitted up finely with separate rooms for stenographers and domestics and so forth. A manufacturer may come down to our offices and hire his men on the spot, using our desks and telephone.

"Another of the branches of the work of care in protecting workmen who go to some private agencies and get fleeced out of their money. Every private agency will have to get a permit from our department."

NO SUBWAY TO BE LOCATED AT THE PARK ST. CROSSING

Railway Commission Decided in Favor of Deputation.

As announced in yesterdays' issue of the Review, the local deputation which waited on the Board of Railway Commissioners, at Toronto, was successful in its protest against the subway of the C. P. R. being located at Park Street, this necessitating the closing of a number of streets in the vicinity and which cross the track of the company.

The deputation was composed of Mayor Morrow, E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford and R. C. Braund.

The representatives of the railway concurred with the plea of the deputation, that the closing of the streets would be a big hardship to citizens residing in that section of the city, in stating to the Board that they desired to build the subway, so that the crossing would be eliminated.

The Board held that the proposition of the railway company was not feasible, in deciding in favor of the deputation.

No action was taken by the Board in regard to the Aylmer Street crossing, at which the city ask that the railway have gates installed.

An Academic Exodus.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—Thirty-one professors and sixty-eight assistant professors have resigned their posts at the University of Moscow since the trouble with the students began. The business men of Moscow have made public a letter attacking the Government's attitude toward the universities.

50 KILLED

Valparaiso, Chili, Feb. 24.—Fifty persons were killed or wounded to-day when a railway train was derailed on a bridge over the American Braden copper mines and plunged into a valley below.

STOP THE SCHEME NOW

Says Col. Sam Hughes of the Long Sault.

Bill for Better Pay to Mail Clerks Announced.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—An interlude in the reciprocity debate occurred yesterday when the House went into committee of supply. A number of items were brought up, the chief of which was a desultory discussion on the Long Sault dam project.

Col. Sam Hughes introduced the question, stating that although the bill had been rejected in Washington by the House of Representatives, it now appeared in an amended form in the Senate. As Congress ceased on March 4 he thought the Government should take active steps to prevent the passage of the bill, as it was an invasion of rights under the Ashburton treaty. He also stated that the rights under that treaty had been superceded by the international waterways treaty.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) continued the discussion. He complained that while Canada had always observed her treaty obligations, the United States had always found an opportunity to evade them. Canadian vessels could not use the state canals, such as the Erie, while armed vessels were stationed on the great lakes, nominally maintained by the States as training ships.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the Government had made proper representations to Ambassador Bryce, and the correspondence would be presented on Monday.

"Now is the time for this House to take action," said Col. Hughes.

Dr. Reid rubbed it in a little by saying that prominent friends of the Government were behind the enterprise, while Col. Hughes remarked that the Minister of Railways had blushed when the charge was made that it had friends among the seats of the mighty.

E. N. LEWIS,
Who Has Introduced His Tenth Measure This Session.

Mr. Graham thought that Canadian vessels could use the canals of New York State.

E. N. Lewis (N. Huron) introduced his tenth bill for the session, this time to provide a penalty for "baggage smashing." He proposes to inflict a fine on summary conviction of fifty dollars in excess of the damage done by baggagemen in handling trunks, etc., or in default, one month in jail.

Hon. George P. Graham said that the railways were liable up to the amount of baggage carried, but he had no objection to the bill having a first reading.

Replying to a question by Mr. Borden, the Minister of Railways said that the contract for the Quebec bridge had not yet been signed. He confirmed the retirement of Mr. Vautelet, chairman of the Quebec Bridge Commission, on account of ill-health.

During the discussion of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's postoffice estimates in the House of Commons last night the Minister informed J. E. Armstrong that he was preparing a bill which would give Canadian railway mail clerks, stampers and sorters an increase in pay.

Mr. Armstrong pressed the Minister for details, but Mr. Lemieux said that, while he and his Deputy Minister had made up their minds as to the amount of increase, the matter had not yet been dealt with by council. The increase, he assured the House, would be a substantial one.

Mr. Armstrong asked if the Minister proposed to place the mail clerks under the civil service act.

E. M. MacDonald expressed the hope that the Minister had no such intention.

Mr. Lemieux said that a year or two ago he was under the impression that this could be done, but the more he studied the act the less inclined he was to think it advisable. The act was too exact. Under its provisions

AGONY ON OPERATING TABLE

Did Not Remove Stone In Bladder GIN PILLS Passed It.

JOLIETTE, P. Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone In The Bladder. He decided on an operation and was assisted by another doctor. They said the calculus was larger than a bean and too hard to crush and they could not take it out.

I returned home suffering greatly and did not know what to do but was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS. I bought a box and found relief from the pain at once. I took a second and a third box of GIN PILLS, after which I went back to the specialist. He told me the calculus was reduced in size, still he could not relieve me of it although he tried for two and a half hours.

I returned home again and continued to take GIN PILLS as they reduced the pain very much, but I did not expect that they would relieve me of the stone but to my great joy, I passed the stone on October 3rd., and am now a well man and very happy.

I am sending the stone in to you so that you can see for yourself what a great work GIN PILLS did for me. GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did so much for me, I will recommend them all the rest of my life."

J. ALBERT LESSARD.

What glorious news to those who are almost going insane from the pain of Stone In The Bladder! Here is ease and comfort! Here is relief! Here is a certain means of getting rid of the stone without being cut to pieces by the knives of a surgeon. GIN PILLS dissolve Stone or Gravel in Kidneys or Bladder because GIN PILLS are the greatest solvent for uric acid the world has ever known.

If your trouble is like Mr. Lessard's, follow his example and take GIN PILLS. Money refunded if they fail to give relief. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. Sample box free if you write us, mentioning this paper.

UNION LABEL

SACRIFICING THE FARMER

Another phase of the reciprocity question was forcibly projected into the limelight by Mr. Borden on Thursday, in the House of Commons debate.

It is that Argentina, Bolivia, Norway Sweden, Denmark and the other British colonies get the benefit of free entry for all classes of agricultural products admitted free from the United States, without giving the slightest concession in return. The Canadian farmer must stand competition from all of these thirteen countries, many of which specialize in products so expertly that they can undersell the Canadian and make a first-class profit. These countries include Argentina, a great exporter of meat, France, Germany, Norway, Russia, Sweden, Denmark—in fact, the Canadian farmer must now place himself on a free trade footing with the agricultural world.

The Government has secured no concessions in return for this advantage, except from the United States. These countries do not admit Canadian farm products free, and no concessions will be granted by them.

Does the Canadian farmer think his interests have been fully safe-guarded by the men who were making such a hullabaloo about benefiting the farmer of Canada?

THE HOME MARKET

The Toronto News says:—In the course of a private conversation, an American manufacturer has admitted that free trade between the two countries would be "a mighty fine thing" for the United States, but if he were a Canadian manufacturer he would fight against the departure to the limit of his ability. In his opinion free trade would put back the development of Canadian industries a full half century, and any measure of freer trade will have a corresponding effect. This American who did not know that he was talking for Canadian consumption added that if Canadian farmers were wise they would recognize that a well-developed home market was much more valuable than a precarious foreign market, that they could not have such a home market without thriving manufacturing industries, and that they could not have such thriving industries without adequate protection. The fact is that the Dominion cannot grow in the next fifty years as the United States has in the past fifty, except under a somewhat similar fiscal policy, and unless we keep our own raw materials at home to build up Canadian industries and support Canadian workmen.

THE HAREM SKIRT

The "harem" skirt is the natural success of the hobble skirt. It is modeled on the lines of the costume worn by Persian ladies, and one venturesome woman had the audacity to appear in it on the streets of oleLunnon a few days ago. She created quite a stunning appearance; in fact created such a furore that the police had to interfere to stop the mob from blocking the traffic.

As described in the dispatch, the skirt was of blue velvet, with pink pantaloons to the ankles underneath. It is said that the fashionable tailors of Paris and London refuse to be bound by the new fad, but as long as it is new, and noticeable, the "harem" skirt will be sought by those women who prefer notoriety and the public gaze to going about their business quietly and modestly.

This dress craze by the world of fashion is becoming too strenuous for the good of the race. The object now seems to be, not what will look the most becoming, and enhance the natural grace of face and figure, but what will, through grotesque oddness, catch the vulgar gaze of the multitude. The big hat,—the creation that had to go sideways through the street-car doors, and had to be anchored in a wind-storm—was a mild manifestation of this craze for extremes in dress.

The harem skirt would be a delightful curiosity. Imagine a blue velvet skirt, and pink—not white, or blue or black—but "pink" pantaloons peeking out under the shortened "pinnie." Gathered in at the bottom they would remind one of a clown's get up—not meaning any unflattering comparison, of course. "When woman will, she will, and when she won't, she won't," the old saw says, and in the matter of really interesting costummery effects, be it harem or hobble or Salome, mere man can only say, like the costermonger, "Wat's de use of saying any think?"

A GOOD BILL

The Fripp bill in the Ontario Legislature to permit municipalities to tax land more heavily in proportion than buildings, on a vote of the citizens, is one worthy of support and consideration. Where the scheme has been tried in the west, it has proven a marked success in building up cities, and in restraining the blocking of progress by speculators waiting for the unearned increment. The principle of taxation encourages the tearing down of old and dilapidated buildings, and the construction of modern ones in their place. It does not involve any elaborate machinery or costly help. The bill provides that the municipalities may make the proportional difference what it pleases, on a vote of the citizens. No municipality is compelled to alter its present arrangement, except at the will of the people. The bill is a progressive one, and Sir James Whitney should permit its adoption. Dozens of Ontario municipalities would eagerly take the chan[ce] thus afforded.

NATIONALIST COUNTER

That was a rather funny spectacle in the House of Commons when F. D. Monk, member for Jacques-Cartier, introduced his resolution putting the House on record against any annexation sentiment, and in favor of maintaining intact the bonds which unite Canada to the British Empire. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was taken completely by surprise, and though mortified and angry, he had but one course—to adopt Mr. Monk's resolution. It passed without a dissenting voice.

Many of the Liberal members have been in tight quarters since the annexation cry was raised in the United States, and prominent Liberals in Canada have expressed the opinion that the reciprocity pact was but a prelude to commercial union and annexation. They have asked Sir Wilfrid to do something to indicate that in making the move toward closer relations with the United States he abjured all thought of loosening the British tie. Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues have declared themselves in the House to this effect, but the cry from every quarter of Canada against any tendency toward closer relations with the United States went unheeded.

Hence it was that Mr. Monk's resolution caught Sir Wilfrid on the hip, and he was in no good humor at being forced to adopt a resolution by the Nationalist leader. The Government is obviously alarmed at the general alarm expressed at the probable results of the agreement.

RECIPROCITY

Within the past few days:—

Condemned at a mass meeting of Hamilton citizens.

Condemned by the Prime Ministers of Ontario and Manitoba.

Condemned by the Associated Boards of Trade.

Condemned by 18 prominent Liberals of Toronto.

Condemned by the Toronto Board of Trade in the East.

Condemned by the Winnipeg Board of Trade in the West.

Condemned by the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association, who appeal to the Senate.

Condemned by business, political and patriotic organizations throughout the country too numerous to mention.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mrs. Carrie Nation is reported to have lost her mind. This is a sad ending for a woman who possessed a masculine vigor of intellect. We never know what life holds in store for us.

Magistrate Kingsford, of Toronto, says that he would fight in the street, if necessary, to save Canada from the United States. He is a twin of Colonel Denison. Toronto produces some pretty warm imperialists.

The gallery observers broke into cheers when the Manitoba Legislature condemned reciprocity. At Ottawa the gallery cheered the speech against reciprocity by Dr. Sproule—something almost unheard of in Canadian parliamentary history. The feeling of the people must break out some way. It cannot always be hidden.

Oscar Sealey, the Liberal member for Wentworth County, has decided to break away from the government on the reciprocity question. He says his constituents will stand for no other course. He says he will move an amendment to the reciprocity bill. Sealey knows which way the wind blows as far as being re-elected is concerned.

The coroner in an inquest will have jurisdiction over the whole Province now if Hon. J. J. Foy's bill is adopted, which is as it should be. As a rule the people necessary as witnesses in case of a suspicious death, reside in the same county, but that is no reason why the coroner should not have the power to call necessary witnesses from other parts of the Province. It is a move in the right direction.

The Toronto News is right. The opposition in Peterborough to the reciprocity pact is quite strong—strong enough to make it advisable for its parliamentary representative to hesitate a long time before supporting the iniquitous measure. Mr. Stratton says that he will have something to say on the measure in the House before the vote. Will he break away, like so many other of the Liberal members?

The scenes in the House of Commons and public accounts committee where members have been calling each other "liars" have been more than duplicated on the floor of the House of Representatives at Washington. An Alaska member assaulted a Wyoming member, and a free fight almost resulted. These be strenuous days for the politicians. There seem to be many candidates for the shoes of the late lamented Theodore.

The Board of Trade will meet on Monday night to discuss reciprocity. We hope that the members will discuss the question fully, freely, from every angle, and without political bias if possible. We believe that on the merits of the question as a whole, and as affecting Peterborough in particular, the Board of Trade cannot do otherwise than condemn the agreement. Nearly every board in the country has done it. The associated boards of trade have condemned it. The strength of public opinion in Peterborough has not yet been manifested; but it is there. Let the board speak out, as representing this strong public opinion.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill, P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

NERVILINE AN INSTANT RELIEF

LAME BACK

Cured by Booth's Kidney Pills

If you suffer from backache like Mr. W. M. Ferguson, of Indian Head, Sask., don't wait until you are laid off work before you give the matter attention. He says: "I was compelled to quit work six months ago on account of a lame, sore back, which had become so weak that I could scarcely get around. My limbs and feet were very much swollen, and I also had severe headaches occasionally. On learning of Booth's Kidney Pills I procured a box and found them a fine remedy. The pains and aches have left my back, and it has been greatly strengthened. The swelling in my limbs and feet have also disappeared, and I have not had a headache since. I am very much pleased to recommend this remedy."

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

We looked for the weapon everywhere without finding it. The man who had struck the blow had carried the knife away. Where was the man? Who was he? What we did not know Bernier had known before he died, and it was perhaps because of that knowledge that his life had been forfeited. "Frederic Larsan!" We repeated the last words of the dying man in fear and trembling.

Suddenly on the threshold of the postern we saw Prince Galitch, a newspaper in his hand. He was reading as he came toward us. His air was jovial, and his face wore a smile. But Mme. Edith rushed up to him, snatched the paper from his hands, pointed to the corpse and cried out:

"A man has been murdered! Send for the police!"

The prince turned away from the body, stating that he would send for the authorities.

Rouletabille was examining the iron bars and heavy lid which closed the shaft, but his manner was distrait and discouraged. Turning once more to his hostess, he said in the same low voice:

"And what will you tell the police when they get here?"

"Everything!"

Mrs. Rance fairly snapped out the word between her teeth, her eyes flashing fire. He seemed utterly exhausted and vanquished. M. Darzac wanted to search through the square tower, the Tower of the Bold, the new castle, all the dependencies of the fort from which no one could have made his escape and where, therefore, the assassin must still be concealed. The reporter shook his head drearily and said that it would be of no use. Rouletabille and I knew only too well that any search would be in vain. No, no! I had learned that there was no use in looking for Larsan with one's eyes.

To see clearly it was better to close the eyes, as Rouletabille was doing at this moment.

And when he opened them he was another man. A new energy animated his features. He stood erect as though he had thrown off a weight. He clinched his fist and raised it toward the heavens.

He threw himself on the ground, creeping on his hands and knees, his nose to the earth, like a hound following the scent, going round the body of poor Bernier and around Mere Bernier, around the shaft, around each of us. He moved about like a pig nosing its nourishment out of the mire, and we all stood still, looking at him curiously and half in alarm. Suddenly he started to his feet, almost white with dust, and uttered a shout of triumph as though he had found Larsan himself in the gravel. What new victory did he feel that he had achieved over the mystery?

"It's all right, monsieur! Nothing is changed!"

Attracted by the sound of voices, we looked around and saw Pere Jacques approaching, followed by two gendarmes. It was the brigadier of La Mottola, who, summoned by Prince Galitch, had hurried to the scene of the crime.

What did Rouletabille mean by his "Nothing is changed" if not that despite the incidental murder of Bernier everything which we dreaded, which made us shudder and which we had no understanding of, continued just as before?

The gendarmes were busy examining the body and chattering over it in their incomprehensible jargon. The delegato would have power to begin the investigation, which would be continued when the examining magistrate had been notified.

The delegato arrived. It was easily to be seen that he was enchanted, even though he had not had the time to finish his repast. A crime, actually a crime, and in the Chateau of Hercules! He was fairly radiant. His eyes shone. The delegato examined the wound and said in very good English:

"That was a magnificent stroke!"

"And now how did all this happen?" he asked encouragingly, smacking his lips as though in the anticipation of hearing a story of thrilling interest. "It is terrible," he added—"terrible! In the five years that I have been delegato we have never had a murder. Monsieur, the examining magistrate"—here he checked himself, but we knew well what he had been on the point of saying—"monsieur, the examining magistrate will be very much pleased." He wiped the perspiration from his forehead and repeated, "It is terrible!"

At the request of the delegato we all entered the square tower. We took our places in Old Bob's sitting room, where the inquest was to be held and where each of us in turn recounted what he had seen and heard. Mere Bernier was first questioned, but little or nothing could be gained from her testimony. She declared that she knew nothing about anything.

An exclamation from the delegato struck upon our ears. The farther the evidence of the witnesses progressed the greater became the amazement of the commissioner and the more and more inexplicable he found the crime. He was on the point of finding it impossible that it should have been committed at all when it came Mme. Edith's turn to be interrogated.

Her lips opened to answer the first question when Rouletabille's voice was heard:

"Look at the end of the shadow of the eucalyptus."

"What is it?" asked the delegato.

"The weapon with which the crime was committed."

Rouletabille jumped into the court and picked up from the bloody stones a sharp, shining piece of flint. It was "the oldest dagger of the human race."

CHAPTER XVII.

The Return of Arthur Rance.

THE weapon belonged to Prince Galitch, but there was no doubt in the mind of any one of us that it had been stolen by Old Bob, and we could not forget that with his latest breath Bernier had accused Larsan of being his assassin. Never had the image of Old Bob and that of Larsan been so inextricably confounded in our restless spirits as since Rouletabille had found "the oldest dagger known to the human race" dripping with the blood of Bernier. Mme. Edith had at once realized that henceforth the fate of Old Bob lay in the hands of Rouletabille. And therefore Mme. Edith, who in her filial affection had not ceased to believe that the man who lay on his bed in the square tower was really her uncle, had begun to imagine, thanks to the bloody weapon, that the invisible Larsan had woven so strong a web of circumstantial evidence around Old Bob that it could scarcely be broken with the design doubtless of making the old man suffer the punishment for the wretch's own crimes and also the dangerous weight of his personality. Mme. Edith trembled for Old Bob and for herself.

And the incriminating fact remained that there had been nothing anywhere around the corpse of Bernier but the stone knife which Old Bob had stolen!

She read the certainty of this conviction in the eyes and in the manner of Rouletabille and of Darzac. But she understood as soon as the young man began speaking that he seemed to have no other end in view than to save Old Bob from the suspicions of the authorities.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to bring relief to the baby when his stomach or bowels are out of order; when teething is painful; when worms make their appearance or when any of the many childhood ailments seize him. What is more, they are absolutely safe and cannot harm the youngest child. Mothers have the guarantee of a government analyst to this effect. Thousands of mothers, through gratefulness for what the Tablets have done for their children, strongly recommend them. Mrs. E. J. Ward, Galt, Ont., says: "I have used Babys Own Tablets for over two years and would not be without them in the house. They are wonderful medicine for little ones.' Babys Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STORY OF DAMON AND PYTHIAS

A Strong Interpretation by Frederick Wilson at Conservatory Hall

It was a matter of regret that so few people took the opportunity of hearing Frederick H. Wilson, the celebrated tragedian, in his famous monologue entitled 'Damon and Pythias," at the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Wilson's dramatic talents and ability are of the order which enable even the poorest critic to realize that he is listening to the efforts of a master artist in his line. Possessing remarkable vocal powers, cultivated by long study, a distinguished personality and an aptitude for relating humorous anecdotes, Mr. Wilson is an ideal entertainer, and his performance last evening far surpassed expectations.

Six years ago he commenced giving public entertainments performing alone, the famous play Damon and Pythias, and giving impersonations of the several characters in the story. Twenty years ago, Viola Allen and Mr. Watson, with a company, presented the famous drama, and of the same company to-day only the two mentioned performers are living.

The tragic and thrilling story of the play is familiar to all the last scene called, "The Great Sacrifice" upon which the order of the Knights of Pythias is founded, was presented by Mr. Wilson, with a power and intensity which left nothing to be desired.

He also brought out with telling effect, the detestable and degrading character of King Dionysius, the cruel tyrant of Syracuse.

In fact every impersonation, by the distinguished dramatist was excellent and his portrayals were as near to accuracy as it seemed possible for one man to get them.

After his performance, Mr. Wilson, in a short speech, told of some of the advantages which the Pythian order of fraternity extends and of many famous and historic characters who have been identified with the order.

He also possesses to a high degree the ability to convulse in laughter his hearers by relating some of his funny experiences, gathered in many years of travel.

Mr. Halpany's orchestra played a classical program during the evening and special mention is deserving of Frank and Karl Halpany, who will certainly make their mark in the musical world.

Altogether the evening was one of a very elevating nature, and was both entertaining and instructive.

it would not be possible to deal with the special conditions which exist, more particularly in respect of securing extra help at rush seasons. It was possible that the employes in the postoffices of the larger cities might be brought under the operation of the act.

Mr. Lemieux during the discussion of his estimates also made the important announcement that there would be a special issue of stamps to mark the coronation of King George. He did not give any details, but announced that a copy of the design would shortly be received from England, and would be submitted to the House.

On the discussion of the estimates of the Labor Department, Dr. Reid (Grenville) said that in most settlements of strikes by the Government, he found that the company got the best of it. It was that way in the Grand Trunk Railway strike.

Hon. Mr. King thought not. Strikes were difficult things to settle. The G.T.R. strike settlement was a fair one.

W. B. Northrup (E. Hastings) claimed that the Grand Trunk had not lived up to its strike settlement pledge, and said the Government should take action to enforce the settlement. The men were not all back in 90 days, as stated they would be.

Mr. King pointed out that the 90 days' clause was not in the written agreement of the strike settlement. But it was through the influence of the Government that Judge Barron was appointed, and his work had resulted in many adjustments being made that otherwise might have caused misunderstanding.

Three more judges, two speaking French will be appointed to the Circuit Court in Quebec.

THE STRENGTH OF A CHAIN

Is that of its Weakest Link. Father Morriscy's No. 10 Forges it Anew.

The chain of the physical system is only as strong as its weakest link. When that link breaks, the chain breaks, and serious illness followed by death often results. The weak link with many people is the throat and lungs. In fact, statistics show that over twenty-five per cent of all deaths can be directly traced to diseases of these most important respiratory organs. Weakness here is very dangerous.

During his long and successful practice, Father Morriscy, the learned priest-physician, was often called upon to treat bronchial and pulmonary affections. He soon found that it was not enough to make temporary repairs on the "link," but that it had to be forged anew, in order permanently to strengthen the chain.

After much study, he succeeded in devising a prescription that would secure this result, by not only giving prompt relief but also by rebuilding and strengthening the delicate cells and membranes of the throat and lungs.

This prescription, Father Morriscy's Lung Tonic, or No. 10, has cured thousands. It is absolutely free from any dangerous drug, being compounded from Nature's own roots, herbs and balsams.

No. 10 stops the cough, relieves the soreness and strengthens and fortifies the system against future attacks. Even in the early stages of consumption it has proved helpful, but the wise plan is to take it in time, and avoid serious disease.

In our climate it is well to have a reliable and tested remedy like No. 10 always on hand. Take it at the first appearance of a cold, and keep the chain of life strong and capable of resistance.

Wilson and Morden Arraigned.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Matthew Wilson, K.C., and C. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning, charged with conspiring with W. R. Travers to procure him to give the company a fraudulent preference over the other creditors of the Farmers' Bank in the matter of an alleged consolidation of $175,000 loan and a $120,000 unsecured deposit. Both pleaded not guilty, and the case was adjourned till March 3, when a day will be set for the trial, the matter will be ready for the grand jury of the sessions, which meets in a week.

An action has been begun by the shareholders of the Keeley Mines, Limited, by permission of Referee McAndrew, against the Farmers Bank for an accounting of the matters between them.

Heroine Gets Medal.

Washington, Feb. 25.—President Taft has awarded to Miss Nettie Caskey of Fairmount, Ind., a life-saving medal on recommendation of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The President sent a personal letter of commendation for Miss Caskey's bravery.

On March 19, 1910, Miss Caskey discovered her neice, Martelle Caskey, three and a half years old, on the railroad track in front of a rapidly-approaching train. The young girl of 16 ran along the track ahead of the train and when all hope seemed lost, grabbed the little one and threw herself and the child down an embankment.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

PUMPAGE AT WATER WORKS FOR YEAR 695,164,840 GALLONS

An Increase of 311,228,980 Gallons From 1904—M.H.O Reports Water in Satisfactory Condition—Water Commissioners' Meeting

The analysis of nine samples of the drinking water of the city for January, made by the medical health officer, shows it to be in very satisfactory condition, every test being favorable, with not the slightest traces of impurity. Tests for February were also made with similar favorable results.

The above report was given at a meeting of the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon. Mr. T. F. Matthews, the chairman, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and received.

A bill of damages amounting to $27 caused by the breakage of the water main at 159 Hunter street, a couple of weeks ago, was presented. It was recommended to be paid.

Letters of complaint were read from the Lundy Shovel and Tool Company, and from the Cordage Company, calling attention to the excessive rate which they are charged for water.

It was shown by Mr. Henderson that there is a constant stream of water flowing through pipes which accounts for the heavy registration of water. The matter, however, was referred to Mr. Henderson for further investigation.

Mr. Matthews remarked that the commission did not want to collect anything that was not due them, but added that if the water was used it must be paid for.

In connection with the Cordage complaint the city clerk was instructed to reply to the company explaining the charge.

The City Council grant of water for the parks, etc., expires in March.

It was moved and carried that the council be asked to authorize the renewal of the grant for another five years.

There was some discussion over the correctness of some of the accounts presented by the Wm. Hamilton Company to Mr. Henderson. Some of them were certified to and these were ordered to be paid, the sum of which amounted to $474.14.

Mr. Henderson was instructed to see that water meters were installed in all the livery barns, and also one in the Normal School.

Regarding the securing of cast iron pipe for the city this year, the waterworks department was instructed to secure from the Canada Foundry Company estimates of the cost, and report at the next meeting.

D. H. Moore also directed the attention of the commissioners to the lot of land on the east side of the river, just below the dam. It is not necessary there, and will have to be blasted into the river. There is also a lot of waste timber lying around in the locality, which is an eyesore, and should be removed.

A couple of other complaints were received and ordered to be investigated.

W. Henderson submitted his report as follows—

To the Chairman and Board of Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough.

Gentlemen,—I herewith submit a statement, showing extensions to mains and services during the year 1910—

On Union street, from Dublin to Edinburgh, there were laid 447 feet 6 inches of four-inch pipe, with one four-inch valve.

OBITUARY

Death of John Scollard

An old resident of Ennismore passed away this morning, in the person of John Scollard, aged 80 years.

Surviving besides his widow are three sons and three daughters. The sons are Right Rev. Bishop Scollard, of North Bay, and Messrs. Wm. J., at the homestead, and P. J. Scollard, postmaster and general merchant at Ennismore Cross. The daughters are Mrs. (Dr.) Moloney and Miss Lizzie Scollard, of Cornwall, and Miss Katie, of the Good Shepherd Convent, Toronto.

The funeral will take place Monday morning at nine o'clock from the late residence, lot 9, concession 5, of Ennismore, to St. Martin's church, and thence to St. Martin's cemetery.

The Death of Benjamin McDonald

The death occurred this morning at five o'clock of Benjamin McDonald, of Lot 22, concession 4, Smith township.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. McKee Dead

Mrs. Andrew McKee, mother of Geo. Kee, caretaker of the Collegiate, died on Thursday evening, at her home in Lakefield, aged 88 years. Mrs. McKee is survived by five sons and five daughters, and death was due to advanced age. Alex. McKee, of Dundalk, a son, arrived last night to attend the funeral, which took place this afternoon at 2.30.

A Simple Sucker

The following has been contributed for publication, the writer not appending his name for fear of embarrassing the Laurier Government.

Sir—Last night "The Examiner" says: "The annexation cry is only a red herring drawn across the real line of scent." Then reciprocity is only a simple sucker.

Yours truly,

CAT FISH.

ASPHODEL HOME LOST BY FIRE

Jas. Sexsmith Faces a Heavy Loss—Men Were at Work in the Woods

The home of Jas. Sexsmith, of Asphodel township, was destroyed by fire which started from a defective chimney on Wednesday of this week. The men were in the woods working at the time and the structure was burned to the ground, only a few bedclothes being saved. The house belonged to F. Birdsall and some insurance was carried. There was no insurance on the contents and the loss to Mr. Sexsmith will be heavy. Much sympathy is expressed for him throughout the community.

Laid Over

The matter re legislation respecting the assessment for the Protestant Home and House of Refuge, was laid over by the department, at Toronto.

Sleighing Party

A sleighing party of about fourteen people went from the city last night to the home of Stewart Brown, Douro, where an enjoyable evening was spent.

Annual Meeting on Feb. 13

A meeting of the Farmers' Institute of West Peterborough, was held in the city council chambers this afternoon to set the date of their next annual meeting, and to decide whether a speaker be asked to come and address the meeting or whether the services of the district be asked for the occasion.

It was moved and seconded by Chas. Moore and Mr. Chambers, that the annual meeting be held on the 13th of June, and arrangements be left in the hands of a committee.

It was also decided to hold the annual excursion on the 8th of June.

The grain commission bill was yesterday given its second reading in the Senate.

Engine Test

Chief Howard tested the fire engine this afternoon. He usually makes connection with the creek on Aylmer Street when making a test, but there is so much ice at present he used the hydrant on the west side of the street. As there was only a six inch main the engine could not do as well as it should with more water.

Kindly Lindsay

This morning at the local police court an old man named Patrick Reilly, who has no fixed abode was charged with vagrancy. He has been going from house to house in the town asking for aid to enable him to get to Peterboro, Belleville, and other points. He was given two months in the county jail, by the magistrate. The old man is seventy one years of age—Lindsay Post.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

ENTERTAINED AT ST. PAULS'

Members of Knox Brotherhood Were Guests

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the school room of St. Paul's church last night, when Knox church Brotherhood was the guest of St. Paul's. About one hundred were present. Miss Hill contributed a pleasant instrumental number, and Mr. Johns gave some recitations in his usual capable manner. Mr. Gilchrist gave an interesting account of the life of Robinson Crusoe, and also explained many parts of the large battleships in the English navy, which was illustrated by lantern slides, and was much appreciated by the boys.

The next part of the program was a very enjoyable supper given by the Ladies' Aid.

After tendering all who had taken part in the program a hearty vote of thanks, the meeting came to a close in the usual way.

ENTERTAINED BY MISSION BAND

Young People of St. Luke's Provide Enjoyable Evening

The Sunday school of St. Luke's church was crowded last evening with interested friends of the children to witness their annual entertainment, the program of which consisted of parts entirely made up by the members of the Mission Band. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, who acted as chairman, opened the entertainment with devotional exercises, after which the following program was given:—

Instrumental Solo—Wilhelmine Gaskins.

Drill—"The Missionary Alphabet."

In this drill each letter represented missionary districts in the world. The girls were dressed in white, carrying a wand bearing a gilded letter and wearing red, white and blue sashes.

Vocal Solo—Gertie Gorry.
Recitation—May Phillips.
Vocal Duet—Carry Scott and Bessie Taylor.
Recitation—Isabel Parker.
Vocal Solo—Bessie Taylor.
Recitation—Myrtle Mesley.
Wand Drill—by eight girls.
Instrumental Solo—Gladys Mesley.
Recitation—Florence Adams.
Recitation—Leith Mesley.
Dialogue, Trials of a Teacher—Six Girls.
Recitation—Francis Legon.
Vocal Duet—Thelma Bailey and Mabel Watson.
Recitation—Sadie Heal.

The superintendent presented a book to Ray Phillips as a prize for being the best regular attendant at the weekly meetings. Dr. Langfeldt heartily thanked Mrs. R. J. Scott for her excellent work during the year as superintendent, the splendid membership she was able to produce and to keep up, and for the great interest she had manifested in inculcating missionary knowledge and activity among the girls of the Band, in all of which she was ably supported by Mrs. John Heap, Miss Lillian Rogers and Miss Quartermaine.

The proceeds were very good and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed. With the singing of the National Anthem the entertainment was brought to a close.

ENTERTAINED THE BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. James Kendrey entertained the adult Bible class of George street Methodist church, consisting of married ladies and their husbands, at her home last night. There were about thirty or forty in the party, and a very pleasant time was spent. Rev. Mr. Couch and Mrs. Couch were present, as were S. R. Armstrong, Sunday school superintendent, and Mrs. Armstrong. The evening was spent in music and games, and Mrs. Kendrey made a very entertaining hostess.

WILL SPEAK ON HABITS OF FISH

An evening full of interest and instruction is assured those who attend the regular meeting of the Charlotte street church Epworth League on Monday evening, Feb. 27th.

Mr. E. Elcome has kindly consented to give a talk on the different varieties and habits of the finny tribes. He has given the subject thorough study and is well qualified to speak on it. Disciples of Isaac Walton, and any who love the sport of fishing could not do better, or learn more, than by attending this lecture. Keep the date in mind, Monday, Feb. 27th. No admission fee.

A musical program will be put on in conjunction with the talk.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

List of Prices

The local market to-day was rather quiet, with no decided change in prices.

The outside offering was very fair potatoes and meat as usual being plentiful. There was also a goodly supply of apples, sold by the peck, and small vegetables.

The price of pork was lower today owing to there being a rather large offering. Lamb and beef were the same as last week.

There were only a couple of loads of hay. Wood was well represented, both hard and soft.

Inside, business was quiet. Several turkeys were offered at extremely low prices. Chickens were pretty high, and none too abundant. Eggs are up. Butter is stationary.

The following were the prices—
Eggs—28 cts.
Butter—25 cts.
Chickens—50 and 75 cts a piece.
Turkeys—$1.40 to $2.00.
Lamb—8 and 9 cts.
Beef—8 and 9 cts.
Pork—11 and 12 cts.
Apples—30c and 40c a peck. (None in bags.)
Potatoes—80 cts a bag.
Wood—$5.

W.T.C.U. NOTES

The Peterboro branch of the W. C. T. U. held a meeting at the home of Mrs. A. R. Campbell, 421 Stewart St. yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large, and opening devotional exercises were very much enjoyed and Mrs. (Rev.) Couch gave a Bible reading commenting on Jeremiah, 18 ch. 4th verse, "And the vessel that he made of clay, was marred in the hand of the potter; so he made it again another vessel as seemed good to the potter to make it."

After the regular business was transacted, Mrs. Johnstone gave an address on the White Slave Traffic, in which she warned mothers to beware of allowing their daughters to accept situations as announced in advertisements from other cities which are often one of the traps for the terrible traffic

Mrs. Goodfellow gave a paper on temperance, and at the close off the meeting, refreshments were served.

The W. C. T. U. is in touch with the teachers of the Sunday schools of the city with the object of placing before the scholars, the question of temperance.

A committee had been appointed to convene with the superintendents of Sunday schools, re- the holding of an anti cigaret mass meeting on Sunday March 19.

WOMENS' GUILD HELD AT "HOME"

At the Residence of Mrs. H. P. Morgan

The Women's Guild of All Saints' church held a very informal "At Home" yesterday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mrs. H. P. Morgan, 338 Reid street.

The affair was delightfully arranged and the attendance was all that could be desired. Refreshments and music were part of the program, both afternoon and evening. In the afternoon Miss Geraldine King and Miss Annie Hardil officiated at the piano, and in the evening Miss F. Corcoran and Miss Hooper, the latter contributing a vocal solo also.

SPOKE ON POETIC THOUGHT AND EXPRESSION

In an intelligent and highly interesting manner Prof. Alexander, of Toronto University, spoke on poetic thought and expression at the Normal School last evening. The speaker discussed the different characteristics and styles of such authors as Keats, Shelley and Wordsworth, choosing a favorite poem of these authors.

Mr. Walker, principal of the Normal thanked the speaker on behalf of the school, for his pleasing address, and the singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Geo. T. Dickson, of Campbellford, is a guest at the Munro House.

Comes Reports of Cures Made by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Magdalen Islands, Quebec, tell of Mrs Cormier, a sufferer for six years, who was made a new woman by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Amherst Island, Havre Aubert, Magdalen Islands, Que., Feb. 24, (Special).—That suffering women in all corners of Canada are being restored to health by Dodd's Kidney Pills is shown in the press every day, and this island is not without its striking example. Mrs. Peter C. Cormier, a well known and estimable resident tells the following story of her cure:

"For six years I suffered with Rheumatism, Backache and Nervousness. I could not sleep or eat, and I was always tired. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins.

"Hearing of cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills I decided to try them. Seven boxes made a new woman of me."

For a score of years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada. They have been tried in thousands of cases, and there is not on record a single case where they have failed to cure diseased Kidneys. Thousands of Canadian men and women will tell you they owe their good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

PETERBORO'-LINDSAY GAMES

Lindsay Warder:—The Peterborough-Lindsay cup becomes Lindsay's property this year as a result of the games played in both Curlersville and the Quaker Oats city yesterday. It was a great contest and no mistake, and to win, the Lindsay rinks, especially the four at home, had to play their hardest, and they were equal to the occasion. In Peterborough the Lindsay rinks were from "bad to worse" and at the end of the sixteen ends they were no less than 35 down—a pretty bad beating. They were through curling before five o'clock, while at the same hour at the Lindsay rink the locals were about nine or ten up with eight or nine ends to go. Skip Widdess was making it a runaway with his opponent, O'Connor was a trifle down, Skip Burke was nip and tuck, while Skip Little was a tie, when they were informed by a long distance 'phone message that "it was up to them" the Lindsay curlers commenced to work in real earnest and thereafter touched the chalk on the majority of ends until the conclusion of the game. The fight was an uphill one from the start; on the 7th end Skip Widdess was 8 up, Skip O'Connor 3 down, Skip Burke 7 up and Skip Little 1 up. Skip Widdess, who was playing the crack Peterborough skip, R. Neill, fo shoe fame, secured a four end in the 9th and another in the 10th, which put him 15 up at the end of the 10th end. On the same end Lindsay rinks here were 18 up with six more to go. They had to overcome the 35 defeat at the Electric City and began to dig in with a vengeance. At the end of the 13th end the lead in the Peel street rink was increased to 26 or nine down on the round with three ends to go. Skip O'Connor chalked up a three on the following end, and in the 15th end Skip Little touched the crayon for a four end, and secured three more on the last end. In fact the four homes made a magnificent finish; Skip O'Connor tallied on the last six ends. By a beautiful running shot Skip Burke secured 3 on the 15th end, while on ice No. 1 Skip Widdes was still adding them up.

The Peterborough-Lindsay cup has been played for during the past 22 years during which time the Lindsay club have captured the trophy 16 times and Peterborough 6 times.

BASKETBALLERS FORM LEAGUE

Five Teams Entered at Meeting —The Officers

A large representation was present at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, to form a city basketball league.

Representatives from five teams signified their intention of joining and though the P. C. I. and T. A. S. did not have anyone present, each institution intends entering a team.

The officers were elected as follows:

Hon. Vice-Pres.—J. H. Connal and H. B. Cowan.
President—T. E. Ellis.
Vice-President—Fred. McGrath.
Treasurer.—Wm. Hastie.
Secretary—Sanford Hall.

After the election of officers the meeting adjourned to meet again, Wednesday, March 1, when any other clubs wishing to enter, will be admitted and a schedule drawn up. A constitution will also be submitted and other matters of interest decided before the opening game about March 8.

The following are the teams already entered and their representatives—

Fairies—F. Turner.
Ponies—Wm. Hastie.
Pirates—Wm. Hastie.
Whirlwinds — A. Harper.
Grants—J. J. Thompson.

The G. T. R. freight sheds at Glencoe, Ont., were burned yesterday, with contents valued at $5,000.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

P.C.I. WON FROM THE NORMALITES

Central Park Seven Had Four to Spare

In a fast, clean game of hockey, the P. C. I. boys defeated their more learned friends, the Normal School students and a couple of graduates at the Brock Street rink yesterday afternoon. For the winners Ray and Matthews of O. H. A. fame, were always conspicuous, while for the losers, Park, who played centre, for the Intermediates against Trenton, in the game that was afterwards protested, was always in the limelight.

Park scored the first goal, but soon after Matthews, on a nice rush, evened up. At half time, the score was 2-1 in favor of the ultimate losers. "Bill" O'Brien at point for the teachers proved too "lengthy" a proposition for the Collegiate forwards in the first period, but in the second half a few nice combination rushes were good to recounters. Matthews scored four more goals in this half and Ray one. Laing and Jockery, made some nice passes to Mat, and everone checked back to perfection.

"Bud" Kelly refereed satisfactorily.

The line up was as follows:—

Norm. School.		P. C. I.
Dobson	Goal	Huycke
O'Brien	Point	Armstrong
Rickaby	Cover	Gibson
Stewart	Rover	Ray
Park.	Centre	Matthews
Long	R. Wing.	Laing
Smith.	L. Wing	Corkery

Final score 6-2.

PUCKLAND

Here's the version of the Lindsay Post on the game Thursday night—Two games wer pulled off on Town League night at the rink last evening before a fair crowd. The first game was a friendly game between a team representing the Peterborough bankers and the local "money kings." The visitors were heralded as a classy bunch, but it must have been in something other than hockey that scintillated. The game was about the poorest one pulled off this season, and the fans breathed a sigh of relief when it was finished. There was precious little hockey displayed by either teams. Combined team play was noticeable for its absence, while the individual work was away below par. Byron Green handled the tinkler for the game, and no one decorated the fence for misdemeanors. The first half ended in favor of the locals by 2—1. the final score being 4—2.

"Buck" Irving and his touring herd of puck-chasers have finally given up the ghost. They failed to "make good" at Belleville. Brantford passed' em up after them had lost nine straight games, and Guelph, their last place of call and Irving's home town, only stood for them one night. Each player got 35 cents for his share at the Royal City. At that, some of the spectators were unkind enough to remark that they received more by 5 cents than they were worth.—Toronto News.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 24.—The Stanley Cup test hockey games are to be played at Winnipeg right after the Allan Cup matches. Prince Albert and Port Arthur will be the contending teams. The series will decide which team will have the right to represent the West in the cup games with the Ottawa seven. The two teams will come to an understanding to-day.

The Pillpounders and the Quaker seven played to a 2-2 score at Brock Street rink last night. Mark Keneally refereed.

The Rink Rats would like to hear from the senior Northern Lights.

THE MAT

Iowa City, Feb. 24—William "Farmer" Bodwin is dead here to-day following his injury in a wrestling match Wednesday night. Boldwin's neck was broken.

CURLING

Only one game was played on the Charlotte Street rink last night. The following were the rinks and scores

J. H. Metherai	R. F. Gollop
W. R. Turner,	W. J. Oke.
W. D. Campbell	G. L. Bowes
H. Foote	W. G. Read.
Skip 17	Skip 9.

The schedule is almost over now. Only a few more postponed games are yet to be played.

THE RING

Chicago, Feb. 24.—That Bat. Nelson still dreams of wearing the lightweight crown is indicated by the announcement made by the "Durable Dane" on his arrival here. Nelson asserts he will be back in the ring inside of sixty days. He leaves Sunday for Hot Springs. From there he will go to John E. Maddens' stock farm near Lexington, Ky., and live an outdoor life training thoroughbreds.

Finally, Nelson asserts, he will take on some secondrater, and if he has the goods will challenge the champion.

Watertown, N. Y. Feb. 24.—Jack McGouldrick, one time a pugilist of considerable note who had been promoting the interests of Jack Lamon, the local scrapper for a year past, is dead at his home in Dexter from tuberculosis. In days past McGouldrick met Jack Dempsey, Tommy Ryan, and others within the squared circle.

SPORT TALK

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 24.—The Buffalo Germans, world's champions at basket ball, were defeated here for the first time in three years by a military team. The score was 19 to 14. The Germans had won 111 consecutive games, previous to this defeat.

First Suffragan Bishop.

New York, Feb. 25.—The first Suffragan Bishop of the Episcopal Church in America was consecrated yesterday at Grace Church. He is Rev. Dr. Charles Sumner Burch, and his title will be Bishop Suffragan of the Episcopal Diocese of New York.

Although the office of Suffragan is new to this country, it is of long standing in Great Britain. A suffragan ranks as a bishop in everything, except that he has no vote in the House of Bishops and that, unlike a Bishop Coadjutor, he does not ascend to the rank of bishop on the death of his superior.

YOUNG MEN WERE GIVEN A TREAT

Address by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick and an Excellent Program

The young men of St. Peter's T.A.S. held a very successful meeting last night. The feature of the evening was an address by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore. He spoke of the strength of the Catholics in Peterborough to what it was a few years ago, and held that they were beginning to make themselves felt. The Catholic parents did not educate their children for a profession, and consequently there were few Catholic doctors, lawyers, etc. He dwelt on the lives of Sir Thomas Lipton, Russell Grace and others who started with nearly nothing and rose step by step until they were a power in the world. Over the door of every profession was a sign, "Young Man Wanted." There were even more opportunities for a young man than in earlier times.

In a neat speech J. Doris moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was seconded by J. O'Shaughnessey.

The program was as follows:
Piano Solo, "March of Delhi"—J. Perry.
Male Quartette, "Sweet and Low"—Messrs. Henshaw, Lee, Cairns and New.
Song, "I Will be True to Thee"—Mr. Cairns.
Duet, "The Moon Hath Raised Her Lamp Above"—Messrs. Henshaw and New.
Song, "The Bridge"—Mr. Douglas.
Comic Song—Mr. Thompson.
Song, "Irish Emigrant"—Mr. Henshaw.
Lecture—Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.
"Gipsy Laughing Chorus"—Messrs. Lee, Cairns, Douglas and New.
Song—Mr. Lee.
Duet, "Excelsior"—Messrs. Lee and New.
Song "A Bandit's Life"—Mr. A. New.
Comic Song—Mr. Thompson.
Remarks—Rev. Father McColl.
God Save the King.

The accompanist of the evening was Mr. Perry.

Another Modern Miracle Locomotor Ataxia Cured

The Sufferer Had Been Given Up as Incurable by Several Doctors—Hospital Treatment Also Failed—Dr. William's Pink Pills Worked the Miracle.

Before the discovery of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills locomotor ataxia was considered an incurable disease. It has been fully demonstrated, however, that this disease can be cured through the use of these pills, where the treatment is persisted in, and the directions carefully followed.

Locomotor ataxia is a disease of the spinal cord, and first shows itself in an inability to stand erect when the eyes are closed, or in the dark. It is characterized by peculiar disturbances of the gait, and difficulty in governing the motions of the legs. One of the commonest and earliest signs is a tired feeling, particularly noted in the knees and ankles. This sensation is provoked by slight exertion, and is not relieved by rest. Often a numb feeling is associated with it, and these two symptoms are always present in the early stages. As the disease progresses, there is an increase in the duration and extent of the numb feelings, covering at times the foot alone, then extending to the leg. The disease is usually of slow growth and the increase and intensity of the symptoms is not noticed, but its progress is constant, and gradually approaches a total lack of feeling in the legs, causing a wobbling gait and an entire inability to govern the steps. As the disease progresses the patient loses all control over bowels and water, and becomes utterly helpless and has to be cared for like a child.

In proof of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to cure this terrible malady, Mrs. Sarah Jane Ruller, of Antler Sask., says—"For seven years from 1900 to 1907, my son James was afflicted with locomotor ataxia. During that time he was treated by several of the best doctors in the West but their treatment failed to be of any benefit, and he kept growing worse, till finally he lost all control of his limbs, and could not move at all. I had to carry him from his bed to a chair, where I would have to tie him, to enable him to sit up. He was as helpless as an infant; he lost all control of his kidneys and bowels, and we daily looked for death to relieve him of his suffering. In 1905 we sent him to the Brandon Hospital, hoping that the treatment there would benefit him. In this, though, we were disappointed, and the hospital doctor advised me to take him home, as they said they could do nothing for him. At this time a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Being willing to try anything in the hope of finding relief for my boy, I bought a supply. In less than three months I noted a slight improvement in his condition. In six months he could walk once more, and from that on the improvement continued, till now he is fully cured and once more able to attend school and do the chores about the house. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for him is truly wonderful, and I would strongly recommend them to all sufferers, for they most certainly saved my boy's life."

In substantiation of what Mrs. Ruller says, Mr. A. E. Steele, the well-known lumber and coal dealer of Antler, writes—"With reference to what Mrs. Ruller says concerning her son's cure by Pink Pills, I have no hesitation in saying that what she says is absolutely true in every particular, as I am personally acquainted with the case."

This great cure is not the only one performed by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have brought thousands back to health and strength after some of the best doctors in the country have been forced to give up the case as incurable. Not only in cases of locomotor ataxia, but in cases of partial paralysis, sciatica, acute rheumatism, and many other severe ailments have they been successful. The whole secret of their wonderful success is in their power to make rich, red, health-giving blood—the one essential for good health. The pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or direct by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Well-Known Artist Dead.

Brockville, Feb. 25.—Prof. H. T. S. G. Wemyss, a well-known artist and inventor, of Eastern Ontario, died at his home here yesterday, aged 84. For a number of years he lived in Renfrew County, teaching school, before settling in Brockville. He was a graduate of Dumfries Academy and Edinburgh University. His widow and two children survive.

The death occurred here yesterday afternoon at the age of 88 years of Mrs. John S. Fraser, the mother of the late Hon. C. E. Fraser, for many years Minister of Public Works in the Cabinet of Sir Oliver Mowat. Mrs. Fraser spent practically her whole life in Brockville and leaves four daughters and one son, O. K. Fraser, local registrar and clerk of the high court of Brockville.

Eminent Lawyer Dead.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—J. J. Gormully, K.C., died shortly before midnight on Thursday, after a brief illness from pneumonia. He was one of the well-known legal men of Canada. He participated in the case of Martineau, who was convicted of forging Government checks for $75,000 in the Militia Department on the Bank of Montreal, and appeared for this bank in the appeal of the shareholders of the Ontario Bank. He was born in Devonport, England, in 1845, and was once in the British navy, but later called to the Bar in England, coming to Canada in 1875.

Train Fell 150 Feet.

Valparaiso, Chile, Feb. 25.—A railway train made up of eight cars, in one of which were eighty miners and the others loaded with cement, broke through the Rancagua bridge near the American Braden copper mines yesterday. The bridge crossed a ravine 150 feet deep and the train was precipitated to the bottom. The miners were all Chileans. Eighteen of them were killed and the remainder injured.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause, Rush of Blood, Fullness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending, a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver, and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CONCERNING SHERIFF MOWAT

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

The action of Mr. Frederick Mowat sheriff of the city of Toronto, in whisking W. R. Travers away to Kingston without taking the pains to enquire as to whether the Crown authorities desired his further attendance at the police court was one of those famous actions into which officials who feel the importance of their office too acutely are sometimes tempted. No doubt Sheriff Mowat had a technical right to do what he did; no doubt also he had occasion to feel that he was being ignored. The prisoner was in his custody as city sheriff—was, so to speak, his property—and the police court officials were using the distinguished wrecker of the Farmers' Bank, as though he belonged to them. In short, the Sheriff was being treated as though he were merely a rubber stamp, and he proposed to show the community that he was a real flesh and blood sheriff "Honest to God I'm a sheriff" he no doubt said to himself. There was nothing more sinister in his action than an excessive belief in the sacredness of red tape—an inherited belief, it may be added, for his father, Sir Oliver Mowat, when Lieutenant-Governor, was a most rigid stickler for all the prerogatives of his office It may be that Sheriff Mowat also felt some apprehension as to the safety of his prisoner handled as he was by the city detectives with some respect for the manhood of Travers. This, however, was not a reasonable apprehension, because a prisoner, even though he is likely to try and escape, is in much safer hands with a trained detective than in the custody of half a dozen county officials of the average type. The late Inspector John Murray, used to bring back desperate murderers from the ends of the earth and allow them to sit at a distance from him on steamers and railroad trains, and never lost a prisoner. Any tremblings that Sheriff Mowat may have had as to the escape of the prisoner he was responsible for, were born of the spirit of red tape which, once it gets possession of a man, is worse than the tobacco habit The trouble about red tape in a democratic community is that it is likely, when unduly invoked, to give a sinister color to harmless circumstances. Sheriff Mowat is a man who prizes his honor as highly as any man in Canada, yet what has been the outcome of his solicitude about his responsibility for the body of Travers, his prisoner? As one well-known gentleman put it: "The net result of his action has been to temporarily place two Governments under suspicion."

HAVELOCK HAPPENINGS

From Our Own Correspondent.

The high school team of Havelock played a game of hockey against the High school team of Hastings. The result being a score of 4-2 in favor of Havelock. Havelock lined up as follows:— Goal, G. LUNG TROUBLE

Mrs. Biny Brown, of Tenecape, N.S., Was Cured by Catarrhozone of Lung Trouble and Catarrh, After Hundreds of Other Remedies Failed

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh, and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold, or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler, the local symptoms, such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets, which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons, and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

WAS TAKEN SICK FROM CATCHING COLD PE-RU-NA RELIEVED.

MISS ERNESTINE BOUVARD, Duck Lake, Saskatchewan, Can., writes:

"At the close of 1903 I took sick as the result of catching cold. I became very weak and could not do anything.

"I consulted a doctor who had me take various kinds of medicine, but I did not find any relief from my suffering. At the advice of a friend, I wrote to you and you advised me.

"After I had taken two bottles of Peruna there was noticeable improvement. I combined the use of Peruna, Manalin and Lacupia and after taking several bottles of each I find myself entirely cured.

"I can certify that it was through your medicines that I recovered my health. I advise every one who is similarly afflicted to obtain Dr. Hartman's advice and be benefited."

Mrs. Wilda Mooers, R. F. D. No. 1, Lents, Oregon, writes:

"For the past four years I was wretched woman, suffering with severe backaches and other pains, leaving me so weak and weary that it was only with difficulty that I was able to attend to my household duties.

"I used different remedies, but found no relief until I had tried Peruna.

"Within two weeks there was a change for the better, and in less than three months I was a well and happy woman.

"All the praise is due to Peruna."

Peruna is not a local remedy, but an internal systemic remedy. It will relieve catarrh in its most obstinate form.

MOBBED WOMEN IN NEW SKIRTS

Trouser Skirts Arouse Crowds Anger—Eggs Used

Paris, Feb. 24—Incidents of public disturbance accompanying the appearance in the streets of women wearing the new trousers skirt occur daily. The Avenue de l'Opera was the scene of one of the more serious outbreaks. A woman having been surrounded by a laughing, jeering crowd was unable to proceed, and a gentleman taking advantage of the situation, purchased a basket of eggs, from a dealer in a side street and distributed them among the other gentlemen, who, in order to show their disapproval of what they considered unlady like conduct, pelted the helpless wearer of the new garment until a squad of police intervened and aided the woman to escape in an auto.

DOUBTS ABOUT FUTURE.

Doubts appear to have arisen among the leading Paris dressmakers as to whether the skirt will be adopted by women as a general fashion. But few have been ordered thus far, and these have gone chiefly to women from abroad who were shopping here and wished to take home the latest sensation.

MEDICAL VIEWS DIFFER

The journals publish medical opinions on the new style. Some aver that the wide trousers afford the wearer freer movement in walking and funishing less resistance to the winds, and are to be recommended from the standpoint of good health Other opinions to the contrary are expressed by Professor Debore, formerly dean of the Academy of Medicine who affirms in The Matin, that women are not adapted for such garments.

WOMEN MOBBED IN MADRID

Madrid. Feb. 24—Two women belonging to the most exclusive society circle of the Capital appeared on the streets last evening wearing the new Parisian trousers skirts, and were fairly mobbed. The crowd which grew rapidly to great proportions surrounded the exponents of advanced fashion, and after insulting cries threatened violence. A large force of police came to the protection of the women and cleared the streets. The police administration has dealt with several similar cases of disorder recently, and it is determined to put a stop to the rowdism.

The Peace River Country

Owing to the development in that part of Western Canada west of Edmonton, and the business impetus that is now going on in that territory, and in order to adequately take care of the trek into the Peace River country where 15,000 new homesteads will be offered for free entry by the Dominion Government this year, a daily except Sunday, passenger train is now operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Edson, Alta.

From the latter point the new Government wagon road enables settlers with their effects to travel with ease and comparative comfort in about one week's time to the Grande Prairie as against the much longer and more expensive routes through gateways east of Edson, which occupy from a month and a half to two months.

The new train will leave Edmonton daily except Sunday at 6.30 a.m., arrive Edson (130 miles) at 1 p.m., returning leave Edson at 3.30 p.m., daily, except Sunday; arrive Edmonton at 10.05 p.m.

Peter Colvin and David Bowman were injured, while chasing a runaway in Hamilton.

Kingston Pipe Broken.

Kingston, Feb. 25.—Owing to an accident at the pumping station, shore water is being pumped into the mains. The spindle valve in the intake pipe, about 1,300 feet out from shore, was broken while the valve was being shut off to make a test of the outer part of the intake pipe. Medical health Officer Williamson has had the amount of chloride of lime trebled, and is advising citizens to boil the water. The repairs may take three days.

Shot Wife and Self.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 25.—A Detroit News special from Mount Pleasant, says; William Knowlton, a farmer, 38 years old, was found dead yesterday, and his wife, aged 22, lay dying on the bed when neighbors entered the house. Both were shot through the head. The couple had attended a party on Thursday night.

Ratified Japanese Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The new Japanese treaty of trade and navigation was ratified last night after a two-hour executive session in the Senate. The action of this Government is expected to do more to prove the feeling of cordiality that this country has for Japan than anything that has been done for many years.

WHY RECIPROCITY HURTS THE QUAKER OATS CO.'S BUSINESS

Mr. Stewart Tells How the Change of Duty Works Out.

Americans Will Control the the Export Market and the Canadian Business.

Toronto News:—Mr. Robert Stuart, of the Quaker Oats Company at Peterborough, says:

"The Canadian millers are going to be badly handicapped in competing with American millers in the export market. If grain is on the free list the Minneapolis, Buffalo and intermediate mills will be able to secure Canadian grains, mill them and reach the seaboard at the same cost of transportation as Canadian mills. As a result of the above, American millers will have the following advantages;

BY-PRODUCTS.

"Statistics show that bran or wheat by-product for the past several years have sold at an average of $3 to $4 a ton more in the United States than in Canada. Nearly all of the oat by-product from our Peterborough mill, and a large percentage of the oat by-product from the other Canadian oatmeal mills, is shipped to the United States. This is done because the home market is not large enough to consume the production, and the products will sell for more money in the States. The proposed duty is 12 1-2c. per 100 lbs., or $2.50 per ton, the amount of by-product (bran, middlings, etc.) produced in making a barrel of flour is 70 lbs. to 80 lbs., the oat feed produced in making a barrel of rolled oats from 100 lbs. to 120 lbs.

A SERIOUS HANDICAP.

"This means the Canadian miller, regardless of the origin of the grain, will be handicapped 8 3-4c to 10c. per barrel on flour, and 12 1-2c. to 15c. per barrel on oatmeal. This handicap will be sufficient to allow the American miller to control the export market. As far as we are concerned, it will mean that the majority of our export business will be transferred from the Peterborough to our American mills."

HON. R. B. HALDANE,
Who is gradually reducing the army estimates.

CREW OF THIRTY FROZEN TO DEATH

Terrible Discovery on Icebound Derelict

Special to The Review.

Odessa, February 27.—A derelict barge has been found ice bound in the Caspian Sea with the entire crew of thirty persons frozen to death.

Forger Gets Six Months.

Woodstock, Feb. 27.—H. N. McDonald, who was arrested a week ago, charged with forgery in raising a couple of notes he had taken in payment for stoves which he sold for the Ottawa Manufacturing Co., and who was sent back to jail on remand, was before the magistrate Saturday morning and sentenced to six months at hard labor in the county jail.

TAFT HAS ARRANGED FOR EXTRA SESSION IN APRIL

No Chance for Reciprocity Bill at Present.

Date Set by President is April 4.

Washington, Feb. 27.—So probable is it that an extra session of Congress will be necessary in order to get action on the Canadian reciprocity agreement that President Taft has fixed April 4 as the date on which such a session may be called.

The April date was selected after consultation with Champ Clark, who will be Speaker of the next House, and Representative Underwood of Alabama, who will be chairman of the ways and means committee, which will have charge of and report the reciprocity bill in the House.

The President had intended to convene the extra session at an earlier date, but Representatives Clark and Underwood told him that they would like to have a month's time after the present Congress adjourns in which to map out the Democratic plans for the next session.

There was no change in the situation in the Senate Saturday regarding the Canadian reciprocity agreement, and the leaders see no hope of bringing to a vote at this session the McCall bill to carry the agreement into effect. Many rumors were circulated of moves to remedy the situation, but apparently they were all without foundation. The most persistent of all was one that Senator Aldrich, famed for winning legislative battles, which his colleagues thought lost, was speeding to Washington at the urgent solicitation of President Taft to take charge of the situation in the Senate.

The Aldrich rumor, apparently, was a distortion of a telegram which the Senator sent from Jekyll Island, Ga., asking that a pair be arranged for him in favor of the McCall bill if it comes to a vote this session.

As a matter of fact, no one believes that the coming of Senator Aldrich would alter the situation in respect to the McCall bill. The measure is opposed by Senators Cummings, Bristow, Clapp and many other insurgent Republicans. The arrival of Mr. Aldrich and any attempt by him to force the consideration of the bill upon the Senate would be like shaking a red flag in the face of a bull. It would serve, according to the consensus of opinion in the Senate, only to intensify the insurgents' fight against the measure. Not only that, but his friendship for the bill unquestionably would alienate some of his best friends, like Senators Hale, McCumber, Smoot, and others who aided him in framing the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, but who are opposed to the Canadian agreement.

Senator McCumber spoke against the bill Saturday, basing his argument upon the disastrous effect which he said its enactment would have upon the farming industry.

On account of the absence of Mr. Gliddon from the city, there will be no practice of the 57th Band, this evening.

ARGYLL'S COMING

London, February 26.—The Duke and Duchess of Argyll are expected to visit Canada next year as the guests of the Duke of Connaught.

Favor Fortification.

Washington, Feb. 27.—After nearly five hours of debate the House, shortly before 10 o'clock last night, voted overwhelmingly in favor of the policy of fortifying the Panama Canal, and appropriated $3,000,000 to begin the work, the total cost of which has been estimated at $12,000,000.

The erection of the House practically settles the question of fortification, for the sentiment in the Senate is said to be made than two to one in favor of protecting the Isthmian waterway by seacoast batteries.

The real test in the House came on an amendment proposed by Representative Downey of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations. It provided that no part of the money set aside for fortifications should be used until the President of the United States had attempted to negotiate treaties with all of the leading maritime nations, guaranteeing the neutrality and international protection of the canal. This was defeated by a vote of 430 to 63, after a slashing speech against the amendment by Representative Sherley of Kentucky, a Democrat. The appropriation was finally carried by a vote of 123 to 81.

Mardi Gras at Quebec.

Quebec, Feb. 27.—Over 90 allegorical and other cars have now been entered for the grand mardi gras procession, which is to take place on Tuesday evening, and the event promises to be one of the most spectacular ever seen in Quebec. There will be six bands of music in the procession, and thousands of gaily-garbed masqueraders are expected to participate.

Widespread interest is being taken in the event in and outside localities, and it is stated that no less than three special trains will be run from Montreal. The Montagnais Snowshoe Club of the latter city are coming down in full force to form the procession, and all the Quebec and Levis clubs will be seen, most of them turning out with handsome cars.

MUTINY AT THE GARRISON

Turkish Soldiers Don't Want to Serve in Arabia

Special to The Review.

Constantinople, February 27.—The garrison at Yildiz Kiosk has mutinied against serving in Arabia against the rebels. It is feared that disaffection will spread through the whole of the Turkish army.

HOW HE GOT HIS COAL

North Bay, February 24.—William McLeod, a farmer living north of Cobalt, whose farm lies alongside the Temiskaming and Northern Railway, which is owned by the Ontario Government, hit upon an ingenious expedient to supply himself with coal. He bought a goat and tethered it fairly close to the track and soon the train hands began to throw lumps of coal from the engines as they passed by, which the goat seemed to enjoy, for he was able to dodge every lump thrown. The farmer carefully gathered up the bituminous missiles, with the result that while his neighbors had to pay for their coal and haul it long distances he got his without going off the premises.

BAD WRECK AT TORONTO

Sixteen Cars Destroyed and Much Wheat Lost.

Sunday Morning Accident Without Injury to Crew.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Sixteen box cars fully loaded with wheat were smashed to matchwood in a wreck on the main line of the Grand Trunk at the Humber yesterday morning and all traffic through this important point—Grand Trunk and C.P.R.—was cut off for nine hours.

It was as bad a wreck as could well be imagined. Sixteen cars, and 16,000 bushels of wheat were squashed into a beautifully scrambled heap, within a space of five cars lengths.

It occurred at 10.10 a.m., and, with a full auxiliary crew, with a crane, and three section gangs working like beavers, it took until 7 o'clock in the evening to get the north (west bound) track cleared so that trains east and west could be run over it between Mimico and Swansea. The other track was not cleared until early this morning.

No one was injured; but a brakeman and a Humber native had close calls. The brakeman was trotting over the top of the train and just hopped from the last car that was smashed when it mounted the heap of debris.

"Lefty" Macdonald, who is to pitch for the Toronto ball team this year, and who resides close to the scene of the wreck, was on the track—just going for a pail of water—when the train began to crumple up beside him and he had to step lively over the embankment to save his skin. He was right where the cars buckled, and one of them made for him endwise across the tracks.

Engine No. 674, with Engineer W. Perry and Conductor T. Stebbard, was hauling 35 box-cars laden with wheat from the Grand Trunk elevators at Point Edward to Portland, Me., for export, and two empties.

The front truck on the eighth car from the engine broke at a point 250 yards west of Billie Miles' hotel and trailed along the ties until it struck a switch frog about fifty yards west of the hotel. Then it tried to take the siding and in a minute sixteen cars were piled up in the hollow behind the hotel, over the tracks and down on the other side of the narrow embankment.

Wheat, worth about 90 cents a bushel poured out of every crack in streams, filing up the mud holes and burying the underneath cars. Superintendent W. H. Farrell and the auxiliary were soon on the spot and thought at first to have one line open in time for the International Limited to get through at 4.40 p.m.. But they couldn't do it. The pile was to dense.

The C.P.R. threw open its Mimico-Islington spur, and both companies used it, landing their trains into Toronto about twenty minutes late, and missing South Parkdale station.

When the north track was cleared in time for No. 2 from London to get through, the traffic came and went as usual, save for the fact that it was a single track service between Mimico and Swansea.

"Lifty" Macdonald, the twirler, seems to have been the only eye-witness. He says that he could hardly remember what happened. He was on the track, heard a scraping sound, saw fire flying up and ducked just as the cars piled up. One car plunged right at him as he went over the bank.

"They all piled up as quickly as you could fire off a gun," he said.

Superintendent Farrell said the train was not traveling faster than twenty miles an hour. He estimated that each car would hold 1,000 bushels of wheat and figured that about two-thirds of this could be saved.

RELEASED FROM PENITENTIARY

Railway Men Did Not Finish Full Term

Special to The Review.

Kingston, February 27.—G. T. R. Conductors Frank McCallum and Daniel Corrigan have been released from prison after serving two years of their three-year term which they received for accepting bogus tickets while in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway.

Discovered Oil and Gas.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—An avalanche overwhelmed a school in the village of Albge, in the Black Sea government Friday, and killed 16 persons.

BLAMES THE U.S. NAVY

Wm. Bradshaw Sentenced to Five Years in "Pen."

Ingersoll, Feb. 27.—After expressing willingness to "take his medicine right away," Wm. Bradshaw, who was arrested in London Friday by local detectives on a charge of raising Canadian Express Co. money orders, received a sentence of five years in Kingston penitentiary from Police Magistrate Patterson at Ingersoll Saturday evening.

Before Bradshaw received sentence, he signed his name to a statement in which he confessed that under the guise of being an agent for a bible firm he effectively raised money orders at a score of places in Ontario, and at a number in New York State and Michigan. So fully did the young man make clear his guilt that to the officers of the court and officials he made a complete demonstration of the methods he employing in erasing the so-called indellible ink of an original money order and increasing its face value to the limit of the marginal guards. The neatness and despatch of his work amazed the officials.

The navy of the United States was blamed by him as the cause of his downfall. Against the petty officers of Uncle Sam's ships of war the prisoner laid his education in ways that are dark. He made the statement that it was common practice in the navy to raise vouchers and pay orders and to put it in his own words the entire department was "rotten with graft."

TORONTO HAD A RELIGIOUS WAR

Foreigners Used Pickaxes and Shovels—Half a Dozen Badly Injured

Special to The Review.

Toronto, February 27.—Half a dozen men were badly wounded this morning in a battle on Walnut street, between Greeks and Bulgarian Macedonians, who lived in adjoining houses, and clashed over religious matters. Pick-axes, shovels and other dangerous weapons were used by the fighters and blows were mostly delivered on the head.

Former Secretary for India Dead.

London, Feb. 27.—Viscount Wolverhampton, formerly secretary of state for India, and from 1908 until 1910 lord president of the council, died here Saturday.

Henry Hartley Fowler, the first Viscount Wolverhampton, was born May 16, 1830, and was the youngest son of the late Rev. Joseph Fowler. He was created a viscount in 1908.

Viscount Wolverhampton was financial secretary to the treasury in 1886, president of the local Government board, with a seat in the Cabinet, from 1892 until 1894, and during the following year had the portfolio of secretary of state for India. He was appointed chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in December, 1905, and was lord president of the council from 1908 to 1910.

"Throw Up Your Hands."

London, Feb. 27.—"Throw up your hands," shouted twelve-year-old Earl Sloman, as he pointed an air rifle at his fourteen-year-old cousin, Sidney Solman, Saturday afternoon.

Sidney entered into the spirit of the game, but instead of doing as ordered, he grabbed a 22-calibre rifle from the wall and fired at Earl. The bullet entered his playmate's stomach, inflicting a wound which may result fatally.

Memorial to Perry.

Washington, Feb. 27.—A memorial of Perry's victory on Lake Erie is contemplated in a bill passed by the Senate yesterday. The measure appropriates $250,000 towards a monument on Put-In-Bay Island, Lake Erie, near Sandusky, in conjunction with the centennial celebration to be held there in 1913. The bill has not passed the House.

Sir A. Pelletier Seriously Ill.

Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 27.—Sir Alphonse Pelletier, governor of Quebec, is seriously ill at the Chelsea Hotel here. Governor Pelletier came to the shore about two weeks ago. He has been unable to leave his hotel for nearly a week.

Party Plotting Responsible For the Move.

Trouble is Creating Great Sensation.

Special to The Review.

Paris, February 27.—Premier Briand and the members of the ministry resigned from their office to-day.

Paris, Feb. 27.—Premier Briand and the members of his Cabinet will resign to-day. They reached this decision on Saturday afternoon at a conference in the Premier's office, when the political situation was thoroughly canvassed from beginning to end. The bare majority of sixteen, which the Government received on Friday night in a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies, following the Premier's arraignment by the Radical Socialists, Louis Mally and Paul Meunier, was a sore blow to the Premier and his associates, who had been sustained many times in previous crises by much larger votes. In the end, M. Briand declared that he was "sick of it all."

The only reason for waiting until to-day to present their resignations to the President is that the Ministers wish to show their respect for the memory of their late colleague, Gen. Brun, whose funeral took place this morning.

There is much uncertainty to-day as to what will happen, whether President Fallieres, after taking counsel with the leaders of the Parliamentary groups, will ask M. Briand to stay in power, or whom he will invite to form a new Ministry. Leon N. Bourgeois, former Premier and ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs; Redmond Poincare, ex-Minister of Finance; Theophile Delcasse, ex-Foreign Minister, and former Premier Emile Combes are among the names mentioned, although it is understood that M. Delcasse is personally not liked by the President of the republic.

The decision of the Ministry to withdraw, has created an enormous political sensation. The conservative newspapers are sounding a note of alarm. They declare that the forces of extreme radicalism are triumphing over sane and progressive reform, regarding the clerical issue, which was raised Friday, as a mere pretext to attain Briand's downfall. They point out that it is ridiculous to accuse the man who construced the separation law of clericalism, and now that the church and state are completely divorced, M. Briand has been merely following out a general program of "appeasement."

The vote in the Chamber of Deputies Friday night, therefore, is interpreted as the result of an intrigue among Briand's adversaries in his own party, who have been plotting his overthrow since the great crisis in the railway strike and blocking the Premier's program of arbitration in labor disputes in connection with the public service corporations.

Physically and mentally exhausted by several years of uninterrupted labors in official life, M. Briand is sincerely anxious to retire. Even now he is discussing with his friends the delights of a proposed trip to the Mediterranean. It is understood that M. Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is equally determined to withdraw, and would not accept a place in the new Cabinet if it were offered him.

The Temps, in summing up the situation, blames Parliament for taking too much interest in the railway employes, who imperilled the security of the country, and not enough in the measures designed to protect the nation from civil war.

"M. Briand," says The Temps, "has the support of public opinion. His departure gives all Frenchmen food for grave reflection, for France is menaced by moral disorder and a conscienceless Parliament."

Rumor Drew Crowd.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—Some person started a story last week that a baby had been born to Mrs. Alfred Plante, 411 Joliette street, Hochelaga Ward, with horns resembling a goat.

The family at first paid little attention to the report, and their neighbors were aware that nothing of the kind had happened. Mrs. Plante is the mother of eight children, the youngest of whom is a girl, eight months old, a healthy child of normal proportions.

The story of the baby with the horns spread until curious people were attracted to the house.

So bothersome did the curiosity seekers become that the father appealed to Capt. Murphy of the East St. Catherine street police station, for protection. Capt. Murphy said he could not prevent people from calling at the house if they wished to do so, but would stop them collecting in the street or blocking the sidewalk.

One policeman was sufficient Saturday to keep the crowd that gathered in front of the house from blocking the street, but yesterday it required two men and an officer to keep them in motion. Capt. Murphy stated that in the early part of yesterday afternoon there were between 500 and 600 persons in front of the house.

NO CLUE TO THE THIEF

Jewels May Have Been Stolen by Female Crook.

New York, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Baldwin Drummond, formerly Mrs. Marshall Field, jr., of Chicago, was robbed of a fortune in jewels Saturday night on board a transatlantic liner. Diamonds, pearls and other gems to the value of approximately $130,000 disappeared mysteriously from her stateroom on the steamship Amerika of the Hamburg-American Line some time between 9.30 o'clock Saturday evening and 5.30 yesterday morning.

To the police Mrs. Drummond described the missing jewels as follows: Two strings of pearls of 273 pearls each; one string of 283 pearls; one large black pearl ring set with diamonds; one large white pearl ring set with diamonds; one pair large pearl earrings set with diamonds; one black pearl brooch set with diamonds, with a black pearl; pea-shaped pendant.

A wireless message sent from the Amerika as she neared port summoned detectives down the bay in a tug. They learned from Mrs. Drummond details of the theft and began a combing of the ship and a search of the crew. But not a trace of the jewel was found.

LATER.

Special to The Review.

New York, February 27.—The police have no clue to the robbers who took thirty thousand dollars worth of jewels from Mrs. Marwin Drummond on the steamer "America." It is believed that a clever female crook followed Mrs. Drummond across the ocean to watch for a chance to secure the jewels.

Brutality to Insane.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Feb. 27.—Dan Riley, an attendant at the Mattewan Asylum for the criminal insane, was arrested here Saturday night, charged with manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the death of John J. Nugent, a patient in the institution.

Nugent died on Feb. 3, and charges that he had been subjected to violence resulted in his body being disinterred on Long Island only a few days ago. The majority of the physicians were inclined to think that he was a victim of heart disease, but rumors of violence persisted, and Saturday County Judge Hasbrouck examined witnesses here and afterward ordered Riley's arrest. According to the testimony given yesterday by Geo. Galbraith, also an attendant at the hospital, Nugent was brutally treated two days before his death. He swore that Nugent had been brought under submission by winding a pillow case about his neck, after which he was thrown on a bed and "kneed."

Unhealthy for Fish.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—As a result, it is considered, of the hypochlorite that is being put into Ottawa's water supply to kill the typhoid germs, the Government fish hatchery station here has already lost a number of valuable fish and may lose thousands more.

Several complaints have been made to The Citizen by owners of gold fish that since the hypochlorite treatment has been commenced many had died. Precisely the same result has been met with at the Government hatchery, except that the loss there will be many times greater if, as is feared, the hypo has had a deleterious effect on the thousands of fish eggs that are being hatched out.

If, as feared, the eggs should be spoiled, the loss to the Government will be considerable, as the varieties being hatched include salt water salmon and other fish not easy to procure inland and the number of eggs is an enormous one.

A Lively Town.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 27.—One dead and several injured are the results of a number of brawls in the city early last night. Henry Dorsey is in jail, charged with the murder of John Brown, aged 60, by cutting his juggler vein, and biting off the ear of Ozzie Brown, son of the murdered man.

In a steel workers' riot a little later, Ald. E. L. Bowser and Pontus Heintz, a steel company officer, were injured by bricks hurled in the melee.

HUNTING EVIDENCE

The Toronto Star is sending reporters through the country hunting up Conservatives in favor of the reciprocity agreement, in order to quote them and show that favorable sentiment is not confined to some Liberals. That is not a very fair way of gathering evidence of public opinion. The readers of a newspaper getting opinions on one side of the question only are led to believe—are deceived into believing—that everyone is on that side. Unless they happen to read an opposition newspaper, and get the other side, they are victims of the "poisoned well."

On this reciprocity business will be found Conservatives who are in favor of it. There will be found many Liberals who are strongly opposed to it. While generally, party lines have been maintained, it is refreshing to note that there are strong party men, like those eighteen Toronto Liberals, who have courage to publicly break away from their personal convictions. From all evidence that has accumulated, it is certain that the urban population of Canada is almost totally opposed to the agreement. The agricultural population, forming 63 per cent. of the country's population, is divided. There are many farmers opposed to the business, but many of them are in favor of it, on the theory that a new market of 90,000,000 people is very desirable. This theory may be wrong, and many economists believe it is wrong. But if one-half of the farmers are opposed to it, and practically all of the urban population, the combination of the two opposing classes constitutes a majority of the country, and the reciprocity business will be put through in the face of a hostile majority of the Canadian people.

This collection of evidence is interesting, but neither may the gathering of individual opinions be taken as entirely expressive of the opinion of the section from which the "authority" hails.

As far as Peterborough district is concerned, we feel assured that public opinion is entirely against it. This opinion is ventured wherever the subject is discussed, and what thinking man has not discussed so important a turn-over in the Canadian fiscal policy?

The matter will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Board of Trade in the City Council chamber. Let there be a big attendance of citizens, that the matter may be given the importance it deserves. Peterborough's best interests industrially demand a strong protest against the agreement, meaning, as it does, the probable loss of one of its biggest and best industries, and injury to others.

FARMERS AGAINST IT

The Canadian Farm has been interviewing subscribers by post card on reciprocity, and the results are interesting, showing the farmers themselves to be equally divided on the question. Out of 56 replies, 28 were for and 27 against reciprocity. This is significant, because the only class of people in Canada which can be said to be at all favorable to the reciprocity deal is the agricultural. If half of the farmers are opposed to the agreement, and all of the workingmen, manufacturers, and industrial classes, then Canada as a whole, is very much opposed to it.

Some of the farmers consulted present brief views of the question, and they are interesting as denoting that the farmers are far from unanimous themselves about the advantages of the much-vaunted measure:—

COFFIN FOR WHEAT.

Mountain Grove, Feb. 17th, 1911.

I am not in favor of reciprocity. I think it would be making a coffin to bury western wheat.—L. Black.

"If it were not good for the U.S. they would not be so keen for it," writes S. C. Campbell, of Edenville.

"Our farmers were never so well off as now," says one man, who would leave well enough alone.

RUIN OUR REPUTATION.

Morristown, Feb. 16th, 1911.

I do not think reciprocity with the States will be beneficial to Canada. It will be hurtful to our fruit industry, and also to our bacon industry. It would ruin our reputation in the British markets for our products, such as cheese and butter, and would hurt also our manufacturers and all our other industries. The more industries we have in Canada the better. Increase our population in our towns and cities and also increase home consumption. Canada for the Canadians, and preferential tariff for the mother country.—C. Currie.

NO RETURN FOR LAND.

The increased sale of barley is not actually a benefit. As George Hisey, of Edgley, points out: I am not in favor of the proposed trade agreement. The only product it will benefit is barley, and I do not consider that will benefit the country, as the barley will be sold instead of fed, and there will be no return for the land. It will be ruin to market gardeners and fruit growers, both of Niagara and British Columbia, in my opinion. No annexation for me.

FRUIT GROWERS' VIEWS

American fruit is ripe much earlier, and as they have fruit as long as we have they would control the market, writes Wm. L. Bengough, of Grimsby.

LIVE STOCK WILL SUFFER.

Springvale, Feb. 16th, 1911.

I am not in favor of reciprocity. I don't think it will benefit Canada. It will hurt the horse market with the west. In fact, all live stock will suffer. See what Taft said—It would help the United States to control the wheat market more than ever. Why not let well enough alone? I think we as Canadians, have everything to lose and nothing to gain.—Edward McKeen.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia tore his state breeches. Wasn't he ripping mad?

Pasadena people, on Friday, had the first snow fall in twenty years It was no unimportant affair, either.

Editorial Notes—

Indications now point to the United States Senate not passing the agreement. It is pleasanter to amend it to death.

Rev. A. E. St. Dalmas, a "fore-and-aft" Liberal, denounced the reciprocity agreement in a Liberal convention. Opposition to it seems to spring up like a crop of dandelions after a summer shower.

Hamilton manufacturers have been without Cataract power in satisfactory quantities for two weeks. That is about the strongest argument in favor of Hydro power that the Ambitious City could provide. And to come from the Cataract, too!

A recruit, eighteen years of age, and six feet eight inches tall, has joined the Grenadier Guards. He is still growing, and is the tallest man in the army. He has smoked constantly since he was fourteen years old. This seems to upset that popular old formula that smoking dwarfs and stunts growth.

The Lewis bill to crush the baggage smasher on the railways will get an enthusiastic popular acclaim. The baggage-smasher makes it necessary to have an iron-clad trunk, with compartments balanced on air-cooled steel springs, and wrappings of rubber, these days.

A Social Item.

Vain are the efforts of the satirists who attempt to parody the "society" news so much affected by the daily and other papers. It is so hard to distinguish between the real thing and the travesty. For example, the following account of a "Dejeuner de Luxe at the De Smythe Residence" is so close to the genuine article that "society" folk may be excused for feeling affronted at not being invited to that resplendent function:

On Wednesday morning last at 7.15 a charming little breakfast was served at the home of Mr. de Smythe. The dejeuner was given in honor of Mr. de Smythe and his two sons, Master Adolphus and Master Blinks de Smythe, who were about to leave for their daily travail at their wholesale Bureau de Flour et de Feed. All the gentlemen were very quietly dressed in their habits de work. Miss Melinda de Smythe poured out tea, the domestique having refuse to get up so early after the partie of the night before. The menu was very handsome, consisting of eggs and bacon, demi-froid, and ice-cream. The conversation was sustained and lively. Mr. de Smythe sustained it and made it lively for his daughter and his garcons. In the course of the talk Mr. de Smythe stated that the next time he allowed the young people to turn his maison topsy-turvy he would see them in enfer. He wished to know if they were aware that some ass of the evening before had broken a pane of glass in the hall that would cost him four dollars. Did they think he was made of argent? If so, they never made a bigger mistake in their vie. The meal closed with general expressions of good feeling. A little bird has whispered to us that there will be no more parties at the De Smythes' pour longtemps."—Stephen Leacock.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 25.—The market opened ¼ lower, being influenced by the disappointing American markets yesterday. Following the opening the undertone was heavy with realizing and prices further declined ⅛. Selling at this time was induced by the predictions of larger shipments to the United Kingdom this week and a poor inquiry here for both parcels and cargoes with a weakening in spot markets and free Australian offers. The decline, however, was checked by less favorable reports from Russia and a fair demand from the continent. At the close the market was easier, ⅝ lower than yesterday.

Corn market was quiet and unchanged. The predictions of large American shipments to Liverpool this week offset the covering of March shorts.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Wheat to-day slid under any down-grade record made in the last three years. Scantiness of domestic demand, no foreign outlet and reciprocity delay at Washington furnished plenty of reason. The close was weak at a net decline of ⅜c to a full cent a bushel. There also was a net loss of ⅜c to ½c in corn, ⅛c in oats, and 15c to 30c for pork, lard and ribs.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

Rouletabille in giving his evidence proved with a logical accuracy that overwhelmed the examining magistrate and plunged the delegato into despair that the deed could only have been committed by the dead man himself. The four persons at the postern gate and the two persons in Old Bob's room had each been looking at the others and had not lost sight of each other while some one was killing Bernier a few steps away, so it was impossible to believe that the killing could have been done by any other than the victim.

To this the examing magistrate, greatly interested, replied by inquiring whether any of us had reason to suspect any motive for suicide on the part of Bernier, to which Rouletabille answered that the supposition of suicide might easily be laid aside and that of accident substituted for it. The stone, which might have attracted his attention by its strange form, might have been picked up by Pere Bernier, and if he had happened to slip and fall while holding it in his hand everything would be explained, and very simply. Pere Bernier undoubtedly must have thus unfortunately fallen upon this triangular flint, which had pierced his heart.

One of the physicians summoned to care for Old Bob was called, and he decided that Bernier's fatal wound was caused by the flint.

As to Mme. Edith and myself, after some futile and useless questions, asked while the doctors were at the bedside of Old Bob, we were allowed to leave the room, and we went to sit in the little parlor just outside the bedroom and were there when the magistrates were ready to depart.

Edith suddenly seized me by the hand and cried out:

"Do not leave me! I beg of you don't leave me! I have only you left. I do not know where Prince Galitch is—I do not know anything about my husband. That is what makes this so horrible. Arthur sent me a message saying that he was going in search of Tullio. He does not know even yet that Bernier has been murdered. Has he found the 'hangman of the sea?' Is it from this man—from Tullio now that I expect the truth! And not a word has come! It is horrible!"

As she took my hand so confidingly and held it for a moment in her own I felt that I was for Mme. Edith with all my heart and soul, and I assured her that she might rely upon my devotion.

Rouletabille never failed to cast a glance in our direction every time he had the opportunity.

"Ah, he is watching us!" exclaimed Mme. Edith.

"You ought to be grateful to Rouletabille," I ventured to remind her, "for his intervention and his silence relative to the 'oldest knife known to the human race.' If the officers had learned that this stone dagger belonged to your uncle Bob, what could have hindered them from placing him under arrest?"

"Oh!" she cried bitterly. "Your friend has as many good reasons to keep silence as I have, and I dread only one thing, M. Sainclair—I dread only one thing."

"And what is that?"

"I fear lest he has saved my uncle from the authorities only to ruin him more completely. At all events, it is necessary to be ready for anything, and I know how to defend him so long as I draw breath." And she showed me a tiny revolver which was hidden in her gown.

"Is it actual truth that you are ready to defend me?" she demanded, turning her beautiful eyes full upon my own.

"I am ready."

"Against your friend even?"

"If it should be necessary," I answered, with a sigh, passing my hand across my forehead.

"Very well; I believe you," she answered. "In that case I will leave you here for a few minutes. You will guard this door for me."

And she pointed to the door behind which Old Bob was resting. Then she ran out of the room. Where was she going? She confessed to me later. She was going to look for Prince Galitch. Oh, woman, woman!

She had scarcely disappeared under the arch when Rouletabille and M. Darzac entered the room. They had heard all that had passed. Rouletabille advanced to my side and told me quietly that he was aware that I had betrayed him.

"You are using a large word, Rouletabille!" I exclaimed. "You know that I am not in the habit of betraying any one. Mme. Edith is really very much to be pitied, and you do not pity her enough, my friend."

"Ah, well, you pity her too much."

I started to make some reply, but Rouletabille cut short my words with a dry gesture.

"I ask you only one thing—only one, you understand. It is that, no matter what may happen—no matter what may happen—you shall not address one word to either M. Darzac or to myself."

"That will be a very easy thing to promise," I replied, foolishly irritated, and I turned my back upon him.

But at the same moment the officers coming out of the castle called to us. The inquest was at an end. There was no doubt, in their eyes, after the declaration of the doctors, that the affair had been an accident, and that was the verdict which they felt obliged to render. Darzac and Rouletabille accompanied them to the outer gate. As I stood leaning on my elbows at the window I suddenly heard a sound which fell upon the evening air like the blow of an immense gong, and I knew that it was Rouletabille who had ordered the iron gates to be closed.

Not a single minute passed after that when I saw Mme. Edith rush into the room and hurry to me as though I were her only refuge.

Then I saw Darzac appear, then Rouletabille, and leaning on his arm was the Lady in Black. It could now very easily be seen that she was making a powerful effort to hide the horror which in spite of all, pierced through her troubled glance and to hide from us the emotion which made her cling feverishly to the arm of her young companion. Darzac, too, had the somber and resolute mien of a judge. But that which most of all added to our surprise and affright was the entrance of Pere Jacques, Walter and Mattoni into the square tower. All three were armed with muskets and placed themselves in silence before the door, where they stood with military precision while they received from the lips of Rouletabille the order to let no person go out from the old chateau. Edith was overwhelmed with terror and demanded of Mattoni and Walter, both of whom were greatly attached to her, what their presence signified and what their weapons threatened; but, to my great astonishment, they returned no answer. Then the little woman rushed to the door which gave access to Old Bob's room, and, extending her two arms across the threshold as if to bar the passage, she cried:

"What are you going to do? You do not mean to kill him?"

"No, madame," replied Rouletabille gravely. "We are going to judge him. And in order to be sure that the judges shall not be executioners we are all going to swear upon the body of Pere Bernier after having laid down our arms that each of us will keep guard over himself."

And he led us into the chamber where Mere Bernier continued to groan beside the bier of her spouse. There we laid aside our revolvers and took the oath which Rouletabille exacted.

The oath having been taken, Rouletabille, with the Lady in Black still on his arm, went from the funereal chamber into the corridor, but instead of directing our steps toward the apartment of Old Bob, as we expected him to do, he went straight to the door which afforded entrance to the chamber of "the body too many," and, drawing from his pocket the little special key of which I have spoken, he opened the door.

We were all astonished in entering the rooms which had been occupied by M. and Mme. Darzac to see upon M. Darzac's desk the drawing board, the wash drawing upon which our friend had worked at the side of Old Bob in the latter's workshop in the Court of the Bold and also the little dish full of red paint and the tiny brush drenched with the paint. And, lastly, in the middle of the desk there was placed, appearing very much at its ease, upon its bloody jaws, "the oldest skull of humanity."

Rouletabille locked and bolted the door and said to us, himself greatly affected, while we listened with stupefaction:

"Sit down, if you please, ladies and gentlemen.

"You will acknowledge," began Rouletabille, "that there is here around this table one chair too many and in consequence one person too few—to particularize, M. Arthur Rance, for whom we cannot wait much longer."

"Perhaps at this very moment my husband possesses the proofs of Old Bob's innocence," observed Mme. Edith, whom all these preparations had disturbed more than any one else. "I entreat Mme. Darzac to join me in imploring these gentlemen to do nothing until Arthur's return."

The Lady in Black had no opportunity to intervene, for before Mme. Edith finished speaking we heard a loud noise outside the door of the corridor. A knock came at the door, and we heard the voice of Arthur Rance begging us to open immediately. He cried:

"I have brought the pin with the ruby head!"

Rouletabille opened the door.

"Arthur Rance, you are come then at last!" he exclaimed.

Edith's husband seemed plunged in the deepest melancholy.

"What have you to tell me? What has happened? Some new misfortune? Ah, I feared so—feared that I had arrived too late when I saw the iron gate closed and heard the prayers for the dead chanted in the tower. Yes, I knew that you had executed Old Bob."

Rouletabille, who had closed and bolted the door behind Arthur Rance, turned to the American and said:

"Old Bob is alive, and Pere Bernier is dead. Be seated, monsieur."

Rance stared at the speaker in amazement, then looked in consternation at the drawing board, the dish of paint and the bloody skull and demanded:

"Who killed him?"

Then, condescending to notice that his wife was there, he pressed her hand, but his eyes were fixed upon the Lady in Black.

"Before his death Bernier accused Frederic Larsan," answered M. Darzac.

"Do you mean to say by that that he accused Old Bob?" interrupted Rance indignantly. "I will [illegible] suffer that. I, too, had s[illegible] in regard to the person [illegible] our beloved uncle, but I tell you that I have the ruby headed pin."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Larsan Is Now Among Us!

WHAT was Rance talking about—the "little ruby headed pin?" I remembered that Mme. Edith had told us that Old Bob had snatched one from her hand when she had playfully pricked him with it on the night of the drama of the square tower. But what relation could there be between this pin and the adventure of Old Bob? Rance did not wait for us to ask him, but hurried on to tell us that this little pin had disappeared at the same time as Old Bob and that he had found it in the possession of "the hangman of the sea," fastening a sheaf of bank-notes which the old uncle had paid him on that fated night for his complicity and his silence in having brought him in the fisher boat to the grotto of Romeo and Juliet, and Rance told us, moreover, that Tullio had withdrawn from the spot at dawn, greatly disquieted at the nonappearance of his passenger. Rance concluded triumphantly:

"A man who gives a ruby pin to another man in a boat cannot be at the same moment tied up in a potato sack in the square tower."

Upon which Mrs. Rance inquired:

"What gave you the idea of going to San Remo? Did you know that Tullio was to be found there?"

"I received an anonymous letter informing me of his whereabouts."

"It was I who sent it to you," said Rouletabille tranquilly, and then, turning to the rest of us, he said in frigid tones:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I congratulate myself upon the prompt return of M. Arthur Rance. At the present moment there are reunited around this table all the members of the house party of the Chateau of Hercules for whom my corporeal demonstration of the possibility of the 'body too many' may have some interest. I entreat you to give me your undivided attention."

But Arthur Rance halted him with a quick movement.

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean," declared Rouletabille, "all those among whom we may hope to find Larsan."

The Lady in Black, who had up to this time not uttered a word, arose trembling to her feet.

"Do you mean," she breathed, her eyes filled with agonized apprehension, "that Larsan is now among us?"

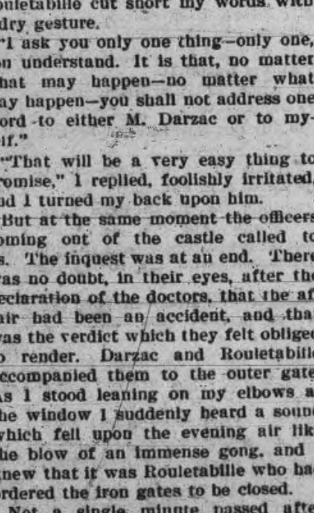
"I am sure of it," Rouletabille replied gravely.

There was an awful silence, during which none of us dared look at each other.

To be continued.

A Real Lung Tonic

There are many preparations that will relieve a cough—few that will cure it. The first class, containing such drugs as Opium and Morphine, simply deaden the irritation and stop the cough, but do little or no permanent good.



Rev. Father Morriscy

"Father Morriscy's No. 10"

does not contain a trace of these dangerous drugs, but is an absolutely safe and scientific preparation of Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams.

It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs.

Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Publish My Letter The World Over

The Words of Harold P. Bushy, Who Was Permanently Cured of Chronic Lumbago by "Nerviline."

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back. I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in the Montreal Witness about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

Cornwall, Feb. 27.—Emile Barlatier, the Montreal aeronaut, and his venturesome wife, did not succeed in leaving Cornwall by their balloon yesterday, as was contemplated, in their effort to fly through the air from Ogdensburg, N.Y., to Montreal. The first stage of their journey was made on Sunday and Monday of last week, and they landed in Cornwall on the latter day, and have been here since waiting for favorable winds.

On Saturday night at 12 o'clock the work of inflating the big gas bag was commenced at the Cornwall Gas Works, and shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning the bag was filled. By 9.30 o'clock the traveling basket was attached and everything looked favorable for a magnificent start, as the weather conditions were ideal, when it was discovered that Cornwall gas was not suitable, being too heavy and damp, and the trip had to be abandoned.

The party returned to Montreal by the night train, and it is understood that the balloonists will go to Ottawa and attempt a flight from that city to Montreal, which will probably be made on Tuesday.

What Do You Think of This?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

OBITUARY

Death of an Old Resident

Thomas Kennedy, an old resident of Omemee, passed away yesterday in the person of Thomas Kennedy, aged 85 years. The deceased was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and emigrated to this country about the year 1850. He had conducted a blacksmith business at Omemee for 45 years.

The late Mr. Kennedy, had been ill for about two weeks. He was a Methodist in religion and a local preacher for fifty years. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

Surviving besides his widow are two sons and one daughter, who are Messrs. Thomas R. and William J., in business in this city, and Mrs. Chas. Grigg, of Renfrew. In his death there passes a man who had always stood high in the estimation of his fellow citizens and behind him is left a memory fragrant with good deeds.

Mrs. George Scott

Annettia Lewis, beloved wife of George Scott, formerly of this city, died in St. Catharines on Sunday morning at 4.30, after a brief illness from heart disease. She was only thirty-one years of age, and was well known and greatly respected in Peterborough, where for many years she was the leader of the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The body was brought here last night on the midnight. Surviving her are her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Lewis, the latter living at Fort George, B.C.; one sister, Mrs. M. J. Costello, 274 Thomas street, and one brother, Stanley, of St. Catharines.

Many beautiful floral wreaths have been received from Mr. Scott's fellow employees of the Canadian Crocker-Wheeler Company, of St. Catharines.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's cathedral, and from thence to St. Peter's cemetery, from the residence of Mr. M. J. Costello, Thomas street.

SERMON TO MEN AT ST. ANDREW'S

Nation's Type of Manhood Her Most Valuable Asset

Rev. James Rollins of St. Andrews preached a very able sermon last evening, specially intended for men, taking as his text, Isaiah, 13th chap. 12th verse, "I will make a man more precious than fine gold, even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir."

The preacher endeavored to show that a nation's most valuable asset, was her type of manhood and not her financial strength or her agricultural wealth.

"The true state of a nation cannot be judged by her exchequer" said Mr. Rollins.

"In addition we have learned something of the value of human life and are shocked with the needless waste of it which takes place. The recent article in the newspapers telling of the shocking number of deaths which occur on our railways during a year, shows that we are beginning to realize that human life is valuable."

Mr. Rollins also referred to ancient Babylon. "There was a public conscience which would prevent to day some of the horrible spirit which prevailed in Babylon. The Babylonian spirit had not yet left the world however. Our foes of to day were the old foes. Every empire was dogged by the same temptation, and it has to rely on its ability to combat it.

When the moral laws of life have been disregarded the seeds of decay set into a nation.

Men were more precious than money or material resources, and neither was the true end of civilization wealth. It is religion which should be paramount.

Mr. Rollin's sermon was very forcibly delivered and a fair sized congregation was present.

The choir was composed entirely of ladies, and a duet by Mrs. Former and Miss Olive Howell, was well contributed.

WHAT IRISHMEN SAY OF CANADA

Pamphlet to Contain Letters by Irishmen Who Have Settled In Canada

G. H. Howson, immigration officer, has received the following letter—

Sir,—The Immigration Department has decided to publish a pamphlet entitled "What Irishmen Say of Canada." This pamphlet will be made up largely of letters from Irishmen who have settled in this country and followed agricultural pursuits here. I presume that you may have in your district a few Irish immigrants, and I would be very much obliged if you could secure for me one or two good letters. The letters should state the part of Ireland from which the immigrant came, date of arrival in Canada, and a short account of experiences in this country. It will not make any difference how long the person has been in Canada. If we had letters from Irishmen who have been here for twenty-five years they would be very useful.

Will you kindly do what you can in this connection, and let me have results at an early date.

Your obedient servant,
W. D. SCOTT,
Sup't of Immigration.

"A STUBBORN CINDERELLA"

There is magnetism and intelligence about the performance of Cort Albertson, who plays "Mac," a college boy, who woos and wins the Cinderella of that most captivating and delightful of musical comedies, "A Stubborn Cinderella," which is hard to resist. His sincerity in the serious moments through his love for Cinderella is unquestioned. But, on the other hand, his comedy is equally earnest and equally capable. The sentiment of clean manliness, of the impregnated sense of the decency and class which is imbued among all the young college boys and girls who are the heroes and heroines of the play, is shown most attractively by this instance.

The hero, an irresponsible college youth, feels bound to terminate a flirtation with the heroine, a Scotch young lady of title, but little experience in the ways of the world, so he tells her the story of Cinderella and the Fairy Prince, who disappears at the stroke of twelve, leaving her with only the memory of her happy dream. The scene in which this takes place is by an open camp fire on a big desert of the far Southeast, and, with its realistic settings and its open fire, together with Mr. Albertson's boyish earnestness, his costume of knee breeches, long curls and brocaded suit and ballet of Watteau Shepherdesses, form a combination that is not only unique, but far above anything else ever afforded in musical comedy.

The attraction comes here almost direct from its phenomenal runs in all the large cities. It is the original production which will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Friday, March 3rd. Seat sale opens Wednesday morning.

LAID AT REST

The following is taken from the Uxbridge, England, Gazette, of Feb. 11th:—

On Friday last, Feb. 3rd, the sorrowing relatives followed to her last resting place in West Dreyton Church Ruth Alexandra Strickland, of 7 De Burgh Crescent, she having died on the previous Monday, Jan. 30, after an illness of some three months, patiently borne. Miss Strickland was a brilliant pianiste, holding the A.T. CL and had before her a career of much promise, when she was so suddenly cut off at the early age of twenty one. She was borne at Lakefield, Ont., Canada, and many relatives there, on the other side of the sea, will learn with sorrow of her early death. But for the last eleven years she has made her home in West Drayton, where she will be missed by many to whom she had endeared herself by her sweetness and unselfishness.

The funeral of the late John Scollard, who resided at Ennismore, took place this monring to St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore, and was largely attended by the many friends of the deceased, including some from Peterboro and Young's Point.

Solemn requiem high mass was sung by His Lordship Bishop Scollard, son of the deceased.

There were present in the sanctuary His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Ven. Arch Deacon Casey, of Lindsay, Rev. Father McGuire, of Downeyville and Father Fitzpatrick of Ennismore.

Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's was deacon, Father Phelan, of Lakefield, was sub deacon; Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of Peterboro, Master of Ceremonies.

Bishop O'Connor preached an eloquent sermon on the advantages of living a holy and pious life, since it means eternal happiness in the next world. He referred to the example of the good Christian life led by the deceased, and prayed that God might grant him eternal rest in the Kingdom of heaven.

The pall bearers were, Dr. Moloney, of Cornwall, P. P. Young and captain Scollard, of Young's Point; Maurice O'Connor, Cornelius O'Connor, and James Scollard.

A BASKET SOCIAL AT SPRINGVILLE

A basket social will be held in the town hall, North Monaghan, on Friday evening, March 3rd, under the auspices of the Girls' Mission Band of the Springville Presbyterian church.

An excellent programme will be given, consisting of dialogues, recitations and songs. The orchestra will also provide suitable music.

An enjoyable time is promised to all who attend. Doors open at 7 o'clock and program commences at eight.

ANOTHER CHANGE ON GEORGE STREET

Alterations at Store Recently By Adam Hall

Carpenters began to-day to alter the premises, formerly occupied by the Adam Hall hardware firm, and make it ready for the J. D. Tully drug company.

Many changes will be made and when the work is completed the store will be one of the most up-to-date of its kind in the city.

There will be a hallway, and stairs leading from the street to a dentist's office, which is to be located over the store. The new quarters will be opened about April 1st.

There is nothing definite as to what changes will be made to the premises now occupied by Mr. Moncur, who took over the drug business of Mr. Tully some time ago.

Murray St. Willing Workers

The Willing Workers of the Murray Street Baptist Church will meet together at 8 p.m. The book "Strangers within our gates" will be opened for discussion.

This book which deals with many social questions and the problems of emigration and immigration, is one that should call forth the greatest interest. The toiling workers consist of all the young men and young ladies of the congregation and they cordially invite their friends to participate in the series of studies which opens to night.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH IS PRESENTED WITH A BELL

By Mrs. Fitzgerald, a Member of the Church Who Has Purchased St. John's Bell.

The rector of All Saints' announced yesterday the gift of a bell to the church by Mrs. Fitzgerald, Charlotte street. Mrs. Fitzgerald is one of the oldest members of All Saints', and has seen it grow from its earlier mission days to its present status, as a strong parish. In all these days she has been a liberal supporter and promoter of the work, and now she has added to all her past generosity this gift of a bell. The bell is the sweet-toned one which has been used for some years in St. John's church.

The opportunity to purchase the bell presented itself to Mrs. Fitzgerald, owing to the successful efforts of St. John's to procure the chimes, and availing herself of this opportunity, she has donated it to her own parish church. Needless to say, the congregation of All Saints' is deeply gratified, while all Peterborough people will rejoice that provision has been thus made to keep the bell in the city. The bell will be installed in the tower some time in May or June.

MANY HEARD FIRST OF SERIES

Of Addresses on New Testament Studies at Park St. Church

A large congregation at Park street Baptist church last evening heard Rev. W. C. Riddiford deliver the first of a series of addresses on New Testament studies, in which he dealt with the subject of why Baptists do not believe in the Roman Catholic Mass.

Rev. Mr. Riddiford throughout his remarks upheld the teachings of the open Bible to be sufficient for the saving of a soul, and urged his hearers not to look upon those of the Roman Catholic faith with animosity, but by living the life of Jesus Christ show them that Protestants have a religion of which they are not ashamed.

A Record Winter

The firemen changed the apparatus from sleighs to wheels this morning for the first time this winter. The sleighs were first used on the 30th of November, and there has been sleighing continuously until to-day, a term of eighty-nine days.

In the twenty years Chief Howard has been a fireman there has never been a winter in which there was no break in the sleighing for such a length of time.

WHY CHRISTIANS SHOULD RESPOND TO FAR-OFF CRY

Rev. A. E. Armstrong Gave Missionary Address to Young People of Knox Church

The annual young people's service at Knox church last night was addressed by Rev. A. E. Armstrong, M. A., Toronto, assistant secretary of the Foreign Mission Board for the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The speaker took his text from St. Mark, 6, 36-37—"The disciples came unto Him and said, 'send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread, for they have nothing to eat.' He answered and said unto them, 'Give ye them to eat.'"

The speaker did not intend to preach, but he wished to apply the narrative to the multitudes which were in need of bread at the present time, and required to be fed according to His command, the same as before. Millions of our fellow-beings in China were in need of bread to live and many would die before the crop in the spring, if help was not sent. The smal sum of $1.50 would save a Chinaman, and many could give money to help. There was a fund opened in Peterborough to which many were contributing. It was a poor kind of religion if nothing was done toward the physical needs of men. Our hospitals and associations for moral uplift were characteristic of Christian faith. Besides giving material help, spiritual bread must also be extended. One of several reasons why we should show our faith was because of what it had done for us. It had given protection for our lives and property. The type of Christian in Corea was higher than that in Canada. The native Christians made house to house canvas, and left a portion of the scripture. John R. Mott said that in twenty-five years Corea would be a Christian country. Twenty-five years ago there was not a Christian in Corea.

It was necessary, also, to learn to give. We did not give to the point of sacrifice, as the Christian natives in Corea did. Our missionary money went to support those who were sent from here, and not native preachers, as some thought. The cost of administration was only three and one-half per cent.

A secondary reason was because of what it was going to do for trade and commerce. A business man might call himself a sceptic, but he should contribute to missions for the interest of trade, if not in the missionary spirit. The missionary went ahead and opened up the country and the merchant followed after, not daring to go before. There was an old saying that trade followed the flag. It was the missionary who carried the flag.

Another secondary issue was what it would do for politics. International peace would be a grand thing, and that day was being hastened by Christianity.

Another reason was that millions of people were being swept away by an awful plague. Plague was not found in Christian countries, because the people knew how to combat with it.

We should obey Christ and not question His commands and hasten the coming of his kingdom—and not restrain it.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE BIBLE

On Modern Literature and Thought

The usual meeting of St. John's Guild of Goodfellowship was held in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, when the series of addresses on "A Wonderful Library" was continued by the Rev. C. Carpenter. The subject of yesterday's address was "The Influence of the Bible on Modern Literature and Thought."

After viewing the teaching of the last two addresses, Mr. Carpenter went on to show that as in the earlier stages of literature the Bible had had a tremendous influence upon it, so also had it in the modern. The thought of the writer of to-day was inevitably tinged with its teaching and the consequence was that in nearly every book we read Biblical words, phrases and references find a place. When translated into other languages it did not lose its force of beauty, but by its inherent power of attraction reached the heart and is placed in the forefront fo the country's literature, henceforth to influence was for good. It acted as a conserving force in preventing the decaying of words, and became a standard of purity and ex-excellence. We feel grateful for the high tone of Biblical language and cannot conceive it clothed in modern slang. We also had a refining influence on literature, encouraging the best and condemning the bad. Wherever the Bible went it created a thirst for greater intellectual attainment and the necessary result was a growing literature. Heathen countries before the advent of the Divine library were generally dependent upon real traditions, but afterwards a growing demand was made for other books. To-day there were thousands of books about the Bible and its teachings which after a period will pass from mind whilst the Bible will still live so great was its hold upon the world, literary, as well as religious.

With regard to its influence upon thought, it undoubtedly unifies all English-specking people. It was a book common to all, with a message to all. It had to guard and protect the morals of man and had to be adapted to meet the needs of his everyday life. In the near future in the struggle for supremacy the conditions of life will depend largely upon the way in which the Bible was received. Without it there would be retrogression, for with its removal there will be nothing to guard the morals and thought of men. The Bible alone can point the right way and must always be a nation's safeguard.

The address concluded with an appeal for its deeper study in every department of life. It must be read with the realization that its works was to bring out the highest and noblest in man, so that the offering of himself may be acceptable. The Bible alone can effect this if only he will study it faithfully.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

MARMORA WON CHAMPIONSHIP OF TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE

Defeated Stirling With Score of 4-2.

Big Crowd Saw Great Game of Hockey.

Havelock, Feb. 25.—The championship of the Trent Valley Hockey League for this season goes to Marmora who defeated Stirling in the final game at Marmora on Friday night by score of 4—2, making a total score of 8—6, in favor of Marmora on round. On Monday last the first of the final games took place on Stirling ice, resulting in a draw 4—4, showing that the two teams which entered in the final contest were very evenly matched.

In a small town in an affair like this waxes fever hot and an immense crowd of rooters were present to cheer their respective teams on to victory and although the game took place on an open air rink, the gate receipts amounted to $120, showing that the citizens of that town were enthusiastic over the chance of winning the championship of the district.

With their friends and sweethearts watching their every action, the players on each team were keyed up to a high pitch, with the result that the game was a fast and interesting exhibition of the winter sport. The importance of the situation would have no doubt caused them to indulge in some rough work, had this not been nipped in the bud by Referee Waghorne, who from the very start kept the game clean by prompt punishment for any hockey crimes. However, with the game really undecided until the finish, both teams were filled with a spirit of do or die, which made it impossible to go without a few offences for which the players were promptly sentenced to a short rest on the fence.

The game was an excellent exhibition of hockey, both teams doing some excellent stick handling. Marmora having a hard-checking defence, backed by Gladney, the Varsity star, at point. Grame, a brother of the well-known Oshawa player, did good work for the losers. Stirling had a fine combination, but could not work it, like they can on their home ice. The line-up of the two teams was as follows:

Marmora.		Stirling.
Inksten	Goal	Grame
Gladney	Point	Taylor
De Forge	Cover	Hough
Green	Rover	Whitty
Jones	Centre	V. Whitty
McWilliams	Left	Dawkins
Naylor	Right	Dawkins

F. Waghorne in the capacity of referee, gave excellent satisfaction.

The Marmora team have been practicing faithfully and worked well together which was a good deal responsible for their fine work. Scores would indicate that they have improved considerable during the season, as when they played in Stirling on Jan. 13th, they were defeated by a 11—3 score.

The Trent Valley League this year was composed of Tweed, Madoc, Marmora and Stirling, and some excellent games were played during the season, the brand of hockey being of a high class.

Last year the championship went to Madoc, who were, however, unable to continue their successful work over the one year.

SHOOTING

At Yeote's Gallery

The result of the professional shooting match, held at Yeotes Bros.' shooting gallery Saturday, are as follows:

At 9.45 p.m., there was a four-hand tie at a score of 57 points, when H. Mackey broke the tie by a score of 59 points, and carried off the box of Tuckett's Marguerite cigars.

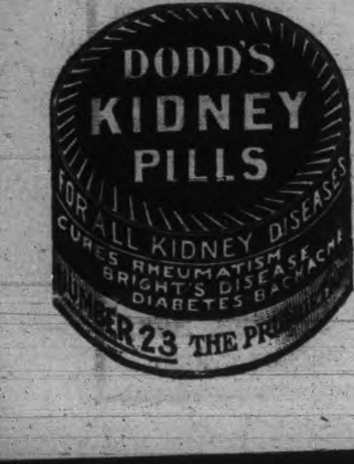
H. Mackey, 59; A. C. Miller, Joe Vinette, C. Gutterson, C. Callaghan, N. Perry, 57; F. Andrews, F. Chapman, Ned Simmons, H. Smith, 56; D. Dinnie, F. D. Cole, J. W. Stewart, F. J. W. Pearson, J. R. Powell, E. Doxsee, W. Bickell, 55; Geo. Metcalfe, A. Reynolds, P. Gettas, 54.

AMATEUR.

The amateur contest was well contested, and at 10 a.m. George Russell and Robert Claxton were tie with 56 points each, Russell winning in default, Claxton not showing up to shoot the tie off. Prize, meerchaum pie. The following were the scores:

George Russell, Robert Claxton (defaulted), 56; H. Walsh, J. Rose, W. Merritt, J. Clancy, 55; J. Coughlin, P. Hamlin, N. Spilsbury, J. Matthews, 54; J. Laken, H. Bouskell, W. Rose, J. Wall, 53; P. Robson, W. Kennedy, F. Revoy, J. Killbuck, B. Fowler, Thomas Fitzpatrick, W. Nugent, F. Halpany, Joe Landry, Ben Taylor, 52; E. Downie, L. Deyman, R. Farnell, B. Jones, 51.

Next week the prizes will be well worth trying for. Everybody has a good chance, and the winner has the opportunity of taking his choice in the cigar store as to a pipe or a box of cigars.



Y.M.C.A. SPORT

On Saturday the final events of the Junior Athletic contest were run off and C. Brown's team composed of C. Brown, captain, Jewell, Quinn, Talford, Stewart, Levins, Thompson, Hamilton, Clark, Hunter, and Simpson, won the championship.

Horsefield defeated Arnott in the broad jump, and Arnott defeated Stewart in the 10 yards potato race. Stewart also lost the relay race, being beaten by Brown, and in the obstacle race by Arnott. Brown took the high jump.

The standing of the teams is as follows—

Brown's, 1st.—302 points.
Arnott's, 2nd.—223 3-4.
Horsefield's, 3rd.—209 3-4.
Stewart's, 4th.—148 3-4.

PUCKLAND

Argonauts won from Parkdale at Toronto, Saturday night, 6-2, and will now go into the finals with Eatons.

Wanderers were beaten on home ice by Quebec, 3-2.

In the final game of the Trent Valley League, Marmora defeated Sterling 9-2.

C. Company accept the challenge of the Bugle Band, to a game of hockey.

CURLING

The local bonspiel will open on Wednesday, March 1, weather permitting. Entries close to night. Prizes will be given to the winners, and a close contest is looked for.

Miniature Target Shooting

The 57th Regiment is competing in the Canadian Military Rifle League miniature target competition. The competitors are composed of ten men from rifle clubs, cadet corps and all military organizations in Canada.

The local men have been shooting a couple of nights already, and the scores were—First night, average, 44.2; second night, average, 43.5. Each night a single score of 48 points out of a possible 50 was made by Sergt. Brightman and Sergt. Mitchell.

BLAZE AT THE GRAND HOTEL

Trouble Started in the Kitchen—Damage Was Light

The fire department received a call at seven o'clock this morning to the Grand Hotel, where a fire had started in the kitchen from the range which was against a partition. The blaze went up through the partition and into a bedroom where some of the the contents were destroyed.

The firemen used all the chemicals available to combat the fire. A line of hose was laid from the nearest hydrant to be in readiness, but the firemen were successful in extinguishing the blaze with the chemicals thus saving the building and contents from a deluge of water.

The damage to the building will amount to about $50 and to contents the same.

THEATRICAL

"DADDY DUFARD"

A fully satisfied and perfectly delighted audience left the Grand on Saturday evening after witnessing Albert Chevalier, the noted English character actor, and a capable and well balanced company, present the big New York success, "Daddy Dufard," in a manner that won approval from the rise of the curtain to close of the performance.

Chevalier himself was always to the fore, and it is safe to say that no other exponent of the stage could have given a more perfect and natural portrayal of the difficult role of "Daddy Dufard" than did Mr. Chevalier.

The simple and expressive coster-songs, which have been responsible for a large share of the popularity and success which have attended his theatrical career, were sung by him in a manner to bring forth an unquenchable thirst for more.

"Right as a Nine-Pence" and Mrs. 'Enry 'Awkins as sung by Mr. Chevalier scored heavily and the latter drew forth round after round of applause.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the efforts of Miss Violet Hemming, the charming and graceful young actress who played the extremely difficult part of Rose Dufard," daughter of "Daddy Dufard," with perfect success. Her appearance and personality are undeniably winning and she was a hearty favorite with the audience throughout.

One of the most popular and laughable, yet instructive occurrences in the performance, was where "Daddy Dufard" coaches his daughter in the sketch in which she is to play that evening. The reality of the part was emphasized by the volume of expression which she was capable at will of throwing into her part. It was instructive in the sense that it was the means of showing to the audience what every actor must strive for, namely, affect.

The story of the play is long and too familiar to require relating. The entire cast won deserved applause and Chevalier earned for himself and company the warm regard of local theatre-goers.

The company appears at the Royal Alexandra, Toronto, this week.

Clock Was Balky

The works of the clock over the market hall were a little out of running order this afternoon, and the bell rang quite often. Many citizens were inquiring of the fire station where the fires were located.

Chief Howard got busy and soon had the mechanism in proper working order again.

Neglected the Dominion.

New York, Feb. 27.—Here to join Mr. and Mrs. Fred. W. Vanderbilt as their guests for a four weeks' stay in Florida, the Duke and Duchess of Manchester arrived Saturday night on board the Lusitania of the Cunard Line from Liverpool. A representative of Mr. Vanderbilt was at the pier to meet them, and they were at once taken to the Pennsylvania station, where they started southward in Mr. Vanderbilt's private car.

Keen on the subject of reciprocity between the United States and Canada, the duke, asked about the outlook, said: "The English have only themselves to blame for the fact that they have not made an arrangement with Canada before this. For the last twelve years Canada has been begging for reciprocity with the Mother Country, and has been met with deaf ears. I shall have to be in England in May, when the subject of the veto power of the House of Lords will come up again."

A wing is to be added to the Kingston post office.

"PILLS LIKE A FYLE"

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were like lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and diarrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exert on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I know it will be of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache, constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Cups For Aviators.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Six new cups for ballooning records in New England during the year 1911 were offered on Saturday at the "College Night" dinner of the Aero Club of New England at the Boston City Club.

U. H. Dandurand, acting mayor of Montreal, and Eugere Tarte, editor of La Patrie of Montreal, were special guests, and brought greetings from the Canadian Aero Club. Mr. Dandurand, as vice-president of the Automobile Club of Canada offered a cup to the balloon pilot landing nearest Montreal during the coming year, while Mr. Tarte offered a similar cup on behalf of his paper. The other cups were offered by The Boston Herald, A. Leo Stevens, Charles J. Glidden and Col. Everett C. Benton of Boston.

Balloonists Go 800 Miles.

St. Joseph, M., Feb. 27.—The balloon Miss Sofia, which left San Antonio, Texas, at 6.47 o'clock Friday evening, landed on a farm near Gower, Mo., at 5.15 o'clock Saturday evening. W. E. Assman, the pilot, and J. M. O'Reilly, his assistant, of St. Louis, said they were tossed for ten hours in a severe snowstorm, which forced them to descend after an 800 mile flight.

G.N.W. Operators' Claims.

Peterboro Boy's Success

J. J. Kearns, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, and son of W. J. Kearns, of this city, leaves Toronto to-morrow evening on the C.P.R. and New York Central line to accept a responsible position with a long established firm in New York. Mr. Kearns will travel for his firm in northern and western New York State, where he will no doubt meet with the same success as he has met with in Ontario during his connection with the firm at Toronto.

The Death of Mrs. Payne

The recent death of Mrs. Payne, widow of the late Adam Payne, removed one of the oldest settlers of North Verulam. The deceased lady had been in Bobcaygeon and Harvey over fifty years. When Mr. and Mrs. Payne first went to Bobcaygeon there were no dams or locks, and the river from Cottage Point to the point below the canoe factory was a continuous and lively rapids. Front street is the old portage road, and in the early days a stopping place stood on the Canoe Factory Point. Land in Veralam was then 20c an acre, and the objection was made to it at that price for the trees were too big to be cut down and got rid of.

TELLS ABOUT MISSIONARY WORK AMONG THE CHINESE

Letter From Miss Quinn, a Worker Among the Celestials Telling of the Christianizing Labor

The following letter has been received from Miss Quinn, missionary in China, who is well known to Peterborough people—

Tsing-yang, via Tatong, China, Jan. 11, 1911.

My Dear Friends,—It is so long since I wrote to you that I scarcely know how or where to begin. Some of you are wondering, no doubt, at my long silence, and I am wondering myself. I suppose for over a year there has scarcely been a day when I have not thought of writing, but to write a letter such as this requires at least a few hours free from other duties, and these few hours have never seemed to be at my command. I wish I could take you back over the past year and give you a brief outline of what makes up a missionary's life, at least one missionary's life. Meetings, regular meetings, special meetings, conferences, Bible classes, enquirer's classes, children's meetings, Sunday school reviews, school examinations, country preaching and visiting, outstation work, travelling secretarial work, including station accounts, household accounts, colporteurs accounts, building accounts, business letters, personal letters (the latter very few), planning and looking after the work for half a dozen helpers, nursing the sick, training new servants, entertaining visitors, superintending building, visiting Christians, praying with the sick, and, owing to the protracted ill-health of my dear colleague, Miss Shore, often single handed, as far as foreign workers are concerned, certainly the past year has been brimful of service and opportunities, and no one who understands would feel neglected if, in the press of work, he or she had been left out.

Yet, I want to emphasize the fact that I believe, it has been one of the happiest years of my life. Every day I praise God for giving me the privilege of being here, for the honor He has put upon me in letting me fight the battles of the Lord, and while I know I am not anywhere fit for the many duties forced upon me by circumstances, yet I am here by the Lord's calling, and He is willing to put up with me! The year, with all its lights and shades, joys and sorrows, encouragements and discouragements, has been fraught with blessing, and full of the loving kindness of the Lord. I do praise Him and will praise Him as long as I live.

"Jesus. O how sweet the name!
Jesus, every day the same!
Jesus, let all saints proclaim
His worthy praise forever."

I do love my Lord and His service, and rejoice in giving out to the heathen the blessed message of salvation.

And now let me give you some of the things for which we can praise the Lord together. First, the open doors. What a joy to go forth with Him into the surrounding villages and towns preaching and selling books. I usually take a Bible woman and a colporteur, and we work together, sometimes all of us preaching at once, and often one of my chairbearers, who has given his heart fully to the Lord, helping hand out the books, tracts and calendars. These latter are large sheets with a lot of good reading to paste up on the walls. Before this reaches you we will have sold 1,500 this season. During the year we have sold and given away about ten thousand gospels, tracts and calendars. The people are much more friendly than I have ever seen them, and I could fill my letter, yes, two or three letters, with interesting incidents. I will mention one or two. We were away in an out-of-the-way village when we found an old woman at her door, who, with Chinese hospitality, invited us to sit down and have some tea. We did so, and soon made known to her the object of our visit. She was seventy years of age, and, of course, had never heard the gospel. She seemed very intelligently to understand, and at once said, "I believe, I will pray. Won't you pray for me?" You may be sure we promised to do this, and after teaching her a little prayer, we left. Months later we sent the Bible woman to revisit her and found that she is still calling on the Lord "Ie-su pu-sah," "Jesus idol," she, in her ignorance calls Him. We are hoping this year to arrange for regular weekly service in that district. Another old lady a year and a half ago came up to us one sunny afternoon as we say preaching at a neighbor's door. She was sick, seemed to have dropsy. She listened intently, and intelligently assented and believed, bought a gospel and went home. Last May, on revisiting this place, we found her full of joy and looking so well. She told how she had prayed to Jesus and that He had healed her, that her husband was reading the gospel she had bought every day to her, and she was very keen to learn more. She eagerly questioned us and kept saying, "If you do not tell me I will not know; if you do not tell me I will not know!" We reluctantly left her, promising to return again at our earliest opportunity, and she also said she was coming to see us later on. In the early autumn we sent our Bible woman to find that a few weeks before she had gone to be, I firmly believe, with Jesus, whom she trusted. On both these occasions we found many other women almost equally interested. Do you wonder that we strain every nerve to find these precious jewels, for "If we do not tell them, they will not know."

This country work is expensive work and hard on the flesh, we often have filthy inns to sleep in, bad roads perilous at times, sometimes travelling in rain and snow, cold, hungry and tired, other times journeying under a scorching sun and consumed with insects at nights, but, it pays, and the compensations are more than can be recorded. Besides our own visiting, our colporteurs have reached every fair, and theatre in the district where almost the whole country side, on these occasions, assembles. The pilgrims to Ki hua shan this year have been more open and ready to receive tracts and buy books. We scattered tracts by the hundreds, often they grabbed them from us in their eagerness to have them, formerly we could hardly induce one to receive them from us. These pilgrims come from all over China, so the Word has gone forth, far and near; eternity will give the results but there surely will be some who have received it and will "bring forth the hundred, sixty, and thirty fold." We have a large class of enquirers from the country as the result of our evangelistic work. One man, a vegeterian for many years whose home was like a temple with idols and incense, heard the gospel at our tent, was very angry at first, but God converted him and finally he destroyed all his idols, and with his wife who had heard the gospel on the roadside one day, came to us. They have attended most regularly all year and are intelligent inquirers at the present time. I was very much amused to find when the roads were flooded,—they live seven "li" away,—that the husband carried his wife on his back across the wet places, and I wondered how many in the home land would bring their wives to church under such difficulties.

There is a city ninety "li" away, named Shih tai Hsien, where some of the people have been insisting on our opening work for some time. I have spent several days, twice during the year in the city and neighborhood, besides Miss Von Gunten also made a long tour through that district, and our men have gone several times. Several men have at different times come here for special or Sunday services. They have to start at daylight, Saturday morning and walk fast all day to get here in time for Sunday! Don't you wish they had a place nearer. I do! On our first visit we had very cold hard weather. It was almost too much for us, but God gave us a reward. As we were out on the street preaching, a Buddhist nun was attracted and came and sat by us and for nearly an hour, our faithful Biblewoman exhorted her to give up her idolatry and trust the living God. She seemed convinced and went away. Soon we heard there was a nun at Shih tai who had given up worshipping idols, refusing even to dust them. We arranged for Miss Von Gunten, who was staying with us during the Hunan troubles, to visit her, and sure enough it was true. Miss Von Guten became greatly interested in her, when she heard her sad history, and tried to get her to come away. Afterwards we sent to invite her to come here, but she held back until this fall, when we ourselves went again.

We found the enemy had tried to prejudice her against us, telling her we would bind her feet! which are a natural size etc. etc. She also smoked opium heavily and was afraid, to give it up at once. On seeing her we recognized her as the same nun that we had met last winter, up to this time we did not know it was our old friend, she was equally delighted to find us again, and soon made her arrangements to leave her old life, slipping off and not telling where she was going, arriving here a few weeks ago with what was left of her belongings, she pawned many of them to get the money to leave. Now I have among my treasures her prayer beads opium pipe, nun's certificate and bell, etc. One of the most interesting incidents about the case, is that on my return from my trip I found a letter awaiting me from the homeland, through an appeal sent home by Miss Von Gunten, containing the promise of her support at our Bible training school. Now she is getting her clothes altered, letting her hair grow,—nuns shave their heads entirely bare—and is preparing to go there next year. Already she has gotten the victory over her opium and tobacco habits, and we earnestly pray, and we want you to pray with us, that she may become a useful helper. She is bright, can read, and is between forty and fifty years of age. However, if I keep on telling about the evangelistic work I will never get through the rest of my letter.

Another thing we can praise God for is that during the past year He has given us a much quieter home to live in. We have moved to the back end of our long premises and are very quiet and comfortable. I have never been so comfortable since coming to China, and for this blessed little home, we daily give thanks. (It meant a lot of hard work in looking after carpenters, masons and painters all native workmen, who need the most constant supervision, and it is only a plain little place, but we are happy in it and have lovely views from our bedrooms and plenty of sunshine and fresh air. The change from the noise, dirt and discomfort of the old place has to be experienced to be fully appreciated. The outlay (we built on a rented place, and used material from the other house,) was about one hundred dollars gold, and we do not think a hundred dollars was ever better spent! I might mention here in this connection that I have also to praise God for giving me a share in a summer cottage in Chitcong shan, Honan, and I look forward with more pleasure this year than I ever did before, to a few weeks of real rest. Three of us united and built ourselves this little nest. We praise God for restoring the health of Miss Shore, and during the year giving us another dear Ottawa girl, Miss Lida White, who supplies us with music and keeps our home bright with sunshine while she is plodding hard at the language.

A year ago we had the great pleasure of a visit from our dear old friend, Pastor Salmon, of Toronto, whose words of faith and cheer are still bearing fruit in our midst.

We also praise God for his care over our people during the floods of the past summer. A storm-burst brought the water in raging torrents down from the mountain in August last. Dykes were broken, homes were swept away, and fields of rice destroyed, and men and cattle drowned and great loss incurred. Some of our families were in grave danger, one, the little family of our chapel-keeper, who was away from home, escape through the roof of their mud house through a kind neighbor's help, their household effects were all lost. Another family piled all their tables and benches into a pyramid and sat close to the roof during the storm which lasted all night, expecting every moment to be swept away. They cried to the Lord, even the little children exhorting each other to pray, and He heard them, and while all their neighbors' homes were torn down, their remain as a testimony to answered prayer. Another family, when the water came in suddenly so that they were immersed up to their necks, hung up their little pigs in a basket to the ceiling and waded out to a little hill near by and found shelter in a small hut, where cold and frightened, they shivered till morning. Next day our people by carrying food above their heads and with linked hands were able to bring them relief. Their house, too, did not fall. It was an awful night; everywhere there were shrieks of distress, which rose above the sound of the noisy wind and waters. The water flooded right through our dwelling—we were not at home—and large water "kangs" floated round the rooms like little boats. I lost a lot of stores, which owing to moving had been left in the kitchen, but while this was a real loss to me, yet I was rather glad, for it helped me to enter into the feelings of those who suffered. One of our neighbors keeps a large flock of about a thousand ducks; he only lost a few, while a relative lost all his flock and two men servants. I never knew before ducks could be drowned, but these were swept away in the torrent of water into the Yang-tze, and for ought we know, into the sea!

Our greatest loss was at our outstation, which was entirely swept away. The river bed was changed and where our comfortable little chapel stood there is a great cavity. It was incredible to us. We lost heavily on the rent, which was advanced, and which, of course, we could not ask the poor landlord to refund, and personally I lost the furnishing of my bedroom, which was upstairs, and they could not risk their lives in going after it. But again we praised the Lord that no lives were lost. The freshet reached them in the morning while they were at worship, and they were able to get out and also save the benches, lamps, etc. Since that time we have had no place to worship out there except in private homes, but we are hoping very soon to re-open, in Miao-chien, 10 li away, and a more central place for the work in that district. We got nearly enough money in our Christmas offering to enable us to do this. I cannot say we enjoy having meetings in homes, inns, etc. Chickens, pigs and people do not harmonize in divine worship.

I think most of you who think of my work at all will remember about our boys' school. Well, we are praising the Lord that this week the first class of graduates complete their course, and enter after Chinese New Year's into their work as day school teachers. One of them is coming here and we look forward with great satisfaction to having both girls' and boys' schools. We will also have an evangelist from the training school, so more competent help this coming year ought not to be so strenuous as the past few have been.

And now lest it gets crowded out, I must tell you more about the building needs here. Some of you are already kindly interested and are planning to help us. We have at present a chapel that seats with squeezing about 125 people. It is situated at the front of the building where the noise of the street is a constant source of annoyance and strain. It also almost entirely lacks ventilation, and with the attendance steadily increasing it is quite too small. Our premises are all rented—indeed, we are the only station in this province in our mission that has no property of its own with foreign built dwelling places and, with one exception, churches. But I do not mind that particularly, only that all improvements made on rented places is money wasted, should we change. Alongside of us there is a large house almost four square, and with a good sized garden attached. The building is in good repair, and when remodelled we think would be ideal for a church. This place is now on the market and may go at any time. For six hundred dollars Mex. ($300.00 gold) it can become ours. One thousand dollars would not build it. I cannot tell you how much we want it, and much we have prayed and worked for it. Our people have given, some of them offerings that are princely, for it is out of such deep poverty. Several of the other stations have sent us help, but so far we have only two hundred Mex toward the six. I hear from my friend Mr. Martin, who has kindly offered to send on my offerings, that he is sending out a letter to my friends. In all the thirteen years I have been in China I have never directly appealed for help before, but this time I feel like doing it. It is so little for you, if all help a little, and so much to us, and it such a good opportunity for laying up treasures in heaven that it seems to me it would be almost mean of me not to let you know about it! Could we have enough to buy our present place and a small lot at the front of our neighbor's house to give us a good entrance, we would be equipped for work for years to come, and save in rents almost half of the amount needed to purchase. Two thousand dollars in gold would do the whole thing, we think, but at present we want the chapel. We could have a little garden too and raise some home vegetables and fruits, that nearly every missionary has, and which we have had to do without. Ever since I came to China this has been one of my desires. Now I believe I have friends enough to do this and more, and at any rate I commend the matter to you and to the Lord, who will do it if He wants us to have it. May I durther add, that if you purpose to help, to be prompt in sending your offering. The opportunity may pass from us and I realize that good resolutions also pass from us unless they are acted on. If I got the half of the help that friends assured me they would send, when I was home, there would be no need fo this appeal to-day.

Sometimes I get letters asking about the support of students, workers, etc. We have several just now whom we would like to help. From five dollars to fifty will give you a little boy or girl, an evangelist, Bible-woman, teacher or student. There is one man now ready to go to train for an evangelist, who has to give up his business to do so, and can only go if we pay his board. Would not some one like to help him? He needs about $20 or $25 gold a year. He is a thoroughly consecrated man and very helpful, I hardly know how to spare him to go. Some who are supporting substitutes in this way are greatly blessed and kept interested in the work. All money had better be sent to Mr. Martin, Ottawa, or Mr. Johnston, Peterborough, who will promptly forward it.

I wanted to tell you about our Christmas. We had a lot of visitors some coming ninety li. We had a Christmas tree, which we lit twice, first on Sunday night, and let the public enjoy it, our men preaching all the time the crowd came and went. Next night we trimmed it with the childrens treat, oranges, rice-balls, and confectionary made it look very pretty and gave great delight. We distributed at the same time the prizes for repeating the Sunday school golden text for the year, ever fifty obtained the nice little pocket testament. Many who won prizes cannot read at all, and so deserved something for their perseverance. The ages ranged from six to sixty. A packet of cards from a little friend in Kincardine reached us at noon Christmas day just in time to be distributed. Old and young were delighted to get them and thought our Heavenly Father very good good to bring them just in time. I came nearly not being present myself, as coming down from a committee meeting in Wuchang our steamer got stuck for 36 hours in the river. I would have missed a happy Christmas had I not reached home as I did in time.

Now if I write any more you will not read it and so I will stop. I do thank those of you who have written or sent me Christmas greetings and gifts. You cannot know how much this means to us here and how these things are appreciated, especially as it is now so long since we have been separated, naturally new interests crowd out the old ones, and we cannot expect to be remembered as we were in the first years. We pray God's richest blessing upon all who love us because we love Him, and rejoice that we can work together with Him for the salvation of the Chinese, and the hastening of His coming.

With New Years' greetings, I am,

Yours in His name,

M. QUINN.

P. S.—Our beloved chairman, Dr. Glover, goes home on furlough. I hope many of you may hear him. He is an excellent speaker and has lately visited our station for a few days' special meetings.

BOARD OF TRADE IS ON RECORD AGAINST RECIPROCITY PACT

MEETING WAS NOT REPRESENTATIVE

Only Thirteen Members Present—Vote Was 8 to 4 Agains —Argument by Mr. T. F. Matthews and Dr. Morrison and D. W. Dumble—A Good Public Attendance.

HERE IS THE RESOLUTION.

"That in the opinion of this Board of Trade, and in view of the great change in the fiscal system of Canada that will be brought about by the putting in force of the reciprocity pact; Be it resolved that we memorialize the government, asking that the reciprocity bill be not put into effect until the people have expressed themselves thereon at the polls.

"And that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the government at Ottawa and to our representatives in the House of Commons."

This is the resolution which was passed at the meeting of the Board of Trade last night, called to consider the question of reciprocity. For some reason, there was barely more than a quorum present at the meeting; either lack of interest in this great public question, or a desire to sidestep the issue being responsible for the small attendance. The vote was eight for the resolution, which was moved by Dr. Morrison and seconded by T. F. Matthews, and four against. The feeling of the public present in the council chamber was strongly against the agreement, but a proposition to take a test vote was sidetracked, owing to the meeting not being representative.

President Gillespie was in the chair, and T. F. Matthews opened the discussion. Mr. Matthews said that he was not the one who should open the discussion as he was vitally interested in a business way. This reciprocity measure was the most important that had been before the public for some time. To him it was a strange proceeding that two men should be empowered to negotiate an agreement with a foreign power, possessing full power to conclude such an agreement, with the understanding that it must be passed as agreed on or thrown out as a whole. It seemed to him that it was a wrong mode of government that allowed such latitude as this. The measure had not been presented for consideration by the party before being concluded, only two or three representatives of the party knowing its contents. There was no chance for representation by the interests affected, or by anyone else. Here was an agreement binding Canada to a great departure in her policy negotiated by two old men.

GOOD INTENTIONS.

No doubt Messrs. Fielding and Patterson went to Washington and came back with upright intentions. They probably had no preconceived idea of injuring Canadian interests. They had done what was, in their opinion,

RETURNED A $50 HAT

Chicago, February 27.—When Miss Jane Addams attended a banquet given in honor of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt at the Union League Club here last week, she lost her hat. Miss Addams checked her hat in the cloak room, but when the banquet was over it was not to be found, and she went home bareheaded. After a thorough search the club decided to enclose a cheque for $50 to the lady, with a note of apology. Miss Addams promptly returned the cheque with the information that she was not accustomed to wearing $50 hats, and that the one she lost cost only $10. The missing hat was found yesterday and will be returned to Miss Addams to-day.

REFORMATION OF SENATE FINDS FAVOR WITH LAURIER

When M. Y. McLean of South Huron Brings Up His Motion to Make the Senate Elective, the Premier Declares That He Is In Favor of a System of Electing Half—To Probe the Shoe Trust.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Reform the Senate, the merits of the Quebec bridge plans and the announcement by the Minister of Labor that the "shoe combine" would be investigated under the provisions of the act of last session, and the resolution of Major Beattie to prevent Americans from flaunting their flag in public places in Canada without, or in an in an inferior position to the Union Jack, furnished the chief bill of fare of the House of Commons yesterday.

The motion of M. Y. McLean (South Huron) to make the Senate elective was dropped, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced his willingness to consider with the Opposition a plan whereby the Legislatures might elect a proportion of the members of the Upper House.

The discussion on the Quebec bridge brought out the opinion from the Minister of Railways that the "Scientific American's" criticisms were not worth considering. It was not so much of an authority.

The shoe combine investigation will be the first under the new act.

The flag resolution of Major Beattie was rejected because of technical flaws by a majority of 40.

A debate on the desirability of making the Senate an elective body was initiated by M. Y. McLean (S. Huron), who moved "That in the opinion of the House the Dominion Senate as at present constituted is not in accordance with the representative institutions of this country, and the Government should take the necessary proceedings to have the Senate made representative of and directly responsible to the people."

Mr. McLean did not think it would be a wise thing to abolish the Senate, as suggested by E. A. Lancaster, because it was a legacy left by the fathers of Confederation. It was designed to protect the minorities of the smaller provinces.

The existing body, he said, consisted of three classes: (1) Those who valued their seats as a respectable refuge, where they may spend their declining years at the expense of the country. (2) Those who valued them for social position and for the facility afforded of advancing their personal and business schemes; and (3) those who gave freely of their time and long experience for the benefit of the country.

An elective Senate, said Mr. McLean, would result in the abolition of the first two classes.

Mr. McLean went on to say that Canada should be divided into Senatorial divisions, each division covering several Commons' electoral constituencies. The Senators should be elected for a period of seven or ten years.

The electoral qualifications, he thought, should differ somewhat from that pertaining to the Commons. Electors should have a small property qualification, and should be compelled to go to the poll and deposit a ballot.

Mr. McLean had also a proposal to make in regard to the veto power of the Upper House, and it was that any bill passed on three successive occasions by the Commons should become law, no matter what the Upper House might think about it.

In closing the discussion Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that Mr. Lennox would no doubt be satisfied if he were to appoint nothing but Conservatives to the Upper House.

The Premier remarked that Mr. McLean's motion had one advantage over those which had preceded it, in plan of reform. He did not think, however, that a proposal for an elective system would meet with the approval either of the House or the country. Upper and Lower Canada had not found the elective system satisfactory.

In view of the experience of the United States, Sir Wilfrid did not think it would be wise to have the members of the Senate all elected by the Legislatures, but he said he was prepared to consider with the Opposition a plan whereby the Legislatures would be given the right to elect a proportion of the members of the second chamber. A reform of the Senate along these lines, he thought, would be more in keeping with our constitution than the plan proposed by the mover of the resolution.

Mr. McLean then withdrew his motion.

Arthur Meighen (Portage la Prairie) moved for a return including all documents and papers and information of every kind available touching on the methods and operations of trusts an combines in the United States.

He expressed the view that if these mergers were not checked they would become more powerful than Parliament.

Hon. Mackenzie King said that the Government had decided to appoint a special solicitor to assist complaining

THREE KINDS OF SCHOOLS

Educational Plans Outlined by the Government.

Sweeping Eight Hour Day Measure is Introduced.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Monday records were broken at the Ontario Legislature yesterday, both by the length of the sitting and mass of public business cleared off the order paper. The sitting was equally notable for the important nature and popular interest of most of the measures under discussion. The Government implemented the promise made in the speech from the throne by introducing a series of proposals for the extension of industrial education, and Sir James Whitney spoke out with characteristic frankness in reference to amateur law reformers who desire the enactment of revolutionary changes in the general law as it now exists.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, presented the Government's plan for the extension of industrial training. The bill authorizes any urban school board to establish general industrial schools, special industrial and technical high schools, co-operative and industrial schools, schools for instruction in fine and applied arts, industrial and technical and evening art schools. The regulations for the schools are to be provided by the Department of Education in the same way as in the case of a high school, and, subject to those regulations, the Minister is to apportion all sums of money appropriated by the Legislature for the establishment and maintenance of such schools. The high school grant at present is apportioned according to the number of pupils, the equipment, and the qualifications of the teachers.

The classification of industrial schools follows the recommendations of Dr. Sneath. General industrial schools are those in which, to the regular course, there are added special classes calculated to prepare pupils for industrial life. Special industrial schools are those providing instructions in theoretical and practical work of particular trades carried on in the district where the school is situated. Co-operative schools are those in which an apprenticeship system is combined with the school course.

It is provided in the bill that every technical school, whether at present in operation or established hereafter, is to be under the management of a committee of twelve, six from the Board of Education, three persons not members of that board who are engaged as employes in manufacturing or other industries carried on in the district, and three employers of labor. This is to be known as the advisory industrial committee.

A. Studholme, Hamilton East, has drafted an eight-hour day and minimum wage bill. The lowest wage is placed at 20 cents an hour. The bill says: "Eight hours a day shall constitute a legal day's work for all workmen employed within the meaning of this act, and no workman shall be required or permitted to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by fire, flood, or danger to life and property.

Another clause declares that a man working more than 48 hours a week shall be deemed to be working overtime, and shall be paid at least one and a half times the rate per hour at which he is engaged.

"Notwithstanding any agreement or understanding to the contrary, made by a workman with his employer, no workman shall be employed and paid at less than 20 cents per hour, irrespective of any amount earned at overtime."

No male under 18 or female under 21 should, according to Mr. Studholme, be allowed to work overtime. A saving clause is inserted to except agricultural labor and cases where all the persons employed are members of the employer's family. This measure is to apply to any contracts made by the Government, and would void such contracts if the provisions of the act were not carried out.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY BY 31 TO 11

Review's Poll of Board of Trade Members To-day Shows Emphatic Opinion Against the Pact-- An Honest Indication of Sentiment-- More Evidence Coming.

The Peterborough Board of Trade is emphatically against the reciprocity agreement, a poll of the members made this morning showing a vote of 31 to 11 against it. This poll was made by the Review to show that the meeting last night, though opposed to reciprocity by 8 to 4, was not at all representative of the strength of opinion on the subject.

INTERVIEWED THE MEMBERS.

The Review secured a list of the members of the Board of Trade and telephoned to them, or interviewed them personally, asking for their vote "for" or "against" the agreement. Some of the members, nearly ten of them, were out of the city and could not be polled. Five of them refused to express an opinion, being either government officials or declining for other reasons to take any stand. Mayor Morrow was one of these.

THEY WERE QUITE EMPHATIC.

Some of those who were asked for their vote said quite emphatically that they were opposed to the agreement. They only wished they could make the vote more emphatic. Many of them were willing to give their reasons, though in this particular instance nothing but "yes" or "no" was recorded. Out of the sixty odd members of the Board of Trade the Review managed to get into touch with close to fifty, there being a few who could not be reached, as they were out of the city. The total result, however, is not affected, it being demonstrated beyond the faintest shadow of a doubt that the Board of Trade is overwhelmingly against the agreement, much more so than the slimly attended meeting last night would indicate. That meeting was pretty much of a farce, for some reason; but the Peterborough Board of Trade has an emphatic opinion just the same, as this test poll indicates. The Review has the list of how the members voted, not for publication, however, but to show that its poll was honestly and correctly obtained, without any desire to influence the result.

WILL PRODUCE MORE EVIDENCE.

The Review will, in a few days, be in a position to produce more evidence from local sources that the agreement is decidedly unpopular in Peterborough, and that its member in the House of Commons will not represent his constituents' opinions unless he opposes the agreement.

HANGMAN DIED FROM PARESIS

Passing of Canada's Official Executioner.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Donald James Rattley, better known as "Radclive the Hangman," for over twenty years the public executioner of Canada, died Sunday at his home in Fern avenue, of paresis. After sending 150 men over the great divide, Radclive has at last gone the way of all flesh. He had not been actively engaged for some time, though he had never been retired, and Ellis, the present encumbent of the position, has been listed only as his assistant.

In later years his terrible task preyed upon Radclive's nerves, and since he hanged Pavale Stefoff two years ago, he had not been able to perform his duties.

The late hangman's neighbors all speak well of him, and this is his greatest tribute, that those who lived nearest to him and knew him as a man as well as a hangman, remember him kindly as a good neighbor and a kindly man, who numbered little children among his friends.

The man followed many ways of life before he settled down to become the hand of justice which should carry out the law of a life for a life. He had been a sailor and had engaged in the whaling trade. He had been a grocer and a cook. He was chef for the Sunnyside Club just before he took his appointment from the Canadian Government.

One of his neighbors had this to say of him: "He was a generous man and would rather give you a dollar than beat you out of a cent." He has lived in the neighborhood for 25 years and his chief characteristics were his openheartedness and his iron nerve."

Radclive's own statement of his view of his job is interesting. He said once when asked what was making him shaky: "Plenty of trouble and a —— of a life like mine." When asked if its was getting on his nerves, he said: "Not the executions, but it is the —— twaddle of the people, either before or after. I get the —— thing off my mind as quickly as I can."

ALIEN LABOR LAW VIOLATED SAYS TELEGRAPHERS' UNION

They Declare That the Places of the Twenty-Five Dismissed Telegraphers Are Being Filled by Men Brought In From American Points —Department at Ottawa Says It Is Unable to Do Anything.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Local officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union are up in arms against the Great North Western Telegraph Co. for alleged infringement of the alien labor law, and a thorough investigation of the methods employed by the company in importing men from the United States to replace those who were dismissed will, it is believed, be demanded by the Toronto men.

Two weeks ago 25 employes of the G. N. W. were served with notices of dismissal for taking part in organizing for higher wages, and of these six Toronto men and five Montreal men will leave the company's employ to-day. Twelve of the Montreal men were given two weeks' notice, but a week ago yesterday seven were reinstated.

To fill the vacancies thus created six men, it is alleged, have been brought over from Detroit and Buffalo to take the places of the Toronto men, and five from New York and Boston, to replace those dismissed in Montreal. The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, who have been championing the rights of the men, suspected that the G. N. W. were engaging these men in the States, and in so doing were violating the alien labor law.

A local official of the union complained to the superintendent of immigration at Ottawa, and drew attention to the fact that a telegrapher had been engaged in Detroit for employment in Toronto, to take the place of an employe dismissed by the Great North Western. The man's name was given to the Department with the additional information that he had been instructed to call at the G. N. W. office in Windsor for his transportation to Toronto.

"Ottawa, Feb. 24, 1911.

"Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt due course of your letter of the 21st inst. and to say in reply that the enforcement of the provisions of the alien labor law is left entirely to the local courts and aggrieved parties, and under the circumstances stated in your letter, I think it would be well for you to seek legal advice.

"I regret that I am unable to assist you in the matter.

"Your obedient servant,

"L. W. Fortier,

"For superintendant of immigration."

The committee representing the men over the entire system will reassemble to-day, when it is expected the matter of taking action will be decided upon.

SAD PLIGHT OF AGED IMBECILE

Taken From Home and Left at Homes of Chatham Officials

Special to The Review.

Chatham, Feb. 28—Sarah McNaughton an aged imbecile was taken from the Home for the Friendless, in a taxicab, sometime during the night, and placed on the door step at the home of Reeve Abraham, in Chatham township. He promptly returned the unfortunate woman to the home of Mayor Brackin in Chatham. The trouble is caused by both municipalities objecting to keep her.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND BEDS WERE DESTROYED IN FIRE

Montreal Warehouse Completely Gutted, Causing Heavy Loss.

Montreal, Feb. 28—Fifteen thousand beds of various sizes, styles and make, representing a value of approximately $150,000, were destroyed by fire in the four-storey warehouse of the Ives Modern Bedstead Co., 117 Queen street, yesterday afternoon. The warehouse is completely gutted, the fire, which originated in the second storey, ravaging it clear to the roof. The ground floor was occupied by the offices of the concern, while the three floors above were given entirely to the storage of manufactured beds.

The fire was a fierce one, due to the fact that the bedsteads in storage were covered with many wrappings of paper and in some instances with slight wooden slats intended for protection in shipping.

Within thirty minutes after the first alarm there were 27 individual streams at work and one water tower. The force for these was supplied by seven steamers of the highest power, some of which can eject 1,400 gallons a minute.

Two firemen were injured during the fire. One came in contact with a live wire while at work on a ladder and was thrown to the ground. He was attended to by the surgeons of Notre Dame Hospital. Another, A. Gauthier, had his hand cut and was also patched up by the surgeons of Notre Dame. There were several men who received minor cuts.

ON LONG SERMONS

Some of the newspapers in Ontario are carrying on a discussion of that old and familiar topic, "How long should a sermon be?" They don't seem to realize that there is only one answer, and it is not stated in minutes or hours. A sermon should last just as long as it is interesting to the congregation or audience.

The Kaiser has commanded that his chaplains shall not preach more than ten minutes. Perhaps his Kaisership knows his chaplains, and hence the order. King George has within the last few days given a command that his chaplains shall preach more than the customary ten minutes. This sounds too good to be true. A man who wants to have a sermon longer is worthy of a crown. King Edward and Queen Victoria found ten minutes compressed with all the eloquent wisdom gathered from the storehouse of the world's learning was quite sufficient for their mental capacity. King George believes he can stand the strain a little better.

Of a truth, there is no rule-of-thumb way by which a sermon may be measured. A preacher after the style of Allan Studholme, M.L.A., who talks like a stream of water coming at eighty pounds pressure through a two-inch nozzle, could saturate the mental sponge in less than ten minutes. A man who drawls his words after the fashion of a southern colonel, in a deliberate and easy-going way, might have got past the "firstly" by the end of the ten minutes. That man is entitled to fifteen. The man who is entitled to twenty minutes must be a very superior grade of preacher, able to keep even the back-benchers from closing an eye, behind the big hat on the lady in front. If he takes thirty minutes, the preacher either has a wonderfully candid opinion of his oratorial and entertaining abilities, or his congregation begins to drop into the somnolent stage where the summer holidays intrude very largely on the mind.

One man can say—this applies equally to writers—as much in ten minutes as another will in twenty. Verbosity is certainly no sign of platform ability. The business man to-day asks for brevity, conciseness and concentration. And so with present-day audiences. It is a pleasure to listen to a sermon where the points are thrown out like battalions moving forward in echelon, where there is no wandering off into the obscurities of verbal by-paths, where the preacher keeps his eye on the main road and arrives at his destination on time.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Conservatives will be held in the Norwood town hall next Friday, the business session in the afternoon and a public meeting in the evening. A large gathering of Conservatives from the country is expected, as there will be a fine gathering of speakers, some of the best talent from Parliament and the Legislature being on the program. Among the speakers will be Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., the old war-horse of the House of Commons, and W. H. Hearst, M.L.A., of Sault Ste. Marie, in addition to the local members. The attention of every Conservative of the riding is called to this meeting, to which the officers of the association hope there will be a large and enthusiastic turnout. With both Dominion and Provincial elections not far away, the political organizations are being pulled into shape, and there is no time like the present to stir up the enthusiasm that wins elections.

A GREAT VICTORY

It was a great victory, the capture of the American fishing vessel Edrie, of Seattle, by H.M.C.S. Rainbow, off the Pacific coast. They say that peace hath her victories not less renowned than war, and here is ocular, auricular, and—what's the word; Oh! here it is—"incontrovertible" evidence that Canada's brand new navy has scored a great triumph in the first conflict.

Let the wondering nation behold the Rainbow gallantly ploughing the salty waves towards port, towing in her foaming wake the giant opponent she so gallantly captured. And not only was the huge $28,000 fisher captured, but her crew also. With such a brave attempt at catching an American fishing vessel, may "us citizens" of Canada not feel assured that in times of stress, the Canadian navy might catch something bigger? Dispatches do not say whether the armament of the Rainbow's acquisition was twelve inch guns, or boat hooks, but the "net" result of the conflict was quite satisfactory. It has been suggested that the crew of the Edrie was sleeping peacefully with the Edrie at anchor, when the smoking funnels of Canada's great leviathan showed on the horizon, and that the anchor was down so far that the Edrie was not able to take to flight before the swift cruiser swooped down on her like an American eagle on a defenceless pullet. Ah! 'twas a great victory!

BOARD OF TRADE

The Board of Trade meeting last night to consider the important question of reciprocity, was a farce and a joke. Two or three interested members thought enough of the importance to Canada of the question to come prepared to say something on it; but aside from these two or three, the contributions to the fund of knowledge on the subject, even from a local standpoint, were decidedly meagre.

There were thirteen members of the board present, including the president, out of a large nominal membership. Whether the members were not sufficiently interested, or desired to have no say on the subject, is a question rather hard to answer, but the fact is that the great majority of the members were conspicuous by their absence. Mr. T. F. Matthews and Dr. Morrison against the pact, and Mr. D. W. Dumble for reciprocity, furnished the discussion of the evening, very largely, but aside from their arguments, the vote, though decidedly against reciprocity, was not at all satisfactory, through not being a representative opinion of the Board of Trade, as a whole. There should have been at least fifty members of the board present to give the vote some dignity.

Peterborough is concerned in that two of its manufacturing industries will be considerably hurt if the measure goes through, but although the city is spending $4,000 in publicity, to get more manufacturing concerns here, the members of the Board of Trade are not sufficiently interested to turn out to discuss the welfare of those already here, and which may be hurt.

It was most certainly the opinion of the meeting, including those of the ordinary public present, that there should be an opinion from the people on the subject before the measure went into force. As Dr. Morrison pointed out, reciprocity was overwhelmingly defeated in 1891, and since that time the question has not been a large one in any election. The elections of 1904 and 1908 were not fought on this issue at all; the Government has no expression of opinion from the people on this important subject in recent years, since times have changed. There may be honest differences of opinion on the merits of reciprocity, but we think there can be only one opinion as to the advisability of getting the mandate of the people at large for the scheme before it goes into effect. The Laurier Government may be doing something entirely against the wish of the majority of the people—and we think they are. Let there be an appeal to the people before it goes through.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, in advocating special reciprocity, referred to the former treaty, the one of 1854-66. He claimed that it made Canada unduly prosperous; that the Canadian farmers got their Boston quotations each day, shipped their barley and other products across the border, were paid quickly, and had a good close-at-hand market. In an article on this old Elgin treaty, published recently, George D. Griffin, who was in business at the time of the treaty—this article has been published in the Review—says that it was NOT a good thing for Canada. He has had actual experience of the conditions and speaks with authority. As a matter of fact, conditions in Canada are so vastly different to-day from what they were in the time of the Elgin treaty, that the question must be judged solely on its merits to-day. The Toronto Star, a leading reciprocity organ, asserted this emphatically in its editorial columns on Saturday. The old treaty has nothing to do with it, as no fair comparison can be made.

Mr. Dumble wanted to know in effect why the American market was not better than the British; why the short haul was not better for the producer and consumer; why a close-at-hand market was not more profitable? Mr. Dumble forgets that Canada has been a prolific borrower from Great Britain; that Canada has now about $1,500,000,000 of British money invested in the development of Canada. This investment is nearly all in the shape of 4 or 5 per cent. bonds. Without the aid of the British money market, Canada could not develop her resources, but would be forced to await the coming of American capital to do it for us. Canadian enterprise would be American-controlled, and not Canadian, as the United States does not buy Canadian bonds to any extent. The Britisher invests in Canada, not only because Canada is a country of great natural wealth, but because it is British. If we were to cut off our trade with Britain, for the sake of getting the United States market, our tie with Britain would be largely sentimental, and sentimentality does not last long where trade cuts in. It is to Canada's best interest not to forsake the old love for the new, and that is what the reciprocity business proposes.

A RECESSIONAL

For Canada's Days of Peril

God of our fathers, in this day
When danger faces our fair land,
Teach those the error of their way
Who with a bold and impious hand
Would our great heritage betray.
God of the nations, guard us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Our fathers built on solid base
Inspired by fervent love and zeal,
True patriots all, of sturdy race,
Sought but to serve the common weal,
Shall we their memories disgrace?
God of our fathers, guard us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Now hostile hosts behold with greed
The goodly riches of our State,
Seek us to serve their selfish need
And lure us to a recreant's fate,
Guard us against the traitorous deed,
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Arouse the manhood of our land,
Inflame all hearts with patriot fire
From ocean unto ocean's strand
Strengthen a people's righteous ire,
Illume the darkness with thy brand,
Spirit of freedom, guard us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Still waves the ensign of our pride,
The meteor flag of truth and right
For which our fathers fought and died,
The symbol of an empire's might
Shall not be lightly set aside.
'Gainst those who now would tamely yield,
O, Lord of Hosts, be Thou our Shield.

—JOHN BOYD

Children's Scalp Sores Are Healed by Zam-Buk

Mothers are well aware how frequently children contract scalp sores ringworm, etc., at school. Some little sufferer is sent to school with a sore of this nature. At play, the children change caps, and right there the infection is spread—the damage done.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 4485 Amherst St. Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three year old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before, and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days, they ceased to trouble the child; and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk, they were completely healed. In view of these facts, I feel it my duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns, and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc., etc., and rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"I am sure of it, and there is no reason why the idea should surprise you, madame, since it has not for a moment left your own mind. As to the rest of us, is it not true, gentlemen, that the idea has occurred to each one of us at the same moment on the day when we took luncheon on the Terrace of the Bold when all our eyes were hidden by the black glasses? If I except Mrs. Rance, who is there among us that did not feel the presence of Larsan at that time?"

"That is a question which ought to be propounded to Professor Stangerson as well as to the rest of us," interposed Arthur Rance instantly, "for from the moment when we begin any course of reasoning along these lines I can see no object in not having the professor, who was at the table at luncheon with us on that day, here at this time also."

"Mr. Rance!" cried the Lady in Black.

"Yes, I must repeat it, if you will pardon me," replied Edith's husband haughtily. "M. Rouletabille was wrong to generalize when he said, 'All the members of the house party' "—

"Professor Stangerson is so far from us in spirit that I have no need of his presence here. Although Professor Stangerson had lived with us in the chateau, he was not one of us in regard to feeling the presence of Larsan on that day. And Larsan is here among us."

But I launched out, and, forgetting that I had promised Mme. Edith to defend Old Bob, I started in to attack him for the pleasure of proving Rouletabille in the wrong, and, besides, I felt Edith would not bear rancor against me for very long.

"Old Bob," I began, "was also at that luncheon on the terrace, and you take him entirely out of your calculations on account of this little ruby pin. But of what use is this little pin to prove to us that Old Bob was rowed away by Tullio, who waited for him at the orifice of a gallery leading from the shaft to the sea, if we cannot discover how Old Bob could, as he said, have gone by way of the shaft, which we found closed from above and on the outside?"

"Which you found closed, you mean," returned Rouletabille, fixing his eyes upon me with a strange expression, which somehow embarrassed me. "I, on the contrary, found the shaft open. But I had had time to run to the shaft and find out that it had been opened."

"And to close it again!" I cried. "And why did you close it? Whom did you wish to deceive?"

"You, monsieur."

He pronounced these two words with a contempt so crushing that the blood rushed to my face. I arose. Every eye was turned upon me, and as I remembered the rudeness with which Rouletabille had treated me a little while ago before Darzac I had the horrible feeling that every eye was suspecting me—accusing me. Yes; I felt myself entirely wrapped around by the atrocious fancy in the mind of each and all that I might be Larsan.

I! Larsan!

I looked at each one in turn.

"Rouletabille!" I cried madly, feeling my voice almost smothered in my throat. "You do not, you cannot suspect"—

At this moment a pistol shot sounded outside, very near to the square tower. We all leaped to our feet, remembering the order given by the reporter to the three servants to fire upon any one who should attempt to go out of the square tower. Edith uttered a cry and tried to run out of the room, but Rouletabille, who had not made so much as a gesture, calmed her with a word.

"If any one had drawn upon him," he said, "the three men would have fired together. That pistol shot was merely a signal—a direction for me to begin."

Turning to me, he continued:

"M. Sainclair, you ought to know that I never suspect any person or anything without previously having satisfied myself upon the 'ground of pure reason.' Larsan is here among us, and the power of pure reason is going to show him to you. So be seated again, if you please, and do not take your eyes from me, for I am going to begin on this paper the corporeal demonstration of the possibility of 'the body too many.' "

First of all, he investigated to make sure that the bolts of the door behind him were closely drawn; then, returning to the table, he took up a compass.

"I have the intention of making my demonstration," he said, "along the same lines on which the 'body too many' has produced itself. It will be thereby only the more irrefutable."

And with his compass he took upon M. Darzac's drawing the measure of the radius of the circle which represented the space occupied by the Tower of the Bold, so that he was immediately afterward able to trace the same circle upon a piece of white paper which he had fastened with copper headed nails to another drawing board.

When the circle was traced Rouletabille, putting down his compass, picked up the tiny dish of red paint and asked M. Darzac whether he recognized it as the coloring matter he had used. M. Darzac replied that, to the best of his belief, it was the same paint which he had mixed for his wash drawing.

A good half of the paint had dried up in the bottom of the dish; but, according to the opinion expressed by M. Darzac, the part which remained would upon paper give nearly the same tint with which he had "washed" the drawing of the peninsula of Hercules.

"No one has touched it," said Rouletabille very gravely, "and nothing has been added to it save a single tear. Besides, you will see that a tear more or less in the paint cup would detract nothing from the value of my demonstration."

Thus saying, he dipped the brush in the paint and began carefully to "wash" all the space occupied by the circle which he had previously traced.

When he had finished he looked at his watch and said:

"You may see, ladies and gentlemen, that the coating of paint which covers my circle is neither more nor less thick than that which covers the circle of M. Darzac. It is almost the same thing—the same tint."

"Undoubtedly," rejoined M. Darzac. "But what does all this signify? I was certainly in enough of an ill humor when I found the state it was in. Old Bob had ruined my drawing by letting his skull roll over it."

"We are there!" spoke up Rouletabille quick as a flash. And he lifted from the bureau the "oldest skull of the human race." He turned it over and showed the crimsoned jaws to Darzac.

Then he arose, holding the skull in the crook of his arm, and went into the alcove in the wall, lighted by a large window and crossed by bars, which had been a loophole for cannon in the ancient times and which M. Darzac had used as a dressing room. There he struck a match and lighted a lamp filled with spirits of wine which stood upon a little table. Upon this lamp he set a little pot which he had previously filled with water. The skull still lay in the crook of his arm.

$10,000 Fire at New Dublin.

Brockville, Feb. 28.—J. S. Rowson's large general store at New Dublin, caught fire yesterday afternoon, and, together with his residence and outbuildings, was totally destroyed, entailing a loss of $10,000, which is well covered by insurance. When the news reached Brockville, it was feared that the adjoining town hall could not be saved.

Sir Alphonse Pelletier Better.

Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 28.—Dr. Walter P. Conway, late yesterday afternoon, pronounced Sir Alphonse Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, out of danger. The aged statesman is improving steadily. Capt. Victor Pelletier, his aide-de-camp, will take Sir Alphonse home next week.

Entire Crew Dead.

Odessa, Feb. 28.—A blizzard in the Caucausus and over the Caspian Sea has cost many lives. A derelict barge was found ice-bound near Astrakan yesterday with the entire crew of 30 frozen to death.

Left Millions For Research.

Paris, Feb. 27.—Auguste Loutre Fil, who was born a peasant and became one of the richest French financiers in Russia, died recently. He had been impressed by the meagre endowment of science in France in comparison with the United States, and determined to set an example for his countrymen. His will, which has just been made public, discloses that he bequeathed $700,000 to the Academy of Sciences, $500,000 to the University of Paris and $20,000 to the Pasteur Institute for research work.

Afloat on Ice Fields.

St. Petersbrug, Feb. 27.—Despatches from Helsingfors and Narva report that a portion of the ice floe on which 500 fishermen went adrift in the Gulf of Finland several days ago, has been driven ashore at Heiskar Island. Forty of the fishermen had found safety on this floe. Another portion, with many men, grounded near Kolwisto, in Bjorko Sound.

Fielding Hung In Effigy.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—A effigy of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, hanging from some electric wires 25 feet above the ground, was the spectacle which greeted a number of Grand Trunk employes at the Point St. Charles yards, as they passed the corner of Knox and Hibernia streets, early yesterday morning on their way to work.

The effigy was draped in the Stars and Stripes, upon which was crudely painted in big black letters the name of the Finance Minister. The "body" was not "cut down" until 10 o'clock.

Garrison Mutinied.

Vienna, Feb. 28.—A news agency despatch from Constantinople reports that the Yildiz Kiosk garrison at the Turkish capital mutinied yesterday when ordered to Yemen, Arabia, to crush the native revolt. The despatch added that the mutineers, reinforced by a battery of artillery, were besieged in the palace barracks by loyal troops and that a fight was expected at any time. Grave fears are felt that the mutiny will extend to the entire Turkish army.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—The market was steady at opening, with prices unchanged to 1/8d lower. The weakness in America was offset by a large decrease in local stocks here and smaller Russian shipments than expected. Following the opening, the market showed a hardening tendency, with some covering of shorts and lighter offerings. The strength in Buenos Ayres at the close on Saturday and less pressure to sell Argentine steamers, with a better general demand for cargoes, and firmer Australian offers, caused the advance.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Part of the responsibility for an advance in wheat to-day was blamed on the calendar. The rise followed covering by short sellers, who believe that March is an unfavorable month for them. Quite a rush of buying occurred, and the close was 3/8c to 1/2c to 5/8c higher than forty-eight hours before. Corn finished 1/8c to 1/4c down; oats off 1/8c to 1/4c to 3/8c, and provisions varying from 5c to 7 1/2c dearer to 2 1/2c decline.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 99 carloads, consisting of 1923 cattle, 249 hogs, 266 sheep and lambs, 25 calves and 55 horses.

Exporters.

Exporters were off in price from last Monday, on an average 20c per cwt., and in some instances 25c.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $5.90 to $6.10; but only six heifers, 1300 lbs. each, the best on the market, brought the latter price. Loads of good, $5.50 to $5.75, and one load, $5.87 1/2; medium cattle, $5.20 to $5.45; common, $4.90 to $5.15; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; canners, $2.50 to $3; butcher bulls, $4.50 to $5.

Milkers.

There were few milkers and springers offered, and prices were unchanged at $40 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

A limited number of veal calves sold at $4 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The lamb trade was easier. Sheep, ewes, sold at $4.25 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.40.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.05; and $6.75 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 25 were 2400 cattle, 1080 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 400 calves. The supply on the market amounted to 975 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 1300 hogs and 125 calves.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being unchanged from a week ago. The attendance of buyers was fairly large, including some from Quebec; and, as they were all in want of some beef, the demand was good, and supplies of all grades were ample to fill requirements; consequently a fairly active trade was done.

Choice steers sold at 6 3/4c; good at 6 1/4c to 6 1/2c; fairly good at 5 3/4c to 6c; fair at 5 1/4c to 5 1/2c, and the lower grades at 4 1/2c to 5c per pound. A few extra choice cows brought as high as 6c, and from that down to 3 1/2c was paid for the commoner ones. Sales of extra choice bulls were made at 5 3/4c to 6c, and the lower grades at from 4c to 5 1/4c per pound.

The tone of the market for hogs was steady, and prices showed no change, as compared with those paid last Wednesday. The demand from packers was good, and supplies were ample, sales of selected lots being made at $7.50 to $7.65 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Owing to the continued small receipts of sheep and lambs, a stronger feeling has developed in the market, and prices have advanced. The demand is fairly good, and sales of sheep were made at 4 1/2c to 5c, and lambs at 6 1/4c to 6 1/2c per pound. The demand for calves was good, of which the offerings were small, and prices ruled high at from $4 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

What Do You Think of This ?

How often we hear men say, "Yes, I'd insure my life if I was only sure I could keep it up. I could pay it alright as long as I had my health, but if sickness or accident laid me low I would have to give it up and lose the protection just at the time I needed it most." Now, the Sun Life Assurance Co.

OF CANADA

issues a policy just to suit such a case. Under this policy, should the assured become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the policy is kept in force during such disability, without any lien or charge against it. Or, in lieu of this, the Company will commence forthwith to pay to the assured, one twentieth of the policy each year for twenty years. Should the assured die before the twenty annual payments have been paid, the remaining instalments will be paid to such beneficiary as the assured may designate.

Is not this the Climax of Liberality?

The SUN LIFE lives up to its motto of "PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

Investigate this proposition before insuring.

THEATRICAL

The Vandervilt Lady Minstrels

The Vandervilt lady minstrels drew a large audience to the Grand last night where they presented a very good minstrel show.

The acrobatic and contortionist feats of Mr. and Mrs. Vandervilt were excellent and the work of these two artists excelled anything seen here for some time.

The lady minstrels all possess clear, well-trained voices which they use to good advantage in several bright snappy choruses. Miss Dolly Vandervilt was heartily applauded in all her song numbers. The vaudeville sketch which concludes the performance, was humorous.

The minstrels are worthy of patronage and will be at the Grand to-night and to-morrow night.

THE BOARDS MEETING.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The small attendance at the Board of Trade meeting last night was chiefly because the members were afraid that Mr. Dumble would try and bully the meeting and talk it to death. He did the same thing at a little meeting the night before and though snubbed at the polls a few years back he keeps on "presenting" his views or whatever you call them, to a tired audience.

Yours, etc.,
DISGUSTED.

WILL CONDUCT THE MISSION AT ST. CYPRIANG

Rev. Canon Davidson to Take Responsible Duties in General Parochial Mission at Toronto

Rev. Canon Davidson left for Toronto this afternoon to take part in the General Parochial Mission, which will be held from March 1 to 12. Over thirty churches are co-operating in this large work and missionaries have been drawn from England, United States and from different parts of Canada, including well-known ladies of the church.

Rev. Dr. Symonds, late of St. Luke's church, of this city, will conduct the misssion at St. James' cathedral; Rev. Mr. Davidson has been invited to take the responsible duty at St. Cyprians, which is located in the north-west part of the city on Bathurst street. It has a large congregation composed chiefly of mechanics, the rector being Rev. C. A. Seager. Most extensive preparations have been made in the parishes during the last three months for the mission. The following is Rev. Mr. Davidson's letter to the members of St. Cyprian's:

It is to be my privilege and responsibility to conduct in St. Cyprian's a Parochial Mission in connection with the Toronto General Mission, from March 1st to 12th.

From the peculiar circumstances of my call, I cannot but be convinced that I am Divinely sent to do God's gracious work in your midst. With confidence, then, I propose to do my part, and ask you to begin now to do yours.

Thus offering our united efforts to God, His blessing will certainly decend to the quickening of our spiritual lives and to our refreshing and up-building.

As to some of the means:—Pray with compelling earnestness and constancy, both individually and together. Look forward and upward, and expect great things without asking just how this will come to pass. Put away absolutely all thoughts of criticism and prejudice, and that stiffness which too often marks members of the church. I hold myself free to adopt unusual means for the accomplishment of this unusual work, and I depend upon you to carry into prompt action all directions and suggestions.

Do not, however, expect excitement, or even spiritual entertainment, though the great business before us is bound to be interesting.

I ask everyone who can do so to attend the preparatory meetings, which are now being held each Sunday after the evening services. These are most important as helping people to get into the spirit of the mission.

In the atmosphere of prevailing prayer, and with the spiritual forces to be exerted, great things are bound to come to pass, and your own life may be changed for ever as "Jesus of Nazareth passes by."

The mission is a definitely personal thing, and I want you to give me the opportunity of coming into individual contact with you, for which purpose I shall be, between services, in the vestry or at the rectory. I cannot come to you and so the only way is for you to come to me, in the interests of our common work.

Looking forward to our partnership in all this,

Faithfully yours,
JOHN CHEYNE DAVIDSON.

TO TAKE UP WORK OF Y.M.C.A.

Sanford Hall Leaving Bank of Toronto

The many friends of Mr. Sanford Hall will no doubt be greatly surprised to learn that he is leaving the employ of the Bank of Toronto, on the 1st of March, to take up Y.M.C.A. work.

Mr. Hall has always been actively identified with the work of the Y.M.C.A. and particularly with the gymnastic department. For a while he will assist the business end of the local association, where his help will be of material benefit.

Mr. Hall's place at the bank will be filled by F. Doyle, of the head office of the bank at Toronto.

CHIMES

St. John's Sunday school has now contributed $12 towards the Chimes Fund. The scholars are taking an enthusiastic interest in the matter.

Golden Link Lodge, No. 81, Daughters of Rebekah, I.O.O.F., at its last meeting unanimously voted $35 to the fund, which is receiving favorable consideration from several other lodges. It is probable that all the fraternal societies of the city will have a part in the project. A complete list of the contributing societies will shortly be published.

An additional out-of-town subscription has been received from Mrs. C. A. Gossage, of Gravenhurst.

WAS REMANDED TILL THURSDAY

Further Information Wanted About James Doald—A Vicious Dog

James Doald, who was remanded by Magistrate Dumble last week, when he appeared to answer a charge of indecent exposure, came up to-day.

The case was again enlarged until Thursday to allow further information to be secured about him. He said that he worked in the C.G.E. as a machinist, and inquiry will be made there as to his character.

VICIOUS DOG.

Arthur Head was charged with harboring a dog dangerous to the community. A man named Hudgins showed in police court marks on his arm where the dog had bitten him. The owner has had the dog sent out of the city, and the Magistrate ordered it to be shot should it appear inside the city limits again.

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY MET

Regular Meetinu With a Speech on History of Peterboro

The regular meeting of the Philomathean Society of the Collegiate Institute was held in the assembly hall last evening. The program which was of a very pleasing nature was given by the four fisrt forms pupils, as follows—

1. Foresters Sound the Cheerful Horn, Glee Club.
2. Violin Solo—Mr. W. Wilson.
3. Recitation—Miss Gladys Fife.
4. Vocal Solo—Miss Bernice Billington.
5. Instrumental—Misses Leahy and Delaire.
6. Speech—"History of Peterboro" Mr. Derry.
7. Vocal Duet in Chinese—Misses Smith.
8. Piano Solo—Miss Marion Pinchin
9. Reading—Miss Cottingham.

Mr. Serigley acted as critic.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "The National Anthem."

LEAGUE HEARD TALK ON FISH

Enjoyable Evening For Young People of Charlotte Street

An instructive talk on "Fish" was delivered at the regular meeting of Charlotte street church Epworth League last night by Mr. Elcome. There was a very fair attendance and R. F. Downey occupied the chair.

Mr. Elcome spoke of the principal varieties of fish which are to be found in Ontario, referring more especially to the bass, the sunfish and the maskinonge. He had specimens with him to illustrate his talk.

He also told of some of the best means to catch fish and the right kind of bait to use, afterwards applying his words spiritually.

He urged those present to be fishers of men, and to use the best bait possible, namely the religion of Christ.

A vocal duet by the two talented children of Dr. Smith, the missionary in India, was well given.

Miss Sophie Elliott also gave a piano instrumental.

A vote of thanks was moved and seconded by Rev. G. W. Henderson and J. McBain to Mr. Elcome for his excellent address.

LECTURE TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Nowfoundland Dealt With by Rev. Mr. Carpenter

A most interesting and onstructive lecture on Newfoundland was given at the fortnightly meeting of St. John's A. Y. P. A., by the Rev. Chas. Carpenter. The lecture was well patronized about 150 people being present. Rev. Mr. Carpenter proved by the views shown that Newfoundland was a wealthy country in its mining and fishing operations. During the lecture, he told some amusing stories, and the singing of the National Anthem brought a pleasant evening to a close.

The magnificent lantern lent by Mr. Fiske has a most powerful lens which showed off the slides to great advantage.

St. John's Church

To-morow being Ash Wednesday the services in St. John's church will be at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The choristers are asked to be present at the latter service and practice immediately afterwards. The next weeks' practice will be on Thursday as usual, but up to Easter from now on will be held in the church.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

NO FIGHT AT HAMILTON

Lang and Wildfong Not Permitted to go Ten Round Bout

Hamilton, Feb. 27—The police refused to allow the bout scheduled for to night between Hilliard Lang of Toronto, and Clayton Wildfong of Berlin. Both principals were placed under arrest, but bail had been arranged for in the afternoon, and they were immediately released on $200 bail each.

Three preliminaries were not interrupted and Lang and Wildfong entered the ring and donned the gloves. Eddie McBride of Buffalo, the referee, made the announcement that only members of the club had been admitted and that the men were simply engaged to give an exhibition of ten rounds, they were not fighting for a purse, he said, and would merely give an exhibition. The gloves were six ounces, as provided by law. Deputy Whatley, who was supported by Chief Smith and about thirty policemen, refused to allow the men to fight. The club claimed to be within its rights, and will make a test case.

Spectators will be allowed to exchange their tickets for the next exhibition.

The preliminaries provided good sport, with no decisions. One was scheduled for four rounds, but the Deputy Chief instructed the referee not to allow it to go more than three.

PUCKLAND

Pillpounders and the C.G.E. office team battled to a 2—2 tie in a Mercantile League games at the rink last night.

WARNING—KEEP AWAY.

Visitors to the Brock street rink are requested to seek entertainment elswhere this evening between eight and nine o'clock, as some of the Examiner employees and the Review hockey team meet in the annual press game.

Ottawa Free Press—Ross and Oatman had been showing a good deal of over zealous attention to each other during the whole game. Once, in the second period, Oatman went down and out with a crack over the back of the head from the Wanderer man's stick. The blow might have been accidental and again it mightn't, but things reached a climax between the pair when in checking Ross, Oatman appeared to swing his stick at the Wanderer point. Ross hit back and both rushed into a clinch from which they were separated and both sent off.

At the penalty box hostilities were renewed and it took the combined efforts of officials and players to pry the pair apart. Spectators leaped the fence and out on the ice and there looked to be a fair chance of a repetition of a free-for-all that occured earlier in the week at an intermediate game. Westmount's stalwart bluecoats, however, made their appearance on the ice from all parts of the rink and arrests were freely threatened. Peace was eventually restored however. Ross and Oatman retired to their respective dressing rooms and the balance of the game was completed without further disorder. Wanderers having four men on the ice to Quebec's six.

CURLING

Five rinks went to Toronto to-day to play the return friendly game with the Victoria Club. Messrs. Neill, Matthews, Giroux, Foote and Mellroy will skip their rinks in the game this afternoon and to-night, the vice skips will have charge.

THE RING

When would Sam Langford be without a manager? He would be either a porter in a hotel or scrapping at some of the all night resorts for $2 an evening. The clever black can neither read nor write, and when Joe Woodman arranges a match for him Sam has to make his cross on documents. In Woodman, however, he has about the best manager in the business. Joe has made one fortune for himself and another for Langford. He knows that a match well made is half won, and so Sam has only to half win his match, Joe having attended to the other half when articles were signed. He will not hesitate to prevent Sam from entering the ring at the last moment, should the promoters or the other party to the contest fail ever so slightly to carry out the agreement, although Langford is the sort of boxer who would go on and fight for the fun of the thing any time, and place. Woodman's insistence on what he believes to be his rights, has made him the most unpopular man in the game with promoters, and not long ago led to the boxing clubs of Philadelphia determining that never should any man he manages be permitted to make a match in the Quaker City.

THREE TEAM TIE IN BANK LEAGUE

Montreals Won From Ottawa-Dominion With 3-2 Score

Montreals won a hard Bank-League game from Ottawa-Dom. yesterday afternoon, by 3 2 and a three cornered tie, now exists. Ottawa-Dom. and Royal Commerce play Thursday and the winner meets Montreal, Saturday, the latter team having drawn the bye.

The score at half-time yesterday was 2-2 and the contest was replete with the usual incidents of which this league is the originator and sole handing out agency.

Fred. Kelly made a satisfactory referee. The teams were:—

Montreals—Goal, Sawers; point, Radcliffe, cover, Perks, centre, Elliott wings, Fitzgerald and Wilson.

Ottawa-Dom.— Goal, Sheffield; point, Quinlan, cover, Ross; centre, Thompson; wings, Corkery and Cork.

BASEBALL

Another famous baseball star has gone into the discard. He is Lou Criger, the veteran catcher, who will be a free agent on March 1 by reason of no contract having been offered him by the New York Highlanders. Manager Chase will take "Duke" Farrell south to coach the pitchers, Heretofore, one of Criger's chief duties.

FRITZ MOHL WAS EASY FOR GOTCH

Yankee Rogers Lasted 16 min. 28 Secs.—Greek Was a Sticker

New York, Feb. 27—Frank Gotch, the world's champion heavyweight wrestler undertook to throw three men, allowing them twenty minutes each, at the Harlem Casino to night. He threw the first two, but struck a Tartar in the third.

With a crotch hold and a half Nelson he downed Fritz Mohl, a Swiss, in 7 minutes 46 secs. With a half Nelson and toe hold he put Yankee Rogers of Buffalo on the mat in 16 minutes 28 seconds. The third man was William Demetral, the Greek. Gotch worked hard, but the Greek was both strong and agile, and the twenty minutes passed without his being thrown. During their struggles the Greek rolled out of the ring, but was not injured. Zbyszko, the Pole, and two backers, announced from the ring an offer of $20,000 for a match with Gotch, with an additional $5,000 for expenses. The crowd listened attentively, but Gotch made no reply.

THE TURF

The Canadian Sportsman's summary of results of this winter's ice races in eastern Canada, shows the trotting mare Emily Morris at the head of the list of money winners. She won four races, and was once second, earning $1,6.5. Margot Leonard, five wins and one second, won $960; Ned Wilkes, $510, and Prince Greenlander $450. Furioso leads the pacers, winning $1,017 in four firsts and two seconds. Ritchie won five races and $912. Other side-wheelers that won $500 and over were: Joe Ewing, $735; Lou Jean, $730; Hal B. Jun., $630; Jennie Hal, $550; Jennie W. and Earl, $500 each. These results cover the meetings at Toronto, Port Perry, Lindsay, Peterboro, Belleville, Ottawa and Montreal.

YOUNG LADIES PLAYED HOCKEY

Local Team Won at Lakefield by 6-1 Score

That the young ladies are worthy exponents of the hockey game, was evidenced at Lakefield last evening, when seven of this city's fairest daughters won in an exhibition with the young ladies of Lakefield.

The score at half time was 2—0 for the visiting players, and at full time 6—1, Miss Mann "slamming the rubber" in the opposing nets for the first two counters of the contest. The goals in the second half were scored by Miss Brown, Miss O. Cavanagh 2, and Miss R. Cavanagh for Peterborough, and Miss Simpson for Lakefield. For the winners, Miss Brown, at rover, was probably the best. Miss Graham played a splendid game between the nets. Miss Simpson was the best for Lakefield.

After the game the victorious hockeyists and their friends were entertained and the trip was a thoroughly enjoyable one for all.

RUNNING

Buffalo, February 27.—That George V. Bonhag, the Irish-American cyclone, of New York city, is still "Bonhag the Invincible," was proven beyond a doubt here Saturday night in the 74th Armories, when he made Jack Tait and Arnold Knox, the Toronto cracks, look as if they had anchors overboard in the one-and-a-half-mile handicap. Bonhag ambled in new world's record time. He did 6.47 2-5, beating the former record made by Tait in Madison Square Garden last March by 4 and 2-5 seconds, and comes within one second of the world's outdoor record, made by Tommy Conneff, the famous New York runner, over sixteen years ago.

THE INDIAN MOTHER.

Agnes Deans Cameron Writes on Women of the West.

Guiltless of Kindergarten, Mothers' Meetings, or Women's Clubs, with no household column in the daily press, or "Votes for Women" in the market-place, without having heard a single sermon on the "duty of the homemaker," the Indian woman of the Canadian West and North is a faithful wife and ideal mother. Her children are taught to reverence and respect their parents, to be kindly to one another, to earn their own living by the work of their hands. They worship a Great Spirit, and look forward to a future state, sharing the belief with the rest of us that "there the good shall be happy."

In the adjustment of white burdens to red backs, the respective duties of man and wife are clearly defined, to the woman falling the heavy end of the burden. A man claims his wife when he can prove himself a mighty hunter, with skill of gun and trap sufficient to provide food for two. This is his part of the bargain, and he resolutely does no more. When he has succeeded in bringing down a bear, a moose, or a caribou, indicating the scene of the kill with broken twigs or a blazed tree, the man grandly walks back to camp empty handed. Burdened as she may be by two or three children clinging to her skirt, as well as by the papoose upon her back, it is the duty of the woman to set out from camp, find the spoil and drag the quarry back to the tepee. Arrived at camp, it is she who skins the animals and dresses the flesh for food. Hers, too, is the task to scrape the skin, cure it, tan it, and work it up into garments for her household.

Solomon's eulogy of Mrs. Owl-plucked-out-his-eye or Mrs. Red-sky-of-the-morning, adjusted to the latitude of 70 degrees North would read, "She seeketh fish and the flesh of the moose and worketh diligently with her hands; she riseth also while it is yet night and scrapeth the skins for garments."

In the building of empire on this frontier, the woman, red or white, plays her part. During the course of a six weeks' journey up the Peace River in an open boat two years ago, one evening at dusk we put into the bank where the Little Red River makes into the Peace, and there in the silent wilderness, 500 miles north of the railroad discovered the home of Tom Kerr, of the Hudson Bay Co., his Scottish wife, and their four bairns. The picture stumbled upon was a little bit of empire in the making.

Tom had been off all day cutting meadow-grass, and was now wending his way home with a load of it in a little cart drawn by a wall-eyed mare. At her side frisked a foal, and two stag-hounds ran back and forward between the master and his shack. The children bounded out to greet their father. "Oh, daddy, daddy, the red coo broke awa' from the byre and is far awa' on the ither side of the burn!" Around us were cows, chickens, trustworthy old nags, porridge for breakfast, and we heard "the tongue that Shakespeare spake," rendered in an accent born far ayont the Tweed.

Across the mouth of the Little Red River Tom Kerr has a fishing-seine. The net yielded seven fish that night, and they were of five different species—trout, ling, sucker, jackfish, and something else that Tom calls a "Maria." For 365 days every year this net furnishes food for the family, in summer in the flowing water, and in winter under the ice.

This is one of the most beautiful spots in the whole North Countree. Long after Tom and Mrs. Tom are under the gowans, and the little Kerrs possess the land, some capitalist will rear his summer villa on the site of this home of the sturdy pioneers, and there will be populous cities along the Peace.

One may not hope to write the shortest chapter in the history of empire and keep from the records the deed of a Scot. It was over a hundred years ago that Alexander Mackenzie started across the map from the Peace River pushing his questing canoe through interior waterways to discover, if he might, an unknown route to the Pacific Ocean.

His persevering fortitude allowed him ultimately to attain the wide Pacific sweep, to dip his brush in vermillion and write there with red letters on a black board, "Alexander Mackenzie from Canada, by land, 1793." Mackenzie was the first man to cross the continent of America from ocean to ocean north of the latitude of Mexico.

To-day every nation and every tongue has its part in the growing history of Western Canada. Canada recognizes no established religion. Her proud boast is that on her fertile prairies the expatriated outcast and the religious refugee of every creed, tenet, caste, or color, can find unhampered opportunity to worship as the dictates of his conscience prompt, the God of his fathers. Among the Galicians, Ruthenians, and Doukhobors, until successive harvests have furnished funds sufficient for church-building, God is supplicated in open sunlight under the incomparable blue of Canadian skies. These folk justify their open-air meetings with the argument. "God is not glorified if our people build a church, and present Him with the mortgage."—Agnes Deans Cameron in Graphic.

Just Due.

The towns of Waterloo and Berlin, Ont., are in much the same relative position as are the twin cities of North Alberta, Edmonton and Strathcona, or the twin ports at the head of Lake Superior, Port Arthur and Fort William. There's some talk of Waterloo and Berlin amalgamating, and Charlie Mills, the well-known merchant and politician of Berlin, says that Waterloo's attitude concerning the proposed union is like that of a Scotch girl of whom he heard. A man whom she had known only a short time asked the Scotch girl to marry him, and she said: "I'll marry you, but I'll take a bit o' wooing first."

ARMED ROBBERS ATTACKED HOUSE

Details of the Murder of London Man

London, Feb. 28.—Details of the murder of James MacGarvey, of London, Ont., and his oil fields manager, Talbot Barnard, recently returned from Canada, at Grosney, in the Caucasus, have been received. Armed robbers attacked the house while MacGarvey, his wife and Barnard were at supper. The robbers intercepted a boy who was giving the larm, killed him and also the watchman. They then attacked MacGarvey, who was killed by Caucausian knives.

Barnard tried to carry Mrs. MacGarvey to safety, but was overtaken and murdered, and the woman stunned. The murderers then stabbed the cook and finally decamped with £100 in cash. Two natives are implicated, and a third when arrested shot himself. The Cossacks are still scouring the country.

Mrs. MacGarvey is in Vladikavkas hospital, and her condition is now not serious. MacGarvey was the father of the wife of Stanley Blaker, Creffield road, Ealing. Occasionally he visited there. Barnard's grandmother was a great Ealing philanthropist. Her aunts are the Misses Barnard, Grange road. His wife and child are staying there now, and intended joining him in a few weeks. Mr. Blaker leaves for Russia to-day to bring back Mrs. MacGarvey.

BILL MINER IS CAUGHT AT LAST

Bad Man of the Northwest in the Toils Again

Chicago, Feb. 27—That "Old Bill" Miner, second only to Jesse James in notoriety as a train robber, was one of the White Sulphur, Ga., bandits arrested at Gainesville, Ga., last Thursday, was asserted at the Bureau of Identification of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency here to-day.

The train robbery occured at White Sulphur on February 18, and several thousand dollars were secured by the bandits. Five days later three alleged robbers were arrested, among them, it is stated, "Old Bill."

Miner was famous for a decade as one of the "bad men" of the Northwest. He was sentenced to life imprisonment several years ago at Vancouver, B.C., for robbery, of the Dominion Express of the Canadian Pacific. Last August, with two others, he escaped by digging through the wall surrounding the prison brickyard.

Unless the Dominion authorities seek Miner's return he will be tried on the White Sulphur charge.

Belleville citizens will ask the submission of a local option by-law next election.

Damage to the extent of $20,000 was done to the Brault carriage works and Rousseau's garage, Montreal. Gasoline explosions imperilled the firemen.

BOARD OF TRADE IS ON RECORD

for the best interests of the country. Yet what was done at the time of the last tariff revision? Did not a commission inquire around the country into what effects proposed changes would have? The new agreement, negotiated by two old men, had to be accepted bolus bolus or not at all. No one would take objection if the party had been consulted, or if the government had appealed to the country on the question as it should do. It was a serious matter for him, and for the packing business, and he wished it was settled.

DEFENDED RECIPROCITY

Magistrate D. W. Dumble defended the agreement and reciprocity in general. He wanted to know why the action of Messrs. Fielding and Patterson—these able, experienced, honest men, had been found fault with. He remembered the former reciprocity treaty when it was in force and when it was abrogated. Its abrogation was a source of universal sorrow. Mr. Dumble referred to the daily quotations that were received from Boston for produce, how the farmers shipped their produce to a good margin, and got back their money almost next day. It was a good deal different from shipping to the old country, where it was two or three months before accounts were straightened.

Mr. Dumble told how Lord Elgin had made the treaty to prevent disaffection that would have led to annexation. Canada was then contented and prosperous. Since then every government had sought to have it renewed, and this desire was standing and continuous. He did not know what had come over the country, which held men were traitors who did now what both parties had tried their best to secure before.

ENGLISH ARE SLOW

Magistrate Dumble gave utterance to some very odd political economy, in saying that if the American duty or barley or hay were removed, Canadians would get the regular American price plus the amount of the duty. He said that the English were slow, that they turned up their nose at making goods to suit Canadian markets, and this was why so much was bought from the United States instead of from Britain.

Mr. Dumble wanted to know how the manufacturer of pork would be hurt if he kept the same English market as formerly. He did not like the blinding issues of annexation being raised, these silly issues. It looked bad to raise the question of loyalty in opposition. It was buncombe. Canadians were not giving away the British flag. When the Conservatives tried to get reciprocity, they were not selling their country or flag. It was only the present day that brought out the silly stuff.

The flow of trade would be larger if the barriers were taken down. Mr. Dumble thought it was presumption for men in Peterborough to judge Fielding and Paterson and Cartwright. He thought that the farmers' welfare was the one that needed looking after, as we all lived through him. Mr. Dumble couldn't see why long freight hauls to Britain were better than short ones to the United States He thought the nearer the market the better for the producer.

MR. MATTHEWS REPLIES.

Mr. Matthews, in reply, agreed that the question of loyalty did not enter into the affair. He also thought Mr. Dumble was quite right when he said he did not understand questions of trade, not being in trade. The great market of the packer today was in Canada. It was the home market. Ten years ago 70 per cent. of the product was exported. To-day export was only 15 per cent. of the production. The evil results to be apprehended from the reciprocity business was the taking away of a large portion of the home trade. In the hog centres, where the packing was done, a higher average price was paid than by the United States. Occasionally the United States prices were depressed lower than the Canadian level, but only for short periods. This meant that Chicago could under the rearrangement lay down its product at the Pacific coast at 50 cents a hundred pounds less cost, and 65 cents a hundred less freight than Peterborough, which equalled the 1 1-4 cent duty.

PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

It put the Canadian packer out of the Pacific coast business. There was no difficulty in competing in Englad with the American product, as the Canadian product was a very superior brand, owing to different methods of feeding.

Mr. Matthews drew attention to the fact that in giving a free market to the United States for its natural product. Canada was opening the door to twelve other countries and the British colonies, through the favored nation clause. Referring to the old reciprocity treaty, Mr. Matthews said that conditions to-day were absolutely different. Then there was no big railway systems, no west, no interprovincial trade. The only way Canada could trade was north and south, but to-day all was different.

DR. MORRISON

Dr. Morrison asked why it was that when reciprocity was badly defeated at the polls in 1891, and the question had not been before the electorate since, the government felt warranted in going ahead without a mandate. Laurier had no voice of approval from the people. The western farmers did not ask for that. Dr. Morrison pointed out the value of the home market, and the necessity of building it up and sustaining it. This was no time to upset business, and throw things into chaos. The United States wanted our raw materials, not our farm products. Referring to the local end, Dr. Morrison said that Peterborough should be mightily concerned if two of its industries were hurt. What was the use of spending money to get industries here if the ones we did have were injured through reciprocity?

Some desultory questioning of Mr. Dumble took place, and John Riddel and W. C. Austin spoke in favor of the agreement. Dr. Morrison put the motion, and Mr. Matthews seconded it. There was some discussion as to taking a public vote also, but it was dropped as the spectators made for the door.

Wm. Burgoyne is the new president of the St. Catharines Board of Trade.

BRIAND STEPS OUT.

Socialists Are Temporarily In Control In France.

Paris, Feb. 28.—The French Cabinet organized by M. Briand on Nov. 3rd last, resigned yesterday afternoon.

The abdication of the Briand Ministry leaves the Socialists in power, at least temporarily. Louis Malvy and Paul Meunier, leaders of the radicals, were jubilant at the success of their campaign against the Premier.

Aside from the political aspect of the situation, Briand's friends yesterday declared that there was a personal element in the surrender of the Premier. He has been the target not only of bitter oratorical attacks recently but within the last year two attempts have been made upon his life.

The Premier has been assailed from three sides: First and foremost, from the radical Socialists, who declared that Briand failed to carry out his radical pledges; secondly, from the wing antagonistic to the church, who charge him with failure in enforcing laws aimed at clerical organizations; and thirdly, from the labor element, who are angry at the harsh measures adopted by the Premier during the great railroad strike.

There is a great deal of speculation as to M. Briand's successor, five names being mentioned. Leading these is M. Poincarre, the others being M. Delcasse, M. Combes, M. Berteaux and M. Sarrien.

Powerful efforts are being exerted by President Fallieres to form a new ministry which will be able to unite the warring Republican factions as the chaotic conditions, which have existed for the past year, have given rise to much alarm.

The announcement of the Ministry's resignation was made yesterday, following the funeral of the late Gen. Brun, Minister of War in the outgoing Cabinet. It had been decided on Saturday that the Ministry should quit, but action was postponed until yesterday afternoon.

It is not thought possible that many, if any at all, of the last Cabinet, will have places in the new one. Announcement of the personnel of the next Ministry is expected some time this week.

The crisis may be of some duration as President Fallieres will hold conferences with the presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, who are his remaining advisers in such situations as the present. Both those officials are believed to have favorites in view for the Premiership.

Eve Wears Pajamas.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 28.—As a result of the efforts of Rev. J. A. McCuaig, a well-known purist, who recently made a tour through Albany's underworld, valuable oil paintings in a local saloon have been "done over" to conform with the rules of decorum and the mandates of the police. When the owner of the pictures was informed by officers Saturday that his paintings must either be "draped or removed," he hired an artist and put him to work. The result was startling, "Diana at the Bath," said to have been valued at $10,000, is no longer shocking. Diana herself has been clad in a bathing suit of brilliant hue, while her attendants wear suits of rainbow varieties. The man in the painting appears in a convict garb, wears a silk hat and smokes a pipe.

Another valuable work, "The Awakening of Adam," has been done over so that Eve wears a suit of blue pajamas and Adam a pair of overalls. Both have on boxing gloves.

"Call a Halt."

Washington, Feb. 28.—That the President and Congress shall "call a halt and take hands off" in the matter of the Mexican Revolution is the "demand" of certain residents of San Antonio, Texas. The demand reached the Senate yesterday in a petition bearing fifty signatures. The document was addressed to "the President of the United States Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives," and said in part: "There is not an honest, liberty-loving man knowing the cause of this revolution but who is heart and soul in sympathy with those revolutionists; we therefore demand that you call a halt and take hands off of same, and let old despot Diaz and the revolutionists fight it out."

Would Give Shorter Route.

Moncton, Feb. 28.—At a representative meeting of the Sackville, N.B., Board of Trade last Friday evening it was unanimously decided to favor the absorption of the New Brunswick and P.E.I. Railway by the Intercolonial. This branch road runs from Sackville to Cape Tormentine and is a good feeder for the Government road.

It is urged that a shortened service to Prince Edward Island could be maintained via Cape Tormentine, as the distance across the straits is only from seven to nine miles at this point. The Government steamers, it is claimed, would easily keep this route open in the winter.

Her Reasons.

There was a small gathering of Canadian women, discussing the suffrage among other burning questions. There were present, also an Englishwoman who belonged to the "militant" class, and a bright, little matron from Melbourne, Australia.

The English visitor, after declaring that woman is on a plane of intelligence quite equal to her brethren, asserted that the feminine vote in Australia has done much to elevate that colony. "You have voted, Mrs. A—" she said turning to the Australian.

"Oh, yes," said the vivacious matron from Melbourne, "just once. He was a friend of Jack's and he had splendid shoulders and charming manners."

After Fifty Years.

Wreckers are bringing up iron that they are salving from the steamer Hungarian, of the Allan Line, lost in the year 1860, on the coast of Nova Scotia. A cargo of this iron was brought to Halifax recently. Years ago a large quantity of iron was salved from the Hungarian, but it did not pay in the long run, and work ceased. The price of scrap iron now makes the operation profitable.

Windsor will accept Carnegie's offer to build a library.

ALL PACK MULES.

The Dull Street and the Load, Not the Green Pasture, Our Portion.

Never a spirit without its saddle, says a writer. It was not always so. We began life free. Like young colts frisking in the meadow, with nothing to do but kick up their heels, feed and frolic. Then we were caught, bridled, broken to the saddle and the shafts, and now no more open pasture days, but the dull street and the load and the driver's lash.

Since we are all destined to be pack mules there must be some design in it. What is nature's object? Does she want to break us down, plow wrinkles in our brows, dig crow's feet by our eyes, dry our skins and our hearts, hump our backs, and squeeze all the juice and sparkle of youth out of us? If this were all, nature were surely cruel.

There is another end she has in view in the carrying out of which our life forces are spent. And that end is—character. No man can reflect long upon the events and laws of life and avoid the conclusion that we were put here, not to be happy, but to become great. Nature sets a great deal more store by character than we. She does not care so much for getting things done, such as building cities and churches, establishing huge institutions, and carrying on wide reforms as she uses these things to train her children.

It is the burden that makes the soul fiber. No careless spirit ever became lofty and strong. Those who do not work have no muscles, and those who do not suffer have no spirit muscle.

Even when we dodge the unnecessary burdens, much remains to be carried up the steeps of life. The one who cannot feel them is not to be envied. There are butterflies and parasites who never tote anything. They flit or fasten themselves upon some worker. Every earnest soul that is drawing his cart of responsibilities has a number of these light-hearted gentry stealing rides. Why bother about them?

Zoroaster.

All classical antiquity, without a dissentient voice, speaks of Zoroaster as a historical person. But there is great diversity of opinion with regard to his time, the date of his birth being placed all the way from 5,000 B.C. to 800 B.C. He probably lived about 1400 B.C. From all accounts the father of the old Persian faith possessed a most beautiful character and gave the world many of its finest teachings. There is no doubt that in the Persian Scriptures, known as the Zend Avesta, we have the substance of Zoroaster's teachings, though, of course, they have been greatly added to. In the present day Parsees of Bombay we have the historical descendants of Zoroaster and his religion.

Bravery and Poverty.

To be able to look cheerfully and hopefully through clouds of poverty and distress is an accomplishment bestowed upon every true and brave woman, and, no matter how poor or humble her home may be, the magic power of smiles can brighten its shadows and lighten its cares. Upon the troubled mind of a feeling husband a wife's smile falls like a sunbeam on a flower, and how much more beautiful it makes the face that wears it than a frown? When a wife and mother, forgetting sorrows and hardships, smiles away her tears, there is a loveliness in the act that speaks to a man's heart more eloquently than words.

Origin of Patents.

Patents (from patoe, I lie open), originated with the so-called nobility of France. Lest their superiority to other folks should be in doubt, the nobles got out titles of nobility, so that the fact that they were better than the rest of the people might "lie open" to all the world. It was in connection with the printing of books that the first real patents were issued, about 1550. By 1625 it began to be customary to issue patents protecting the rights of inventors in the arts and manufactures. Since that time the people in the various "patent offices" of the world have had a steadily increasing business.

The City of Paris.

The founders of Paris, emigrating from some Greek or Etruscan country on the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, rowed their galleys up the river Seine. They took possession of the island in that stream on which their city is built and, according to the legends that have come down to the present time, called it "Baris," which is Greek for a boat then used upon the river Nile, whence Paris. The island on which the adventurers landed was held to typify a boat, and to this day the coat of arms of that famous city is an ancient galley.

An Ardent Wooer.

Mashington (who is taking his leave)—Aw, it seems to me, Miss Morleigh, I have fawgotten something. Aw—let me see. Miss Morleigh—Your gloves, perhaps? Mashington—Oh, no! Now I wemembah. Aw—will you mawwy me?

The Right Idea.

"It's remarkable how often a woman changes her mind."

"Oh, not always! There's one idea every woman gets that she never changes."

"What's that?"

"The idea that she's pretty!"

The Domestic Relay.

"Son, how would you like to enter a relay event?"

"Fine, dad. I was a star at relay events in college."

"So I've heard you say. "Well, your ma is about ready to relay the carpets."

DEATH OF MRS. ALEXANDER A PIONEER CHURCH WORKER

Had Reached Grand Old Age of 95 Years.

An old and much respected resident passed away last night in the person of Mrs. Isabella Alexander, relict of the late Pennington Alexander, who predeceased her about thirty-five years ago.

The late Mrs. Alexander, whose maiden name was Isabella Petrie, was born in Scotland May 16th, 1816. She resided with her parents in Scotland until 1834, when the family came to Canada. While in the old land she had been a devout church worker and on her departure for her new home she was presented with a copy of Fisher's catechism, by her former Sunday school classmates.

The trip across the ocean from Glasgow to Montreal, occupied several months and from Montreal to Peterborough about two weeks. From Cobourg to Rice Lake the family travelled in carts drawn by oxen and the journey from there to Peterborough was made in a small steamer on the Otonabee river.

The father of the deceased was among the pioneer settlers of Dummer township.

Mrs. Alexander has been one of the most ardent members of the Presbyterian church. In the days when the old St. Andrew's church was being built, and when the members themselves, looked after the cleaning and heating of the churches, she was among the ladies who helped to clean the floor and prepare seats for the opening Sunday. The seats were made of blocks with boards from one to the other.

When the union members were forced to leave St. Andrew's, then called the Church of Scotland, the deceased went with the party to the church which is now called St. Paul's. She became interested in the little mission in the south end, now Knox church, from its inception and was one of its charter members. She was always very faithful in her church work and always attended service, when possible, latterly being driven to and fro in a cab. The last service she attended was that of the Holy Communion and she had saved up her strength for that occasion.

A most remarkable thing for a woman of her age was that she retained her mental powers to the very last. She had a very simple and strong faith, never having the slightest fear or hesitation in speaking of death and the bereafter.

The survivors are, one brother, James Petrie, who is 91 years of age, two sons, John of Lethbridge, and Pennington of the firm of Alexander and Miller, Peterborough, and five daughters, Mrs. J. Young, Bridgenorth; Mrs. Argue, Yarm, Ont.; Mrs. Walter Evans, Peterborough; Mrs. Winch, Laredo, Texas, and Mrs. J. Hopkins, Monaghan.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. Evans, 304 Boswell avenue, to Little Lake cemetery for interment. Rev. H. J. Keith will officiate at the house and at the grave.

CAVAN NEWS

The proposed telephone line from the 10th concession of Cavan to Millbrook, will soon be in operation. Already two prospective subscribers have cut and drawn out their telephone poles. Dr. Russell from Bailieboro, is also interested in the proposition and would like to get an extension of the line east of the Cavan road through to Peterboro, while Drs Breton and Hamilton are agitating for a line from Bethany, eastward. It is proposed by the parties interested in the 10th concession line, that all lines north of Cavanville, and south of same village, two concessions, to amalgamate and run through Cavanville on the one line, having a switch installed at Cavanville to connect with Millbrook as central. This proposition is regarded as being favorable to all parties concerned.

Messrs. Nill and son are busy shipping elm logs from Cavanville C.P.R. to Norwood and Peterboro, for Finlay and Co., Peterboro.

The Reeve of Cavan Township last week met a committee of Manvers Council, re the west bound road, at Herbert Bigelow's farm. After some difficulty, the Reeve was successful in eliciting permission from H. Bigelow, to use that part of the road which deviates from the public highway into his field, for the rest of the winter or until the west boundary road is in fit condition for traffic in general.

The recent loss suffered by Messrs. Needler & Co., of Millbrook, in consequence of the recent disastrous fire which totally destroyed the grist mill has been satisfactorily settled by various insurance companies.

We regret to have to announce the recent demise of Mrs. Henry Sharpe who died last week at her daughter's Mrs. Neville of Napanee. Mrs. Sharpe at one time resided on the farm which is now occupied by Lon Winslow 11th concession Cavan.

Passengers Escape Death.

Kingston, Feb. 28.—In a railway accident at inner diamond yesterday, 70 passengers had a miraculous escape. The Kingston & Pembroke express leaving the city at noon, was crossing the diamond, when a suburban train coming in from the junction over the Grand Trunk, ran into it. The engine crashed into the day coach of the Kingston & Pembroke train. The car turned over on its side and there was a panic, but luckily all the passengers were able to crawl out to safety. All were badly shaken up, some suffered scratches, but none were seriously injured.

The crew on the Kingston & Pembroke train claim the signal was up to give them right of way. One report says the brakes on the suburban train engine failed to work. The engineer and fireman jumped in time to save themselves. The passengers in the G.T.R. coaches were badly jolted, but none injured. Several women fainted.

A short time after this accident, the Kingston & Pembroke engine smashed into the rig of John Duggan, a farmer of Pittsburg, at a crossing nearby. Duggan escaped, but his horse was killed.

Farmers Pleased, Says Leader.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Three prominent agriculturists—E. C. Drury of the Dominion Grange, J. B. Anderson of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, and T. A. Crerar of the Grain Growers' Co., Winnipeg—held a conference in the Walker House yesterday morning regarding reciprocity and Canadian farmers. These three gentlemen have been advocating reciprocity among the farmers of Ontario and the west, and give the opinion that the feeling is almost unanimous for the proposed agreement. Mr. Drury has been addressing meetings of farmers in Peterboro and Prince Edward Counties twice a day for the past two weeks.

Cut His Baby's Throat.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Following a quarrel with his wife yesterday afternoon, Anton Scoscik killed his baby by cutting its throat with his razor. He then attacked his wife, and after severely wounding her, he cut his own throat, inflicting a probably fatal wound. The neighbors became aware of the tragedy when they saw Mrs. Scoscik run into the street streaming with blood and shrieking "My baby, my baby."

Cost of N.T.R.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—A return placed on the table of the Commons on Saturday, showed that up to December 31 last, a total of $89,553,740 has been spent on the National Transcontinental Railway construction. It is estimated that it will take $55,785,993 more to complete the road between Winnipeg and Moncton. The total mileage of track laid is 1,236.

WARSAW

A very pleasant event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hawthorne, when their daughter, Annie, was married to Mr. David Rose. The bride was given away by her father. She was dressed becomingly in white, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The Rev. H. Brown, Presbyterian minister, officiated.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast, after which a social evening was spent.

The happy couple left for their future home on the 2nd line, Dummer.

Many wedding gifts were received by the bride, and the young couple will be followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

Celebration at Fenelon

Gazette: The Orangemen of Victoria County under the auspices of the District of Fenelon and L. O. L. No. 996, Fenelon Falls, intend holding a Grand County Demonstration in the town of Fenelon Falls on the 12th of July, for the purpose of celebrating the 221st anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. It is intended that this demonstration shall surpass all other demonstrations heretofore held in the town. Invitations have been issued to lodges in the surrounding districts to join with the brethren here in making the celebration the best in the history of the Order. The Committee in charge are making preparations to entertain the visitors in the best manner possible.

"MY BACK IS KILLING ME"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE

Backache means Congestion of the Kidneys. Dull ache in the back—sharp, shooting pains—headache and nervousness—mean that the Kidneys are overworked. The Bowels are constipated and the skin is inactive, so that the Kidneys are compelled to do the work of both bowels and skin in throwing off the waste of the body. The Kidneys thus become irritated and inflamed and backache results. The only possible way to relieve the congestion and cure the pain is to force the bowels and skin to do their share of the work.

"Fruit-a-tives", the great fruit medicine, is the best and most scientific Kidney Remedy in the world.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Pain in the Back and Kidney Trouble. 50c. box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. Dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

DON'T BURN LEAVES.

They Should Be Turned Over Into the Soil as Fertilizers.

Fools burn leaves, leaving for themselves a pinch of poor ash, but sending back into the air what was taken from it by the process of growth. These thousands of tons are not made out of the earth, but out of the air, and are intended to be turned over into soil. If you plant a tree in a tub of dirt and leave it there until it weighs a hundred pounds you will find by weighing the dirt that the tree was not made up of what was in the tub, but almost altogether of what it could get from the air—carbon and nitrogen for the most part, with hydrogen composing a good share of the liquid part of sap.

The elements of the soil that are not in the air are deep down under the surface of the soil or incorporated in the rocks. The most important are potash and phosphorus. You get some potash from ashes, weed waste, soapsuds, and there are a few soils that in their natural state are entirely deficient in this element. The timber soil of our corn belt contain about 2,000 pounds of phosphorus per acre. Raising crops that use up these elements steadily lessens the possibility of growing any crops at all. We have got to find them in the soil; if we use them up we have got to replace them.

Agriculture should be renamed aericulture, because we are really taking from the air the larger part of our annual crops. What we must know is how to do this most readily. Our fathers knew that they must use manure, and they knew that they must rotate crops. They knew also that living plants fed on decaying plants, this having first served as food for animals.

Alfred Sandham.

Toronto recently lost one of her most valuable literary workers in the person of Alfred Sandham.

Mr. Sandham's efforts were along historical lines. He dealt with the past, in press clippings, biographical sketch, and pictures. While he could write with grace and expression, he devoted most of his time to the art of compilation.

For his own family he was preparing at his death an illustrated history of Montreal in five volumes.

He was an ardent and indefatigable collector of engravings, and during his life-time must have gathered together hundreds of thousands. When he used these engravings, as he never failed to do, the effect was to embellish something already interesting from an historical and literary standpoint.

Moki Indian Breadmaking.

Women of the Moki Indians in the deserts of New Mexico make bread in sheets no thicker than a sheet of paper. The corn of which the bread is made is ground between two heavy stones until it becomes very fine. Then it is mixed with water and a very thin batter prepared. The batter is spread on a hot stone over the fire, where it is allowed to bake a considerable time. When one side is baked the other is turned. Sheet after sheet is baked in this manner. No salt is used in the batter, and the bread has a sweetish taste. It is usually blue, taking the color of the corn from which it is made.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Forgetting Her Text.

"I wanted to see Mrs. Green-Brown and tell her how much I enjoyed her lecture on 'Mind Your Own Business'."

"You can't see her now. She's engaged with some very important correspondence. She is just finishing a letter to Mrs. Stevenson asking how it happened that a box of bottled beer was carried into her house last Monday afternoon, and then she's going to write to Mrs. Blinkersdorf and demand to know if it's true that she smokes a cigarette daily after dinner."

"Isn't she a perfect wonder?"

The Meat Part.

A tourist called at an inn in Donegal and ordered a roll and butter and some tea. It was brought, and on cutting the roll he found a black beetle in the middle.

"Here!" he called to the waiter. "Take this and show it to the proprietor."

"I wouldn't be afther showin' it to the propriethor if I were you, sor," said Pat.

"Why not?" inquired the tourist.

"Tirrible mane man the propriethor is, sor. Shure, he'll be afther chargin' ye for a mate tay!"—Answers.

A WESTERN FARMER.

R. Mackenzie of Grain Growers Went West Originally as Druggist.

One of the last of the big farmers' deputation from the West to leave Ottawa and the East for home was Mr R. Mackenzie, secretary-treasurer of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association. It is a singular fact that Mr. Mackenzie, like many more of the most prosperous men of the recent big deputation, did not go West originally with any intention of engaging in agriculture, the industry which has brought him comfort and distinction. As a matter of fact, Mr. Mackenzie merely started farming as a side line, but the lure of the country proved stronger than that of the town, and won his undivided attention, and conferred upon him his independence. His life history is commonplace enough regarded from our modern point of view in Canada. Born in Ashfield, a back woods settlement in Huron County, Ontario, he obtained his schooling at an old log school house. After helping some time on the home farm, he was apprenticed to a druggist in a neighboring village, completed his pharmaceutical studies in a larger town, passed the necessary examination, and opened up a store at Lucknow. In 1877 the far West was beginning to appeal to the more adventurous among the youth of Canada, and that year, selling out his drug store, he moved to Winnipeg, thinking that he might open up a store there, if the opportunity offered, but ready to seize any chance he might see to make money. At the same time Mr. Charles Whitehead was engaged on the construction of the railway line from Emmerson to St. Boniface, and Mr. Mackenzie obtained employment with him, eventually changing his status from that of employe to subcontractor. For years he was engaged in various contracting jobs. In 1892 he was living at Brandon, and, seeing the handsome returns yielded by the grain fields, he took up farming in addition to his operations as a contractor. But very soon he got completely weaned away from his contracting work, and he is to-day a farmer, purely and simply, with a full section and a half of land under cultivation.—Chesterfield, in Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Shipping In New Brunswick.

People should not forget that New Brunswick has more than one port. St. John is so well boomed that the other ports are often overlooked. Last year twenty-seven vessels took thirty million feet of deals and lumber from Campbellton. Dalhousie shipped forty-three cargoes, Bathurst eleven, Chatham twenty-nine, Buctouche one, Sackville five, Shediac eleven, and Riverside six. The total shipments of deals, spruce and other forest products was over three hundred million superficial feet, contained in 334 vessels. These shipments went to South America, to Australia, to Manchester, London and Liverpool.

This gives inlanders some idea of the value of the ocean ports of New Brunswick, and also an inkling of what the lumbering industry means to that province. It is interests such as these which Canada must protect by a direct contribution to the British navy or by the establishment of a Canadian navy. Until international policemen are appointed with full power to render justice and ensure liberty, Canada must do her share in protecting the trade routes. The farmer who sells his wheat at an inland railway station must not forget that the value of his product depends largely on the ability of a shipper to send it abroad without fear of loss en route. To-day there is no danger; to-morrow it might be decidedly and vitally different.—Canadian Courier.

FOR FAMILY USE

An Ideal Remedy for Coughs, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Weak Chest.

After having made a special study of the treatment of the throat and lungs for twenty years, Prof. D. Jackson states that in his opinion no preparation for general family use is so efficient, so healing, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone.

As his reasons for making this claim for Catarrhozone, Dr. Jackson says:

"Catarrhozone is free from opium.

"The patient can breathe its rich, balsamic fumes direct to the diseased spot.

"It is a remedy that treats and cures causes—prevents disease spreading.

"Reaches the innermost recesses of the throat, nose, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

"Alleviates chest soreness.

"Stops coughing instantly.

"Prevents bronchial irritations.

"Relieves clogged nostrils.

"Cures sniffles and nasal catarrh.

"Prevents La Grippe.

"Has proven itself a cure for weak lungs, loss of voice, speakers' sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, coughs, colds, and winter ills."

Catarrhozone is unquestionably the world's greatest breathable cold, cough, and catarrh medicine, and being free from all drowsy drugs, entirely safe for children and old folks; it makes an ideal family remedy. Recommended by the medical profession, and sold by all reliable dealers. Beware of imitations, get "Catarrhozone" only; large size lasts two months, and is guaranteed, price $1; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. By mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

ARE PUTTING THE GOULDS OUT OF CONTROL OF BIG RAILWAY

How the Change in Missouri Pacific Was Brought About – Some Phases of the High Financial Game

Painless extraction of multi-millionaire holders of fat sinecures from their jobs is a feat that sometimes commands attention on both sides of the Atlantic. The fact that the parties eliminated are George J. Gould and his relatives, and the job was the control of the Missouri Pacific Railway is merely incidental. An important change is taking place in railway affairs. Doubtless the manifest disposition of the government to exercise more restraint upon their stock and bonding schemes an dtheir rates for service has much to do with the case. Under an "easy" government policy any man bearing a name associated with millions and successful railway operation could be president or director and devote his time to polo and yachting. He could also manage to get a liberal allowance of his relatives on the board and in the game. Actual management could be left to hired men. Those whose names figure in the directorate could play the stock market, shear the lambs and cut the melons. But money is beginning to talk, and in no uncertain tones. The mass of bondholders and stockholders are no longer content to take their interest and an occasional dividend. They are becoming so meddlesome and inquisitive as to insist that the properties in which they are interested shall be run on strict business principles. This is only possible when first-class talent is not only at the head of the business, but giving the affairs its close attention and best judgment.

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

Between the methods of Jay Gould the founder of the family fortune, and the second generation, there is a wide difference. Jay Gould kept out of sight as much as possible. He did business under cover. Only when his hand was ready to close on the coveted property did his opponents discover it. Although he did many things which were of questionable business morality, he was generally within the pale of the law, because he took the precaution to hire the best legal talent to show him the way through or around the statutes.

His acquisition of the Missouri Pacific was interesting. It showed the limitations of the great financier and also his ability to recognize a trap when his fingers were fumbling about the jaws of it. His adventure in Wabash showed that while he was a master hand at the game of bluff, he was unable to see all the pitfalls before him. To protect himself from hostile competition it became necessary to acquire control of the Missouri Pacific. That control was in the hands of Commodore Garrison, who hated him cordially. Active management was in the hands of Oliver Garrison, who admired Gould. One day in 1879 Ben Lewis, manager of the Wabash, went to Gould and tendered his resignation. "I see breakers ahead," remarked Gould. He suspected that the Garrison interest was about to work a squeeze play on Wabash. Lewis told him he could avoid the breakers by getting control of Missouri Pacific, and Gould made a hot-foot offer of $1,500,000 to Oliver Garrison. Garrison asked $2,000,000. Gould waited a day and then offered $2,000,000, but the commodore had his eye on the deal by this time and put the price up to $2,800,000. "I could have bought it yesterday for $2,000,000," remarked Gould. "The difference between yesterday and to-day is $800,000," said Garrison. Gould thought another day and again saw the raise. "The price to-day is $3,800,000," said Garrison. "I'll take it," said Gould. Deliberation that cost a million dollars a day was a little too dear for even the cool gamester.

PUT OUT OF IT.

Missouri Pacific is a little too far west to command the undivided attention of the Goulds, although out of compliment for the family, the majority interest were content to let George figure as president; Frank J. as vice-president, while Edward, Howard and Kingdom, George Jr.'s sons, also figured in the board of directors. Recently somebody got busy. The foreign interest was rounded up by proxies, the Rockefeller and Harriman interests were combined, and through the ministration of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., hostilities were manifested in a little flurry in the M.P. stocks. Immediately the Gould interest began hustling for proxies in order to sustain itself by the voting power, but the show-down found the most trumps in the hands of the opposition.

So the Goulds retire from active control and hereafter will either take sell out.

An Honest Man.

A preacher near Bloomsbury, Eng., grew fervent in exhorting to an honest living, and near the close of his sermon he said: "Let every person in the house who is paying his or her debts stand up." Instantly every man and woman in the house, save one, was standing. After they were peacefully seated, the domini asked: "Now let those stand up who are not paying their debts," and a long lean man of sixty or more years, clothed in a seedy suit of the past decade, slowly assumed a perpendicular position in his pew. "How is it, my friend," enquired the minister in austere tone, "that you are the only one in this intelligent congregation who does not meet his obligations?" The lanky individual meekly answered, "I run a newspaper, and the brethren here are my subscribers, and"—the minister broke in abruptly with, "We will close with the benediction."

Tobacco For British Smokers.

More tobacco is apparently being smoked, for in November 3,210,998 pounds were cleared for home consumption, the largest quantity for one month under normal conditions. Since April 61,359,318 pounds have been cleared, as against 57,596,911 pounds last year.—Tobacco Trade Review.

Last Sessions' Record.

Last session of the Ontario Legislature opened on Jan. 25 and was prorogued on March 19. The session a year ago was marked by five divisions and the passage of 168 bills. The legislation included the extension to Toronto of power to construct a tube system of railways, also the right to construct surface street railway extensions.

The passage by acclamation of the Ontario Telephone Act was one of the notable achievements of the session.

UP TO DATE RAILROADING

The Canadian Pacific Railway is equipping its lines with telephone train dispatching wires and equipment. Up to the end of 1910 it had in operation 2,254 miles of line and the appropriations this year call for the installing of 1,528 additional miles.

For the work two new copper wires are erected, each weighing 210 pounds per mile, and in the stations the very best apparatus obtainable is installed. On all sections where there are telephone train dispatching circuits every train, whether passenger or freight, is equipped with a telephone set and a jointed pole, by which, in case of necessity, telephonic connection with the dispatcher for the district can be established almost immediately, and in case of a train being stalled between stations this avoids a great deal of delay in obtaining assistance. These telephone sets are also used to a great extent by freight trains at sidings, where there is no regular telegraph operator and frequently many hours' delay to a freight train is saved.

It is intended to ultimately have the whole line of the C.P.R. equipped with this telephone system.

MILLION ACRE FARMS.

Strange Origin and Improvement of Australian Merinos.

C. E. W. Bean, of Sydney, has written in an Australian paper of the great sheep industry. His story is in part as follows:—

A century ago, when Australia was a dumping ground for England's scum, a British fleet received from a Spanish fleet a present of merino sheep, at a time when to export merinos from Spain was a criminal offence. The little flock reached Australia, and from it are descended the hundred million merinos which have made Australia great and wealthy, despite her small population.

Vastly improved is the modern merino, for the original of 3 1-2 pounds to a fleece has been raised to 12 pounds, and there are rams in Australia which shear 40 pounds.

Nowadays the good land near the coast is being given over to agriculture, and the sheep are driven back further into the desert. A terrible desert it is at times, where not one green leaf can be seen, when the red dust with which it is covered gets blown away—and only the bare hard bones of the earth are left. Then sheep die by the million for want of the smallest scrap of nourishment, and are sometimes killed by the thousand because it is hopeless to expect to keep them alive.

Then comes the rain, and as if by a miracle the whole land is green again, the flocks increase out of all bounds, and the men who have been nearly ruined, make new fortunes in a few years. That is happening now. From 1896 to 1903 occurred the biggest drought known, and many stationholders lost their all. Since then there has been a steady succession of good seasons and the problem now is what to do with the enormous overplus of old ewes. Such are the vicissitudes of that strange land, the oldest part of the earth's exposed surface.

Some of the great sheep runs cover a million acres, or about 1,560 square miles. Each run is divided into paddocks, which cover all Australia. The average western paddock contains 100 square miles. If one fence is on the horizon behind, the other is over the horizon ahead. You could walk till you died in that paddock without seeing a fence. Lost men have before now found the fence and died alongside of it before it led them anywhere.

There may be a hut in each paddock with a boundary rider—sometimes two, living together. Every day except Sunday, the boundary rider is expected to be out in his paddock. About one day in two he may spot something like a line of posts, which is probably a line of sheep in mirage on the horizon. Occasionally he cuts through a wing of them. He sees a man, or gets a mail, perhaps, once in three weeks. And yet the boundary men get to like the lonely life.

Then, there is "the boss," the lord of many acres, a man of strong character and a liberal education, living a life not unlike that of an English country gentleman, in his remote home, but carrying on his work with the ability and keenness of a man who has been trained in business.

The third body of men who live by the sheep industry are the shearers, who work through the country from north to south, making plenty of money, and living in a rough way on the fat of the land as they pass from one shed to the other. They are a class unlike any other.

The Policeman's Dangerous Life.

About one in every six London policeman is injured during the year.

More than one thousand men were on the sick list from injuries received while on duty, and nearly seven hundred more who were injured off duty. Some of the cases were so serious as to disable the men for a week or more, and these amounted to no fewer than 677. Besides these, there were twice as many injured less severely, who were not placed on the sick list.

The following examples show the multiplicity of dangers to which the police are exposed: 2,266 men were assaulted or injured when making arrests; 102 bitten by dogs; 51 hurt by persons not arrested; 17 injured while dispersing disorderly crowds; 44 hurt, some very severely, when stopping runaway horses; 21 injured when assisting fallen or restive horses; 25 kicked, trodden on, or knocked down by horses; 31 injured (14 very severely) by vehicles when regulating traffic; and 28 were injured when extinguishing fires.

And a further large number suffered injury by their horses falling or throwing them, by cyclists, while riding their own bicycles, at fire drill, by slipping and falling when examining premises, etc., so that the total of injuries while on duty for the year is brought up to 3,310.

Women Without Names.

"Womankind in Korea," says E. G. Kemp in "The Face of Manchuria," "suffers from a strange lack—the absence of names. A woman may possess a pet name; otherwise she has none. Frequently she does not even know her husband's name. If she becomes a Christian and receives baptism she acquires a name, and this must give her quite a new sense of dignity."

Nothing to Do but Loaf.

The most unfortunate man is the one who gets up in the morning with nothing to do and all day to devote to it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sincerity is the way to heaven. To think how to be sincere is the way of man.—Mencius.

SOME VIOLIN SECRETS

A CHAT WITH A COLLECTOR OF RARE FIDDLES.

The Wood For a Fine Instrument Comes From Various Parts of the World, and Is Chosen For Its Resonant Qualities—The Great Secret In Violin Making Is the Composition of the Varnish.

"How do you account for the extraordinary prices which old violins—by famous makers fetch to-day?" an interviewer put the question recently to a famous collector—who has gathered together many valuable instruments—apropos of the fact that Kubelik recently completed the purchase of the famous "Emperor" Stradivarius violin, pronounced by Joachim to be the finest instrument he had ever seen, and which is stated to be worth $50,000. "Is it because," the reporter continued, "materials used by the old makers are unobtainable now?"

"No," was the reply; "it is easy enough to get good materials, but it is not so easy to discover the secrets of the art of violin-making possessed, for instance, by Antonio Stradivari, the famous violin-maker of Cremona. The materials with which he made violins cost him but a few shillings; but, whereas makers to-day turn out violins by the hundreds, he spent months upon one instrument, and even then it is an historic fact that he sent a lot of violins to England to be sold at $25 a piece, and they had to be returned because they could not be disposed of.

"Stradivari knew how to select properly seasoned wood in the first place. Three kinds of wood are used in making the violin—maple for the back, the split-wood sides, and the neck; spruce pine for the top; and ebony for the finger-board, the tail piece or string-holder, and the pegs. The fine maple-wood is usually bought in Bohemia. It is very hard wood, and difficult to work. This maple-wood should be both resisting and elastic, in order to send back the vibrations produced by the top. And for the top a spruce pine is chosen, which must be at the same time very firm and little resinous; for the top must produce the greatest number of vibrations possible. The best violin-tops come from Switzerland.

"Then, of course, much depends on the shape of the instrument, and the beauty of a Stradivarius is that it is built on a model which can be made to speak in all tones. Mere age does not make a violin perfect. If it was clumsily and badly made in the beginning there is no magic in time that will remedy these defects. All the old instruments—that is, the genuine ones, for there are hundreds of fakes which are passed off as old makes—are built on lines which have certainly been successfully copied, but which fail to reach the tone of the old violins simply because of some little defect in the wood or the varnish.

"The violin to-day is practically the same instrument as it was three hundred years ago, and this in spite of the fact that every violin-maker has at some time in his career been possessed by an ambition to improve on the violin as it stands. I have seen at least five hundred specimens of these experimental designs, and some of them are the craziest notions that ever hatched in the human brain. I have seen a violin shaped like a triangle, violins with a set of strings under the ordinary set, violins with strings inside as well as outside, violins with a metal comb inside such as you see in a musical-box, violins with double posts, violins with flat tops, violins without any openings, and others with openings of strange shapes. There is no end to these wild imaginings; but the violin of the twentieth century remains in principle the same as that of the Italian inventor.

"But the real secret of the wonderful tone of ancient violins lies in the varnish. The varnishing is, perhaps, the most delicate part of violin-building. The varnish must possess a great warmth of tone, a fine transparency, and great solidity. It must be neither too dry nor too soft. It should have a beautiful, warm, amber color approaching the purple orange, and must be free from the shrill tint of the factory instruments. It is, to a great extent, the varnish that gives to the old Italian violins their great value. These possess a richness of tone compared to the orange-red of the most beautiful paintings of the primitive painters of the Italian and Flemish schools. Besides its beauty, the varnish contributes to the sonorousness, astonishing as this statement may appear.

"Every violin-maker who is worthy of the name is sure he has a supremely good varnish, and every man guards his own secret. But somehow they do not seem to be able to find out the secret of the varnish used by the violin-makers of centuries ago.

"But it must not be overlooked that much depends on the bow. It was a Frenchman—Tuort—who was to the bow what Stradivari was to the violin. These old bowse were made of snake-wood, ironwood, and several other varieties. Bows become tempered—educated' with time and use, so that a man's bow becomes almost as precious to him as his fiddle itself."

Sir Charles Townshend.

Sir Charles Townshend, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia since 1907, who is one of Canada's new Knights Bachelor, was born March 22nd, 1844, at Amherst, N.S. He is the son of Rev. Canon Townshend, rector of Christ's Church. He was educated at King's College, Windsor, and was called to the Bar in 1866. He was elected M.P.P. for Cumberland County in 1878 and 1882. From 1887 to 1907 Sir Charles was judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman

London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it.—Mrs. WM. A. BUFFY, 905 Dame St., London, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has surely cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

Bearded Women.

The bearded woman is not a fiction. A bearded woman was taken by the Russians at the battle of Poltava and presented to the czar. Her beard measured over a yard. The great Margaret, governess of the Netherlands, had a very long, stiff beard. Mlle. Boes de Chene, born at Geneva in 1834, was exhibited in London in 1853 in her eighteenth year. She had a profuse head of hair, a large mustache and a strong black beard. There are other instances of bearded women about the authenticity of whom there is no room for doubt.—New York American.

Slandering Kingston.

The residents of Kingston always resent the title "Kingston Penitentiary," which the Dominion Government has bestowed upon one of its famous institutions. The Penitentiary is not now, nor has ever been, in Kingston. It is in Portsmouth, an adjoining village. Yet Kingston gets a notoriety from the "Pen" which the R.M.C. and Queen's cannot overcome.

An incident occurred the other day at Copper Cliff which illustrates Kingston's sad fate. The time-keeper at a mine there is a former Kingston boy. A foreigner, a laborer in the mine, asked the time-keeper where he came from.

"Kingston," answered the young man, with pardonable pride.

The laborer brightened up and said, "My fadder live dere. Did you know my fadder?"

"I don't know," replied the time-keeper. "What did he do?"

"Oh, he kill a man. He go dere for five years—been dere two now."

The time-keeper believes that the man was too polite to ask what he had done.

A New Impresario.

B. K. Sandwell, of Montreal, is the publicity agent of the Montreal Musical Society, the only thing of its kind in Canada and the pioneer opera company north of the boundary. Sandwell is not more to be congratulated than the backers of the company—in their choice of so persuasively alert a man to represent their project to the public. In effect Mr. Sandwell is manager of the company; a task for which he has abundant gifts by nature and experience. He is an English-Canadian, who learned the art of smooth writing in England before he came to Canada. A few years ago he was editorial writer in The Toronto News, from which he went to The Herald in Montreal. He is fortunate in having so agreeable a job as that of the man between the New Montreal Opera Co. and the Canadian public. This is a job requiring a more than usual combination of qualities. In dealing with people of temperament one must not himself have too much temperament. Sandwell has that—suavely under control.

A New Naval Menace.

During the summer of 1907 the German armored cruiser Bremen visited Montreal, remaining a week or two, and many citizens took advantage of the opportunity to see what this sample of Germany's sea-going fighting machinery looked like.

Among them was one of Canada's budding civil engineers with a companion. They were particularly impressed by the massive and wicked looking solid steel ram that projected from the bow, coming to a point just at the water line.

They stood staring for some moments at this terrible beak, one of them pacing off on the wharf the length of the ram. Then as they sauntered away the young engineer voiced his pent-up feelings. "My, that would tear a fellow's pants, wouldn't it?"

VERNON PARK
ANNOUNCEMENT

VERNON PARK, CLARESHOLM, is a sub-division of blocks 89 to 112 of the Original Townsite, directly adjoining the Public School, and is all rich, level prairie land, "guaranteed."

The property is intersected in direct line by the Main Street, and is only three blocks from the Post Office, which point marks the centre of the business section.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Station and Offices are situated two blocks South of VERNON PARK. The Railroad runs parallel with the East boundary of VERNON PARK, and there are some thirty TRACKAGE LOTS in this sub-division, including corners.

The four Terminal Elevators and grain-cleaning plants, with a capacity of 300,000 bushels, are within three blocks of VERNON PARK. The assured fact that Claresholm is a grain centre means the building of many mills and storage elevators, in addition to many warehouse and factory structures, and the direction of growth cannot be in any other direction but northerly to VERNON PARK.

Watch for our advertisement in to-morrow's Review; a complete map of the property, showing its proximity to the Town and School, will appear.

VERNON PARK ALLOTMENTS

VERNON PARK has been held for several years by a syndicate of Claresholm men, who held it at a very high price, knowing that in due season the property would be worth double in value. The price in question was prohibitive for developers of sub-division property to handle, but through the efforts of Messrs. H. J. Stuart & Co the price was reduced to a satisfactory figure, and in order for them to carry out their contract, it will be necessary to dispose of this property within thirty days. In order for them to consummate this undertaking it will consequently be necessary to place the property on the market at a much less figure than under ordinary methods.

The present conditions and expectations of Claresholm afford every assurance of record activity in Town Real Estate, and all purchasers of VERNON PARK property will experience the same degree of activity in their investment on the basis of the present market prices of town property.

"Claresholm has never had a real estate boom. The rise in land values has been commensurate with the growing importance of the town. Real Estate investments in Claresholm rightly made and according to one's means will yield a sure return."

On Sale Saturday March 4th

No allotments of the property will be made prior to Saturday, March 4th. Applications for reservation will be held for early purchasers anticipating the rush sale, but no receipts will be issued until that date.

We prophesy one of the quickest turnovers in realty on record, as the property is one of the best investments ever offered the public of a sub-division nature.

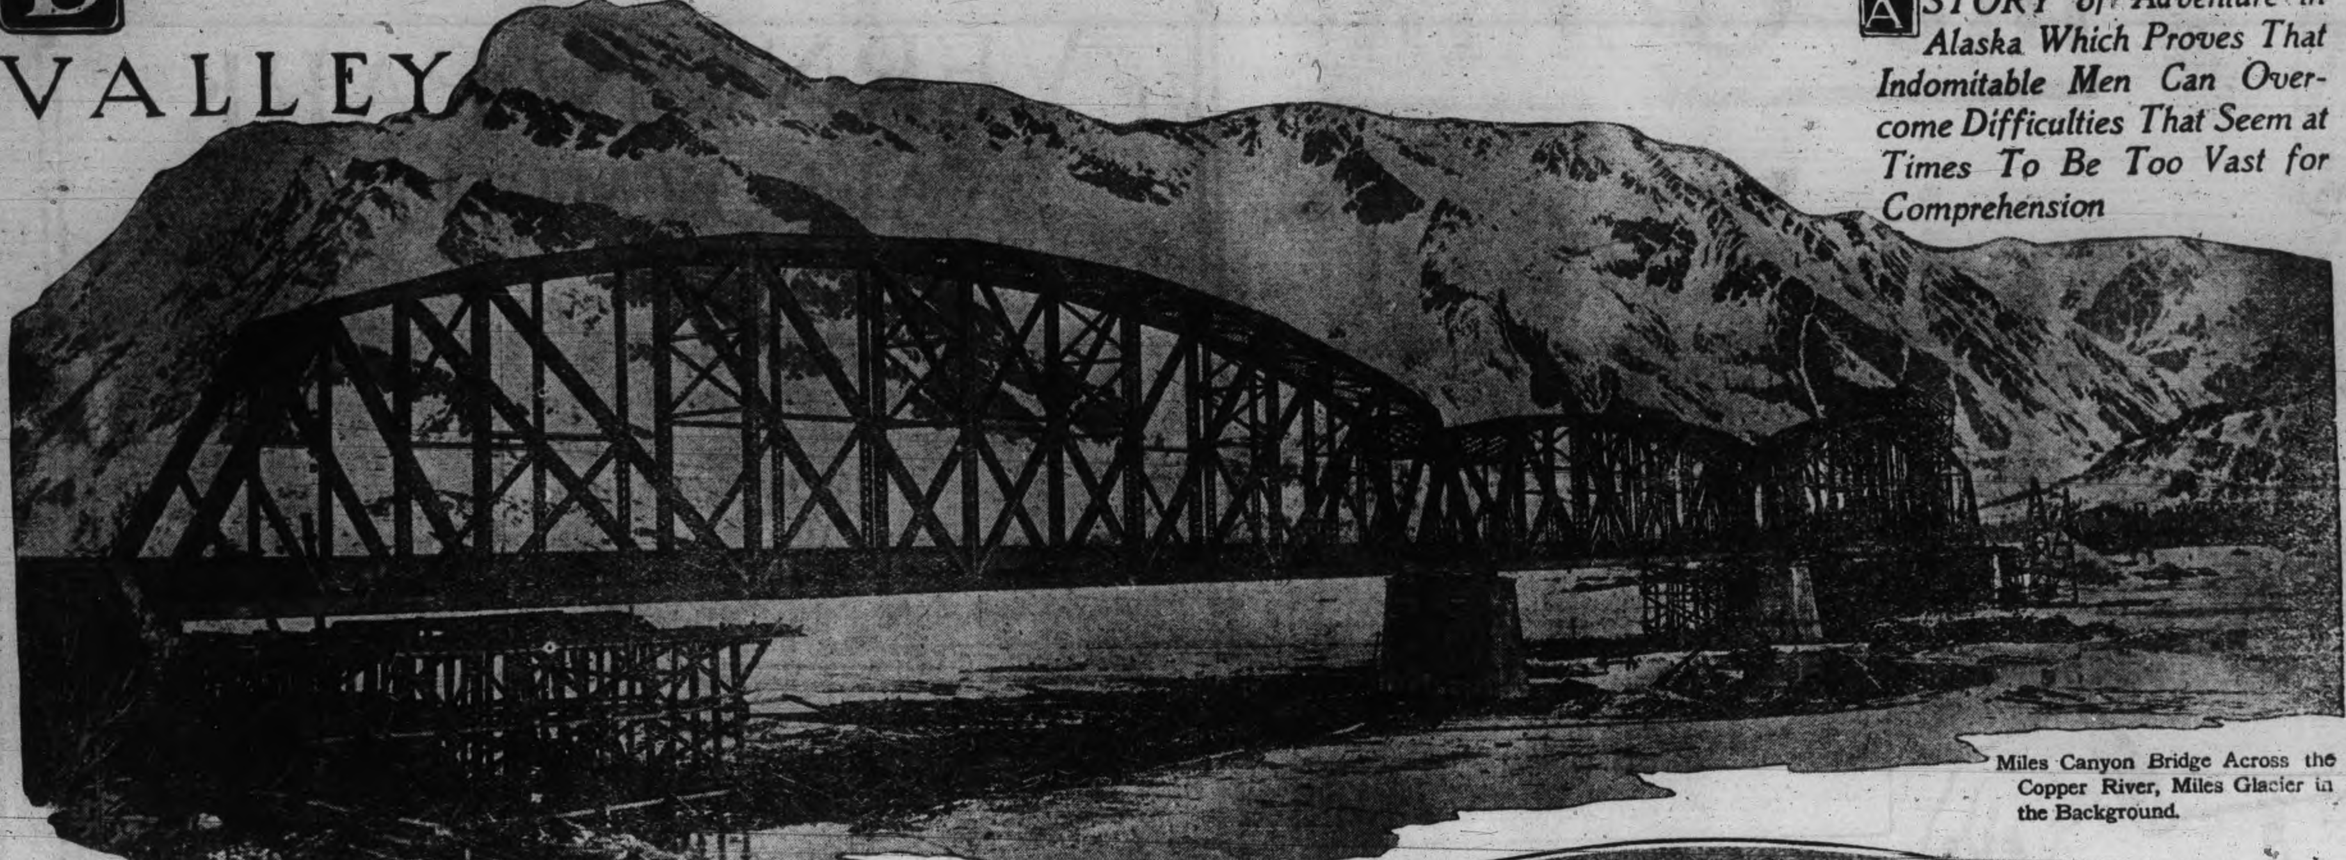
BEATING NATURE in the COPPER RIVER VALLEY

A STORY of Adventure in Alaska Which Proves That Indomitable Men Can Overcome Difficulties That Seem at Times To Be Too Vast for Comprehension



Miles Canyon Bridge Across the Copper River, Miles Glacier in the Background.

THE author of this article is known even among progressive, daring, dauntless American railroad men as an "advanced railroader." Before he took the presidency of the Copper River and Northwestern Railroad he won his spurs with the Burlington, after a record with other roads in lesser offices, as a driving, pushing, indomitable man.

Physically he is a giant, and, quite like many other such men who really do things, he has an abounding good nature and a sense of humor that nothing can cloud.

Many of the tales in this series are particularly the adventures of the narrator, and perhaps one or two immediate associates. In this one are told the things that have befallen five thousand Americans, of whom the teller of the tale, though the leader, was only one, who took his share of the labor and danger as any good general in a great campaign should do.

BY S. W. ECCLES.

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

TO the average man in the United States Alaska is merely a near-polar region of ice and snow, where there is plenty of gold to be found if the hunter can keep from freezing to death. The truth is that it is largely a fair and wonderful and, in parts of which nature has locked up treasures of untold value and set the mightiest of mountains, the most powerful of streams, the cruellest of winds and the most crafty, stubborn and treacherous of all her aids as guards, whose vigilance is eternal.

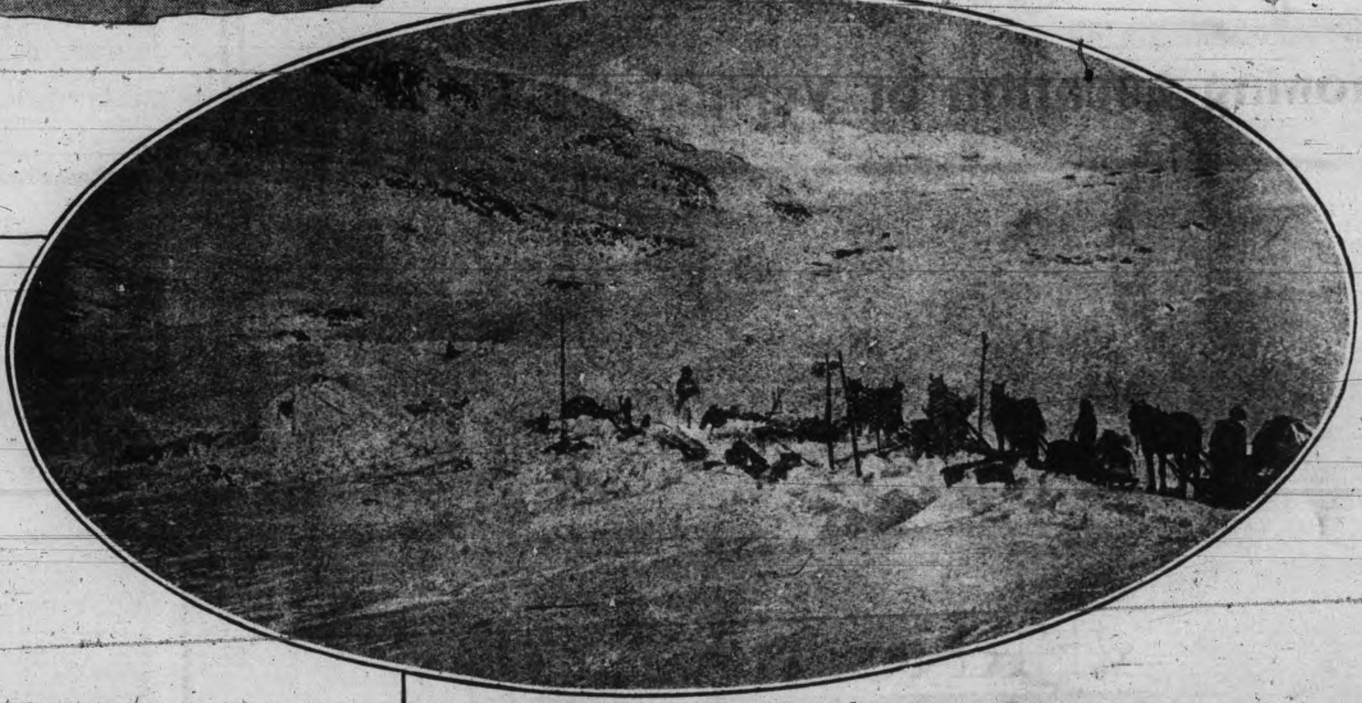
They comprise an appalling defensive and at times aggressive force, and, quite as much as Napoleon's troops who marched on Moscow, Edward III.'s outnumbered knights and bowmen who triumphed at Crecy and the marvellous Foreign Legion which Africa engulfs in part each year, our men on the Copper River constitute an army, and the building of the Copper River Railroad is one of the fiercest and most spectacular battles ever fought. The enemy is Nature—Nature who when conquered, as she will be, will prove a good friend and ally.

It is only building two hundred miles of railroad. It is only the fulfilling of a contract. There will be no heroes, medals, processions, pensions and thrilling pages in history. The men who, from the chief to the lowest camp helper, imperil their lives every day are working merely for pay, but I can't help feeling that, though the great mass of people never will hear of it and only a few will realize, it is something more than commonplace, it constitutes one of the truly glorious things in the history of the American people.

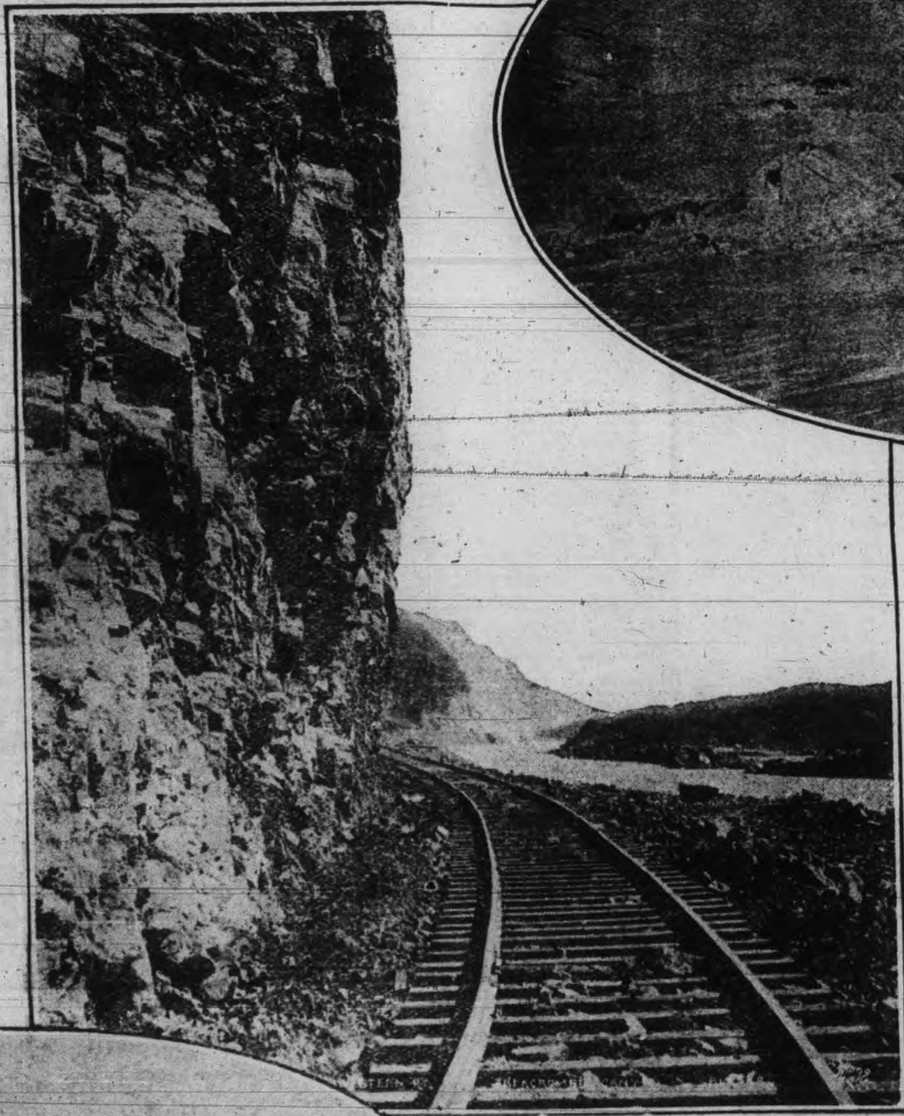
Picture of the Scene.

Before passing to the narrative of the crisis of this battle of the Copper River in the North, permit me to deta.. some of the smaller heroisms of the long campaign, for surely the man who under fire digs a rifle pit with his bayonet or bears a wounded comrade through a leaden hail is no greater hero than the man who swings a pick where the next instant he may be swept to death in a rush of ice and earth and water or in the bitter, bitter cold strives to thrust forward a mattress of brush for a footing where one misstep means that he will be whirled away in an icy torrent at the speed of an express train beyond all possible hope of rescue.

Northward from the port of Cordova, on the centre of the southeastern coast, at a distance such as a good automobile can cover in a tamed Eastern State between breakfast and dinner, lies the Kotsina-Chitina copper district, one of the world's richest, if not the richest of all, deposits. Just beyond is the region of gold, and part of the way from the coast are fields of coal the wealth of which even at the lowest estimate makes a mind strain for comprehension. The American spirit would not permit that this wealth should remain undeveloped for lack of transportation, and when the government evaded the task of preparing to get it out a private corporation set out to build a railroad that would haul that wealth to tide water. The men who are building it are the adventurers of this narrative.



This Is the Only Method of Reaching the Interior in Winter—Valdez-Fairbanks Trail.



Showing Heavy Rock Work in Allen Canyon, Copper River.

Alaska's Present Winter Transportation—Dog Team Leaving Valdez.

Beginning with the first few miles after the road sweeps from Cordova around Lake Eyah the first three hundred and fifty men who invaded the region encountered the first fight. M. J. Heney, dubbed the "Prince of Alaska," a brother of Francis J. Heney, the noted prosecutor of San Francisco, led the movement as the contractor, seconded by E. C. Hawkins as chief engineer.

The Copper River is spread into a delta covered with silt as is the delta of the Mississippi. This it was necessary to cross in the hard season before the summer floods should turn it into a shallow lake with a muddy bottom of great depth.

It was on November 15, 1907, that the heroes of my story began and already the terrible winter was on. The snow was eight feet deep and there were only six hours of daylight. The flats were twenty miles wide and bare to the blast, with many glacial and tidal streams, in addition to the three mighty channels of the Copper River itself. They set to work in storms in which the wind, blowing from sixty to ninety miles an hour, hurled the particles of fine ice and snow through the air like fine shot. Utilizing the winter hardened stretches, they must construct before the softening spring came a highway over not only them but the reaches of loose ice, churning slush and speeding water, so that the heavy material for construction inland could be transported thither.

Using brush and poles packed into a mattress, placed by men and horses where many times if they missed footing all went floundering down into varying depths of loose ice, snow and water that froze like armor on them when they were dragged out, if they were so fortunate as to be dragged out—that was the way they built that track. All winter they worked preparing the way and getting men, equipment, tools, donkey engines, materials and food supplies across.

The spring brought added terrors in the way of labor under difficulties and sufferings that increased. Each thaw meant the sinking of a portion of the work or the undermining or sweeping away of another, and as the weather grew warmer the turning of the whole into a mush from six to twenty feet deep, over which men must work in snowshoes.

How doggedly they had striven can be imagined when it is said that one month after reinforcements had landed in April track had been laid across the first section of those terrible flats reaching to Alaganik, crossing a distance of twenty-two and one-half miles.

Now, just beyond are two channels of the river itself, averaging eighteen feet in depth; torrents of icy water filled with floes crashing and grinding down to the sea. One channel is 3,500 feet wide, the other 1,100 feet. Imagine handling piles and timbers under such conditions, with men in boats held by long ropes and men standing on the structural work, never taking their eyes from the workmen, ready to pick up or throw a line to any man who succumbed to the labor and exposure or lost his foothold! Nevertheless, the twenty-first of June found track laid across both channels and on to the twenty-ninth mile.

These labors, these dangers were the everyday things. More dramatic were some of the exceptional. Not heeding the signs of a storm a man had started to "mush on," he and one dog drawing the sled, taking fresh provisions from one camp to another late in the day, and as the storm descended and the dark came down he lost his way. At last he found himself on water side ice, and before he could retreat the section supporting him gave way and he went whirling down stream. Soon he saw a gleaming light ahead somewhat to the right. He yelled and the malamoot barked. Just as he was swept against the timbers in the dark and the floe crashed beneath him to let him through to death, a giant Wisconsin Swede rushed out, clung with one hand as he swung down and heaving mightily lifted man, then dog and at last the loaded sled to safety.

Bravery of One Man.

Another time when a gang was advancing horses in individual barges, as was often done, an odd thing happened. The barges were craft that would hold one horse only. The animal would be forced into it, made fast, and then the gang would take hold, sometimes to the number of thirty on a hauser, and haul the beast not only against ten mile currents, but through shallows choked with ice and slush, through dense mud and over stretches of sand with very little water over it.

Two big brothers from Seattle, longshoremen they had been, were in this gang, and when the horse they were hauling partly broke loose the elder of the two made his way out to the barge to readjust the fastenings as it touched on the tip of a sandy spot. The horse in his struggles dealt the man a kick with his fore leg that stretched him unconscious in a precariously balanced position across the bow of the barge.

Now the barge swung out where at any moment the horse might dislodge the man and drop him to his death. Shouting to the other men to haul for all they were worth the younger brother plunged in, clinging to the line, with its coating of flesh cutting ice, and made his way, at times up to his neck in water or up to his hips in quicksand, to the barge. It was a superhuman muscular effort, but when he reached the barge he still had strength enough to deal the horse a blow that took all the fight and struggle out of it, and then raising his brother to safety he stuck to the barge until it was drawn through to safety.

There was a very great deal of this work to do in making connections between the various islands up the delta, and frequently the current was such that it required fifteen men to haul up a boat carrying a few hundred pounds of freight, and at times they were breast high in the raging icy flood, slipping into quicksands or falling over logs along the bank.

Nowhere in the world has anything ever been heard of like the construction of the section of line across the front of Childs Glacier. The bridge thrown across the river here, called the Miles Canyon Bridge, is what is called "glacierproof," and there is no such another one in the world, so far as that is concerned.

Like an Avalanche.

As the great ever moving river of solid ice, three miles wide and towering three hundred feet sheer from the water, flows slowly down great bergs of ice burst from the face day in and day out and fall into the river with an alarming noise and a great upheaval of water. The "ripple" a berg will raise ranges from a wave ten feet high to a wall of water twenty feet high.

One can never tell when these things are coming, and when one of those walls of water hurls itself across the twelve hundred foot channel, bearing hundreds of thousands of tons of ice on its front, the shock is something terrific. The industrial soldiers of the Copper River Valley had to get boats through with material, build sufficiently strong piers in this icy water and do all their work between the onslaughts of these waves. At the first cry of the watchers, who would go almost blind from scanning the glistening, changeable ice face, the men would drop their work and run for their lives. As the wave subsided they would return to their work if it had not been swept away. The water is so cold that it would freeze if it were not for the fifteen mile current. Construction to the camp opposite the glacier was not extremely difficult. Just above, on the same bank, however, was the great Miles glacier, and this made it necessary to cross to the other shore between the two glaciers. It was quite the usual thing for boats to arrive with but one-third of the cargo with which they started. The men were saving the lives of one another all the time. When a man fell into the river the deadly chill of it seemed to make him almost powerless and quick action was necessary unless he was an able swimmer.

For a time after the upper camp was established it was impossible to get building material to the men there, as all of the available force was required to get through enough food to keep the men in the camp alive.

The most incredible set of rescues occurred one day when a boat with seventeen men was making a brave effort to land a cargo of supplies that were imperatively needed. They were caught by one of these gigantic ice-hung waves, the boat crushed to bits and all the supplies lost, yet it was contrived to get every man out, and none of them had more serious injuries than broken legs and arms.

Just as an illustration of the force of attack this bridge must stand all the time every day in the open season of the year, this is one thing that happened to us. At last a very determined and ingenious foreman had contrived to get nine huge piles chained deeply into the bed of the river and felt that he had made a substantial beginning in that spot. The next wave hurled the ice against those nine huge sticks of wood bound together as one and broke them off like pipe stems. Barges towed by launches, a double cable worked by donkey engines, both failed as a means of getting material across that river, till at last an overhead cable was rigged and every pound of the heavy material, including engines, cars and rails, was got across by October 30.

In conclusion there should be cited that part of the battle which M. J. Heney led in person in the Allen Canyon. The contract required completion to Mile 54 by October 30, 1908. The stream down this canyon is really liquid ice moving at a rate of twenty miles an hour. Up this must go the material and supplies.

Does man need to have the struggle described to picture it? In September there were twenty-four days of storms and blizzards, one destroying the construction camp at Mile 52. Some men did desert, but Heney leaped into the work himself and out of pure grit and loyalty the men stayed with him, working in that awful weather from fourteen to sixteen hours a day, staggering to their bunks for a few hours' sleep and back again, half the time in the dark, driving those last five miles on to completion, and they did it.

No army in the field, not even Washington's men at Valley Forge, ever was called upon for greater fortitude or courage.

RECIPROCITY GETS SMASHING BLOW FROM CLIFFORD SIFTON

Pact Is Condemned by Former Liberal Minister in Virulent Speech

The Breaking Away was Most Spectacular and Sensational.

Ottawa, March 1.—Clifford Sifton, in a magnificent speech, denouncing the proposed reciprocity agreement, broke away from the Liberal party yesterday. The galleries were packed with notables, and the former Minister and present champion of conservation riddled the whole agreement. After an address of an hour and a half, he sat down amid cheers, and a reply was made by Hon. Sydney Fisher, but the Cabinet Minister was utterly unable to cope with his adversary and his rejoinders were not adequate.

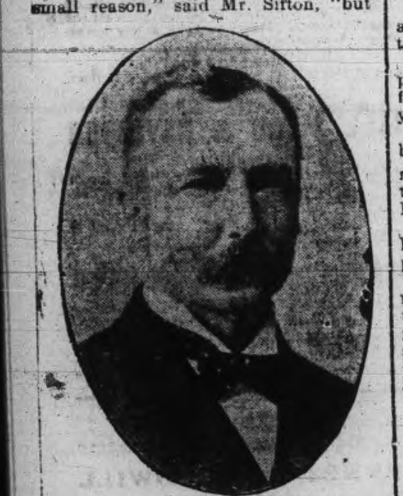
The speech has caused a sensation at Ottawa and the prediction is made that the Government will be challenged to hasten the census and redistribution of seats and go to the country early in the fall. If they refuse the issue will probably be fought to the bitter end.

Almost in his first sentence did the ex-Minister make plain his attitude. He regretted that on a subject so important he could not follow the lead of the party with which he had been identified all his life.

In the Liberal reciprocity campaign of twenty years ago he had, he said, participated, but almost before the campaign was over he had come to believe that the party was wrong. Since then he had steadily set himself against reciprocity.

Mr. Sifton declared that he had made no mystery about his opinion, although he had not tried to force it upon his political friends.

"We don't leave our party for a small reason," said Mr. Sifton, "but we adhere to a party because, in general, it adheres to principles in which we believe."



HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON.
He Has Left His Associates of 23 Years on Reciprocity Issue.

SIFTON ON THE QUAKER OATS CO.

"There will be other large industries affected. There is an enormous industry in existence in the town of Peterborough, the Quaker Oats establishment. The president of the company has given an interview, and I have taken the trouble to have the interview verified, because it is not always safe to proceed upon what we see in newspapers, with all due regard to my journalistic friends. I have taken the trouble to verify that interview, and speaking on behalf of the Quaker Oats Company, which is one of the largest factories in Canada, and one of the largest consumers of farm produce in Canada, consuming, I believe—I speak subject to correction—40 car loads of farm produce per day, this institution manufactures in the town of Peterborough largely for export, and is the best possible kind of factory for us to have. It takes the farm produce, it grinds it up, ships it to foreign countries, collects the money, brings it back and it goes into circulation.

NO BETTER INDUSTRY.

"We can have no better industry for a farming community than the Quaker Oats industry of Peterborough. Now 80 per cent. of the business of this establishment is done by export. The president of the company says that under the conditions that will exist under the proposed changes in the tariff, it will be more convenient and economical for them to manufacture in the United States for export. Their operations in Peterborough, therefore, will be curtailed 60, 70 or 80 per cent., with the result that the Dominion of Canada will lose accordingly.

AN UNPREJUDICED WITNESS.

"Now, I do not at all profess to be able to express an intelligent opinion respecting the business of the Quaker Oats Company, but I call attention to this fact, that these people are not Canadian manufacturers kicking about the duty being taken off when they are manufacturing for the home market. It is easy to understand why a manufacturer would object to a change in a case of that kind. But there is no reason for this company saying that this agreement is against them, for it is not. They are not unfriendly to the United States, and they are not unfriendly to us in Canada, and there is no possible reason why we should not accept their statement as being given in good faith." (Loud applause.)

But when there is a basic difference, Mr. Sifton thought it time that political allegiance be dissolved.

"That is the position in which I find myself to-day. I take the only course possible for me, however painful it may be."

Mr. Sifton went on to criticize the conduct of the Government in this deal. In a matter of this importance the fullest enquiry is usually made—for instance, at the time of the German question 20,000 enquiries were made.

"In this case I believe we should have consulted the most-favored nations," he said. But in this case Mr. Sifton showed how niggardly the Government had been furnishing information. Members had had to dig their statistics out of various blue books as best they could.

Mr. Fielding, too, had failed to argue the merits of the question, he thought.

"I dissent altogether with the proposition that Canadians have been in favor of reciprocity for the past forty years," declared Mr. Sifton.

There had, however, he explained, been several attempts at an approachment. But when it came to the election of 1908, neither party made the least mention of reciprocity.

"I agree that the Government has had no mandate to make these proposals," went on the ex-Minister.

"The Government, it was true, was not elected to pass upon specific measures. They have to exercise a discretion within the constitution, but they abused it in turning away from a policy that had three times been discussed, debated and approved.

"Nothing has given Canada such a shock as that four or five gentlemen, of their own will can commit this country to so radical a change. I do not think that there can be a more dangerous condition," was Mr. Sifton's assertion.

This Government had three planks in its platform—British preference, reduced duties on some articles used by farmers, and a reduction on raw

PLOWING ALREADY

Winnipeg, Man., March 1.—Plowing has began in many parts through the prairie provinces. Spring is generally in evidence with many birds returning a month earlier than usual.

NO CHANGE IN THE BAIT LAW

St. John's, Nfld., March 1.—The action of the Government in subsidizing cold storage plans for fish to be conducted at St. John's and at several other places in the colony by an American firm has brought protests from the followers of the former Premier, Sir Robert Bond, in the Colonial Assembly, who argue that the granting of the subsidy to Americans is the first step toward an abandonment of the colony's treaty rights, and has nullified the Newfoundland bait law.

In answer to a memorial from the St. John's Board of Trade the Premier, Sir Edward Morris, declared that the Government has in no wise impaired the effectiveness of the bait law. To confirm his contentions, he suggested the matter be placed before a committee of lawyers without partisan interest, and the lawyers in their decision confirmed the Premier's view.

AWFUL FATALITY AT G.T.R. STATION

Brakeman Fell Under Engine and Met Terrible Death

Special to The Review.

St. Catharines, March 1.—P. Cullin a brakeman, lost his life at the Grand Tunk Railway station here to-day, when he fell under the wheels of an engine, and was ground to pieces. His home is not known.

Better Farming Special.

Tilbury, March 1.—The first day's operation of the better farming special, which stopped at Essex, Comber, Leamington and Fletcher, was an unqualified success. Over one thousand people, nearly all farmers, took advantage of the lectures on seed improvement, drainage, dairying, fruit, bacteriology, etc.

Three Years In the Pen.

Montreal, March 1.—Charles Childers, who was found guilty of stabbing Thomas Shea in a fight on Chatham street on Feb. 4, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Choquette to three years in the penitentiary. Childers has already been in prison fifteen times for various offences in the past five years.

Reorganizing the Fish Trust.

Chicago, March 1.—Reorganization plans of the Booth Fish Co., known as the "fish trust" before its failure two years ago, include the sale of $5,000,000 six per cent. first mortgage bonds. The Northern Fisheries Co., a salmon-handling concern, will be purchased.

BANK OFFICIAL PLEADS GUILTY

"Skyrocket Financier" to be Sentenced March 27

Special to The Review.

New York, N.Y., March 1.—Joseph Robin, known as the "Skyrocket Financier" has pleaded guilty to stealing twenty seven thousand dollars, from the Washington savings bank, of which he was formerly the president. He will be sentenced on March 27.

MAY BALLOT ON SATURDAY

Washington Political Circles Are Aroused by Report That the Senate Will Take a Vote on the Subject on Saturday Morning—It Seems to Be the Logical Outcome of Present Strained Situation.

Washington, March 1.—Late last night it was reported in Washington political-circles that the extraordinary developments of the day in arranging for clearing off the balance of the sessional program in the Senate was being supplemented by a "gentleman's agreement" that a vote on reciprocity should be taken on Saturday morning, just before Congress expires. The details of this are still to be arranged, but such an event is the logical outcome of the present situation.

Wearied by an all-night filibuster and a long day, during which some progress was made, the Senators broke the deadlock late yesterday afternoon and assured the completion of the session's business with the possible exception of the reciprocity bill. When the terms of agreement developed at the six o'clock adjournment no mention was made of reciprocity, and presumably it is left to take its chance after to-day.

The President has declared that in view of the promised support of a majority he would not accept a manipulated defeat of the bill at this session, such as was sought to be arranged on Monday, as a reason for obviating an extra session. If the slate is trimmed down to reciprocity and magazine postage for the last two days of the session, the former might yet be adopted in view of the large sentiment apparently existing for it and the certainty of an extra session if it goes over. This could be facilitated by placating the insurgents through the holding over of the proposal to increase magazine postage.

DREADNAUGHTS BY THE DOZENS

Navy League Would Have Forty Built in Six Years

Special to The Review.

London, March 1—The leaders of the British Imperialists are advocating an imposing program, for the construction of battleships. A Navy League which has been organized calls for the building of forty dreadnoughts within the next six years.

Poisons Mother, Nephew and Self.

Philadelphia, March 1.—Miss Jeannette Lewis, aged 27 years, yesterday poisoned her mother, Mrs. Sarah Lewis, aged 57, and her nephew, Ed. B. Midlen, jr., aged nine years, by administering cyanide of potassium, and afterward committed suicide with the deadly drug.

The tragedy occurred at the home of Edward B. Midlen, at Pelham, a suburb, and it is believed that the young woman was crazed by grief over the death on Sunday night of a married sister.

Another Break In Toronto.

Toronto, March 1.—There is another break in the intake pipe, and it is about 150 feet further from the shore than the former break. Some tremendous force, thought to be storm-driven ice, had pulled one end of a section entirely clear of the rest and placed it about 15 feet away. It has cut the bolts holding the sections together as though severed by a sharp chisel, but so far as could be ascertained, had caused no damage to the flanges or the pipe.

New Lighthouse Steamer.

Kingston, March 1.—The Kingston Shipbuilding Co. has been awarded the contract of building the steamer Bellechasse, the second lighthouse steamer which the Government has ordered from the company. It will be a twin screw survey inspection vessel for the St. Lawrence ship channel service below Quebec, 130 feet long, 27 feet beam, and 13.6 moulded depth.

West Wants Laborers.

Winnipeg, March 1.—Estimates prepared here from information furnished by railway and immigration officials indicate that at least 35,000 laborers will be required in the west this year. Each of three big railway companies will be looking for about 5,000 men, and more than 20,000 experienced and inexperienced will be needed on farms.

Woman Dies In a Dental Chair.

Montreal, March 1.—After having thirty teeth extracted yesterday, Marie Goulet, aged 19 years, collapsed suddenly and died. She had recovered from the chloroform, and death is said to have been due to heart failure. Deceased was accompanied to the dental institution by her sister, who, with the physician, explained the circumstances to Coronor McMahon, and he disposed of the case without calling a jury. The girl had twice previously taken chloroform for operations without ill effect.

AGED WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

Special to The Review.

Cornwall, March 1st—An elderly woman, Mrs. Trickey, who was ninety four years of age, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of her son in law, Stephen Charron, with whom she was living.

AS TO THE MATTHEWS CO'S POSITION

Hon. Clifford Sifton—"I think that the meat-packing industry of this country will be destroyed. I have given that subject considerable consideration. I thought when I saw and read carefully the memorial of the packers that the meat-packing industry would be injured, and I am prepared to say now that if this treaty goes into effect and continues in effect for any length of time, the big packing industry of the Dominion of Canada will be wiped out. There is no more chance of the meat-packing industry standing against the beef trust of the United States than there would be of my standing up against this building if it fell upon me. That is precisely the position in which the meat-packers will be put."

WHY THEY ARE OPPOSED TO RECIPROCITY

Three Prominent Peterborough People Give Reasons for Their Views Against the Pact.

W. H. MOORE, K.C.

"Let well enough alone," said W. H. Moore, K.C. "The prosperity of Canada during the last 20 years has been positively unique, and if the reciprocity measure carries, there will occur one of the greatest upheavals in the history of the land.

"I am strongly opposed to it also on the ground that the proposal is not really in the nature of a treaty; it is not even a bargain or a contract, but may be annulled momentarily by either country.

"The U.S. will without hesitation or compunction abrogate the agreement should they at any time feel disposed to, and if the act carries, it means we are just playing into their hands. Similar treaties of the past have proved that such is the policy of the United States."

"Locally, how do you think it would affect us?" asked the Review.

"I prophesy that no town or city will be struck so forcibly or quickly as Peterborough," was the reply. "It is advantageously situated, and its factories would receive a blow that would practically ruin them.

"Undeniably it would kill trade," was his closing comment.

ALD. EDGAR.

Ald. Edgar viewed the reciprocity question in the light that the country to the south of us was undoubtedly endeavoring to annex Canada. He also was positive that should they find they were not benefiting up to their expectations, they would, without hesitation, disregard the agreement.

When asked as to who would benefit most largely should the measure pass, Mr. Edgar stated that the States would, undoubtedly. The price of many commodities in the States is very much higher than in Canada, such as clothes.

In expressing opinions on reciprocity, he felt, no man, irrespective of politics, should seek to remain neutral in a matter of such vital importance to the country. Politics should be eliminated and the common welfare of the country supersede political interests or feeling.

ROBERT FAIR.

"It is my opinion," said Mr. Fair, when interviewed to-day on the reciprocity question, "that we should let well enough alone, and be satisfied with the measure of reciprocity which we now enjoy."

"From a local standpoint, how do you think it would affect us?" was the query.

"Well, I certainly agree with Mr. Stuart of the Quaker Oats. I think it would be a severe blow to the company; also to the Geo. Matthews Company.

"A canvass of the Board of Trade of the leading cities all show a preponderance of public opinion against the measure.

"If the United States professes to love us so much, why not let them annex themselves to us right away. Also, if the United States found that later the measure was not to their best interests they would be the first to repeal it."

REVOLUTION IS IN THE BALANCE

Paraguay Government Warships Out After the Rebels

Special to The Review.

Buenos Ayres, March 1.—A big naval battle to decide the fate of the Paraguay revolution, is expected to take place at any time. The Paraguay Government is sending a fleet of warships, against three well manned ships, which have been sent out by the rebel forces.

WOULD TAX BAR RECEIPTS

Col. Matheson Proposes to Tax Railways and Express Companies and Racing Meets More Heavily—Hon. Mr. Hanna Introduces a Bill to Collect Five Per Cent. From Bars Making Over $40 Per Day.

Toronto, March 1.—Hon. W. J. Hanna transformed the scene in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon when he announced, speaking very slowly, that he moved, seconded by Hon. Dr. Pyne, the first reading of a bill "to amend the liquor license act."

The words acted like magic on the Assembly.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said the bill did not propose to change the conditions with regard to fees with respect to the hotels doing a small bar-room trade, but to increase the revenue from license holders where the day's business exceeded $40 a day by taxing the amount in excess of that sum 5 per cent.

The Provincial Secretary said: "In making this provision, we have departed somewhat from the present principles applied to the imposing of licenses. The licenses are as they stand at present, however, and the sections of the act relating to licenses we leave unaltered and untouched. Our thought has been in imposing these conditions to reach the licensees who can afford to pay, without doing an injustice to those who are not in this fortunate position."

"The reduction of the number of licenses going on throughout the province," said Hon. Mr. Hanna, "is giving the increased value to those licenses that remain, and there is no reason in the world why the province should not get a share of this unearned increment of the effort to protect the people of the province."

Hon. W. J. Hanna also introduced a bill to discipline chemists who sell alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes. It provides that where a chemist has been twice convicted he shall be reported to the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and empowers the college to cancel the pharmacy certificate one to three years.

Heavier taxes in railway and express companies, new taxes on horse-race meetings and stock transfers were the features of a supplementary revenue bill introduced in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer.

The increased taxes on railways will amount to about $22,000, while the tax on express companies will be also largely increased.

The new tax upon the clubs of the Canadian Racing Association and the Metropolitan Racing Association for their seven days meetings will be $1,400 for each meeting, that is $200 a day, to be paid in advance.

For trotting and pacing race meetings the license fee will be $10 for a one-day meet; $40 for a meeting lasting two days, and $60 for one of three days' duration.

The clause to tax all stock transfers will be two cents for every $100 or fraction thereof of the par value upon every change of ownership, consequent upon the sale, transfer, or assignments of shares, bonds, debentures. The tax will not apply to the original issue of security by any joint stock company. It also will not apply to the transfer or assignment of securities, security for loans, or transfer owing to death. A penalty will be imposed on any company entering a transfer of such securities upon which the tax has not been paid.

Sir James Whitney gave consent to a bill from an Opposition member, Mr. Proudfoot going to committee. It was to empower municipalities to purchase and operate large spraying machines for the destruction of pests on fruit trees.

The Premier said he could see no objection to it.

YOUNG BRAKEMAN LOST HIS LIFE

Special to The Review.

Cornwall, March 1—A terrible accident occurred at Finch yesterday, in which John Preston, a young brakeman, received fatal injuries. He fell between two cars of the freight train on which he was employed and his head was crushed. His home was at Finch, where he leaves a widow with three small children.

Strike In Ottawa Car Works.

Ottawa, March 1.—Three hundred and fifty men employed in the Ottawa Car Works here went out on strike yesterday afternoon. They have in the past been paid on Friday for work done up to Thursday night. Under a new system, four days' wages would be withheld.

Customs Increases.

Ottawa, March 1.—An increase of $10,816,464.31 is shown in the customs collections of the Dominion for the eleven months of the fiscal year ending yesterday, the total being $64,898,391.55. Collections for February total $5,990,083.64, an increase of $815,259.38.

Are You For or Against the Reciprocity Agreement ?

An Invitation to the Ordinary Reader, the Salaried Man or Workingman to Express an Opinion on the Tariff Change.

Below will be found a ballot on the reciprocity question. The Review invites its readers to mark it for, or against, signing the name, not for publication, but merely as an evidence of good faith. The workingman, the housewife who finds it even at the present cost of living, a hard problem to make ends meet, should make his should make his or her voice known BEFORE the pact is rushed through. Now is the time to kick, if the people have a kick coming.

About fifteen thousand people in Peterborough are dependent for their livelihood on the factories. Two factories at least are directly affected by the reciprocity pact. If the ordinary workingman believes in Canada hoeing its own row, without reference to the United States; if he believes, along with Sir. Edmund Walker and Hon. Clifford Sifton, two master minds, that reciprocity is a tremendous betrayal of Canada's great interests as a great part of the British empire, here is his chance to put himself on record before the deal goes through.

Mark the ballot, and send it into the Review. Let's have everyone's opinion, for or against!

LIVER LAZINESS

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well-known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys, and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, in yellow boxes, 25c. per box, from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1, 1911.

A TRUE INDICATION

The Peterborough correspondent of the Toronto Star yesterday sent the following dispatch to the Toronto reciprocity organ after it was discovered that the Review was trying to determine the real opinion of the Board of Trade on the reciprocity question:

> An effort is now being made today by the opponents of the measure, to canvass the seventy members of the Board of Trade, and get their views on the matter, with the hope that a majority can be shown against reciprocity. The fact remains, however, that only thirteen members of the Board of Trade considered the matter of sufficient importance to attend the meeting.

The effort was certainly made with the belief and hope that a majority would be shown against reciprocity. That was amply justified, when 31 out of 42 members consulted were strongly against the agreement. We have no reason for thinking that those members who were out of town, or who were not reached, would alter this proportion of voting. As a matter of fact, after two hours of querying, the vote stood 25 against and THREE for. In the late stages of the polling, there seemed to be a great increase in pro-reciprocity sentiment, though the names were taken haphazard, in order of accessibility.

The Board of Trade is strongly against the agreement, and a re-poll the members would, we think, only increase the majority, as sentiment against the agreement was so strongly manifested. One of the members said that he had been kept away from the Board of Trade meeting by illness, and had intended making a carefully prepared and emphatic protest against the agreement.

SIFTON'S BREAKAWAY

Hon. Clifford Sifton, the master mind of the Laurier regime, has broken away from the party. Mr. Sifton is one of the strongest Liberals in the Dominion, so strong that he has always been a political power to be reckoned with. He has a strong mind of his own, and now declines to follow the leader of his earlier political days.

Hon. Clifford Sifton is one of the cleverest men in the Dominion of Canada. His bitterest political opponents do not hesitate to admit that. His quality of brain and courage are of high calibre. He said truly in the House of Commons yesterday that it was both painful and regrettable that he had been compelled, following the strong convictions of his years of experience, to cast loose from the Liberal ship. He thought reciprocity was a step entirely in the wrong direction; it was a fatal change in the political destiny of Canada.

Mr. Sifton spoke only too truly when he said that they must be very strong reasons indeed that induced a public man to break away from party affiliations, which were very strong in Canada. The breaking away of the eighteen Toronto Liberals, followed by a storm of mud-slinging from the hide-bound Liberal press of the country, is an evidence of what men with the courage of their convictions have to put up with. Mr. Sifton, having told his former leader that the reciprocity agreement is a mistake, and a big mistake, will now become anathema to the staunch Liberalism of Canada.

The Globe fought for Sifton in the days when he was attacked because of the land steals and grafts in the west, when Sifton was becoming a millionaire. The Globe has manfully defended him in the days when his character was attacked, when the land grabs were the talk of the country. Now, about turn, please. The Globe will proceed to find Mr. Sifton, whose knowledge of Canadian life and resources is undoubtedly great, is entirely mistaken, even though he always used to be right.

Mr. Sifton has not been an active supporter of Liberalism for some time, but now that he has cast off on his lonely raft, the crew of the Grit vessel will for a time forget about the breakers ahead, to shy all the lemons and bad eggs they can find at their erstwhile friend and comrade.

THE REVIEW POLL

The poll of the members of the Peterborough Board of Trade by the Review yesterday was made at the cost of considerable effort. It requires a great deal of labor to reach fifty busy business men, and it would have been impossible to have done this in the course of two or three hours, had it not been for that most valuable adjunct of business, the telephone. Forty-two members definitely expressed an opinion on it, thirty-one being flatly against reciprocity in any shape or form, and eleven in favor of it. We regard this as a true test of the feeling in business circles on the matter.

About ten of the members whose names are on the roll are out of the city, some of them permanently, others for a time on business. About fifty members were reached, a few being in the city who could not be located. This comprises the active membership of the board and the test may be taken as strongly indicative of the opposition felt by the business men of the city toward any disturbance to the present fiscal system. The Review hopes to be able to present further evidence of the mind of the people on this most important question, feeling that it is through the newspapers that the public opinion can most easily and effectively assert itself.

THE PREFERENCE

The Toronto Star says—A British preference, if it is not to be a sham, must permit of the introduction of British goods in competition with the products of Canadian factories. Do Canadian manufacturers really favor such a preference?

The Star knows very well that that is a quibble of the most impudent sort. A British preference is one that will give to British commercial interests access to the Canadian market on more advantageous terms than are enjoyed by the commercial interests of other countries. A British preference does not mean that Canadian manufacturers shall be forced to meet the ruinous competition of the cheap-labor products of Britain, without some method of equalizing the cost of production. The government has nearly destroyed the woollen industry of Canada through this policy. By all means let us give Britain a preference, even though she gives us none. But the Canadian industry must come first always. The prosperity of the Canadian workingman is just as important as the prosperity of the farmer. One is co-related to the other. When a government begins to chop off all protection on natural products, takes a slice off protection on manufactured products, and promises to increase the British preference, without increasing the duties to foreign countries, it is time for Canadians to pause and recollect if the old National policy is not being hacked to pieces. Canada will have none of free trade, but if Laurier wants to commit political suicide, so much the better for the Conservatives.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We wonder if the Liberal papers will devote about two inches to Sifton's speech and hide it in the sporting columns at that!

They are plowing in the west already. Well, the farmers in the east have some furrows on their brows this year, early, also.

A Conservative named Corby, living in Belleville, says reciprocity is a good thing. We hope he has had nothing to do with the familiar Corby brand.

With about half of each issue devoted to reciprocity, the newspapers of the country are not leaving undone the duty of placing their views before the country.

What's the use of spending $4,000 a year to get factories here, if we allow the ones that are here to be killed without protest by the reciprocity pact?

Sir Joseph Lyons, the restaurant king of London, is writing a musical comedy featuring neither love or girls. Sir Joseph must be an old married man.

A dispatch from Omemee says that the village is becoming noted for its freak animals. It would be a fine place to retire the reciprocity agreement.

The tracing of "blind pig" liquor in Cobalt to its source of shipment has revealed an illicit still in Ottawa. The Ontario Government officials seem to be scoring at both ends at the same time.

The increase of the salaries of the firemen is a very commendable thing, and we are glad to note that a sense of justice has prevailed. It was a move in accordance with public sentiment. May the firemen feel that they have received at least a fair measure of justice.

The invention of a silly story of a baby born with horns by Montreal school children caused five hundred people to gather around the house where the unique event is supposed to have occurred. Some people are like children, except that they ought to know better.

No successor will be appointed to Radcliffe, the hangman. The sheriffs will either have to do the hanging themselves, or pay some one to do it. Imagine a tender-hearted sheriff doing the ruffian job! We think this is a mistake, and will lead to great unpleasantness. Better far to have one official to take the odious office, rather than force such repugnant work onto the shoulders of decent public officials. One hangman is much better than twenty hangmen in this country.

The pace set by Colonel Sir Henry Pellatt is proving too fast for the officers of the Queen's Own, and they are quickly dropping out, not being able to afford the extravagances of the set. We don't blame the officers. No man is true to himself and his family who does not live within his means. If officering a regiment is to be financially a burden to worthy military men, then the sooner the militia system is reformed the better. Canada is a democracy, and wants neither an aristocracy of money or blood, in militia or other affairs.

CARRIED GLADNESS TO THIS HOME

Mrs. Annie Vanvorst's Heart Disease Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills

She found quick relief in the old reliable Kidney remedy, and advises all her friends to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Benedict, Sask., February 28.—(Special).—Gladness has replaced the anxiety that reigned in the household of Mrs. Annie Vanvorst, of this place. For some time past Mrs. Vanvorst had suffered from Kidney Trouble and palpitation of the heart, and fears were entertained of those terribly sudden fatalities that so frequently accompany affections of the heart. But relief from both ailments was quickly found in the old reliable remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. In an interview Mrs. Vanvorst says—

"I had palpitation of the heart and my Kidneys were out of order. I took one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and found great relief. For a Kidney pill Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot be beat. You may publish what I say, as it may be the means of benefitting others who suffer with Kidney Trouble or Heart Disease."

Pure blood is the basis of all health, and you can't have pure blood unless your Kidneys are in good working order. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to put the Kidneys in perfect working order.

CHAPTER XIX.

Two Robert Darzacs.

THE more he explained the less we understood. But now—what was this dread feeling which came over us? Why did we all suddenly recoil with a single movement? Why were the eyes of M. Darzac wide with a new terror? Why did the Lady in Black—Arthur Rance—I myself—utter the same syllable, a name which expired on our lips—"Larsan?"

Where had we seen him? Where had we discovered him this time, we who were gazing at Rouletabille? Ah, that profile in the red shadow of the approaching twilight, that brow in the background of the alcove upon which the sunset rays stream as did the dawn on the morning of the crime! Oh, that stern jaw, bespeaking an iron will, which appeared before us, not, as in the light of day, gentle though a little bitter, but evil and threatening! How like Rouletabille was to Larsan! How in that moment the son resembled his father! It was Larsan's very self!

Another transformation. At a moan from his mother Rouletabille came out of his funereal frame and appeared before us as a bandit, and as he hurried toward us he was Rouletabille once more. Mme. Edith, who had never seen Larsan, could not understand. She whispered to me, "What is going on?"

Rouletabille was there before us, with his hot water in the casserole, a napkin and his skull. And he washed the skull. It was soon done. The paint disappeared. He made us bear witness to the fact. He stood in mute contemplation before his own drawing for ten minutes, during which he had by a sign ordered us to keep silence. Suddenly he seized the skull in his right hand and tossed it about so that it rolled over the drawing. Then he showed us the skull and bade us notice that it bore no trace of red paint. Rouletabille drew out his watch again.

"The paint has dried upon the plan," he said. "It has taken a quarter of an hour to dry. Upon the 11th of April we saw at 5 o'clock in the afternoon Darzac entering the square tower and coming from out of doors. But Darzac after having entered the square tower and after having fastened behind him the bolts of his door, as he tells us, had not gone out again until we came to fetch him after 6 o'clock. As to Old Bob, we had seen him enter the square tower at 6 o'clock, and there was no paint on this skull then.

"How was this paint, which has taken only a quarter of an hour to dry upon this plan, fresh enough still—more than an hour after Darzac had left it—to stain Old Bob's skull when the savant, with a movement of anger, threw it down on the plan as he entered the round tower? There is only one explanation of this, and I defy you to find another, and that is that the Robert Darzac who entered the square tower at 5 o'clock and whom no one had seen going out again was not the same as the one who came to paint in the round tower before the arrival of Old Bob at 6 o'clock and whom we found in the room in the square tower without having seen him enter there and with whom we went out. In one word, he was not the same man as the M. Darzac here present before us. The testimony of pure reason shows that there are two personalities appearing in the guise of Robert Darzac."

And Rouletabille turned his eyes full upon the man whose name he had uttered.

Darzac, like all the rest of us, was under the spell of the luminous demonstration of the young reporter. We were all divided between a new horror and a boundless admiration. Here again we found the mark of his prodigious and logical mathematical intelligence.

Darzac cried out:

"It was thus, then, that he was able to enter the square tower under a disguise which made him without doubt my very image. It was thus that he was able to hide behind the panel in such a way that I did not see him myself when I came here to write my letters after quitting the Tower of the Bold, where I left my drawing. But how could Pere Bernier have opened to him?"

"Doubtless," replied Rouletabille, who had taken the hand of the Lady in Black in both his own as though he wished to give her courage, "he must have believed that it was yourself."

"That, then, explains the fact that when I reached my door I had only to push it open. Pere Bernier believed that I was within."

"Exactly. That is good reasoning," declared Rouletabille, "and Pere Bernier, who had opened to Darzac No. 1, had not troubled himself about No. 2 since he did not see him any more than yourself. You certainly reached the square tower at the moment that Sainclair and myself called Bernier to the parapet to see whether he could help us in understanding the strange gesticulations of Old Bob, talking at the threshold of the Barma Grande to Mrs. Rance and Prince Galitch."

"But Mere Bernier!" cried M. Darzac. "She had gone into her lodge. Was she not astonished to see M. Darzac come in a second time when she had not seen him go out?"

"Let us suppose," replied the young reporter, with a sad smile—"let us suppose, M. Darzac, that Mere Bernier at that moment, the moment when you passed into your apartments—that is to say, when the second apparition of Darzac passed in—was occupied in picking up some of the potatoes spilled upon the floor, and we shall suppose the truth."

"Well, then, I can congratulate myself on the fact that I am still upon earth."

"Congratulate yourself, M. Darzac! Congratulate yourself!"

"When I remember that as soon as I entered my room I drew the bolts as I have told you that I did, that I began to work and that this wretch was hidden behind my back. Why, he might have killed me without hindrance!"

Rouletabille stepped close to Darzac and fixed his eyes upon him with a look that seemed to read his soul.

"Why did he not kill you, then?" he asked.

"You know very well that he was waiting for some one else," replied Darzac, turning his face sorrowfully toward the Lady in Black.

Rouletabille was now so close to Darzac that their shadows on the floor looked like that of one strangely formed being. The lad put his two hands on the older man's shoulders.

Most Canadians Have Catarrh

Our Changeable Climate is Responsible.

Where the atmosphere is damp, with sudden changes in temperature, almost everybody has Catarrh, in some form or other. The ordinary cold in the head inflames and weakens the membranes lining the nose and throat, and starts a discharge. The next cold is more easily caught, and soon the patient is never quite free of it.

As Catarrh develops the discharge increases—drops into the throat, especially at night—and takes on an offensive odor. Besides being exceedingly disagreeable, there is great danger of the disease extending to the lungs, stomach, or bowels.

Though it is very difficult to cure, Father Morriscy devised a combined internal and external treatment that has cured thousands. The Tablets tone up and invigorate the system, and assist Nature in throwing off the disease, while the salve, applied up the nostrils, clears out the discharge and heals the membranes. Combined treatment, 50c at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 20

Buy Painting For Nation.

London, March 1.—The announcement that the Marquis of Lansdowne's famous Rembrandt "The Mill" is going to America has been followed with the suggestion that the picture be acquired for the national gallery by public subscription.

Sir Charles Holroyd, director of the national gallery, who has been recalled from Vienna to conduct such a campaign, said yesterday that the marquis had offered the nation the refusal of the work, and promised $25,000 towards its purchase. Sir Charles, however, despaired of raising the amount necessary, unless some millionaire was prepared to give the bulk of the sum, as in the recent case of Holbein's "Duchess of Milan," when $225,000 was given by an anonymous contributor.

It is stated that an American collector has offered $500,000 for "The Mill."

RECIPROCITY GETS SMASHING

material used by manufacturers. But the underlying principle was still protection. In 1900 the people endorsed the tariff of 1897.

"I am firmly convinced that the system was the best for Canada, and one which it will be unsafe radically to change," went on Mr. Sifton, who proceeded to deal with the British preference.

He believed there was some idea of increasing it, but he would not support any substantial increase at the expense of the Canadian manufacturer.

As a result, in the last fifteen years, the Dominion has prospered more than any country on earth. Man for man, Canadians were better off than any equal population. The farmers were prosperous.

A few "hear-hears" emanated from the silence in which the Government watched the bolt of the man from Brandon.

A blue book by the Minister of Labor furnished Mr. Sifton valuable statistics of the movement of prices from 1890 to 1899. Grain had risen 49 per cent., dairy produce 33 per cent., cattle 48 per cent., and, what the farmer buys, woollen goods, up 43 per cent., boots 25 per cent., etc. The farmer therefore, was getting more than his share of the general prosperity.

"Now, the proposition is made that we revolutionize this policy which has worked so auspiciously. What will be the result? Individuals will suffer greatly. As to the general prosperity, the development of our resources is so vast that, no mistake could prevent Canada making enormous advance," argued the speaker.

Mr. Sifton could not see why certain innocent industries should be sacrificed. He firmly believed that the beef packing industry would be destroyed.

"The Canadian packer could no more stand up against the beef trust than I could against this building if it fell on me," he put it.

As to Mr. Burrell's presentation of the disaster to the fruit and vegetable growers in the west, no answer had been attempted by the Government.

Then such industries as the Quaker Oats factory at Peterboro would be curtailed 60 to 70 per cent. They have been manufacturing mainly for export, and formed a most advantageous industry for this country.

"These industries were formed because it was thought the fiscal policy of Canada was settled. (Conservative applause).

"Now, is it reasonable that people will invest their money in building factories in this country unless they receive a definite assurance that what is happening now will not happen again? And I do not see how they can receive such assurance," was the next onslaught.

"One short year ago the United States was brandishing a club over our head. Now they say they are friendly. How long will they remain so? At any time, a thousand things may cause friction serious enough to make it easy for an American political party to court popularity by moving against Canada. Certainly, we are putting our head in a noose," said Mr. Sifton, amid cheers.

Mr. Sifton went into figures. Hogs had prevailed at higher prices in the Canadian market than in the States. Lambs had brought less at Chicago. Only for the higher grade of butter was the American price more than the Canadian.

Mr. Sifton could see no gain for the farmer even if present market conditions were not demoralized. This agreement meant practically free trade in agricultural products. The market would be absolutely dominated by the United States and the most favored nations.

Mr. Fisher's reply to Mr. Sifton was courteous. He congratulated his colleague on the manner in which he presented his convictions to the House. He valued party really as much as Mr. Sifton, but thought that the country came before the party, and it was a man's duty to declare his position when he differed on a vital question for his party. In bringing down the reciprocity agreement, Mr. Fisher thought the Government was continuing its wise and farseeing administration of the affairs of the country.

"But if I did believe with the member for Brandon," said Mr. Fisher, "I, too, would resign my position and oppose this resolution."

Mr. Fisher challenged the statement made by Mr. Sifton that the Government had not fully informed itself on the question, and had not provided the country with full information. It was all very well to consult one industry, and base an argument on the conditions affecting that industry. An industry regarded a tariff from the point of view of profit, whereas the Government had to regard a schedule as it affected the industry concerned, and every other industry in the country.

Mr. Fisher answered the charge of the member for Brandon that the Government had revived reciprocity, by pointing out that when the present Government assumed office, the Prime Minister sent a joint high commission, which went to Washington to negotiate a trade treaty. It failed in this, and the announcement was made that any future proposals would have to come from the United States.

The Minister of Agriculture criticized Mr. Sifton's statement that he would have been justified in standing pat when President Taft was about to enforce the provision for the imposition of the maximum clause in the Payne-Aldrich tariff, when a few immaterial concessions prevented a state of non-intercourse in commerce existing between the two countries.

In conclusion Mr. Fisher argued that it was an insult to the Canadian people to suppose that they would be influenced by trading with the United States when the motherland had a trade largely in excess of that of Canada.

W. M. German (Welland) moved the adjournment, and the debate will be resumed on Thursday. The House does not sit on Ash Wednesday.

Death of J. C. Ford.

Oakville, March 1.—Oakville lost one of her public-spirited citizens in the death Monday afternoon of Mr. James C. Ford. An attack of the prevalent grip gave no cause for alarm until a few days ago, when complications arose which defied medical aid.

The late Mr. Ford was a native of Halton County, having been born 45 years ago in Trafalgar Township. About twenty years ago he came to Oakville and became chief partner and manager in the Oakville Basket Co. He was for years of member of the Town Council, and for the last seven years had been a member of the County Council, his name being prominently identified with the good roads movement in this county and the establishment of a House of Refuge. The Town Council met in regular session Monday night, but adjourned immediately after passing a resolution expressive of their sense of the loss sustained in the death of their colleague. Mr. Ford is survived by a wife and daughter.

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

CONGREGATION OF ST. ANDREW'S HAD A BANQUET

Large Attendance of Members and a Very Enjoyable Evening

St. Andrew's congregational banquet last night was a huge success. The supper, as supplied by the ladies, was delightful, while the after-dinner speeches and toasts were of a very high order.

The toast-master was Mr. A. McFarlane, who performed his duties acceptably. The first item on the program was a vocal solo by Miss King.

H. M. Gilchrist, of the Y.M.C.A., gave an interesting address, touching upon the opportunity of young men of the present day. He also spoke of those who had gone on before and who had shed their blood for the cause of Presbyterianism.

A quartette consisting of Mrs. Dormer, Mrs. Howell, Mr. Wright and Mr. Gerard was heard next, and the first toast of the evening "Our Church," was proposed by Mr. McFarlane, who made a few suitable remarks.

It was responded to by the three members of the Finance Committee. Mr. Harstone referred to the financial condition and suggested as a remedy that the rentals from the property by the church, along with contributions, which should be easily had for the purpose, should be used in paying the old draft.

Messrs. Richardson and Gillespie spoke also of the financial needs. The sum required to run the church per year was $3,500 and if each member paid ten cents per Sunday for a year this amount could be raised.

Mr. Richardson tendered a vote of thanks to the people for their attendance.

Mr. Chisholm proposed the toast of "The Minister." In his remarks he said he had been connected with churches before where a great deal of money was necessary and he greatly advocated the duplex envelope system.

Rev. Mr. Rollins in responding referred to a trip he and Mr. Chisholm had taken to Halifax some years ago.

Mr. Brown gave a humorous reading entitled "An Irish Letter." It was received with much applause and as an encore "How Dennis Signed the Pledge," caused much merriment.

Mr. Langford proposed the last toast of the evening to "The Ladies" and very ably dwelt upon the many merits of the hostesses.

While Mr. Glover was responding the male part of the audience joined in the chorus "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. McFarlane made a few closing remarks and after the singing of the doxology the evening was brought to a close.

Rev. M. N. Bethune, of Toronto, will supply Osprey Presbyterian charge.

No Action Taken in Claim for Damages by R. N. Scott

The Legal Committee handled their business last evening in quick time. There were present Mayor Morrow, Ald. Graham (chairman), E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, Alds. Edgar and Anderson.

The first item brought up was in connection with the sign in front of the Brock Street rink, which extends too far out towards the street, and not therefore conforming with the by-law. The city solicitor has written Mr Meharry warning him, but he has disregarded it so far. Mayor Morrow moved that the solicitor be instructed to take whatever action necessary in the matter, to have Mr. Meharry conform to the demand of the law.

Another communication was read from R. N. Scott, asking the amount of damages which were sustained by his threshing engine, going through the culvert at Mark Street bridge last summer. It was brought out last night, that Mr. Scott may be liable for damages himself for taking an engine over the bridge, as the city was not supposed to build culverts heavy enough to support traction engines.

E. H. D. Hall recommended that no action be taken in the matter. Ald. Edgar seconded.

Dr. Scott presented a bill of $12, contracted by Mrs. C. Warner, who fell and broke her wrist last summer Dr. Scott attended her. Ald. Graham and Anderson moved and seconded, a motion that the account be paid.

A letter was read from Messrs. Bennett and Goodwill, solicitors, for the Dickson Company, in which the latter complain about the closing of Quaker Street. The city clerk was instructed to write to them stating that in view of the fact that at the time the street was closed the company said they were satisfeid, and acquiesced with the by-law, the committee was not inclined to take any action in the matter.

The meeting then adjourned.

"A STUBBORN CINDERELLA"

One of the Best Musical Comedies of the Season—Some Catchy Music

One of the attractions that local theatergoers have been looking forward to eagerly since its first announcement at the begining of the season, will be here at "The Grand" on Friday next, March 3rd.

This is the much talked of musical show of quality "A Stubborn Cinderella" by the authors of "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "The Goddess of Liberty" and other big successes.

The story of "A Stubborn Cinderella" is told in three acts, the first being laid on the campus of the Columbus University, where a certain Lady Leslie, who has never spoken to a young man in all her life, meets the handsome and dashing collegian, "Mac". The meeting takes place at the unveiling of a statue, and Lady Leslie's unsophistication, produces many amusing situations. The second act is that of a railroad wreck, due to a land slide, the scene being laid in the far west, and the third act is in California, where Lady Leslie has gone to meet her promised husband whom she has never met. At this juncture she becomes stubborn and decides that she doesn't want anybody but "Mac" and she gets him too. During the last scene a beautiful descriptive ballet entitled "The Orange Fete" is seen, introducing the greatest song hit of the season, "When You First Kiss the Last Girl You Love."

A capable company with the well-known E. Coit Albertson, at its lead will present "A Stubborn Cinderella" Mr. Albertson has made a great success in musical comedy, and wherever he has appeared has received the most favorable criticisms.

Hazel Kirke is the Prima Donna of the present company, and one more youthful and capable than she never appeared on the local stage. She has a magnificent high lyric soprano voice, with looks and figure to add. It is positive that the attraction will hold its place as one of the best, if not the best musical comedy of the present season.

The management, Chas. A. Goettler, has left nothing undone to maintain the highest standard which, with a personnel like Lillian Goldsmith in the part of "Lois" Mabel Charlebois as Lady Evelyn," Dan. Moyles as Col. Hunt, and Neal Burns as "Skeeter" Bobie Wagner as "Fat" Edwin Burns as the engineer (so well remembered by all,) and all the rest of the same calibre, will surely merit a large audience.

The chorus has been especially selected and a better singing shorus never left Chicago for a road tour.

The scenery and costumes are all new and bright.

Some of the big song hits are "What's the Use," "Love Me Just Because," "If they'd let poor Adam's rib alone." "I'm in love with all the girls I know," and many others.

Seats for the engagement are now on sale.

West End Dance

The second of a series of club dances given by the West End Club was held last night in their club rooms on George street. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a very pleasing appearance.

A fine program of dances were run through and were enjoyed by everyone. The music for the evening was supplied by Mr. Bogenth, who pleased the dancers by his excellent work. A few extras were thoroughly appreciated, they being played by several of the guests, who had to respond to numerous encores. There were about 53 couple in attendance. The gathering broke up about 12 p.m.

The patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Morphet. The committee in charge of affairs were Messrs. N. Laing, H. Callaghan and W. Pratt. The stewards were Messrs. J. Oldham, H. C. Kirn, J. Davidson and F. Haskill.

Mort. H. Singer, proprietor of the big musical comedy success, "The Goddess of Liberty," which comes to the Grand, Monday, March 6th, began his career in a Wisconsin theatre as box office messenger. In a comparatively short time he had the sole direction of fifteen musical comedy successes, had thousands of stage folk in his employ, and a weekly expense of approximately $60,000.

INCREASE IN WAGES FOR MEN OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

$25 Added to Pay of First, Second and Third Year Firemen

It was definitely decided last evening at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, that the firemen will have their salaries increased, and a one year man will now get $525, second year man $ 575 and a third year man $600.

The above conclusion was reached after considerable discussion, in which all the members shared.

Ald. Graham was at first of the opinion that it would be advisable to leave the wages as they were for the first year and increase them the second year.

In opposing his suggestion, Fire Chief Howard, who was present, said that he experienced great difficulty in securing really good men and holding them a year.

Ald. Metheral said that he liked to see men get what they were worth. There had been a great deal of talk and discussion in the papers regarding the firemen's wages and he would like to see the matter settled agreeably.

Ald. Metheral said that the Fire Chief was present when the schedule of wages for the firemen was drawn up in the first place and it met with his approval. Last year's appropriations to the fire department amounted to $12,800 an excess of $300 originally agreed upon. Ald. Metheral admitted the wages were not large and it was often the case that men went from the streets to work in the brigade.

The matter, he said, had cost the town a good deal of money and he would like to see it settled quickly.

Ald. Graham suggested that the salaries for the first, second and third years respectively be $550, $575, and $600. His suggestion, however, did not meet with approval.

The increase has been granted the men on condition that the chief employ only capable men, and thus keep the brigade up to a high state of efficiency.

There were present at the meeting Ald. Morgan, chairman; Mayor Morrow and Aldermen Edgar, Graham and Metheral.

A deputation of two of the directors of the Brinton Carpet Company waited upon the committee and asked to have a fire alarm box installed at their factory. A telephone they felt was scarcely sufficient protection or convenient enough when sending in an alarm. The box which is out on the street is too far away in case of a fire, which could easily gain headway before it was reached.

Chief Howard submitted a diagram of a box which could be installed at the factory satisfactorily. As no other concerns in the city were equipped with the boxes it was felt that to do so in the case in question would cost about $125

It was moved by Alderman Metheral, and seconded by Ald. Graham, that the chairman ascertain the cost of having a factory alarm box put where box No. 12 is, and that box removed to where it is more needed and that the city bear the expense of the difference, which would be about $50 and a report be made to the committee on the matter.

It was moved and seconded by Ald. Graham and Metheral that the chairman be authorized to secure flooring for the attic of the fire hall, also that the floor of the hall, which is in need of repair at a couple of places be examined by the chairman.

Mayor Morrow moved that the matter of purchasing blinds for a couple of the rooms of the fire hall be left in the hands of Ald. Graham and Morgan.

The chief also brought up the matter of purchasing a new fire extinguisher for the brigade. There was no particular hurry about it, however, but an estimate of the cost will be submitted at the next meeting of the committee.

Several minor matters in connection with the brigade were quickly disposed of and the meeting then adjourned.

HOSPITAL TO BE OPEN THIS WEEK

An Opportunity to Inspec Building

The Review was informed last evening by Ald. Duncan, of the Property Committee that the new Isolation Hospital would be thrown open to the public on Friday and Saturday of this week from nine to five o'clock.

This will afford an excellent opportunity for visitors to inspect the building before contagious disease cases are admitted.

Entertained the A.Y.P.A.

The Young People's Society of All Saints' church had a delightful time time last evening at the residence of Mrs. Dawson, 530 Bonacord street. A pleasing and impromptu program of vocal and instrumental numbers greatly added to the enjoyment of the affair.

The attendance was one of the most encouraging features of the "At Home."

Members of the chorus of "The Goddess of Liberty," Mort H. Singer's musical comedy success, which will be seen here Monday, March 6th, took a straw vote several weeks ago in an endeavor to learn whether there was any interest manifested in the woman suffrage movement. Twenty-nine out of thirty were in favor of leaving the great American game of politics to the masculine gender.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Mrs. W. C. Ackerman will not receive to morrow, Thursday.

Miss Krueger, the new dressmaker at Robert Fair & Co's, opened up her rooms for the season to day.

Miss Little, superintendent of the suit and cloak department, Robert Fair & Co., returned to the city yesterday after visiting the leading sources of supply, in search of the latest novelties in her department.

Miss Rennie, head milliner at Robert Fair & Co's, with a staff of six trimmers, who has been in the wholesale, Toronto, preparing for the spring business, returned to the city last evening.

Pastor Will Conduct Services

Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Charlotte St. Methodist Church, after being indisposed through illness for the last few days, will take charge of the regular week-night service at the church this evening. After the service he will conduct the lesson study class, the latter commencing at nine o'clock. The subject of his talk this evening will be Zacheus.

Will Preach At Omemee

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt is the special preacher at Christ Church, Omemee, to-night.

Gospel Hall

Commencing next Sunday, and on the following Sunday nights in March, Mr. David Walker will give a series of four addresses on the first four chapters of Genesis, showing a picture of Christ in each.

Those who have heard Mr. Walker will be pleased to know he will speak of these scriptures, which have been recalled in question by certain prominent critics of to-day. Hear the first one.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

EXAMINERS WERE AGAIN ALLOWED TO WIN PRESS GAME

Great Hockey Played by the Review Seven.

George Street Jokes Were Once Again in Evidence.

Andrew Carnegie, John Rockefeller and a few others may have philanthropic aspirations, but none of them has anything on the Review hockey team.

The annual press game gone through again (at the request of the Examiner employees) was just another interpretation of Damon and Pythias with the Pythiasittes as has been the case for a score or more years, on this side of the fence.

And the sun shines to-day as though in happy approval of our good deeds. That being so, the bumps and discolorations we received, though many in number and varigated as the rainbow, are as nothing.

By almost superhuman efforts we succeeded in keeping the score within the bounds of decency (the Examiner will find this word explained on page 375 W. D.) and yet manager Arthur Yankee Rogers was the most dissatisfied of the several thousand who packed the rink. Some of the exclamations coming from that voluminous person would melt a ton of pig iron. The game of course was one of the biggest laughing successes (Belleville pros. included) that has ever been pulled off at the home of the Rink Rats. But the peculiar part of the affair was that the attendance fell for the same old jokes, namely the Examiner team. The aggregation from George street upheld the reputation that has clung to it, since the first appearance of one Hutchison by name. But never before did the Grit organ send out such a representation as the fans were asked to uphold last night. Even that elongated victim of misdirected zeal and the originator of Joshuaism, it was seen, had failed to profit by past experiences and was again adorned with goal pads. To make it worse, if possible, he again undertook to find shelter between the kindly goal posts, where he remained till the occupants of the rink could withstand it no more—and then he got wise and sauntered around the ice like a thrown-down steady in search of a Sunday evening home. Another starless wonder was Chipchese Reynolds, who it is said, used to chase a puck for a village team that went through fifteen seasons without scoring a goal. He attempted a rather poor exhibition of club-swinging, but not much attention was paid to the performance. Most remarkable were the efforts of Bewworm Johnsing, and of he it can be said that he is the only one who has any chance of annexing a position on the Review team, in the event of Little Sam's bloomers not being ready for the first of a large number of games which this team has already been asked to play. Of the remainder of the Examiner team nothing need be said further than that their requests for positions are flatly refused.

Our extreme modesty will not permit of any comments on the high-grade work of the Review team. It must be said, however, that Mr. Little, advertised to appear in immodest garments, wishes to make a public denial that such were not his intentions. He gives his assurance that anything of the kind was far from his thoughts. Undoubtedly he was the king pin of the seven from this corner and to-day he is feeling the effects of the terrible strain. Unlike the majority of hockey players Mr. Little doesn't rely on his speed and stickhandling, but rather on qualifications, with which the great multitude soon became acquainted.

Our Mr. Shore did exactly as he was instructed and scored the only three tallies against the opposition. He was given some assistance occasionally by our Cook, and the remainder of the team, including Bobcaygeon Wilson, who, despite the large delegation of fair rooters, went up the ice once.

The official bell-ringer, Mr. Sarels, told us after the game that never before did he see such clever hockey as was put up by the Review team.

The following names are given along with the Review's, despite a request not to publish them:

CURLING

Two rinks came from Keene yesterday to play a friendly game with the local curlers. In the afternoon Dr. McWilliams, of Keene, defeated W. M. Lang by four shots, and Skip Wedlock, also of the visitors, won from Skip G. B. Stevenson by one shot.

In the evening the vice-skips skipped the games as follows—

Vice McIntosh, Keene..........17
Vice J. H. Ferguson, Peterborough 4

Vice Moore, Keene.......... 6
Vice Dr. Eastwood, Peterborough...16

Peterborough was eight shots down on the round.

Five rinks of local curlers played in Toronto yesterday and finished 3 shots to the good.

SPORT TALK

Detroit will likely be represented in a hockey league next winter. Plans are already under way to complete an organization, including this city, Cleveland, Toronto, Chicago, Buffalo and one other city. Professional teams are to be engaged in each and games would be played at regular intervals, probably two or three times weekly.

Detroit men are already preparing plans for erecting an immense covered rink. Property has been secured, and a building containing galleries, a hockey pen, as well as a large pleasure rink is being considered.

During the past winter the league games in this city attracted considerable attention, and they were attended by large crowds. The local team went to Cleveland in the early part of this month and played two contests. At each game there were between 2000 and 3000 people present, and it is claimed that if they had been league games, twice the number would have been present.

The Cleveland team went on a trip through the east and in Boston and other large cities drew large crowds. The septette, though not playing with the same degree of general skill that professional teams would employ, put up rattling contests and won a number of them.

Pittsburg for years has supported an excellent hockey team. Smoky City adherents put up several thousand dollars and secured a number of Canadian stars. This with the result that games with the Montreal Wanderers and other famous Canadian teams drew large crowds.

Pittsburg, though a considerable distance from Detroit, is seriously considered as being a likely contender for a place in the league.

"Although hockey is in its infancy in Detroit we already have a number of promising players, and they would be capable of giving professionals quite a run for positions, although it is hardly likely that more than two Detroiters could make a seven such as we plan," said one of the promoters of the league.

"The game has gained great popularity in the city during the past winter, and we consider that a league including six or eight cities in this district would be a good paying proposition."—Detroit Journal.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The bowling game last night between the Strikers and Mivvies was some game as far as the Mivvies was concerned. They defeated the heretofore invincible Strikers and ran up a record aggregate score for the present tournament of 1281 against the Strikers' 1093.

The game for to-night as scheduled Millionaires vs. Millards.

To-night at 8 p.m. the city basketball league will meet to draw up the schedule. Teams are reminded to have their representative present.

The Collegiate senior leaders' basketball teams will meet for a friendly game of basketball to-night at 6.30.

Thursday evening at 7 p.m. the business boys' basketball team will meet a team selected from the junior class, when every boy of the different classes are asked to attend and cheer for their team.

The intermediate hockey team played a tie game with the East City team at the Brock street rink last night, each team scoring one goal.

PUCKLAND

In order to give the hockey fans a line on the scoring ability of Orillia, Preston and Frontenacs, we give their season's score in the O. H. A. championship games. Preston has scored 55 goals and had 18 scored on them in ten games; Orillia has played twelve games and scored 30 goals to their opponents' 47. Frontenacs have played ten games, their scores being 136 goals to 31, scored on them. Including the junior championship game with Montreal, the "little champs" have scored just 150 goals to their opponents' 35, which is going some for eleven games.—Kingston Standard.

Bugle Band and No. 3 company meet in a hockey game Friday night, between ten and eleven o'clock.

GAME HERE TO-MORROW

T.A.A.C. Senior O.H.A. Team to Meet Local Intermediates

The Peterborough hockey club has arranged for a game here to-morrow night with the fast senior O. H. A. team of the Toronto Amateur Athletic Club and this will be the last game of the season. T.A.A.C. have been playing great hockey this season and gave Eaton's, who play Argonauts for the championship, a hard game and were only behind by one goal.

Fast ice will be available and the strongest lineup possible will represent the locals. The visitors will come down on the local with their full team and the game is to be called at 8.30.

Tremendous Demand for Hair Tonic

Parisian Sage is Guaranteed to Grow Hair

Since its introduction into Canada Parisian Sage has been so honestly advertised that its tremendous sales have surprised and even astonished dealers everywhere.

The idea that advertising copy must exaggerate the merits of the goods it aims to sell, is false, and the sales of Parisian Sage proves it.

Parisian Sage won't grow hair on bald heads; it isn't guaranteed to grow hair on bald heads.

But if your hair is thin—if it is falling out or splitting at the ends; if your scalp itches and you are bothered with dandruff, then W. Madill and the makers of Parisian Sage do guarantee to put an end to these troubles or money back.

Parisian Sage makes hair grow if used before the hair root is dead. It kills the dandruff germs and stops itching scalp. It nourishes the hair roots and falling hair ceases. It puts vitality into the hair and gives it a radiant lustre.

Sold for only 50 cents a large bottle at Wm. Madill's and druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

CORONATION CONTINGENT

Information for Members of the 57th Regiment

Headquarters, Peterborough, March 1st, 1911.

PHYSICIANS Failed to Cure Rheumatism

Miss Flora Chapman Vividly Describes Her Sufferings and Ultimate Cure With "Nerviline."

"After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me.

"I suffered torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit.

"A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know many families where no other medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago, and sciatica. I call Nerviline my "Life Guard," and urge all to try its merit."

HELP FOR OLD BACKS THAT ACHE

GIN PILLS Cure Them

Age is no barrier to the wonderful, soothing, healing properties of GIN PILLS, the great Canadian Kidney Cure. We have on record many letters from men and women of 60, 65, 70, 75, 80 and over, testifying to the great relief they received from taking GIN PILLS.

Mr. Samuel Martin of Strathroy, Ont. suffered for twenty years with misery in his back. Some months ago, he tried GIN PILLS and after taking only three boxes, was entirely cured. Mr. Martin is now 85 years of age and enjoys the robust health of a vigorous man of sixty, thanks to GIN PILLS.

All elderly people are troubled, more or less, with Kidney and Bladder Trouble, and pain and weakness in the back. GIN PILLS are a guaranteed cure for all these misfortunes. Money promptly refunded if they fail to give complete satisfaction.

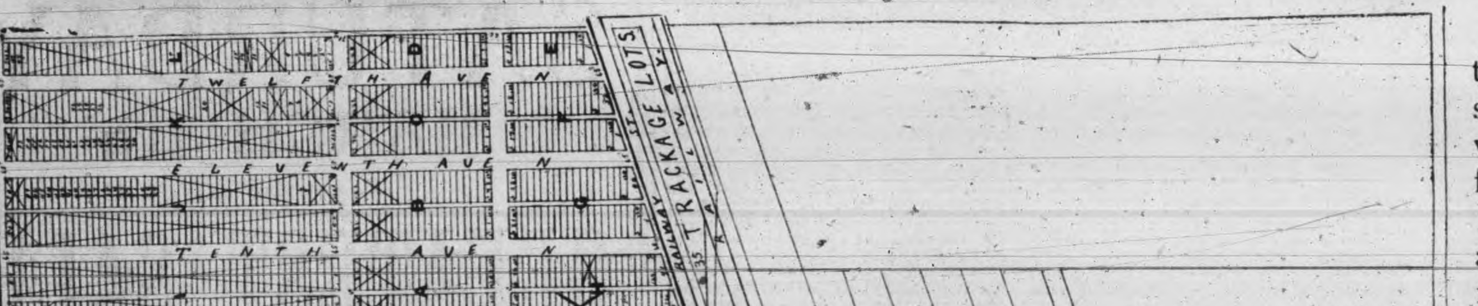
VERNON PARK CLARESHOLM

"Get While the Getting is Good"

Vernon Park in Lots

Blocks A to H, inclusive, sold



Claresholm, Sub-division of Section 26, Twp. 12, Range 27, West of 4th M.

Examine closely this map, note that Railway "MAIN" Street intersects Vernon Park. The property values on this street range in price from $75 to $250 per frontage foot. Property along Ninth Ave. North, adjoining the school, is marketable from $150 to $300 per lot.

Claresholm's water supply is of the best, and the system was installed at a cost of $75,000 in 1909, bringing the water into town six miles from the West.

The Electric Lighting Plant, "municipal," was also constructed in 1909 at a cost of $30,000.

An extension of $20,000 was added to the Public School in 1909. The original school was built in 1907 but owing to the rapid growth in population, this addition was demanded, making the total cost $45-000, the best in Southern Alberta.

These large expenditures go to show the confidence the citizens of this prosperous town have for the future, and have laid the foundation for what will shortly be termed the CITY OF CLARESHOLM.

The price at which these lots will be sold, will be announced in Friday's Review. The sale of lots will start Saturday, March 4th, when any may be purchased of our salesman or at our office.

Be prepared Saturday to "Get While the Getting is Good."

TO BE PLACED WITH A FARMER

Young Man With a Remarkable Experience Wants to go to Work

John James, a comparatively young man, who was charged with being insane and dangerous to the public, and was remanded a week ago until today, is indeed a very remarkable person.

James asserts that his memory is a blank, and has been ever since he left Winnipeg some time ago.

He is the man who called at Dr. Morgan's office and told the doctor that he had a funny sensation and felt in a mood to do some harm. He was taken in charge by the police authorities, who have gathered some information regarding his past. His father was immigration officer for the C.P.R. in the north of England and owner of two sections of land in Western Canada one in Alberta and one in Manitoba, the latter of which was worked by his son, who is now apparently oblivious of events of the past for some time.

The last that James says he can remember was of standing at the Winnipeg depot ready to entrain for Toronto en route to England. He had a valise and $206 in cash, and both disappeared while his mind was a blank.

Mr. W. H. Howson, the local immigration officer, took the man this morning and is endeavoring to have him suitably placed with a farmer.

WEDDING BELLS

PATTON—ANDREWS

A very pretty wedding took place at two o'clock yesterday at the home of John Patton, Monaghan, when Margaret Isabel, his youngest daughter, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Andrews, oldest son of Wm. Andrews, also of Monaghan.

The ceremony was performed beneath an arch, beautifully decorated for the occasion, by Rev. Mr. Pogue. The bride was given away by her father.

The bridesmaid was Miss May Lamb, of Lindsay, a cousin of the bride, while Norman Patton, brother of the bride, was best man. Miss Loretta McClelland, of Toronto, niece of the bride, played Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride was dressed in cream silk and the bridesmaid in pink silk, while the bride's traveling suit was a blue broadcloth.

The groom's present to the bride was a sunburst of pearls and one also to the bridesmaid and pianist, while to the groomsman he gave a tie-pin.

The wedding dinner was served at four o'clock, after which Mr. and Mrs. Andrews left on the 5.30 G.T.R. train for Toronto and other points.

SPOKE ABOUT THE PLANET SATURN

Interesting Meeting of Royal Astronomical Society

The meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society, which was held in the chemical laboratory of the Collegiate Institute last night, was intensely interesting and instructive. In the absense of the President, Mr. H. B. Collier, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, City Engineer, occupied the chair. After the preliminaries, Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, delivered the lecture of the evening, the subject being "The Planet Saturn." The speaker, in his opening remarks, gave a definition of the word planet and went on to describe its relative distance from the stars, its distance from us, and its orbit around the sun, and also referred to the most recent information available concerning the planet.

Mr. Lowe, of the Trent Valley Canal, and other speakers, made some very complimentary remarks concerning the interesting and instructive nature of the address.

PETERBOROUGH WORKMEN ARE STRONGLY AGAINST THE PACT

Peterborough Canoe Co. Employes and Rapid Tool Co. Employes are 4 to 1 Against Reciprocity.

Test Votes Taken Show Opinion on the Subject is Strong.

TEST VOTE

RAPID TOOL CO.

Against	24
For	5

PETERBOROUGH CANOE CO.

Against	40
For	12

That those who have been saying that Peterborough is strongly opposed to reciprocity have been very correct, is indicated by a test vote which the Review took in two local factories this morning. Armed with a sheet of paper divided into "For" and "Against" columns, a Review representative went through these two factories this morning, and the workmen placed their crosses as they viewed the situation.

The Rapid Tool Company was the first factory. Mr. Reece, the manager, was very courteous indeed, in opening his factory for the test. He is a strong anti-reciprocity believer himself, and the workmen apparently share his views, only five out of the twenty-nine men voting being for it. Some of the men were very outspoken in the expression of their views, leaving no doubt as to what they thought of the deal.

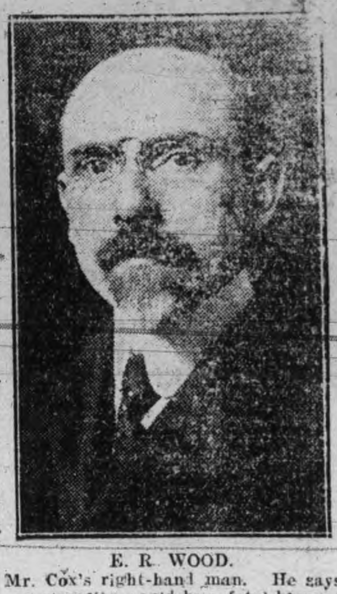
THE CANOE COMPANY.

At the Peterborough Canoe Company factory the vote taken was very representative, though some of the men refused to cast their vote. The vote was 40 to 12, and is a very fair test of the strength of opinion. The officials of the Canoe Company were very courteous and obliging in opening their factory for the test.

NOT ONE FOR IT.

The ballot which the Review printed yesterday for the expression of opinion by anyone desiring to cast a vote, was very popular. Of the large number received—which will be announced as soon as the complete ballot returns are made—there so far has not been ONE for reciprocity. The proportion of votes in this case will be about fifty to one, against.

WHOM ARE WE TO BELIEVE



E. R. WOOD.
Mr. Cox's right-hand man. He says reciprocity would be a fatal blow to Canadian nationality.

SENATOR GEO. A. COX.
He says reciprocity is the greatest thing for Canada that ever happened.

ISLANDS TO CONFEDERATE

T. B. Macaulay Returning From Visit Says Mass Meeting Was Held at Which Only Two Out of 20,000 Dissented — Nassau Might Become a Coaling Port For the Canadian Fleet, He Says.

Montreal, March 2.—The addition of another province to the Dominion is the idea that T. B. Macaulay, managing director of the Sun Life Assurance Co., brings back with him on returning to this city after a visit to the West Indies.

A meeting which took place in the Bahama Islands on the 20th of last month was, Mr. Macaulay states, one of great enthusiasm. The Legislature suspended its sittings and workmen dropped their tools on the streets on the day of the meeting to talk over the question of asking Canada to take them under her wing. Although there was no official representatives of Canada among the 20,000 people assembled, there were plenty of prominent men. Among the speakers, several well-known in Canadian life, said Mr. Macaulay, were Mr. Macdonald, mayor of Rigauad, Que.; Mr. Nicholson of Winnipeg, and Judge McIntyre of Whitby, Ont.

The upshot was that a committee of a dozen members of the Legislature were appointed to farther the project and to consider the advisability of sending a deputation to interview the Dominion Government, and this decision was arrived at with only two dissentients, the objection of one of them being to joining any country that had a protective tariff.

The advantages, said Mr. Macaulay, would be great on both sides. The addition of the Bahamas to Canada might be a small matter, but in another way it would be a long step forward in the pathway of our national manhood and importance.

The acquisition of this new province, added Mr. Macaulay, would effectively broaden the views of our people. Our navy question would solve itself, for we would not only wish to properly protect the routes which our growing trade would follow. Nassau might perhaps become a coaling and dockyard for our fleet.

"It is not merely trade relations that we would like to see established," concluded Mr. Macaulay. "We want to take advantage of this desire of the people down there to add a province to the Dominion. The Canadian Parliament should at least meet these people half way and discuss the matter seriously."

The governor of the Bahamas, Sir William Grey-Wilson, is anticipating a visit from Earl Grey (who is his cousin) next winter, a fact which seems to indicate which way the wind is blowing.

PLUCKY FEAT OF INJURED WOMAN

Ingersoll, March 2.—Mrs. John Wilkinson of Ostrander, near Tillsonburg, is a plucky woman at eighty years of age, and has a good constitution.

Mrs. Wilkinson has been visiting her son in Michigan, and arrived in Ingersoll Tuesday night on her return trip. She had to wait for her connection on the Lake Erie and Port Burwell which was reported to leave at seven o'clock. The train was late. She thought that she might do a little looking around and went down the street. When it came near train time she started back for the C.P.R. station and in hurrying took a short cut across an icy field. She fell down and hurt her back and was not able to regain her feet.

She crawled to a wood pile in Bloor's wood yard, not less than 100 yards from the station, and sat there the whole cold night.

She was warmly clad, had an old-fashioned heavy shawl, and sat back against the pile and waited for morning. She was found at seven o'clock yesterday morning and assisted to the Atlantic House, where she said that she felt no ill effects from the night's exposure.

MISSIONARIES ARE IN DANGER

Natives Are Attacking Foreigners in Plague Districts

Special to The Review.

Pekin, March 2.—Natives, suffering from the ravages of the bubonic plague, are attacking the foreigners in the places where the disease prevails, in Manchuria, and it is felt that the lives of the missionaries are in great danger.

ARBITRATORS DECIDE ON INCREASE FOR RAILWAYMEN

Extra Pay for Sundays, New Year's and Christmas Day.

Toronto, March 2.—After 37 days of investigation, the arbitrators appointed under the Dominion Government arbitration law to investigate the demands of employes of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. for increased wages, have arrived at a partial decision and majority and minority reports have been forwarded to the Minister of Labor.

The majority report is the judgment of Judge McGibbon of Brampton, chairman of the arbitration board, and W. T. J. Lee, who represented the men. It recommends a 15 per cent. increase in pay to men on eastern lines, and a twelve and a half per cent. increase to men on the Western lines. The report of F. H. McGuigan, formerly of the Grand Trunk, who acted for the companies, did not favor any such increase.

The board also found that the men should have increased pay for working on Sundays, New Year's, and Christmas Day, and in some cases restricted the company from employing men but nine hours on Saturdays.

Now that the award has been made the men are at liberty to strike and the companies have the privilege of locking them out and refusing to employ.

NARROW ESCAPE AT COLLEGE FIRE

Girls and Nuns Barely Escaped With Their Lives

Special to The Review.

Plainfield, N. J., March 2.—Mount St. Mary's Roman Catholic College was destroyed by fire this morning and over one hundred girls and nuns asleep in the building when the fire started, barely escaped with their lives. The college was a large institution and the loss is placed at $250,000.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN SAY RECIPROCITY IS "NOT FOR ME"

LORIMER ON TOP

Washington, March 2.—The senate to-day by a vote of 46 to 40 sustained Wm. Lorimer's title to a seat for the state of Illinois, defeating the resolution of Senator Beveridge, that he was not legally elected member of the senate.

More Peterborough Men Are Opposed to the Pact, and They Express Their Views

ROBERT RUDDY, K. C.

"For my part" said Robert Ruddy, K.C. when interviewed to day on the reciprocity question, "I think it would disturb the channels of trade, which Canada has enjoyed for the last twenty years, and upon which we have already spent much money.

"I believe it would affect us as a nation also, and make us dependent in our trade policies upon the United States.

"Canada with her riches of natural resources has been the centre of the eyes of the world, and these resources must be developed by our own people or by foreigners, American manufacturies particularly, who desire to locate here, and invest their capital.

"Our present policy has practically forced them to do so, to something like the extent of $230,000,000, in branch manufactories.

"We have such an institution right here in Peterboro, namely the Quaker Oats. Under the proposed policy this would be unnecessary.

"If Peterboro is to grow, it must be as a manufacturing centre. This policy of reciprocity would tend to increase the growth of American cities which already are in advance of us."

W. T. NELSON

Mr. W. T. NElson, re, the reciprocity agitation said that experiments are costly. "Should we get reciprocity, it would mean that the few might benefit at the expense of the many."

"At the present time Canada is prosperous with indications of a greater development.

"I am strongly opposed to reciprocity, as it is the beginning of the end —annexation."

W. H. MUNROE.

"I don't like it at all," said W. H. Munroe, when seen to-day on the question, "nor the way it has been carried on so far. The people certainly ought to have a chance to speak on the matter, and it should be submitted to them."

Regarding local conditions, Mr. Munroe was not prepared to speak, as all he knew on the question was from hearsay.

Fire In Richmond, Que.

Richmond, Que., March 2.—This town was visited by a fire which wiped out the Duncan Block on Main street at an early hour yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at $30,000, when the contents of the various stores are taken into account.

The sufferers are A. J. Bedford, druggist; M. J. Palmer, fancy goods, who occupied stores on the second floor, and on the upper flat were Mr. J. G. Alexander, insurance and ticket agent; Mr. Alard Barber, and Messrs. Mackenzie & Darters, lawyers. They lose everything. Hon. P. S. G. Mackenzie, Provincial Treasurer, has lost all his valuable law library, which was in his office, and only carried $3,000 insurance.

REFUGEES WERE BURNED TO DEATH

Bandits Rounded Them up After They Had Attacked Village

Special to The Review.

Victoria, March 2.—The crew of the steamer Tamba Maru, which has just arrived here, brought the particulars of a terrible happening in China. Bandits rounded up five hundred famine refugees, maddened by hunger and suffering, and who had attacked the small village of Kunshan, situated fifty miles from Shanghai. The unfortunates were bundled together, torches were applied and they were all burned to death.

MEMBERS OF NEW FRENCH CABINET

Paris, March 2.—The new French Cabinet, so far as it is at present constituted, is made up as follows: Premier and Minister of Interior, Antoine Ernest Monis; Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Gruppi; Minister of War, Henri Maurice Berteau; Minister of Marine, Theophile Delcasse; Minister of Finance, M. Caillaux; Minister of Public Instruction, M. Steege; Minister of Public Works, Charles Dumont; Minister of Agriculture, M. Masse; Minister of Colonies, M. Messimy; Minister of Labor, Paul Boncour; Under Secretaries: Interior, Emile Constant; Justice and Worship, Louis Malvy; Posts and Telegraphs, Chrales Chaumet; Beaux Arts, Henri Dujardin-Beaumetz.

The appearance of Delcasse in the Cabinet has caused alarm in some sections. Some of the newspapers declare that it would be better if he should remain in oblivion, charging that he menaced the peace of France and the peace of the world by attempting the isolation of Germany in connection with the Moroccan question in 1905.

Big Liners Can't Get Docks.

New York, March 2.—Calvin Tomkins, commissioner of docks and ferries, as well as the agents of large steamship lines, were disappointed by the refusal of the harbor line board of the Army Engineers Corps yesterday to recommend permission for the extension of piers along the Jersey and New York shores of the Hudson River for accommodation of the bigger liners now building.

It is generally agreed that without longer piers transatlantic liners will have to abandon New York and Hoboken as ports of entry for the larger ships, such as the White Star Liners Olympic and Titanic, which are now being built at a length of 900 feet.

A Light Sentence.

Boston, Mass., March 2.—For killing his chum, James H. Lawson, a Tennessean, Jas. F. Farrell a former resident of Toronto, was sentenced to the state prison at Charleston for two and a half years.

The testimony of Mrs. Lawson, wife of the murdered man, who said she thought Farrell a fine man, and that he was justified in killing her husband and that of the aged mother of Farrell, who lives in O'Hara avenue, Toronto, helped to make the sentence the lightest ever given for a crime of the sort.

Welland, March 2. — The first robin of the season was seen yesterday by Jas. Clark, proprietor of the Drexel Theatre. Later in the day Mr. Clark saw two of the feathered songsters.

G.N.W. MEN WANT BOARD

Attempts to Negotiate Have Failed, Says President Konencamp of the Telegraphers' Union — Company Was Asked to Reply to Advances of Its Employes by Nine o'Clock Last Night, But Failed to Do So.

Toronto, March 2.—The committee representing the aggrieved employes of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. will apply to-day for a board of conciliation to investigate the demands of the G.N.W. operators for increased wages. No names have yet been selected for members of the board, but the men have five days in which to name their representatives.

In speaking to the newspapers last night, S. J. Konencamp, president of the Commercial Telegraph Union of America, said: "We made repeated efforts to-day to get in touch with some one in charge of the general manager's office. We were informed that no one was there in charge at present, and could obtain no definite date as to when there would be someone there capable of talking business with us.

"A letter was addressed this afternoon to the general manager stating that on Feb. 2 the men had submitted a schedule and set of working rules and asked for a date for the purpose of presenting their arguments in behalf of the schedule. The reply of the company was to dismiss the committee on Feb. 15. A conference with S. B. McMichael, assistant general manager, had brought a statement to the effect that in another week the men would be out of the service, and the management would not deal with a committee from a union or composed of their own employes. And that unless the management were willing to meet the committee, we would proceed under the laws of our organization. This letter asked for a reply by nine o'clock, and as at that hour we had received no communication from them, we decided to apply for a board of conciliation."

One of the men imported from Detroit and one brought from London to replace employes that have been dismissed, quit yesterday.

The matter of taking action upon the company's alleged infringement of the alien labor law has been deferred, as it is considered of secondary importance to the securing of the proposed schedule of wages.

NEW DIPHTHERIA CASES REPORTED

Hospitals Are Being Closed at Baltimore—Situation is Alarming.

Special to The Review.

Baltimore, March 2.—The diphtheria epidemic, which has broken out here, is assuming an alarming situation. Four new cases are reported to-day, from the Johns Hopkins hospital, even a large number of the students are affected. Several other cases which have developed in other institutions, has necessitated the closing of the doors to all visitors.

Robber Pleads Guilty.

New York, March 2.—Jos. G. Robin, banker, pleaded guilty yesterday to larceny of $27,000 from the Washington Savings Bank, of which he was president. He will be sentenced on March 27.

Seven other indictments remain. Through his operations the Washington Savings Bank, the Northern Bank of New York, the Carnegie Trust Co., and a string of minor concerns which he promoted, went into insolvency.

Cut to Pieces By Train.

St. Catharines, March 2.—A Grand Trunk freight brakeman named P. Cullen, home unknown, met with a horrible death at the main line depot here yesterday morning. Cullen was standing on the steps of the engine, getting ready to attach some more cars, when he slipped from the engine and fell on the platform. Then he rolled under the train and was cut to pieces.

Cut His Throat.

Kingston, March 2.—In a fit of despondency over money he loaned, John Davis, aged 60, cut his throat with a razor. He has a good chance of discovery.

ROADS FOR THE SETTLERS

Member For Port Arthur Declares That His District Is Not Getting Sufficiently Sympathetic Treatment —The Government Is Spending Every Cent It Can Afford, Replies the Premier—Second Readings.

Toronto, March 2.—Justice to New Ontario was the slogan sounded in the Ontario Legislature yesterday by J. J. Carrick, Conservative member for Port Arthur. Sir James Whitney vigorously repelled the implication of lack of devotion to the rich domain of which Mr. Carrick was the zealous champion.

Two years ago the member for Port Arthur was mayor of that thriving young city, and spoke from a local perspective. Mr. Carrick credited the Minister of Education with generous consideration of New Ontario, and the Minister of Mines with being a sincere friend of the north, but considered the district he represented had received less sympathetic attention from the Provincial Secretary, as the requests for aid for a new jail and court house had not been complied with.

A complete change of method with a view to the more rapid settlement of New Ontario was urged. The Government should build trunk colonization roads with new territory in advance of settlement. This would be in accordance with the policy of the C.P.R. in rendering eleven million acres of land available by irrigation before offering it to the public.

Mr. Carrick moved for a return showing the expenditures in New Ontario during the past six years.

Sir James Whitney said the member for Port Arthur was enthusiastic and enthusiasm was a good thing, but the Government h... to calmly deal with the actualities, the needs of the different portions of the province with a due regard to the duty due to old Ontario. The Government had expended $2,000,000 for the development of New Ontario, and could not be accused of being parsimonious.

It was true, no doubt, that the court house and jail at Port Arthur were not particularly spectacular, but he understood that they sufficed. Possibly with the increasing growth of Port Arthur and Fort William the way may become clear for a better court house for the district.

There was no doubt that the people of New Ontario appreciate the great work which has been done. He was willing to assent to the return of expenditures asked for with the addition however of the amount expended for the administration of justice.

Hon. Col. Matheson secured the assent of the House to the second reading of the supplementary revenue bill introduced on Tuesday. The Provincial Treasurer pointed out that the bill increased the mileage in double-track railway from $80 at present to $100. Express companies will pay $500 on every 100 miles.

The second reading was carried without debate.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, in moving the second reading of the liquor license law amendment bill was asked if all licensed hotels would have to make monthly reports of their daily bar receipts.

Hon. Mr. Hanna answered that the bill required monthly returns from all hotels. It would retain that feature as a matter of right, but the Government did not propose, as might be stated in the regulations, to ask for daily returns from all districts. That, on the face of it, would be absurd. During the past five years the Government had received a number of returns of the actual receipts, and had therefore some idea how it was going to work out.

"There will be whole districts which will not be touched at all," he said, "where they may have an occasional forty-dollar day. We have no thought of taxing an exceptional day. Our thought is to make the collection where the daily average for the month is over $40. The bill reads to the other effect at present." It would be changed in the other direction, he intimated.

WILL CLIFFORD SIFTON RESIGN

Rumor at Ottawa That He is to Enter British Politics.

Special to The Review.

Ottawa, March 2.—It is rumored about Ottawa that Clifford Sifton, who renounced the Liberal party on reciprocity, will resign from his office and enter British politics. The announcement by Sifton as to his future political plans, is being awaited with a considerable display of interest.

Coughs, Colds Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It's because the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes, because its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, produces a healing, curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing and Catarrh, by all means use a tried, and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only. 50c and $1, at all dealers. 10

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1911.

GOOD RIDDANCE

Poor Clifford! It has all happened just as "we told you so." The erstwhile strong man of the Laurier administration, the man who was the spoiled darling of the Grit newspapers only a few years ago, is now a political has-been, a cast-off, a wretched burden, good to no one.

Clifford is now discovering things he perhaps never knew before. The Toronto Star says that it is a strong Liberal sentiment that the Liberal party is well rid of an encumbrance, that Mr. Sifton was a heavy burden to carry in the last campaign, that the Liberals would have won a couple of seats in Manitoba, and one or two in Ontario, had it not been for this incubus.

We all sometimes think we are good fellows, that we are doing good work, and that we have our friends who will stand by us, be the upheaval what it may, but here is an illustration of what a folly it is for any man to imagine that he may depend on others for constant support. Sifton may have imagined when a few years ago he was laying the foundation for the present great prosperity of the west—and incidentally helping a few brothers-in-law to get a few odd millions of cash gathered together—that he was earning the undying gratitude of the Liberal party, of which he was such a strong factor for years. But now he knows that he was only an incubus, a burden, and he cost the party seats. In the case of Sifton it is "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

Exit Sifton to the tin-can dump.

SIFTON'S SPEECH

We offer no excuse for reproducing editorially a few sections of Clifford Sifton's masterly presentation of his case. It makes "good readin',"

"There is a discretion vested in the Government. There is a discretion vested in the House of Commons, but it must be remembered that the discretion that is exercised by those who occupy important positions under our form of government is not an arbitary personal discretion. It is a constitutional discretion which must be exercised in accordance with the principles of the constitution, and the constitutional rights of the people we represent, and I want to say, and to say it not as I said simply for the purpose of making another point against my honorable friends, but I want to say that I do not believe, speaking from my own experience and from the experience of many men with whom I have met in various walks of life, and largely members of the Liberal party, I do not believe that in the recent history of Canada anything has happened which has given to the thinking people of Canada so painful and sudden a shock as the sudden realization that the four or five gentlemen who by reason of their ability, their years of service and their high position in their party, are in control of the affairs of the dominant political party, can suddenly, of their own volition, without discussion, without debate, without the knowledge of the country, commit the country to a radical change of fiscal policy.

"That is not, I am bound to say, the doctrine of constitutional government as I was taught it in the Liberal party, and I do not think that there could be possibly a more dangerous innovation."

* * *

Now take the question of perishable products which we send to Great Britain.

We succeeded: the country succeeded entirely. We are sending those products to Great Britain now, to a great, stable, safe, free market from which we have never been excluded, a market that is improving all the time, a market in which we are finding afresh extensions and fresh points of advantage every year. What do we propose to do? We propose to ship our stuff to the United States instead, and to throw away all the advantage of all the work we have done, the whole of the cold storage facilities upon the steamships crossing the Atlantic, provided in past years, to break down the business connections we have made, to allow our competitors to go in and take the market, buttress it around in such a way that we can never get into it again, and put ourselves in dependence upon the markets of the United States. How long will they remain open? Nobody knows. It may be five years. Nobody knows. A year ago the United States was brandishing a club over our heads and threatening to impose the surtax upon our goods—only one short year ago. Now they say that the United States is friendly. Well, perhaps it is. What will it be in a year from now? Does anybody know? Nobody knows. The United States is at the present time, I am told, abrogating the Blaine treaties of reciprocity, which were made with Latin Republics a few years ago, without even the courtesy of negotiation or a discussion as to the reasons for the abrogation of these treaties. Sir, we are putting our head into a noose.

* * *

I would like to know if this treaty is intended to bind the scattered Provinces of Canada together. It binds them, but it binds the other way. It binds British Columbia to Oregon and to Washington and to California. It binds the Provinces of the Northwest to the States immediately to the south of them; it binds the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec to the States to the south; and it binds the Maritime Provinces to the States of New England. And we are expected to believe that a policy of that kind is a broad and national policy, and one to promote a strong nationality.

* * *

"Is it a safe thing for the representatives of seven and a half millions to say to the representatives of ninety millions of people; "You may say what you like; we will take your terms, but we will not pay the price? Sir, for my part, I say that I do not think such a course is wise, and I do not think it is possible. I say that if we accept the terms we shall assuredly be called upon to pay the price. (Loud applause.)

* * *

"Sir, I oppose these resolutions because, in my judgment, they reverse the great and successful policy under which the people of Canada, fighting against poverty, against natural obstacles, against geographical conditions, have made of this their country one of the most enviable in the world. These resolutions, in my judgment, spell retrogression, commercial subordination, the destruction of our national ideals, and displacement from our proud position as the rising hope of the British Empire."

QUEER CLEAVAGES

Here is a fine sample of the disruptions in the Liberal party, caused by the attempt to force through the reciprocity agreement. In yesterday morning's Globe Senator George A. Cox publishes a long letter in favor of reciprocity, and tells of the great benefits it is expected to bring to the people of Canada.

On Monday, February 20, E. R. Wood, a prominent Liberal, and Senator Cox's right hand man financially, signed the famous manifesto of the eighteen Liberals opposing reciprocity. The closing paragraph of that famous manifesto says—

"10. Believing as we do that Canadian nationality is now threatened a more serious blow than any it has heretofore met with, and that all Canadians who place the interests of Canada before those of any party or section or individuals therein should at this crisis state their views openly and fearlessly, we, who have hitherto supported the Liberal party in Canada, subscribe to this statement."

The Liberals have been chuckling because one or two Conservative newspapers—led away by a desire merely to project themselves into the limelight—have favored the reciprocity pact. But the differences of opinion in the Conservative ranks are as nothing to the great breaches in the Liberal front. Here is a list of prominent financiers, statesmen, business men and politicians who are strongly opposed to the agreement. Hark, ye! "unanimous" Liberals—

Hon. Clifford Sifton.
Hon. Geo. W. Ross.
Sir Byron Walker.
John L. Blaikie.
W. D. Matthews.

CHOOSE YOUR PROPHET

The Examiner says that at every general election since Confederation reciprocity has been a plank in both party platforms.

The eighteen prominent Liberals of Toronto say in their manifesto:

"1. Because in the year 1897 the Parliament of Canada repealed the legislation then existing relating to reciprocity, and since such repeal neither the people of Canada nor their Parliament have entrusted the Government with any duty or authority to negotiate with respect to any agreement on the subject."

Again, which of the Liberals are we to believe? In a multitude of counsellors is there perplexity!

EDITORIAL NOTES

We can imagine the plaintive groan of the cash register at the bar each time they ring up a sale over $40, knowing that a five per cent tax is coming.

The Examiner says:—"We are not living under the direct plebiscite or referendum principle. The people govern through the representatives they elect, and the responsibility rests upon their representatives." Very true. But the Liberals of Manitoba in the last campaign had in their platform the direct referendum and recall plank, and kept the Conservatives busy saying that it was not responsible government. Which shall we believe—the Liberals of Manitoba or the Examiner?

There has been no question of reciprocity before the people at the polls since 1891, when it was overwhelmingly defeated. In the last three general elections it has not been an issue at all. There has been no thought of reciprocity until the last year. How, then, can the Laurier Government, maintaining a policy of substantial protection, claim to have the backing of the people. It has no mandate, no expression of the people's will, except what can be manufactured by the party newspapers to bolster up a weak case, and a few people who imagine they will be benefited by the change.

3.55 p.m.—The U.S. senate will not vote on reciprocity this session.

4 p.m.—It is rumored they will vote.

4.05 p.m.—Senator Cummins will filibuster against it. No possible chance.

4.10 p.m.—President Taft has received assurances that the senate will vote, despite Cummins.

4.15—All chance for a vote off. Speaker going to get a hair cut.

4.20—Rumor of "no vote" agreement much exaggerated. It was only half an agreement.

4.30—Before going to press—Senate will vote. Senate won't vote.

Mr. Sifton says that he does not know how popular his stand against reciprocity will be with his constituents, that he has no mandate from them. But he is in no worse position than the members of the Liberal members in Ottawa representing anti-reciprocity constituencies, like Peterborough. They have no mandate to support reciprocity against the wishes of their constituents. When it comes to a question of mandate, the Liberal Government has no mandate from the people at large at all to go ahead with the scheme. Sifton isn't alone by any means.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"M. Darzac," he said, his voice again clear and strong, "I have a confession to make to you. When I began to understand how the 'body too many' had effected an entrance and when I had discovered that you did nothing to undeceive us in regard to the hour of 5 o'clock, at which we had believed—at which every one, rather, except myself believed—that you had entered the square tower, I felt that I had the right to suspect that the murderer was not the man who at 5 o'clock entered the square tower under the form of Darzac. I thought, on the contrary, that Darzac might be the true Darzac and you might be the false one. Ah, my dear Darzac, how I have suspected you!"

"That was madness," cried Darzac. "If I did not tell you the exact hour at which I entered the square tower it was because the time was somewhat vague in my own mind and I did not attach any importance to it."

"In such a manner, M. Darzac," continued Rouletabille without paying any attention to the interruptions of his interlocutor, the emotion of the Lady in Black and our attitude, more than ever filled with terror—"in such a manner as that you could have stolen away the true Darzac when he came from outside and by your own carefulness and the too faithful help of the Lady in Black could have taken his place and have been perfectly able to defy detection of your audacious enterprise. This was my imagination—only my imagination, Darzac. Don't let it disturb you. But in such a manner as this I had thought that, you being Larsan, the man who was put in the sack was Darzac. Ah, the fancies that I have had and the useless suspicions!"

"Bah!" responded Mathilde's husband gloomily. "We are all suspicious here!"

Rouletabille began speaking again.

"You see, Darzac, there are two manifestations of Robert Darzac. To know which was the true one and which was the one which formed a disguise for Larsan my duty, Darzac—that which the power of pure reason showed me—was to examine without fear or reproach both of these manifestations in all impartiality. Thus I begin with you—Darzac."

Darzac replied:

"It does not matter since you suspect me no longer. But you must tell me immediately who is Larsan. I insist upon it—I demand it!"

"We all demand it—and at once!" we all cried, turning upon both of them. Mathilde rushed up to her child and placed herself in front of him as if to protect him. We felt the pathos of her attitude, but the scene had endured too long, and we were beyond the limits of patience.

"If he knows who is Larsan let him speak out and make an end of this!" exclaimed Arthur Rance.

And suddenly, just as the thought crossed my mind that I had heard the same cries of anger and impatience two years before at the court of assizes, another pistol shot sounded outside the door of the square tower, and we were all so seized with consternation that our anger fell away in a moment and we found ourselves not threatening Rouletabille, but entreating him to put an end as soon as possible to this intolerable situation.

As soon as the second shot was heard the countenance of Rouletabille changed completely. His face seemed transformed, and his whole being appeared to vibrate with a savage energy.

Laying aside the half bantering manner which he had used toward M. Darzac and which we had all found extremely disagreeable, he gently released himself from the clasp of the Lady in Black, who still clung to him, walked toward the door, folded his arms and said:

"You see, my friends, in an affair like this it does not do to neglect any point. There were two manifestations of Robert Darzac which entered the square tower. There were two manifestations which came out, and one of these was in the sack! That is where one loses oneself. And even now I do not wish to make any mistakes. Will Darzac, here present, permit me to say that I had a hundred excuses for suspecting him?"

Then I thought to myself: "How unlucky that he did not mention his suspicions to me! I would have told him about the map of Australia."

Darzac strode across the room and planted himself in front of the young reporter and said in a tone nearly inaudible from anger:

"What excuses? I ask you what excuses?"

"You will soon understand, my friend," said the reporter, with the utmost calmness. "The first thing that I said to myself while I was examining the conditions surrounding your manifestation of Larsan was this: 'Nonsense! If he were Larsan, would not Professor Stangerson's daughter have perceived it?' That is self evident, the common sense of that thought, is it not? But when I tried to look into the mind of the lady who has become Mme. Darzac I discovered beyond a doubt, monsieur, that all the while she could not free herself from just this fear—the fear that you might be Larsan!"

Mathilde, who had fallen half fainting into a chair, gathered strength enough to start up and to protest against the words with a frightened, despairing gesture.

As for M. Darzac, his face was a picture of hopeless anguish.

CHAPTER XX.

"You Are Larsan!"

"When I recall all the acts of Mme. Darzac after your return from San Remo I can see now in each one of them an expression of the terror which she experienced from her fear that she should allow the secret to escape her. Everything must be said, everything must be explained, here and now if there is to be peace in the future! We are about to clear up the situation. There was nothing natural or happy in Mlle. Stangerson's behavior. The very eagerness with which she assented to your desire to hasten the marriage ceremony proved the longing she felt to definitely banish the torment of her soul.

"From the moment of your return from the south until the apparition at the railroad station, monsieur, she lived in the most utter misery. She was already crying for help—for help against herself, against her thoughts and perhaps even against you. But she dared not reveal her thought to any person, because she dreaded that any confidant might say to her"—

And Rouletabille leaned over and said in M. Darzac's ear, not so low that I could not hear, but so softly that the words did not reach Mathilde, "Are you going mad again?"

Then, lifting his head again, he continued:

To be continued.

BANK LOST ITS APPEAL

Judgment of Supreme Court in Case of Local Interest Stands

The application of the Ontario Bank for leave to appeal in the case, Ontario Bank vs. McAllister Milling Co., and another, was dismissed on Tuesday by the Privy Council at London, England.

The Ontario Bank had asked the Privy Council for leave to appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court in the action brought by the Peterboro Hydraulic Company against the McAllister Milling Company to recover between $18,000 and $20,000 claimed due as rent. The bank was a creditor of the milling company and took over its business, operating the mill for a time. The Peterboro Hydraulic Company sued the Mc Allister Milling Company to recover at $3,000 a year on a seven year lease. The milling company alleged that the bank had taken over all the company's liabilities, including the covenant in the lease. This the Ontario Bank denied, stating that it had taken over only specific liabilities named in agreements.

At the trial, judgment was given against the McAllister Company and against the bank as third parties.

The Divisional Court upset the judgment as against the bank, but the Court of Appeal restored the judgment at the trial, and the Supreme Court dismissed the bank's appeal, two of the judges dissenting.

Government Telegraph Line.

Battleford, Sask., March 1.—Following representations made by the Board of Trade, Inspector McDonald has completed an investigation, covering the proposed construction of a Government telegraph line between Battleford and Isle Lacrosse, 250 miles north.

The proposed line will serve an immense area which is being rapidly settled up, owing to a large block of homestead land having recently been thrown open. Inspector McDonald recommends the construction of a part of this line this year.

Lieut.-Col. McArthur Dead.

Montreal, March 1.—Lieut.-Col. McArthur died at his late residence, 87 St. Matthew street, yesterday, at the age of 74 years.

Lieut.-Col. McArthur was a well-known military man and a strong Conservative. He succeeded his father as president of the firm of Alex. McArthur & Co., of paper and roofing material. He was one of the oldest members of the old All-Montreal Cavalry, and later on commanded the Duke of Connaught's Royal Canadian Hussars. He leaves two sisters.

DOCTOR ADVISED HOSPITAL

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back hurt, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice. I have done as you told me.

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

"If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. Benj. H. Stansbery, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, backache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too late, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy, and should give everyone confidence.

U. S. Naval Appropriation.

Washington, March 2.—The naval appropriation bill was reported to the Senate yesterday. The naval program as amended includes two first-class battleships with a submarine tender and two gunboats. The bill appropriates $126,400,808, an increase of $1,190,700 over the amount fixed by the House.

Under an amendment adopted yesterday the eight-hour law will apply only to the construction of battleships. An unsuccessful effort was made to have it extend to the entire construction program.

Mitchell Resigns Membership.

New York, March 2.—John Mitchell, former head of the United Mine Workers of America, and lately chairman of the National Civic Federation, yesterday made public his resignation of his office and membership in the latter organization. Mr. Mitchell follows the stand recently taken by the United Mine Workers of America in declaring that any member of their order accepting a position with the National Civic Federation would forfeit membership in the union.

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured The Eczema

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910
"My wife was troubled for three years with Eczema on the hands which made her hands almost useless. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, none of which had any effect. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves (she wore out three pairs).
I persuaded her, as a last resort, to try "Fruit-a-tives". The effect was marvellous. Her hands are now cured.
We both attribute our present health to "Fruit-a-tives."

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

SOME CATCHY MUSIC

Hear These Songs on Friday Night in Stubborn Cinderella

Below are a few of the song hits in "A Stubborn Cinderella," which comes to "The Grand" to-morrow (Friday) night. The local music dealers are displaying this music very prominently and a large sale of the same is reported:—'When you First Kiss the Last Girl You Love,' 'Don't be Anybody's Moon but Mine,' 'Love Me Just Because,' 'Adois Senorita,' 'I'm in Love With all the Girls I Know,' 'If They'd Only Let Poor Adam's Ribs Alone.'

It is estimated that 35,000 laborers will be needed in the west this year. The railways will want 15,000.

CANON DAVIDSON AT ST. CYPRIANS

Mail and Empire:—The general mission was begun in St. Cyprian's last evening, this being the first church to hold regular missions. There was a large attendance, and the augmented choir was further strengthened by an orchestra. The bishop of the diocese was present, and was welcomed by the rector. The services, which were of an informal, simple, missionary character, were conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson, of Peterborough. His theme was: "Is it well with thee; is it well with thy husband; is it well with the child?" The Bishop also delivered a strong and convincing address. At the conclusion of the service an organization meeting was held.

DAINTY ENGLISH COMEDIENNE

Miss Vesta Victoria, supported by a company consisting of stars of international fame, has begun a Canadian tour which bids fair to outshine in successful features any engagement ever played in this territory. The company has been assembled by Col. Wm. A. Thompson, the well-known Australian manager, with the purpose of presenting a crisp, bright and absorbing entertainment, as a suitable setting for Miss Victoria's remarkable talents.

Vesta Victoria's name is a household word in England, India, New Zealand, Australia and the United States. For the last ten years this dainty English comedienne has been charming audiences in all these countries, and has accumulated a wonderful fortune. Last year she said that her stage career was at an end. She expressed her intention of retiring to her magnificent country estate near Nottingham, in Lancastershire, England. So far she had failed to appear in a single Canadian city. She had been in the United States as far as Buffalo, but never got into British territory. This was by accident purely, and not by design, inasmuch as Miss Victroia is a patriotic English woman, and has the same loyalty to the Canadians as her own country people.

Thousands of letters have been sent to Miss Victoria from well-known Canadian people, appealing to her to come to Canada and play there. Miss Victoria's Canadian tour follows directly her successful run in London, and she brings to the Dominion all the songs she has been using in the British metropolis. These ditties created a furore in London, and as they were especially written for Miss Victoria they may only be heard on the stage from her lips.

The company with Miss Victoria includes Ivanowski, the Russian pianist; Van Camp, a Holland psychic with a wonderful repertoire of East Indian necromancy; Frank Bush unquestionably one of the wittiest story tellers the United States has produced; Johnny Ford, a celebrated eccentric dancer; the Church City Quartette, four melodists, whose home is in New Zealand, and who have gained world's fame for their singing; the Maclaren Family, five Scotch musicians, whose selections are novel and wonderfully well played; Roy Barton, Dublin's famous pianist, accompanist, and the celebrated Australian prima donna, Tillie Terriss.

The entertainment is from every angle, one of the most delightful that can be imagined, and Miss Victoria is to be congratulated upon securing such an array of talent to surround her.

YOUNG LADIES TO DEBATE ON CLUBS

Are They Beneficial to a Community? — St. Peters' Ladies' Literary

The regular meeting of the St. Peter's Ladies' Literary Society, will be held to-morrow evening at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. An excellent program, the chief feature of which will be a debate between the Normal school and the Literary Society, is promised. The subject of the debate is "Resolved that clubs are beneficial to a community." The affirmative will be taken by Miss Gertrude Day and Miss Irene Gibson of the Normal school, while the negative will be upheld by Miss Eileen Coughlin and Miss Ethel Hayes, of the society. This will be a very interesting and close contest and a large attendance is expected. A good musical program will also be presented.

ESTATE TO BE SETTLED

Stock of H. Lebrun & Co. to be Disqosed of at Rock Bottom Prices at Once

As will be seen by a large advertisement in other columns of this issue of the Review, the splendid stock of men's and boys' clothing and furnishings of the firm, which under the name of H. LeBrun and Co., for the past thirty-eight years, has enjoyed a well-merited patronage, is to be placed on the market for a ten days' sale at prices unheard of before.

The stock must positively be sold to allow of the estate of the late H. LeBrun being wound up.

It will be no go-between sale. Must is the word, and the prices have been cut down accordingly. The store is now closed to permit of preparations being made, and with an additional staff of clerks, the doors will be opened at nine o'clock Saturday morning, March 4th, for what will be the most attractive inducements ever offered in this line of goods. And the well-known reputation of this firm for high-class goods will be behind every article placed upon the counters. It is not an attempt to unload a stock of worthless clothing and furnishings upon the farmers and public but an honest endeavor to bring about the necessary result, that of settling the estate.

"THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY"

Mort. H. Singer's Big Musical Success The Goddes of Liberty" comes to the Grand Monday March 6th

Mort H. Singer's big musical success "The Goddess of Liberty" comes to the Grand Opera House, Monday, March 6th.

This production has received the unanimous verdict of the press throughout the country as a positive hit. It is said to be the best musical comedy that Hough, Adams and Howard ever created. The play is in three acts and four scenes, and is laid in the Berkshire Hills, Mass.; the last act is an apartment in New York City at Claremont overlooking the Hudson. The scenic effects are elaborate and one of the features is the realistic rain storm scene in the second act. The costumes are most gorgeous, and are frequently changed by fifty of the prettiest show-girls ever seen with any musical attraction, including the famous Princess dancers and show girls. There are twenty song numbers and all hits. "Don't Choose a Gibson Girl," "Where Are They Now?" "Taxi, Taxi, "Lonely," "If All Moons Were Honeymoons," "Keep Me in Your Heart," "Oskee Wow Wow," "The Goddess of Liberty," "Let's Pretend You Love Me," "The Haunted Pool," "Here's to the Last Girl," and others. The cast includes some fo the best musical comedy artists ever seen in high class musical offerings.

LAKEFIELD SEVEN AND THE LOCAL MIDGETS WERE TIED 4-4

Fast Game Work, the Visitors Having the Weight

A live, interesting game of hockey was dished up at Brock street rink last night between ten and eleven, when the whirlwind Midgets ran up against the fast St. John's team of Lakefield. There was something doing all the time, as the score of 4—4 would indicate.

The Midgets have been lying low recently, and little has been heard of them, and their showing last night was a big surprise to the crowd who stayed to witness the game.

The visiting boys appeared to be rather at sea on the large rink, and were inclined to bunch up too much.

They were a much heavier aggregation than the locals, but lacked combination, and seemingly preferred individual work. The Midgets made up in speed and stick handling what they lacked in weight, working hard all the way through the game.

For the Midgets Halpin and White, of the Pillpounders' team, were perhaps the hardest workers, playing positions well.

Lakefield scored the first two goals after about fifteen minutes' play. Shortly after, the Midgets jammed one in on a nice rush, and another one for Lakefield made the score at half time 3—1 in their favor.

After the first half both teams settled down to the game, and consequently the penalties came along pretty fast. Kenneally was the chief offender for Lakefield, while White and Halpin of the locals showed a strong tendency to mix it up

The close scoring made the game doubly interesting, and the outcome was in doubt from start to finish.

The brand of hockey, however, was extremely creditable to the teams, the close checking and stick-handling of the Midgets being responsible for the saving of their team from defeat, and with a little more practice and combination they will, from all appearances, be able to put it all over their huskier opponents.

Special mention is due the work of Rowe in goal for Lakefield. His blocking was excellent, and he prevented many sure-looking scores all through the game.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

In one of the most nerve-racking contests ever bowled on the Y.M.C.A. alleys the Millard vs. Millionaires' game last night carried off the palm. The first game found the Millionaires 8 pins down, in the second game only one pin separating the two teams, and this was again in favor of the Millard team. However, the Millionaires started the third game in grand style and had a very comfortable lead on their rivals when the half-way house was reached, but, Millards, to the surprise of everybody, even themselves, made a grand finish, and when the score was totalled up it was found that the Millionaires had won the last game by ten pins, thus winning the contest by the narrow margin of one pin. Some of the Millionaires have not yet recovered from the effects of the excitement, but are progressing favorably.

The game scheduled for Friday night Strikers vs. Lancashire Trio. The Strikers are noted for their ability to spill the beans and something is liable to happen.

The Collegiate class basketball team played the senior leaders a friendly game of basketball last night, which proved to be the fastest game played on the local floor this season, the Leaders had their hands full all the time and just managed to defeat their younger rivals by the narrow margin of 12 points. Score, Leaders 40, Collegiate 28. After the game the Collegiate team were the guests of the Senior Leaders at supper.

To-night at 7.15 the Business Boys' basketball team meet the Junior Class in a game that is sure to be full of excitement from the drop of the hat.

FAST ICE FOR GAME

Last Exhibition of the Season With T.A.A.C. To-night

The game at Brock Street rink tonight between T. A. A. C. and the local Intermediates, should attract a large crowd, as the visitors are bringing down their regular strong line-up, and will make the homesters travel at their prettiest. Midwinter ice is on the program.

The local line up will be:
Goal—Derocher.
Point—Bond.
Cover—Heffernan.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Park
Right—Sarels.
Left—Kelly.

BONSPIEL OPENS THIS EVENING

First Draw in Competition for Local Curlers

The preliminary games in the local bonspiel start to-night. The following draws were made—
Dr. Greer vs R. N. Merritt.
W. M. Lang vs Brightman.
J. W. McDermid vs W. Ferguson.
H. Foote vs Thompson.
R. Pinchin vs Geo. Giroux.
R. Davidson vs J. E. A. Fitzgerald

There promises to be a lot of excitement in these games, and some of the rinks which suffered such a humiliating defeat at Lindsay are going to demonstrate their abilities as curlers.

EATONS AND ARGOS. TIED

Scullers Were Ahead 2-1 at the Half — Full Time Tally 3-3

Toronto, March 2.—The championship of the senior O.H.A. hinges on the result of the second game Saturday night, as Eatons and Argonauts last night in the first fixture played a tie game, the Big Store aggregation with one minute and a half to play scoring the tieing goal, and making the score 3 to 3, which is, by the way, the same as in the first game between Argonauts and Parkdale. Argos led last night at the interval by 2 to 1, and looked like ultimate winners, for Eatons towards the close of the half were showing signs of weariness. However, the second period saw Eatons wake up with a vengeance, and profiting by the absence of Murphy for the Argo defence, tied up the game, and from this to the finish it was a battle royal, with Argos holding the upper hand on account of the one goal, which they secured about the middle of the half, and this one goal was only a small margin, so numerous were the chances of both teams, and so it proved, much to the joy of the Eaton supporters and backers, for Rankin, during a mix-up near the Argo goal, in which three of the Scullers fell over themselves trying to get the puck, secured the disc and landed it in the corner of the net.

Argonauts were weakened by the absence of Gordon, their right wing, and while Jack Murphy, of the Toronto Canoe team last year, played a great game under a big handicap, yet Gordon's aggressiveness was missed, more especially close in on the nets. Gordon, however, will be on hand Saturday night for the final, as his sore throat is already on the mend, but was not sufficiently so last night to warrant Argos playing him.

Very little rough work was indulged in, and the result was that Referee Chaucer Elliott had a very easy game to handle. Chaucer, however, made it easy by nipping everything in the bud.

The teams:—

Argonauts—Goal, Yuile; point, E. Murphy; cover, Kidd; rover, Moore; centre, Fleming; right wing, J. Murphy; left wing, Brady.

Referee—Chaucer Elliott.

THE SUMMARY.

First Half.

1—Eatons, Rankin—3 min, 17 sec.
2—Argonauts—E. Murphy—5 mins. and 5 seconds.
3—Argonauts—E. Murphy—21 mins. and 10 seconds.

Second Half.

4—Eatons—Rankin—4 mins. and 6 seconds.
5—Argonauts—Fleming—20 mins. and 24 seconds.
6—Eatons—Rankin—14 mins.

PUCKLAND

Ottawa, Ont., March 1.—Officers of the Ottawas are convinced that the publication of the goal-scoring table of the N.H.A. is spoiling combination plays. Secretary Martin Rosenthal announced last night that there would be presented next season a trophy to become the property of the player making the most "assists" in the series.

It is planned to appoint an official scorer for each team, whose duty it will be to credit the man passing the puck or engineering a rush for a goal with so many points. It is intended to inaugurate an absolutely new system of scoring, allowing a man two points for one play, three for another, and five for the best grade.

The National Association will ask the co-operation of the newspapers in its endeavor to stamp out individual play. All the clubs are working with this end in view. They believe the scheme practical, and agree that something must be done to encourage combination, which with many teams now seem to be a lost art. They maintain that the advertising of scores is very harmful, especially to young players who wish to build up their reputations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.
Peterborough, March 1st, 1911.

Sir,—I read with a great deal of interest, the statement of the Chimes Committee, published in the evening papers some days ago.

It appears that through the efforts of these gentlemen, when the amount asked for is fully subscribed, there will be installed in the city of Peterborough the finest set of chimes in the Dominion of Canada. This will be a distinction, of which our citizens may well be proud, and the beautiful and dignified music of these chimes will undoubtedly lend a great charm and pleasure to their city life.

In my opinion, however, a still greater purpose will be served by the accomplishment of this good work. It is the fervent wish of every patriotic citizen that all classes in the community, irrespective of race or creed, should, animated by a common patriotism, live together, a united people, in the utmost peace and harmony. These chimes placed in St. John's church by the common contribution of all creeds, will, I am confident, do more than anything else to bring into existence and preserve this much desired harmony and will do much to stimulate a proper and befitting sense of patriotism. They will be a lasting monument to the desire of Peterborough citizens to give some substantial evidence of this harmonious and patriotic aspiration.

When this project is understood in its true light I am sure our citizens, animated by a laudable desire to bring to a happy fruition the good work undertaken by the Chimes Committee, will again generously respond to the appeal that has been made, and contribute promptly the small amount that is yet required to complete the work so well calculated to promote good will and a common understanding amongst them. The time is fitting to respond to such an appeal and the opportunity a splendid one for the citizens to show that they are still a generous and peace-loving people. May the speedy conclusion of the committee's work make these sentiments quite manifest.

D. O'CONNELL.

To The Editor of The Review

In reply to the Drury article, in the Examiner, to February 28, copied from the Toronto Star, I wish to say here emphatically, that what E. C. Drury said of the Johnston petition in North Monaghan, regarding the farmers and gardeners, who signed it in favor of protection and knowing exactly what they signed, that he said E. C. Drury, or whoever, is responsible for the article published a downright falsehood and from my impression of Drury on a public platform, it is not beyond his desires, to make such a statement to accomplish his ends. On the other hand, in defending myself and all parties, believing in protection, I have no scheme to advance; we simply believe in letting well alone.

Let me state that in North Monaghan where there are 220 people engaged in various kinds of agriculture, the Drury meeting had an audience of about thirty people. It is easy to see how enthusiastic the farmers and gardeners of North Monaghan, were to hear of the great free trade, "I am" when only thirty out of 220 turned out to his meeting.

Drury and his confederates do not tell the farmers that under the Friendly Nations Act, the reciprocity pact will place other large food producing countries on the same basis as Canada and the United States. The tariff on manufactured goods remains practically untouched Mr. Farmer while all the protection you have had in the past is to be completely undone. The farmers of Canada should wake up and consider that the products of their farms, will under reciprocity come in competition, not with the United States alone, but with the Argentine Republic, Russia, Spain, Austria Hungary, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and other countries. What is good for the manufacturers is also good for the farmers. Let all all classes of industrial and farm life stick to protection and to the upbuilding of Canada.

MEN'S AND BOY'S CLOTHING AND FURNISHINGS

The Entire Stock must be sold in order to settle the Estate of the late Mr. LeBrun

STORE CLOSED FOR THREE DAYS
WEDNESDAY, THURS. and FRIDAY
March 1st, 2nd, and 3rd
To re-arrange stock and re-mark goods.
Everything will be ticketed with the Sale Price marked in plain figures.

The death of Mr. H. LeBrun, senior member of the firm of H. LeBrun & Co., has made it necessary in order to settle the estate, that the entire stock of high-grade clothing and furnishings be converted into what cash it will bring at once, so that a settlement can be made between Mr. LeBrun's heirs and Mr. Joseph Picard (junior member of the firm.)

The store will be closed for three days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 1st, 2nd and 3rd, to rearrange stock for satisfactory handling of the crowds and to re-mark goods. The doors will be thrown open at 9 a.m., Saturday, March 4th, on the greatest sale ever known in this part of the country. There will be plenty of competent salespeop.e to wait upon the crowds. Everything will be displayed and marked in plain figures so that you can inspect goods and prices at your leisure.

Costs and real values have not been considered in marking prices for this sale. Goods must be sold and sold in the quickest possible time—let them bring what they will. The entire stock must be sold in ten days. Quick action is what we want so we offer the public the lowest prices ever known on high-class goods such as this store sells.

In order to give people living at a distance an equal chance, the sale will not open until 9 a. m. Railroad fare paid to purchasers of $25.00 or over, who come within 25 miles. Nothing like it ever happened before. It's the great money saving opportunity of the times. Shrewd people will be on hand at the opening. No goods sold to dealers before Monday, March 6th.

SALE OPENS
SATURDAY, MARCH 4th
at 9 a.m.
Everything will be displayed where you can inspect the goods independent of the salespeople.
All Prices Marked in PLAIN FIGURES.

DEBENTURES FOR $10,000.

Renewals to the Dominion and Ontario Municipal Associations were made, and the issuing of debentures for $10,000, the amount being for payment for the construction of water mains, extensions, etc., last year, was authorized.

The March number of "Hardware and Metal," which is to contain a full report of the proceedings of the Hardware Convention and exhibition, held here last week, will also contain a one-page advertisement for the city of Peterborough. The cost is $25.

A long-standing account from Alfred J. Cameron, who made out a plan of some property lying west of the sidings to the Quaker Oats Company, between Wolfe and Hunter streets, was passed. The amount is $200.

SKULL THOUGHT TO BE FRACTURED

Serious Accident to Young's Point Man

Mr. Frederick Fitzgerald, who resides at Young's Point, and is employed in the saw mill there, had his nose and skull fractured yesterday morning about 11.30, while working in the mill.

The cable which runs the carriage in the mill came off the pulley, and Mr. Fitzgerald, in replacing it, was struck on the bridge of the nose and jammed back against the carriage.

He was brought to the city last evening and Comstock's ambulance conveyed him to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Gallivan.

No serious results are anticipated.

Funeral of Radcliffe

Toronto Telegram:—Donald James Rattley, better known as "Radcliffe, the hangman," was buried this morning at 10 o'clock in Humbervale cemetery.

The funeral was very quiet and but few friends of the deceased were present. The coffin was plain, and there were no flowers sent.

Rev. J. D. Morrow held a short service at Bates & Dodds' mortuary, on Queen street west, before the remains were taken to the cemetery, and gave a brief address to the relatives and friends present.

After speaking a few words to the bereaved relatives Mr. Morrow took for his text: "Of that hour knoweth no man, not even the angels in heaven. What I say unto you I say unto all, watch."

In his address Mr. Morrow referred to the position held by Rattley in life plainly and kindly. He said he did not condemn him any more than he condemned those who gave the sentence of death. Nor did he condemn the judge who gave the sentence of death any more than the men who made the laws. Nor the men who made the laws any more than those who put the men there for that purpose.

"We must not look down to-day on the man who carried out his duty," said Mr. Morrow. "While doing so he might have made the mistake of depending on the wrong source for his strength. Many do this and make a failure of their own lives.

"If everyone carried out his duty as faithfully as this man carried out his in his Government position, there would be few mistakes made."

Major E. A. Label of Quebec, was elected president of the Association of Medical Officers of the Militia of Canada.

WITNESS FEES IN MURDER TRIAL TO BE PAID BY CITY

Names of Defence Witnesses Placed on Crown List by Chancellor Boyd

Increase in Grant of $50 for Horticultural Society

The Finance Committee, at a meeting last night, decided to meet an account of $98, the amount being for the payment of fees due witnesses called by the defence in the Gorham trial at the Fall Assizes of last year.

The city solicitor, in communication with the Attorney-General's Department, was informed that the payment will conform with the general practice.

It appears that Chancellor Boyd, who presided at the trial, placed the names of these witnesses on the Crown list, for payment by the city.

Of the full amount $63 goes to Dr. St. Charles, who gave expert evidence for the defence. One-third of the full amount of the account will be refunded by the government.

The discussion brought out a question by Ald. Duncan, who asked why it was that police officers, while drawing their regular salaries, are also allowed witness fees.

Mayor Morrow answered that the question had come up before the Police Commissioners, and the reply was that often the men after being on night duty, were asked to attend court as witnesses, during the day. This was not fair without remuneration.

INCREASE OF $50.

The request of the Horticultural Society for an increase on the annual grant of $550 found favor with the committee, and on motion of Ald. Buller and Ald. Duncan an increase of $50 was carried.

"It is money well expended," said Ald. Buller, "the society is doing good work in beautifying the city."

Ald. Duncan was of the same opinion. Mayor Morrow, too, held that the society was doing a worthy work, and deserved encouragement, but at the same time the council was endeavoring to keep the rate down, and the appropriations for the year only allowed of the usual grant.

The vote was a tie, and the chairman, Ald. Anderson, decided for the increase.

SOME ACCOUNTS.

A number of accounts, including one for $49.50, sent in by W. D. Roberts, for work at the Isolation Hospital, which he completed Tues-

The Fencing Girls, in Mort. H. Singer's record-smashing musical hit, "The Goddess of Liberty," which comes to The Grand Monday, March 6, after its record run of one year in Chicago.

Test Vote in the Big Factory Shows Practical Unanimity---Office Staff and Drivers Voted

More Striking Evidence of the Feeling in Peterboro' on the Subject—Men Are Afraid the Industries Will be Hurt.

When the Review representative awoke from a troubled sleep this this morning and shortly after commenced a canvass of the employees of the Geo. Matthews packing plant, for their expression of opinion on the reciprocity question, his gloomy anticipations were agreeably dispelled by the courtesy with which he was received, and the willing aid which was proffered him in his efforts.

On making his mission known, the chief clerk in the office politely offered to escort him around the factory, which assistance the reporter gratefully accepted. After this, the rest was easy sailing. It was a pleasure to find that nearly all of the employees had a good knowledge of the subject of reciprocity, and were able to speak on the matter in an intelligent and conversational manner.

The crushing majority of 100 votes to 1 against reciprocity, speakes volumes for the opinion of the employees. They had nearly all given the matter serious consideration, and without the slightest prompting, decisively said they were against it.

One bluff, out-spoken employee was discoveredi n the section of the plant where the meat is washed. When the question was put to him, he slammed a big chunk of pork with a heavy splash into the vat beside him, and exclaimed, "No, not by a derned sight. We don't want it."

One employee only was in favor of reciprocity, and his stand was by no means popular with the remainder of the men.

WAR IN THE AIR

French Aeroplanes on Four Hundred Mile Trip

Special to The Review.

Pau France, March 3.—Five aeroplaces in military formation executed difficult manoeuvres here to-day, and started for Paris in a sensational "charge." It is expected that a new record will be made as only one stop is anticipated in the trip which will be for a distance of four hundred miles.

BIG MILITARY DEMONSTRATION

Between Italy and Austria on the Frontier

Special to The Review.

Paris, March 3.—Italy and Austria are preparing to make a gigantic military demonstration upon the frontier separating their countries. This is the result of a diplomatic misunderstanding over protectoral rights.

A National Work.

Quebec, March 3.—The following resolution has been passed by the Canadian Mining Institute, Quebec: "The Canadian Mining Institute, in annual meeting assembled, desires to express its appreciation of the work of the Commission of Conservation.

"With the increased drain which is being made year by year on the natural resources of Canada, the institute appreciates the necessity of conserving, and, so far as possible, perpetuating the country's natural resources by the adoption of reasonable means to prevent waste and to encourage development along national lines."

NOT AFRAID OF CANADIAN FRUIT

Neither Are U.S. Fruitmen in Favor of the Reciprocal Bill.

St. Catharines, March 3.—Elijah Roberts of Milford, and Stancliffe Hale of South Glastonbury, two of the largest and most prominent growers in Connecticut, yesterday afternoon told the Niagara district fruit growers that they could see no good in the reciprocity pact, not that they feared Canadian fruit, but because sufficient was not given them in return. As fruit growers, they would benefit, as the Canadian market would relieve the congestion in New York and other large cities at certain times of the year.

Both expressed delight with the local orchards, which are in better shape than those of their state, the trees having longer life and better fruit. They predicted a big crop this year from the present condition of the buds. Prices there average sixty cents for a half bushel basket of fruit, which would be about equal to the local eleven quart basket at local prices. Prof. Macoun, Ottawa, and Prof. Harcourt, Guelph, addressed the convention last night.

EXPRESS MEN QUITTING WORK

Complete Tie Up Expected in New York by Night

Special to The Review.

New York March 3.—Express drivers are quitting work in all parts of Greater New York to-day, and a complete tie up in the express service is expected by night. The situation promises to become very bad.

A Doctors' Trust.

Chicago, March 3.—In an address before the American Medical Association yesterday Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago advocated the formation of a "doctors' trust." He said that through such an agency "the public would be freed from quacks and charlatans."

"Free competition in each calling has limits of usefulness," said Prof. Henderson. "A doctors' trust is desirable on certain conditions: It must admit all who are competent; it must use fair tests to exclude all others and its charges must not be prohibitive to the poor."

MEN DRUGGED AND ROBBED

Toronto Woman Brutally Assaulted in Early Morning.

Toronto, March 3.—Carl Epstein and Charles Sadler, both about 28 years of age and hailing from Montreal, are in the jail while the police are investigating their records. Mrs. Lena Miller, 19 years, is in a serious condition at her home at 1 Plymouth avenue as the result of a brutal assault committed upon her by the two men here early yesterday morning.

The men have admitted their guilt and made a confession. The crime was discovered when the woman rushed into the street about two o'clock in the morning screaming. She told neighbors who were awakened that two men, one of whom had been staying at her home, had set upon her and reduced her to unconsciousness by the use of chloroform.

An alarm was sent to the Court street station and to the St. Andrew's market station and Detectives Cronin and Mitchell set out to locate the perpetrators. Both were arrested and arraigned in the Police Court.

Epstein pleaded guilty to administering chloroform with intent to commit an indictable offence to which Sadler pleaded not guilty. Both pleaded guilty to robbery with violence.

In his confession, Epstein declared that he had been taken to the house by the husband who is now in Syracuse, N.Y. He had stayed there and became very friendly with Mrs. Miller. He told her that he had a friend a commercial traveler, who sold silk skirts and from whom she could get skirts at her own price and that he would bring the man up.

He arranged with Sadler to bring along a skirt which Sadler stole from a house where he had been rooming at 12 Parliament street. At 10.30 Wednesday night Sadler went into the King Edward drug store and bought an ounce of chloroform, saying it was to kill a dog. Epstein waited outside. They then went to the Miller house and the woman answered the door. Epstein said he had brought his friend with the skirt and asked her to try it on. This was after one o'clock. She did, and when she came out Epstein grasped her by the throat and pressed a handkerchief saturated with the chloroform over her mouth and nose. He says that Sadler took the $51 from her stocking and that they then took also her persian lamb coat and a revolver.

Sadler kept the coat and revolver and $5, while Epstein took $46. Sadler's story agrees with this save that he denies taking the money. Epstein was arrested in the west end and Sadler was got on his way to the Parliament street house. Both had their share of the spoils upon them when taken.

The penalties for both offences with which they are charged are life imprisonment and whipping. Magistrate Denison is not sure that he has power to try the case and the men may have to be sent on to a higher court.

While King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, was passing through Nuremberg, on his way to Sofia, a hundred masked students invaded the dining car and gave him a mock ovation.

HEARING IN CONSPIRACY CHARGES LIKELY IN MAY

Defence in Farmers' Bank Case Want High Court Judge.

Toronto, March 3.—The hearing of the charge of conspiracy to fraudulently secure the certificate of the Treasury Board of Canada which enabled the Farmer's Bank to commence business, upon which J. R. Stratton, M.P., James J. Warren, president and general manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, G. H. Smith, and Dr. John Ferguson, Alex. Fraser, Alex. S. Lown and John Watson, provisional directors of the bank have been committed for trial to the sessions which will open in a week, will not likely be heard until May. It is understood that the defence has asked the Attorney-General's Department to consent to the cases being heard before the assizes which open May 1 with Sir William Meredith on the bench instead of at the sessions at which Judge Winchester will preside.

It is also likely that should there be any further committals upon any of the charges now before the police magistrate in the various bank cases that these, too, will be sent on to the assizes.

It is understood that the reason for this move is that so many points of law are involved in all these cases that the defence are desirous of having them heard by a high court judge. It is also understood that the crown is willing to have the charges go to this court.

This arrangement is not touching either the Munro or the Crompton case. It is understood that the Munro case will go before the sessions' grand jury while the Crompton case is to be heard in county judge's criminal court without a jury.

IS SOME BETTER

London, Eng., March 2.—Lady Strathcona is suffering from an influenza cold. Her condition, which has given some cause for anxiety during the last few days, is somewhat improved to-day.

WOODSMAN CUT OFF HIS OWN LEG

Saved His Life by a Remarkable Show of Grit.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., March 3.—Remarkable grit saved the life yesterday of Daniel Snyder, a woodsman caught beneath a fallen tree near Brushton. Snyder's leg, crushed by the weight of tons of wood, hung by shreds to his body and he was rapidly bleeding to death when he crawled to his axe, severed the limb with it, ripped off his shirt and checked the flow of blood by binding it tightly about the stump. He then lay back and awaitde the arrival of help. When fellow woodsmen took him to a hospital surgeons perfected his crude amputation by removing another portion of the crushed limb. His recovery is expected.

Gets Forty More.

Kansas City, Mo., March 3.—Andy Spaulding, known in police circles as a "daylight robber," yesterday was sentenced to forty years in prison for robbing a house of jewels valued at $110. Spaulding is 45 years old. He has spent 25 years in prison.

BIG LOAN ANNOUNCED

T. T. Smellie Has a Rod in Pickle For Allan Studholme—Elliott's Bill to Put the Onus of Proof on Motorists In Accident Cases Lost—Railway Tax Is Not Big Enough Yet Says Hon. A. G. MacKay.

Toronto, March 3.—Five and a half million dollars will be the amount of the new provincial loan. Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, made the public announcement at the opening of the Ontario Leegislature yesterday afternoon.

Two million dollars will be for the contemplated extension of the Hydro-Electric power transmission line to Windsor and to other points outside of the original circuit proposed.

Two million is to cover the extension of the T. & N. O. Railway to Porcupine, and for the extension to Callander to connect with the Grand Trunk Pacific main line.

One million and a half dollars is required to be kept available for heavy payments on capital account, which mature during the early part of the year, while the heavy receipts are received towards the close of the year.

T. T. Smellie, Fort William (Con.), raised a question of privilege. According to a newspaper report the honorable member for East Hamilton, speaking at the Labor Temple on the previous night, had referred to the members of the House as "a lot of loafers."

The facts were, said Mr. Smellie, that the members of the House had sat for hours listening to Mr. Studholme when he was "talking twaddle."

Sir James Whitney interrupted Mr. Smellie, pointing out that comment or debate was out of order. The procedure was for the attention of the House to be called to the matter without debate, and for it to be taken up on the following day.

Mr. Studholme: I am very glad the matter has been brought up.

Sir James Whitney: "So am I."

C. N. Anderson, South Essex, withdrew his bill to amend the Game and Fisheries Act, to shorten the season for duck shooting in Essex and Kent Counties.

Sir James Whitney requested him to do so, because if it were necessary to make special provision in one instance it should be done with regard to every county in the province.

Mr. Anderson also withdrew his bill to increase the jurisdiction of division court judges, upon the request of Hon. J. J. Foy.

J. C. Elliott's (West Middlesex) bill to amend the Voters' List Act, giving the Court of Revision power to strike from the voters' list the names of persons who have lost their qualifications, was given a second reading, but his bill to make drivers of motor vehicles liable for accidents occasioned to other persons or property on country highways, unless the motor owner could prove that it was due to the injured person's negligence, was lost on division.

Hon. W. J. Hanna at first advised Mr. Elliott to withdraw it, saying that it placed the motor owner under a tremendous liability and made it absolutely necessary for him to prove negligence on the other person's part or he be assessed for damages.

Hon. A. G. MacKay said that the supplementary revenue act, the third reading of which was moved by Hon Col. Matheson, did not go far enough in raising the taxation on railways. It only began to nibble at them.

The railways, the Provincial Treasurer pointed out had also to pay municipal taxes. The clause as proposed was carried.

A number of members on both sides of the House put in a plea against all trotting horse meetings being taxed, and the clause was allowed to stand for further consideration.

Mr. Gamey secured delay with respect to the taxation of stock transfers. The member for Manitoulin said there are lots of stocks that the selling at a few cents which are just as good value at the price as C.P.R. stock or any bank stock and much better than the Farmers' Bank stock.

OUTRAGE AT FARMER'S HOME

His Wife Ill-treated While He Assisted Some Callers.

Bowmanville, March 3.—Four men went to Thomas Bradley's house in the Township of Clarke on Sunday night last about nine o'clock, called Bradley out and said they were lost and wanted feed for two horses. Bradley had to go about forty yards to get hay for them, two men went with him and two remained in the barn. When he reached the other barn, he heard his wife screaming murder. He ran back, accompanied by the two men who went with him, but when he reached the house, the other two men had disappeared. They had made improper advances to his wife, but she managed to get away from them, and they took flight on hearing Bradley returning. The two who had accompanied him took their departure too, but about 11 o'clock two of them returned, gained admission to Bradley's house, knocked him down, and one man held him while the other assaulted his wife. Then the other man held Bradley, while the man who held Bradley first, assaulted his wife.

Bradley came to town on Tuesday and reported the circumstances. Chief Jarvis went down and from the description given, arrested two men, named McManus, about 27 years of age, and Luther Brown, about 20. He brought them to Bowmanville jail, where they are now confined. They will appear before Magistrate Horsey.

RECIPROCITY IS SCORED BY ANOTHER LIBERAL MEMBER

35 VICTIMS

Ottawa, March 2.—Two more people died last night from typhoid, making the number of victims 35. There are now 759 cases of typhoid. Eighteen new cases were reported yesterday.

Member of Dominion House For Welland In Debate on Reciprocity Says He Will Not Desert, But Declares That He Does Not Favor the Reciprocity Treaty—Free Trade Different In England, Says Middlebro.

Ottawa, March 3.—William Manley German, member of Parliament for Welland, was the second Liberal this week to score the Government for entering into the reciprocity pact with the United States. The situation was scarcely as tense yesterday as on Tuesday, when Mr. Sifton made his famous deliverance, but Mr. German's remarks were clear-cut, thoughtful and sincere. Like Mr. Sifton, he has been a Liberal in the public eye for over twenty years, and stated that only a matter of such overwhelming importance could induce him to break with his political associates, but unlike the member for Brandon, he has not cut entirely adrift.

Mr. German prefaced his arguments against the tariff resolution with praise of the Liberals. They had made an "honest attempt to keep the reciprocity pledge of 1891," he said, and gave them credit for "an administration that had brought prosperity to Canada." He declared, however, that "there was a general feeling throughout the country against reciprocity with the United States," and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's erstwhile awakening from that fiscal nightmare had made the "hearts of Liberals throb with pride."

Mr. German endorsed the Conservative arguments against the trade pact, and thought Sir Wilfrid should have paid the United States back in its own coin. "Has he taught them the lesson which they taught us?" was his question.

Mr. German declared in favor of adequate protection, instancing the present tariff as his conception of the term.

The member for Welland could not understand why there should have been any great haste about the proposals. The people of the United States had decided only recently that there must be a reduction in the duties. Would it not have been better in view of the circumstances, to have waited for the new Congress to come in. This Congress would prabably have given Canada as much for nothing in return and the Canadian tariff would not have been disturbed. Canada would cut a small figure if the agreement did not go through the extra session of Congress. Mr. German believed it would not go through.

Dealing briefly with the manner in which, in his opinion, the agreement would effect the business interests of the country, Mr. German said that the business men had expressed their opinion emphatically. Fully nine out of every ten were opposed to the agreement.

F. B. Carvell (Carlton, N.B.), gave expression to the enthusiastic reception which the trade proposals had met with in the Maritime Provinces. He criticized the "leader of the eighteen" in Toronto, who condemned reciprocity, and yet financed the cotton crop with Canadian millions. He did not think Mr. Sifton spoke for the West.

A lot of nonsense had been talked about wheat. Our wheat would go through the United States in future, we were told. Yet last year, out of 26,000,000 bushels that went by the United States 19,000,000 passed through Fort William. It was simply one-half of the wheat being shipped from St. John was American wheat. He then reviewed the attempts of the railways to improve their through routes, and declared when these were all completed there would be no question as to the carrying of Canadian wheat by Canadian channels.

W. S. Middlebro (N. Grey) could not see any analogy between free trade in England and Canada. He thought the prices of natural products would be equalized and the farmers get no advantage.

WORK TOO IMPORTANT

He Declares That the Big Work In Hand Is Too Important to Be Handled In So Swift a Fashion—Special Sitting of the Senate Will Not Rise Until July 1 or Later, According to the Current Opinions.

Washington, March 3.—Democratic leaders in the House differ in their views as to the length of an extraordinary session, if the President should call one, but the estimates are that the session will continue sometime between July 1 and Oct. 1.

Speaker-Elect Champ Clark believes that four or five months would be ample, and that adjournment might be reported during July. Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee of the next House, feels that an extra session could wind up its business by Sept. 1. Representative Henry of Texas, who will be one of the leaders in the next House, thinks the session might run on until Oct. 15.

Democratic leaders say the reciprocity measure, if not passed by the Senate at the regular session, will pass the House if the President should call an extra session.

The tariff board bill is dead, according to the leading members of the Senate. Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Senate agreed to a motion temporarily to lay aside the bill and take up for consideration the general pension bill.

The pension appropriation bill, carrying $153,668,000, was then passed, and the Senate took up and quickly disposed of the diplomatic and consular bill, carrying about $4,000,000. The fortification bill, carrying $5,000,000, required just fifteen minutes.

This was too rapid work to suit the plans of Senator Owen, and when the military academy appropriation bill, carrying, $1,800,000, was taken up, he began a little filibuster of his own. "I want to force an extra session," he said. "This Congress has no moral right to pass these measures."

He kept up his obstruction tactics until the close of the sitting, forcing a reading of every bill.

LIVES LOST IN EXPLOSION

Tragedy and Serious Injuries at Niagara Falls

Special to The Review.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 3.—Four men were killed, two were fatally hurt and four others seriously injured as the result of a bad explosion at the plant of the Ontario Power Co., here to-day. The cause of the explosion is believed to have been caused by a fire which had been dampened. The dead men are David Hendershot, Charles McGonigle, William Orchard and Robert Moran, of Niagara Falls, and those who will not recover are Harry Byron, George Garvey, and another workman, Merritton by name. James Nelson, one of the injured, is from Buffalo.

CORNWALL FIRE BRIGADE RESIGNS

Cornwall, March 3.—Cornwall's volunteer fire brigade resigned Wednesday. For some time past, several years in fact, there has been friction between the brigade and the Town Council over the question of remuneration, and last year the brigade sent in a statement of what they required, a grant of $700 to the brigade, $200 to the chief, new uniforms for the brigade of twenty men and suitable sleeping quarters at the firehall.

A month or so ago they gave notice that unless some agreement was reached by March 1 the brigade would resign, and they have carried out their threat.

GUARDS WANT 8-HOUR DAY

Kingston, March 3.—The guards at the penitentiary are out with a petition for an eight-hour day. They claim they are very much overworked, being at times on duty as long as 36 hours at a stretch.

It is reported that Bill Miner, the famous train robber, will be brought to the penitentiary for life, if brought back from Georgia.

Inspected the Artillery.

Kingston, March 3.—Gen. Otter was here yesterday afternoon and made an inspection of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at the Tete de Pont barracks. Last night he was entertained at the officers' mess.

THE BAR TAX

The bill to amend the license act of Ontario, introduced by Provincial Secretary Hanna, is not favorably received by the hotelmen; neither do the temperance people arise and enthusiastically applaud. It is a rather far-reaching provision which calls for the imposition of a 5 per cent. tax on all bar receipts over $40 a day. The administration of such a provision will need careful working out, as to collect such a proportion monthly from all bars exceeding the $40 receipt mark in Ontario, means the creation of a considerable staff.

This measure, it is estimated, will add $100,000 a year to the provincial receipts. We do not know how it will work out in practice, as it imposes a penalty on the better class hotels. The great evils of the bar do not arise from the saloon catering to the lowest class of trade, as much as from the plate-mirrored, gilded, and handsomely appointed bars that attract the flower of Canadian manhood. In seeking to tax these, the government will probably have the sympathy of most of the common-sense people of the province, but what would appeal still more strongly to the public would be a further effort to cut off the so-called hotels that exist merely for bar purposes. The public wants good hotels, and by making the hotelmen live up to the stiff standard, the Whitney Government will gain more real support from the province than the extremists of both sides could give in combination. The bar tax, while radical, is merely a revenue measure, and we doubt if it will militate against the efficiency of the dining-room service. It should not, in any event. The bar should be only an incidental to the hotel, and not its raison d'etre. In Vancouver, and some places in the west, the bar occupies all the ground floor space, the office being reached by stairways, and in a very remote portion of the building. There "hotels" are merely saloons, and they are responsible for much of the unbridled license, the "wide-open" air of the western cities, something that Ontario does not want to encourage.

The profits on beer are said to be considerably larger than on whiskey. If the 5 per cent. tax discriminates in favor of the beer-trade, it is better for the cause of temperance and sobriety.

1903 AND 1911

In 1903 Hon. Mr. Fielding made some very strong and some very patriotic speeches on the policy of the government to maintain Canada's independence of the United States, and to increase that independence. "Hands off Canada" was the burden of his cry. He was talking about the building of another transcontinental railway, to provide another outlet for the products of the great west, and the National Transcontinental was the result of the dreams. At the beck of the United States, however, he and his confreres have forgotten about those magnificent dreams, about the transcontinental railway that Laurier acclaimed as the great goal of his political career, and have entered into a pact that will put that railway into the same class as the Intercolonial. In view of the attitude of the government on the question of diverting Canadian transportation to the United States railways, thus murdering its own railway infant, let us see what Mr. Fielding so eloquently declaimed in 1893, when Uncle Sammie had not given any sign of a desire to wine and dine Canadian commissioners at Washington. Fielding said:—

"Though we may be independent in a limited degree of our American friends, I think we ought to make it plain to them that we are determined to be even more independent than we are. . . The best possible way to live on friendly terms with our brothers to the south of us is to have them understand that we are determined to be absolutely independent of them. It is true that in some respects we have been more independent of them as regards the bonding privilege than perhaps they were aware of. But we have been told that, because it is of advantage to American railways as well as to the railways of Canada, we need not be alarmed that any change will take place . . If it suited the policy of our American friends to carry out the threats they have repeatedly made of the abolition of the bonding privilege, the fact that such action would be injurious to one particular set of men or to certain railway companies would not prevent them from carrying out that policy. Therefore I say it is desirable that we should give our American brethren to understand that Canada is resolved to work out her independence in these things, that the present proposal will promote this object, and that even if still another railway should be necessary we shall be prepared to construct it. The attitude that the Government has taken upon this subject . . . has already attracted much attention across the border, and there is a much keener appreciation of Canada's independence than ever before. . . . . Therefore, in the interest of Canada to-day, as well as in the future, it is well that we should let our friends across the border understand, that whatever measure of independence of them we have now we shall maintain, and that we shall increase that measure of independence by the line that we are now proposing, and should the necessity arise, we shall not shrink from providing another."

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the west is to be the backyard of Chicago, Uncle Sam won't be the one to refuse to play in it, and share its good things.

Sugar beet growers are said to be greatly benefited by reciprocity. If reciprocity will help us to find a market for our dead beats, then it has some attraction for us.

Hon. Clifford Sifton will not go into British politics. The rumor was apparently the child of the desire. Clifford Sifton will not be disposed of as easily as that.

Mr. and Mrs. Singular, of Owen Sound, have got a decree of separation. We hope to be forgiven for remarking that it is a most Singular proceeding.

A dispatch from Italy tells of a beautiful princess murdered. Princesses are always beautiful, and so are brides. It is a privilege accorded woman at least once in her life-time, that of being beautiful.

The Review tests of sentiment in Peterborough on the subject of reciprocity certainly indicate that opinion here is in nowise different from opinion in other Ontario centres—decidedly and decisively against the agreement.

Some years ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier, then looking forward toward the day when Canada would become a separate nation, made his famous remark about "the ripe fruit falls from the parent tree." This stands good now, but when that happens we will fall into the capacious lap of Uncle Sam, waiting underneath.

Laurier will make a speech on reciprocity on Tuesday or Wednesday next. Something must be done to allay the rising tide, to ward off the great protest, and the Premier feels it is "up to" him. It will take more than Laurier's eloquence to assure the people of Canada that reciprocity is not going to deliver Canada to the United States and its oppressive trusts and monopolies.

The 109 employees of the Toronto Silver Plate Co. have memorialized Sir Wilfrid Laurier against reciprocity. They state that they know they have the backing of all the artisans and mechanics of the country. Be the arguments in favor of the pact what they may, you cannot convince the workingman that reciprocity is anything but a preliminary to wider measures injuring Canada's industrial prosperity.

The promotion of J. D. McDonald, the district passenger agent of the G.T.R. at Toronto, to the assistant general passenger agency in Chicago, will be pleasing news to Mr. McDonald's hosts of friends. A hard-working official, Mr. McDonald has warmly deserved his promotion. He is a painstaking and most capable railroad official, and while his Canadian friends regret to lose him, they feel quite gratified at the recognition of the worthiness of his labors. He will be succeeded in Toronto by A. E. Duff, the agent at Winnipeg.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Uneasy shorts in a scramble to buy wheat forced prices up most of the time to-day. There was also considerable bull campaigning by a number of large traders. Chief help came from a statement that only 8,300,000 bushels remained at present in the hands of Canadian farmers. Closing prices were easy, however, at a net advance of ¼c to ⅝c. Latest figures showed corn ¼c to ⅜c above last night. Oats, off a shade to ⅛c, and hog products at 27½c to 47½c decline.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ½d to ⅝d higher than yesterday on wheat, and ½d to ¾d higher on corn. Berlin wheat closed ⅝c higher, Buda Pest 1⅛c lower.

MONTREAL, March 2.—There was considerable demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, there being orders in the market for 750,000 bushels, but as prices in the Winnipeg market advanced 2c per bushel from the low point yesterday, and foreign bids only came ⅜c per bushel higher, no business was worked. Oats were quiet and steady. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour was larger, and as bids in some cases were 3d to 6d per sack higher, a few sales were made. The local and country demand continues quiet. Rolled oats have scored a sharp decline in prices owing to recent weakness in oats.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"You ought to understand everything better now, my dear M. Darzac; both the strange coldness with which you were treated occasionally and also the fits of remorseful tenderness which in the doubt which filled her brain would impel Mme. Darzac to surround you with every evidence of attention and affection. I have fancied that you must have discovered that whenever Mme. Darzac looked at you she could not in spite of herself chase from her mind the image of Larsan, and consequently it was not the belief that she would have known it which removed my suspicions, since in spite of herself she entertained the fear all the while that you and Larsan were one. No, no; my suspicions were removed by another cause."

"They might have been removed," exclaimed M. Darzac at once ironically and despairingly—"they might have been removed by the simple course of reasoning that if I had been Larsan, having her for my wife, I would have had every cause for making her believe in Larsan's death. And I would have never resuscitated myself. Was it not upon the day that Larsan returned to earth that I lost Mathilde?"

"Pardon, monsieur, pardon!" replied Rouletabille, whose face had grown as white as a sheet. "You are abandoning now, if I may say so, the directions of pure reason. The facts which you mentioned show us just the contrary of that which you believe we should see. For my part, it seems to me that when one has a wife who believes or who comes very near to believing that one is Larsan one has every interest in showing her that Larsan exists outside of oneself!"

As Rouletabille uttered these words the Lady in Black, supporting herself by groping with her hands against the wall as she walked, came stumblingly to the side of Rouletabille and devoured with her eyes the face of Darzac, which had grown frightfully harsh and strained. The young man imperturbably went on:

"And, if you had an interest in showing her that Larsan existed elsewhere than in your body, there arose an exigency in which that interest was transformed into an immediate necessity. Imagine—I say imagine, M. Darzac, that you had really brought Larsan to life once—once only—in spite of yourself, in your own rooms, before the eyes of Professor Stangerson's daughter, and you will be, I repeat, under the necessity of bringing him to life again and yet again, outside of yourself, in order to prove to your wife that the Larsan whom she has seen returned to life is not you! Ah, calm yourself, my dear M. Darzac, I entreat you. Have I not told you that my suspicion has been banished—completely banished? See, then, where I am obliged to come in considering this hypothesis as realized (these are the procedures of mathematics which you know better than I—you who are a scholar)—in considering, as I said, as realized the hypothesis that you are the counterfeit Darzac, the one who hides Larsan. According to my reasoning, then, you are Larsan! And I asked myself what could have happened in the railway station at Bourg to make you appear in the form of Larsan before the eyes of your wife."

He paused for a moment, but Darzac did not utter a word.

"As you were saying, M. Darzac," Rouletabille went on, "it was because of this apparition of Larsan that your cup of happiness was dashed empty to the ground. Therefore, if this resurrection should not have been voluntary, there is only one other way in which it could have happened—through accident. And now just let us consider how this latter supposition clears up the entire situation. Oh, I have spent a lot of thought upon the incident at Bourg. You see, I am still reasoning out the problem. You (the you who is Larsan, be it understood) are at Bourg in the buffet. You believe that your wife is waiting for you somewhere in the station, as she told you she would do. After having finished your letters you wish to go to your compartment in the car in order to attend to some detail of your toilet or to cast a critical eye over your disguise to see if in any point it might be lacking. You think to yourself, 'A few more hours of this comedy and we shall have passed the frontier, she will be all my own, entirely alone with me, and I will throw aside this mask.' You cast away your assumed character and your disguise. You relieve yourself of the false beard and the spectacles, and at that very moment the door of the section opens. Your wife, thrown into a spasm of terror at the sight of Larsan's smooth, beardless face in the glass, does not wait to make any further investigation and rushes out into the night, her screams drowned by the noise of another train. You comprehend the danger at once. You realize that everything is lost unless you can immediately arrange matters so that your wife shall see Darzac somewhere else. You quickly resume the mask; you hurry out of the compartment and reach the buffet by a shorter route than that taken by your wife, who rushes there to look for you. She finds you standing up. You have not even had time enough to seat yourself before she enters. Is everything safe now? Alas, no! Your troubles are only beginning, for the fearful thought that you may be at one and the same time both Darzac and Larsan will not leave her mind. Upon the platform of the station, while passing beneath the gas jet, she casts a frightened glance at you, lets go your hand and runs wildly into the office of the station master.

"You read her thought as though she had spoken it. The abominable idea must be banished without a moment's delay. You quit the office, leaving the lady in the care of the superintendent, and immediately return, closing the door quickly, seeking to give the impression that you, too, have seen Larsan. In order to ease her mind and also for the purpose of deceiving us all in case she dared reveal her suspicions to any one, you are the first to warn me that something unforeseen has happened—to send me a dispatch. See how clear and plain as the day your every act becomes! You cannot refuse to take her to rejoin her father. She would go without you. And, since nothing is yet really lost, you have the hope that everything may be regained. In the course of the journey your wife continues to have alternating periods of faith in you and of fear of you. She gives you her revolver in a sort of half delirium, which might sum itself up in some such phrase as this: 'If he is Darzac, let him protect me; if he is Larsan, let him kill me! But in pity let me know which he is.' At Rochers Rouges you realized once more how utterly she had withdrawn herself from you, and in order to reassure her as to your identity you showed her Larsan again. See how in accordance with reason such a proceeding would be, my dear Darzac! Every fact would fit perfectly into every other under the supposition which I am placing before you. There is not a single point up to your appearance as Larsan at Mentone, during your journey as Darzac to Cannes, at the time when you came to meet us, which cannot be explained in the easiest way imaginable. You had taken the train at Mentone-Garavan before the eyes of your friends, but you alighted from the train at the next station, which is Mentone, and there, after a short stay for the purpose of altering your looks, you appeared in the image of Larsan to the same friends who were promenading in the gardens at Mentone. The following train brought you to Cannes, where you met Sainclair and myself. Only, as you had on this occasion the vexation of hearing from the lips of Arthur Rance when he met us at the station at Nice the news that Mme. Darzac had not on this occasion caught sight of Larsan, you were under the necessity that same evening of showing her Larsan under the very windows of the square tower, standing erect in the prow of Tullio's boat. So, you see, my dear Darzac, how even those things which appear most complicated would have become entirely simple and logically explicable if by chance my suspicions should have been confirmed."

At these words I myself, who had seen and touched "the map of Australia," was unable to repress a shudder as I looked pityingly at Darzac, just as one might look at some poor man who is on the point of becoming the victim of some hideous judicial error.

"But, since you no longer have these suspicions, monsieur," exclaimed Darzac, his intonation singularly calm in spite of the fact that his voice was raised, "I should be glad to know, after all this exercise of your talent of reasoning, what could have driven them away?"

"In order to have them driven away, monsieur, one thing was essential—an absolute certitude! And I found it—a simple but conclusive proof which showed me in a manner complete and undeniable which of the two manifestations of Darzac was in reality Larsan. That proof, monsieur, was, happily, furnished me by yourself at the very moment when you closed the circle—the circle in which there had been found the 'body too many!'—the time when, after having sworn that which was the truth, that you had drawn the bolt of your apartment as soon as you had entered your sleeping room, you had lied to us in concealing from us that you had entered that room at 6 o'clock instead of at 5 o'clock as Pere Bernier said and as we ourselves could have proved. You were then the only person except myself who knew that the Darzac who had entered at 5 o'clock and of whom we had spoken to you as yourself was in reality another man. But you said nothing. And you need not pretend that you did not attach any importance to that hour of 5 o'clock, since it explained everything to you—since it told you that another Darzac than yourself—the true Robert Darzac—had come into the square tower at that time. And, after your false expressions of astonishment, how quiet you kept! Your very silence lied to us! And what interest could the true Darzac have in concealing that another Darzac, who might be Larsan, had come in before you had and was hiding in the square tower? Larsan was the only one who was interested in hiding from us that there was another manifestation of Darzac than the one he himself bore! Of the two manifestations of Darzac the false must have necessarily been that one which lied! Thus my suspicions were driven away by certainty. You are Larsan! And the man who was hidden behind the panel was Darzac!"

"You lie!" shouted the man (I could not even yet believe him to be Larsan), hurling himself upon Rouletabille.

But none of us stirred a finger, and Rouletabille, who had lost nothing of his calm demeanor, extended his arm toward the panel and said:

"He is behind the panel now!"

New York State Wants Public Power.

Albany, March 2.—A bill directing the State Water Supply Commission to make an immediate investigation of the practicability of developing water power at Niagara Falls and in the Niagara River, and to obtain the consent of the Federal Government, if necessary and possible, to the development of such power by the state, was introduced by Assemblyman Lareau.

Maine's Vote on Prohibition.

Augusta, Me., March 2.—Re-submission to the vote of the people of Maine of the amendment to the state constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, now lacks only the signature of the governor before being put into effect. The matter will then come before the people at a special election to be held next September.

G.T.R. Will Pay.

Kingston, March 2.—The G.T.R. has agreed to pay all damages in the smash-up between a Kingston and Pembroke train and the Suburban G.T.R. train at Diamond Crossing. No investigation will be held.

Federal Union Movement.

Toronto, March 3.—That the movement aiming at federal rather than organic union of the churches is one to be seriously reckoned with, was made clear by the character of the meeting held in the Church House of New St. Andrew's, King street, yesterday afternoon, when a permanent organization, to be known as the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches, was formed. The attendance was larger and representative, including many elders, not only of Toronto, but outside districts. Dr. McLeod of Barrie again presided, and Rev. A. H. McGillivray acted as secretary.

Big Hotel Scheme.

Montreal, March 3.—E. H. Ford, Canadian manager of the Ford Iron Co., and representing an English syndicate, announced yesterday that they will spend $1,250,000 in building summer hotels outside the prominent cities of the Dominion. They have a property at Senneville, near Montreal, and opposite Sir Edward Coluston's property, and the hotel will be ready for occupation this summer.

Toronto, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Vancouver are included in the list of cities in which agents are now looking for a site.

Want to Stay In Canada.

Kingston, March 3.—United States Consul Johnston has been taking evidence of captains and engineers who claim American citizenship, but reside in Canada. Some of them are trying to get the United States Government to re-issue licenses to them, allowing to continue their residence here. It is scarcely likely the request will be granted. Some of the captains made an appeal to Hon. Mr. Harty to take up the matter with the Dominion authorities.

Vote for Church Union.

Winnipeg, March 2.—The Presbytery of Winnipeg, by a vote of 46 to 7, went on record yesterday in favor of the basis of the church union as handed down by the general assembly. The vote followed a long discussion and the minority represented those who desired the question to be sent down to congregations and sessions.

Immigrant With Amati Violin.

Montreal, March 1.—Excitement was caused at the Windsor Station yesterday by finding what is believed to be a genuine "Amati" violin. It was brought over from Italy by some immigrant. It bears inside the label "Nickolaus Aamtus Fecit Cremona, 1636."

Local dealers estimate the value all the way from $100 to $3,000.

Diphtheria Infection Spreads.

Baltimore, March 1.—The Church Home and Infirmary, an Episcopalian institution, near the John Hopkins Hospital, was yesterday closed to patients and visitors, following the discovery that three of the nurses had diphtheria.

New Site For Militia Camp.

London, March 2.—The City Council has an option on the McArthur farm for a new site for militia camp grounds. London must have all branches of the service train here, and there is not enough room at Carling Heights.

Only Two Operators Out.

Montreal, March 1.—As far as can be learned but two men have left the local operating room of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. No American operators have been brought in.

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment!

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years! And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

GOOD MEETING OF POULTRY ASS'N

Prof. Graham May be Here for April Meteing

The first regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association was held last night with a good attendance and the usual enthusiasm that prevails at all the meetings of the association was again in evidence.

There were many good suggestions introduced for the welfare of the association which has been affiliated with the Federation of local poultry associations of Ontario. An endeavor will be made to have Prof. Graham and his lantern views here for the April meeting.

A good class of birds were in competition at the meeting last night, Black Minorcas carrying off the honors. The birds were exhibited by Messrs. R. D. Robson and George Buller.

Sale of Cattle

The management of the House of Refuge at Lakefield recently made a sale of beef cattle, consisting of three steers, for the handsome sum of $216. The cattle weighed 3600 pounds, and when dressed 2,073 pounds, the heaviest weighing 721 pounds, their age being under 23 months. Mr. John Waldon was the prrchaser.

POLICEMEN APPOINTED

John Brown and J. W. Middleton Were Accepted by Police Commissioners

The Board of Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon and accepted the applications of John Brown and J. W. Middleton, for positions on the local police force.

The salary is $500 per year, and the men will report to Chief Thompson, March 15th.

Both are likely looking officers. Brown comes from England with good recommendations. He has served in the Boer war. He is unmarried.

Middleton moved from this city from Warsaw, where he was a baker. He has served in the militia and is a married man.

There were present at the meeting the chairman, Judge Huycke; Police Magistrate Dumble, Mayor Morrow and Chief Thompson.

FELL ON THE STREET IN FAINT

Englishman Suddenly Collapsed After An Evening Meal

There was great excitement in front of the Peterborough Lunch about 11.30 o'clock last night when an Englishman, about 30 years of age, fell unconscious to the hard pavement.

A crowd quickly gathered and he was carried into the restaurant. After about ten minutes he was revived again and was able to proceed home.

He had taken supper in the Peterborough Lunch and as he protably eat a little more than usual, he was seized with an epileptic fit. His head was a little sore after the fall, but no other injuries were sustained. The proprietor telephoned for a physician but the man had recovered before the medical man arrived. Upon hearing of a doctor coming, he made his hasty exit.

YOUNG LADIES TO DEBATE ON CLUBS

Are They Beneficial to a Community? — St. Peters' Ladies' Literary

The regular meeting of the St. Peter's Ladies' Literary Society, will be held this (Friday) evening at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. An excellent program, the chief feature of which will be a debate between the Normal school and the Literary Society, is promised. The subject of the debate is "Resolved that clubs are beneficial to a community." The affirmative will be taken by Miss Gertrude Day and Miss Irene Gibson of the Normal school, while the negative will be upheld by Miss Eileen Coughlin and Miss Ethel Hayes, of the society. This will be a very interesting and close contest and a large attendance is expected. A good musical program will also be presented.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD MEETING

Janitor Asked for an Increase of Salary—Other Business

At the regular meeting of the Public Library Board last evening there were present Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, chairman; A. Mowat, H. R. H. Kenner, D. Walker, J. Corkery, H. Belcher and Dr. McNulty.

A communication from H. Edmondson, who asked for authority to cart away the ashes from the library at 40 cents a load, was referred to the Property Committee, with power to act.

John Matheson, the janitor, applied for an increase in his salary. Referred to Property Committee.

The W. T. U. askedf or a room in the Library for holding their meetings, and the request was granted.

A Tudor Craig, secretary of the Incorporated Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society, of 122 Brompston Road, London, S. W. England, wrote advising the Board that a copy of the army Pageant Book had been forwarded, and expressing the hope that the Board would forward the sum of three shillings, being the cost of the book and postage. The secretary-treasurer was authorized to send the amount.

This book contains much interesting matter relative to soldiers and sailors.

Following a discussion on lighting it was decided that the chairman of the Property Committee be authorized to make a contract with the Otonabee Power Company for lighting the basement and main floor, at $132 per year, and the lighting upstairs be by metre.

PRETTY MUSIC SUNG IN GODDESS OF LIBERTY

"The Goddess of Liberty," which Mort H. Singer sends to the Grand Opera House on Monday, March 6th, has as its prima donna a pretty little lady, by name Violet Seaton, who possesses a great big voice that has been praised by the greatest masters of the day. Miss Seaton was very ambitious to get into grand opera, but when Mort H. Singer, her manager, showed her the score of "The Goddess of Liberty," and informed her that the song, "Please Keep Me Young in Your Heart," was to be sung by her, she gave up her grand opera aspirations and joined Mr. Singer's company. In this song and also in "If All the Moons Were Honeymoons" Miss Seaton is given an opportunity of displaying her great vocal charms. Miss Seaton is a comely young lady and just the ideal one for the niche she occupies in "the Goddess of Liberty."

G. H. HOWSON WAS ON THE LOOKOUT

Wasn't Neglecting His Duty Towards Incoming Parties

A paragraph appeared in yesterday morning's issue of the Times insinuating that G.H. Howson the immigration agent was neglectful of his duties in not meeting at the station the parties who arrived from England. The Review is perfectly acquainted with the facts of the case and can truthfully say that Mr. Howson was in no way to blame in the matter.

Mr. Howson went down to Belleville in quest of the family, after waiting a day overtime here, as he was due to leave Peterborough on an inspection of weights and measures in this district.

He had also secured a place for the husband, who unfortunately had broken his arm in Belleville. The farmer who had spoken for him on his arrival here drove in nine miles on Saturday for the man, who did not show up.

The immigration officer was not in the slightest way responsible for the affair and the statement to the Times is not in the least warranted or justified.

It is a Good Show

The Kingston Standard has the following to say of "A Stubborn Cinderella. Those who had the pleasure of witnessing "A Stubborn Cinderella," which appeared for the first time in this city at the Grand last night, were all equally enthusiastic in their praise of this bright musical play. It has plenty of clean, good-natured, pungent humor and jest, while the score is full of singing and rises above the level of its kind.

Local Clergymen at Lakefield

During the season of lent there will be service on Tuesday afternoons at 4.30 o'clock in St. John the Baptist church. On Wednesday evenings at 7.30 there will be special preachers. Rev. Charles Carpenter, of Peterborough, was the preacher on Ash Wednesday. Next Wednesday, Rev. H. R. Trumpour, of All Saints' church, Peterborough, will preach.—Lakefield News.

Mr. Trumpour's Name

Referring to an editorial which appeared in our issue of February 16th regarding Rev. H. R. Trumpour, of Peterborough, in which we hinted that his name was a corruption of the French word "trompeur," (thief, liar) we beg to state that we have since received a letter from Rev. Mr. Trompour, explaining that his name is not French but Dutch, and so we gladly make the required explanation for the satisfaction of whomsoever it may concern.—Catholic Register.

Eight hundred electrical workers, employed by the Chicago Telephone Company, struck for a closed shop.

A TUNEFUL MUSICAL COMEDY

Lots of Catchy Music in "Stubborn Cinderella"—Many Laughs Throughout the Comedy—Don't Miss Seeing It To-night.

Those who enjoy a rollicking musical comedy, with lots of laugh and lots of good catchy music should not fail to see the "Stubborn Cinderella" at the Grand Opera House this evening. There have not been as many musical comedies heard in the city this year, as there have been in other seasons, so that when a good one comes along it is all the more enjoyable for that reason.

The musical score is full of melodies that stay with you—you find yourself humming or whistling them all day long. Some of the best of the songs are "What's the Use," "Don't Be Cross With Me," "Adois Senorita," "When You First Kiss the Last Girl You Love."

The stage settings are very elaborate and many of the effects are entirely new and pleasing. No expense has been spared to make the comedy one of the finest on the road.

The company have been playing to crowded houses all through the west. A despatch was received from Kingston this morning saying that the play was the best that has been there for some time. Although there has been a big advance sale there are still some good seats left at all prices.

If you want to spend a jolly evening and have a good laugh don't miss seeing "A Stubborn Cinderella."

The popular English Prima Dona, MISS VIOLET SEATON, in Mort. H. Singer's splendid musical success, "The Goddess of Liberty," which comes to The Grand Monday, March 6.

C.G.E. WORKMAN MET WITH ACCIDENT THAT WAS FATAL

James Borland Died in Hospital This Morning

James Borland, an employee of the C.G.E. met with a fatal accident yesterday afternoon.

While at work in the wire department he became entangled in a coil of wire and was thrown against a revolving wheel. Before the machinery could be stopped he was very severely injured. His right leg sustained a compound fracture below the knee and it was also much bruised. One bone was broken in two places and another in one.

Dr. Young was called at 3 o'clock and had the sufferer removed to the Nicholls hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance. He was suffering too much from shock to be operated on at that time, but recovered sufficiently about 7 o'clock. After the operation he seemed to be getting better, but at about 4 o'clock this morning his heart began to fail and he died from a secondary shock.

Deceased, who was unmarried, was about 40 years of age and lived with his widowed mother on Victoria avenue.

Besides his mother, the survivors are three brothers, Alfred, of Kansack, Sask.; Lewis, of Calgary, and Gilbert, of Peterborough.

The news of his death will be learned with regret by his many friends and fellow employees as he was always very popular among them.

Funeral arrangements are not yet made.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

BOXING NO LONGER BRUTAL

Hugh McIntosh, the boxing promoter, who handled the Burns-Johnson fight in Sydney two years ago, and who promoted the Lang-Langford fight in London this week, considers that the day when boxing is considered a brutal and demoralizing sport is rapidly passing.

"Boxing is no longer a brutal pastime," he says. "In the old days of the prize ring the case was very different, I am ready to admit. The men had a hard system of training. They pickled their heads and faces so as to be fit to endure injuries and to inflict severe punishment as well. A round terminated with a knockdown or a fall, after which there was a minute's rest. Nowadays a round is of two, three or four minutes' duration. If a man is knocked down and cannot arise at the expiration of ten seconds his opponent wins. Under the old rules boxing and wrestling combined make it a rough and tumble fight, and it was little wonder that the men were marked.

"But what do we find with our present day boxers? The only mark in the face carried by Tommy Burns is a scar caused by a blow received when playing lacrosse. Jack Johnson has been boxing for fourteen years and is left unmarked. Lang had his nose broken in his very first contest, but that is the only mark he carries.

"Corbett shows no traces of his many contests. Neither does Fitzsimmons. Then there is Jimmy Britt, who has met men like Joe Gans, and Battling Nelson. He has not a mark upon his face or ears to show that he has done any boxing at all.

"As a matter of fact the size of the gloves used in the championship contests does not allow a man to be marked or injured. These gloves are six ounces in place of the four ounces. We tried them in Australia with the big men and we found they were a success.

"With gloves of this size anything approaching brutality is impossible. One man cannot cut his opponent, but he can win on points. To mark a man is practically an impossibility, for Bombardier Wells was almost beaten on two occasions, and yet he never had a black eye.

"Then comes the matter of training, for a boxer, like an athlete, must be in the best of health if he wishes to secure success. Unlike the old boxer, the men to-day eat what they fancy and lead a regular everyday life.

"That modern boxing is by no means brutal is also proved by the fact that all the latest championship contests have gone for ten, fifteen and twenty rounds, and that on the day following the men show no sign of punishment. They are healthy and skilful and they cannot be other owing to the preparation they undergo."

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The two games of basketball played on the local floor yesterday were good contests. The first, between the Collegiate five and the Peterborough Business College, resulted in a win for the Collegiate team. Score, 37 to 9.

The second game was between teams from the junior school boys' class and the business boys' class. It was a most interesting game to watch. the first half ending 5 to 2 in favor of the juniors. Score, Juniors 19, Business Boys 9. These two teams will meet again next Thursday night at 7.15 for a return game, when the winners of this series will go up against Mr. Tait's bunch of educationalists.

Every member of the junior class is requested to put in an appearance at class to-morrow morning, and also remember that those who do not turn out to get in readiness for the closing exercises will have to look on, instead of taking part in the fun on March 24th.

CITY LEAGUE BASKETBALL.

Two fast games of basketball will be played in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium to-night, when the Fairies meet the Giants and the Pirates clash with the Ponies. As all four teams are playing good ball two games worth going some distance to see will result.

EASY WIN FOR LOCALS

Finished Five to the Good in Exhibition Game With T.A.A.C.

Half-time Score Was 6-3 and Final Count 11-6

The local intermediates while up against strong opposition at times in the game with T.A.A.C. last night, brought another season to a close with a fancy victory, the score being 11—6. The boys, and particularly Derocher, made a great showing and can now tack ribbons on their sticks and put their footwear in safe keeping till another year comes round.

The attendance was small. The request of a large number of fans for another game was apparently made in a hurry. It was a poor house for a team that has given Peterborough such classy hockey this winter.

The game was interesting at all stages While the visitors were weak at combination work they were worthy opponents at the individual end and kept the locals going at a fast clip. Their style of play, however, was not effective in the pinches. While Babe Buckhart, or the men on the line could work the puck up to the local defence, there they generally stopped for what Heffernan and Bond Bond missed went to Derocher for safe keeping. And Laj. was certainly there with his peekers. He had lots of work to do and he did it well, in fact it was probably his best exhibition of goaltending of the season and he has played some stellar games.

T.A.A.C. had several recruits on the lineup, but the regulars who were on hand didn't cause any of the fans to blink. As a senior O.H.A. aggregation the team didn't produce the goods, their shooting while hard and consistent being every other thing but on the nets and this weakness was shown on all kinds of chances. Short shots and hurry up attempts were aimed at Derocher and it was with these he remained steady and blocked in grand style. Buckhart worked hard at cover as did also McMurchy at point and Addison, the goaltender of the Junior Simcoes. Ken Crane, also of the Simcoes, was not in the best of condition, but was on the job with enough class to land two tallies, The line had the speed but the locals had just a trifle more and worked more effectively. Ray and Park were going strong all the time, while Kelly and Sarels handled the boards in a manner that played havoc with the good intentions of their checks. The quartet checked and combined for plays that placed the puck in the nets as it should be. Heffernan and Bond worked as smoothly as could be desired and made all kinds of trouble for the opposing rushers.

The teams were;

T.A.A.C—Goal, Addison; point, McMurchy; cover, Burkhart, rover, Crane and Dion; centre, McCreath; right, Brown; left, McKee.

Peterborough—Goal, Derocher; point, Bond; cover, Heffernan; rover, Ray; centre, Park; right, Sarels; left, Kelly.

Referee—W. O'Brien.

Scoring summary;—

1—T.A.A.C., Crane, 6.00.
2—Peterborough, Park, 2.00.
3—Peterborough, Ray, 2.00.
4—Peterborough, Heffernan, 1.00.
5—Peterborough, Kelly.
6—T.A.A.C., McCreath, 4.00.
7—T.A.A.C., Buckhart, 3.00.
8—Peterborough, Heffernan, .30
9—Peterborough, Park, 4.00.

SECOND HALF.

10—T.A.A.C., Crane, 5.00.
11—Peterborough, Park, 3.00.
12—T.A.A.C., Brown, 1.00.
13—Peterborough, Kelly, 6.00.

ALL STARS MAY COME

Picked Aggregation From Toronto to Meet the Locals

After all it is possible that another game of fast hockey will be seen here next week with an All-Star aggregation from Toronto meeting the locals.

Billie Breen is endeavoring to make the arrangements at the Toronto end, and the team is to be selected by Harvey Sproule.

The team would be the strongest available, and the pick of the players of the Argos and Parkdale who meet in the final for the Senior O.H.A. championship to-morrow night would be included. Kernel Ridpath, Jakey Moore and others whom the fans would like to see in action here, would be on the lineup.

BASEBALL

Baltimore, March 1—Manager Joe Kelley of the Toronto club is biding his time at his home here, until the date arrives for his team to report. This date is March 18, and the place will be in Washington, from where the team will leave that night for Macon, Ga. Kelley is quite enthusiastic over his 1911 material, and is confident that every man will show up to good advantage. While Kelley admits that Keeler has not yet actually signed a contract, he says there will be no trouble about this small matter as "Wee Willie" is to accompany the team south for practice. Keeler will probably not sign until he works out awhile in and around Macon.

Kelly has arranged a number of exhibition games, and his last tryout before he opens up the Eastern League season here will be at Wilkesbarre, Pa. He will bring his team direct from that city to Baltimore.

The popular manager is still looking for another pitcher and an outfielder. He says he has his eye on several men, but is averse to giving out their names at this time for fear there might be some hitch. He will lose catcher Tonneman, as he belongs to Boston, but Kellly believes he can get along without him, as he has several other good men upon whom to rely.

Kelly was pleased with the showing made by his former prize pitcher Dick Rudolph, in Dallas, Tex., on Saturday. Kelly said: "He is a clever boy, and ought to make good with the Giants. When he strikes his stride he will be a great help to McGaw.

Kelley volunteered the information that he understood catcher Beckendorf of Detroit would be seen with Buffalo this season. Jennings has stated that he would let the veteran catcher go.

DOM-OTTAWA WON WITH 11-3 SCORE

Final Bank League Contest This Saturday

In the Bank League, the Royal Commerce aggregation was decisively defeated by the Dominion-Ottawa septet last evening, by the score of 11 to 3. The winners are now tied with the Montreal team for the championship, and the final, which will be played Saturday evening, promises to be the fastest of the season.

The game was never much in doubt though some of the losers played very good hockey, As a couple of the players did not put in an appearance, each team played two men short. For the winners, Ross, Cook, and Thompson were conspicuous, while for the losers, Shields and Hatton were the shining lights. Cook scored the first three goals of the game. Hatton and Shields each beat Sheffield for Counters, but Ross and Thompson made the score 5 3 before half time.

After the resting period, Shields scored on a nice rush from the face off, and that was the last time the losers found the nets.

The teams were—

Royal-Commerce— Harper, Hatton, McClelland, Shields, McCartney.

Dominion Ottawa—Sheffield, Quinlan, Ross, Thompson, Cook.

SPECIAL COMING THROUGH HERE

With Orillia Juniors on Monday Night

Chris. Graham, of the Oriental, received word to-day from the manager of the Orillia juniors, T. W. Robins, who stated that the team would travel to Kingston for the return game Monday night in a special car, leaving Orillia at nine o'clock in the morning and arriving at Peterborough at twelve o'clock. Manager Robins informed Mr. Graham that a very low rate of $2.35 from Peterborough to Kingston and return would be given. The train will be made up of vestibule coaches and a special sleeper will be attached.

He is confident that his juniors, who gave Frontenacs their first defeat last night, can hold their lead and capture the championship Monday night.

FRONTENACS DEFEATED

Were One Behind at Orillia With Score at 6-5

Orillia, Ont., March 2.—Orillia's team of kids established a lead of one goal over the redoubtable Frontenacs, of Kingston in the first of the home-and-home games in the finals for the junior championship of the O.H.A. here this evening.

It was the best game of hockey ever seen here. The score, 6 to 5, is a very fair indication of the play. The Frontenacs started off with a rush and for a few minutes had the best of the play, scoring the first goal. But the young Orillias soon struck their gait, and from the end of the first ten minutes on they gave the champions as good as they got, and a little better. The play was lightning fast but clean throughout and there were very few penalties. The checking was hard and close on both sides, and there was little chance for combination. The Orillias' made the best showing in this regard, while the Frontenacs depended on terrific rushes.

After the Frontenacs had secured the first goal, the home team woke up and notched the next two. Then Kingston got two more, and Orillia two, leaving the score at half time 4 to 3 in favor of the home team. In the second half the Frontenacs were again the first to score, but the home team got the next two. Kingston scored the last goal from a scrimmage in front of the Orillia goal. The champions made desperate efforts to even the score, but were unsuccessful. The Orillia lads had completely recovered from the strange lethargy which overcame them and brought about their defeat at Preston, and every man played a star game. Ernie Jupp at centre again divided the honors with his brother. Love, for the most brilliant game. The defence, Cooke and Macnab, were steady as rocks, and repeatedly broke up the Kingston rushes. Davidson, the star cover point of the Frontenacs, found before the game was far advanced that he could not carry the puck up the rink as he was accustomed. Unfortunately, he received a severe cut in the face, and played the latter half of the game under some disadvantage.

Wettlauffer, of Berlin, made an excellent referee, and had no difficulty in keeping the game in hand.

The biggest crowd ever seen at a hokey game here yelled itself hoarse with excitement and enthusiasm. The town has gone hockey mad, and little else will be talked of until the final game at Kingston on Monday night is over.

The line-up:—

Orillia—Goal, Corbould; point, R. Cooke; cover point, K. Macnab; rover, Butterfield; centre, E. Jupp; right wing, L. Jupp; left wing, P. Thornton.

SPORT TALK

Providence, R.I., February 29.—The activity of the Toronto and Rochester managements and the strong teams signed in those cities, as well as in other cities of the Eastern League are in striking contrast to the situation here, and local fans are going to unusual lengths in demonstrating their dissatisfaction.

The regulars, without whom there would be no team, park or anything else, figure that they have a right to get a run for their money. A section of them, however, are willing to stand by and say nothing, and at the same time spend money at the box office. The more demonstrative of the complainants, however, are howling. They are sore because the club is owned in Boston by men who do not take a real live interest in the team. One of the local newspapers is espousing the cause of the fans, and charges that the management has gathered a bunch of bush leaguers and high school boys, who won't have a chance to make good in Eastern League company.

Secretary Crow, of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada received by cable the formal invitation to Canada to be represented at the festival of the Empire in England next summer. The cable reads as follows:

"The Empire Festival Council invites ten of the best representatives of Canadian Athletics to the Coronation competitions, v. the same number from Australia, South Africa and Great Britain. The program of athletics will be the 100, 200, 880, yards, 120 yards hurdles, and one mile run, Boxing (heavyweight) lawn tennis (singles) swimming, (100 yards and one mile,) wrestling (catch-as-catch-can, middle-weight.)

The east part of the Empire is to nominate one representative for each event and that part scoring the lowest number of points to win the Empire trophy and other prizes. Twenty-five per cent reduction allowed teams on second-class advertised return fares. Pray accept invitation and communicate contents to interested governing bodies. Letter follows;"

ORANGE CORNERS PRESENTATION

Mr. And Mrs. Henry Jackson Given Two Oak Chairs by Their Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson are leaving Orange Corners, and their many friends and neighbors expressed their esteem on Monday evening in a tangible way, when about forty guests gathered at their home and presented them with two handsome oak rocking chairs. The following address was read by Walter Megee—

Orange Corners, Feb. 27, 1911.

To Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson. Emily.

Dear Friends,—It is with feelings of sincere regret that your many friends and neighbors have learned that owing to your work you find it necessary to leave us, and as a consequence sever your connection with our church and other societies, with which you have for many years been identified.

As we gather here this evening, memories of many happy and profitable meetings and associations we have spent together come up fresh before us, and while we hope that the change you are about to make may be for you both the most advantageous, yet we cannot think of such a move without feeling that your presence will be greatly missed from the church and different societies. You may rest assured that you will be followed to your city home by the sincerest wishes of your many friends and neighbors of this place, where you have spent so many enjoyable years. You will please accept these two chairs as a slight token of the high esteem in which you are held by your Orange Corner friends and neighbors. We trust that you may both spend many happy hours in them.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.

W. J. JACKSON.
A. HENRY.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, although taken by surprise, made a suitable reply, thanking their friends for their kindness.

The evening was spent in games, music and other amusements, after which the crowd dispersed, wishing them success and happiness in their new home.

Mrs. J. Hopwood paid a visit to Lindsay friends last week.

A pleasant time was spent at the home of W. J. Findley last Friday evening, when about fifty of their friends spent the night in dancing. Everyone present reports an enjoyable time.

We are sorry to say that James Elliot has been ill for the past few days. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Samuel Try is moving from our corner, and on the eve of his departure gave a very enjoyable party to about fifty of his friends on Monday night. The time was spent in a most pleasant dance.

THE BOY SCOUTS WILL INCREASE

Ontario Will Have 10,000 Scouts by Next September

Ottawa, March 3.—"There will be 10,000 boy scouts in Ontario by next September," was the statement of different members of the Ontario council and others, at the annual meeting of the Dominion organization yesterday. In every province, except Manitoba the Boy Scout movement has been organized with provincial councils and one is in course of organization there as well. In each province the movement is to be pushed during the coming summer and it is expected that in each there will be corresponding success with Ontario.

The annual meeting was held in the railway committee rooms of the house of commons yesterday afternoon. Earl Grey, the chief scout, was present. Lt.-Col. Sherwood, Dominion commissioner, presided and many of the commissioners from other parts of the country were there as well. On all sides the work is being carried on with success. Earl Grey said that there was not much use praising up the movement to the meeting because he would be preaching only to the converted. However he outlined the objects briefly and showed how it tended to better citizenship. He said that April 23rd was to be a banner day for the scout movement. April 23rd was St. George's day but it was also Shakespeare's day and the day on which Canada gave a preferential tarifff to British goods from all parts of the Empire It was therefore an appropriate day for a rally day for the movement. He referred to the deep interest the Duke of Connaught took in the movement and hoped that when his Royal Highness arrived in Canada in the autumn there would be a strong force of scouts formed.

At Roxbury, Mass., a vat containing several hundred gallons of beer burst, and hurled three workmen violently against the walls of the building. One had his skkull fractured.

CLOTHES BILL IS ONLY $10 A YEAR

Ane Then Says She Always Dresses Well

Boston, March 1.—That $16 a year is enough for a woman to dress well on is the seemingly absurd assertion of Mrs. Mary W. Shattuck, seventy-six years old, of Groton, Mass. She says she has dressed well on $10 a year for fifty-three years. Moreover Mrs. Shattuck has long been admitted to be an exceedingly well attired neatly gowned woman.

Mrs. Shattuck furnishes this detailed account of her wardrobe and how she has managed to live for fifty-three years, since the day she became a bride, on an average sum of $10 a year: Black satin muff and stole, three bonnets, two shawls, black broadcloth cloak, lined with black satin; thin every day coat for summer and winter wear, one best black corded silk dress, two white waists, four wrappers, one pair white kid and one pair black lisle gloves, two pairs of rubbers, three pairs hand knitted stockings, four pairs of summer stockings and other necessary clothing.

NORTH BURLEIGH

The weather has been fine for the past week. A great number of people are recovering from a severe attack of La Grippe.

Miss Jennie Wilson intends leaving shortly for Buffalo, to visit her aunt.

Misses Annie Coones and Alice McFadden were the guests of Miss Elma Hales.

Mr. Thomas Hales had the luck to capture another fine lyinx.

We are sorry to hear of the illness of Gordon Kilborn.

The Hendren Bro's have taken their departure from our midst.

Mr. John McFadden has returned home from camp with a bad cold.

Wm. Staples will feel lonely after loosing his valuable dog, Collie Bruce

A number of young people spent a sociable evening at the home of Mrs. R. Hales.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ingram of Lakefield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra McFadden.

We are hoping soon for the recovery of Mrs. McFadden, sr., who has been confined to her room for the past ten weeks.

Bert McIlmoyle had the misfortune to have one of his horses injured.

One of our young gentlmen is expected home shortly and we are sure he will be hailed with great joy by one of the young ladies.

John Kilborn is busily engaged breaking in his team of broncos.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McFadden are recovering from an attack of La Grippe

Miss Mildred Kilborn is the guest of the Misses Tillie and Myrtle McFadden.

Miss Annie McFadden is the guest of Miss Edna McIlmoyl.

BENSFORT BRIEFS

Special to the Review.

Wednesday, March 1.—Albert Atchison, who is soon to leave our neighborhood to take up his residence near Fraserville, gave a party on Thursday night. Games and dancing were enjoyed till near morning. We all wish Mr. and Mrs. Atchison prosperity in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Dawson entertained a number of their friends on Tuesday evening. Games were substituted for dancing, which has become such a popular pastime among many of our young people. A most enjoyable time is reported.

Clarence Dawson, leader of the Methodist choir, Bailieboro, entertained them in a body at his home on Wednesday evening, when a very enjoyable practice was held. A noteworthy incident of the occasion was the presence of Prof. Bateson, former leader. Although Mr. Bateson is now beyond the three score and ten mark and is becoming somewhat feeble, and his voice weakening, yet his interest in organization is made manifest by his saintly figure gracing their presence whenever he can make it convenient to be with them. Mr. Bateson is to be congratulated on the energy he exhibits in his advanced years.

Wm. King will soon be leaving the neighborhood for his new home near Gore's Landing. Mr. King purposes moving while the ice on Rice Lake is good, as the distance will be greatly reduced. Mr. and Mrs. King be greatly missed, especially in the church, where they and their family have been untiring in their efforts toward the advancement of good. Our loss will be another's gain, and we hope that they will be accorded a field of labor in the neighborhood to which they are going. We wish them every success.

A large number of young people enjoyed an open air carnival at Wedlock's on Monday night. The ice is still good and we expect to hear of another soon.

Some of our crack shots are threatening to send away for new rifles so as to be in the matches next fall. We may possibly hear of them from Bisley next.

The Russel Telephone Co. are to be busy in the near future extending the line of communication, as several more new subscribers have been added to their list. As soon as the weather permits Mr. R. J. O'Heir expects to be busy instal ing new 'phones.

We do not hear any military news in Bensfort of late. What about the coronation? Is there no one to go from our township? Sergt.-Major. Thos. Nimmo was the representative at the coronation of King Edward VII., but Tom appears to be too busy with his farming, but we would like to see him go to the coronation of King George.

Many logs are going to Mr. Smith's mill. Mr. Smith is keeping up with the manufacture of lumber, and in spite of the many drawers he proves himself to be "Johnny on the spot."

No doubt when the dog tax goes on some dogs will die, and sheep-raisers will be pleased. But Bensfort dogs are too well educated to touch sheep.

La grippe is still going its rounds. Among the latest victims is Miss Annie Kerr, teacher of No. 4, Bensfort, who was off duty for some days.

Mrs. Geo. Murvey, who has been sick, is recovering slowly.

An entertainment was held at Gore's

NEW TEST OF BLOOD STAINS

Based on the Chemical Character of the Albumen

London, March 3.—Dr. Wilcox, official analyst to the Home Office, at a magisterial enquiry into a charge of murder a few days ago, gave a piece of evidence that had never before been given in this country. He testified that certain blood stains on the collar of the accused man were caused by human blood, and that this fact had been proved by the serological test.

This serological test is the last word of science on the subject of discriminating between different kinds of blood stains. Its wonderful delicacy will be understood when it is stated that the flesh of Egyptian mummies respond readily to it. A special serological laboratory has been fitted up recently in the buildings of the Royal Society of Public Health in London, and here a couple of days ago a special demonstratino was given by Dr. Rajchman, of the way, in which this test is carried out.

Hitherto all the methods of discriminating between different kinds of blood have been based on color or on the appearance of the blood corpuscles under the microscope. The new test is based on the chemical character of the albumen dissolved in the blood serum.

Dr. Rajeman took a sample of linen which was marked with a dark red stain. He placed it in a watch glass and covered it with dilute salt solution, which he explained would slowly dissolve out any albumen which the stain might contain and at the same time would remove any blood corpuscles which might be present. A monetary examination by a microscope revealed the presence of the corpuscles, which proved to be blood of some kind.

While the clot was dissolving in the salt solution he showed six test tubes, each of which contained what he called an antiserum. Each had been prepared by injecting the blood of some animal into a rabbit. The different kinds of blood with which different sets of rabbits had been treated were those of a man, a horse, a pig and an ox.

After a certain number of injections the rabbit's blood is found to contain a substance known as precipitin. A drop of blood taken from the ear of a rabbit containing the precipitin caused by human blood has a curious effect on the albumen dissolved out by the salt from a human blood clot.

The test was shown by placing a few drops—a tenth of a cubic centimetre—of the saline solution in a very small test tube and allowing a drop of the anti-serum to fall into it. Being rather heavy, the drop settled at the bottom of the tube, and at the point of contact between the two liquids a ring of filmy opalescence was formed when the human antiserum was used. When any of the others was dropped in the liquid remained perfectly clear and transparents.

In another experiment some horseflesh was treated with the salt water and the solution so made tested in the same way. Here the horse antiserum gave the telltale ring of opalescence and all the others remained clear, showing definitely to what animal the original flesh belonged.

Although this reaction has been known for about five years, it has been brought to its present perfection lately. Tjere is only one case known in which the test fails. There is no difference in the result of the test between the blood of a man and the blood of a high-class ape.

BLIND TROOPER WAS MARRIED

His Bride is a Daughter of Seattle Millionoire

Montreal, March 3.—A pretty romance reached a happy conclusion here to-day in the marriage at St. James' Methodist church of Trooper L. W. R. Mulloy, the blind hero of the South African war, and Miss Jean Munroe, daughter of Mr. Silas Munroe, a Seattle, Wash., millionaire.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulloy first met in London, Eng., shortly after Trooper Mulloy had received the bullet wound which deprived him of his sight. Miss Munroe was attracted by the indomitable spirit shown by the Canadian soldier, and their friendship quickly ripened into love.

OBITUARY

The Late Mary Livick

The death occurred yesterday of Mary Livick, aged 80 years, a highly respected resident of this city.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. T. Sandercock, 12 Inverlea street, on Saturday afternoon, March 4th, at 2.30, and proceed to Little Lake cemetery.

Death of an Old Settler

One of the oldest and most respected residents of Lakefield passed away on Thursday of last week, in the person of Mary Ann Morrow, relict of late Andrew McKee, aged 85 years death being due to advanced age. Deceased was born in Hope Township near Port Hope, and was married to her late husband in 1825. Immediately after they came to Smith Township, settling on the farm, now occupied by Mr. Fred. McKee. About nineteen years ago, deceased removed to Lakefield, residing here until the time of her death. Her Christian character and many estimable qualities won her many friends, who regret her dath. She is survived by five sons and five daughters. The sons are Samuel A., of Lakefield; Alexander of Dundalk, Ont., George of Peterboro; Isaac of Little Britain; and Frederick of Smith. The daughters are Mrs. Wm. Middleton, of Peterboro; Mrs. Andrew Fairbain, of Smith; Mrs. W. H. Eagleson, of Corrie, Ont., Mrs. C. A. Beatty of Cannington, and Mrs. M. G. Welch of Hope, Ont. Two sisters also survive her, Mrs. W. J. Mason, of Peterboro, and Mrs Stuart Bruce of Port Perry. The remains were interred in the Lakefield cemetery on Saturday afternoon, the funeral being largely attended. The pall bearers were four sons and two sons-inlaw.—Lakefield News.

HIS FAST LASTED BUT FIVE DAYS

Tenor Soloist and Bank Clerk Lost His Bet

Watertown, N.Y., March 3—Pinning his faith to articles which he had read as to benefits derived from fasting, Elliott G. Johnson, bank clerk, member of the board of supervisors, and tenor soloist at the First Presbyterian church, is eating to-day, after having abstained from all food for five days.

If Mr. Johnson had gone ten days without so much as a cracker he would have pocketed $50 of Ben Loomis' money. As it is, Johnson may hand over that amount to Loomis, if the latter holds the bank clerk to the terms of the bet. Out of sympathy

The bet was made quietly a few days ago. On account of his work and constant appearance in public the terms of the bet were kept secret to avoid invitations to dinner, etc., that would have come the way of the fasting man had the thing become noised about.

For five days Johnson stuck to the terms of the bet, though it is said that he went a block out of his way one time to avoid the toothsome odors that come from a bakery.

Johnson is now taking an egg or a sip of milk at intervals. He became so weak the last day or two that he could hardly lift one of the large banking ledgers or swing the vault doors.

THREE HUNDRED WORDS A MINUTE

Court Stenographer Was Right Up Against It

Mrs. Alice Lenmen's achievement in speaking 250 words a minute in an Edwardsville, Mo., court recently has been surpassed in the Clayton Circuit Court at St. Louis by Mrs. Anna Beyer.

The speedometer of Frederick W. Kessler, court stenographer, indicated that she uttered 300 words a minute for eight consecutive minutes.

Mrs. Beyer was the star witness in Joseph Heller's suit for a divorce from Mary Heller.

Here is what came from the lips of Mrs. Beyer in the first minute after she took the witness stand. Stenographer Kessler says he doesn't believe anybody can read them aloud in one minute, even though they number less than 300. Mrs Beyer said.

"I never in all my days saw anybody so quarrelsome as Mrs. Heller. I used to visit her every day after her baby was born, and she was always angry with her husband. Mr Heller was a photographer in summer and an oyster opener in winter. Once when I was there she threw a lighted lamp at him. He stamped out the fire and ran outdoors, and while he was running she threw a gasoline stove at him. She took a cane and broke up all of the pictures in the house. Mr. Heller had painted them himself. Then she smashed his camera, and as it was summer time and there weren't any oysters for him to open, he had no way to make money any more because he couldn't take pictures without a camera. She threatened to throw their baby in the river and she empted a dishpan full of knives and froks and spoons and plates and cups and saucers, on Mr. Heller's head and poured hot coffee down the shirt collar of a man that boarded with them. She cursed him in two languages and said she was going to do something that would make him so mad that he would hurt somebody and be sent to the penitentiary. One night Mr. Heller brought home a steak for supper, and Mrs Heller said she was tired of cooking and jumped on it. She tore up their marriage certificate and she scratched his face with her finger nails and cut him with a butcher knife.

Mrs. Heller, who sat in the rear of the courtroom, laughed frequently while Mrs. Beyer was testifying. Twice it was necessary to take recesses of five minutes to let the stenographer catch up.

When Judge Wurdemann checked Mrs. Beyer and told her that it was impossible for the stenographer to keep up with her, she smiled and said "You ought to hear me talk Bohemian. You can talk faster in that language."

Installing a Safe

The I.O.O.F. is having a safe installed in their hall, which is over the Madill drug store. White Bros., carters, were busy all afternoon removing it from the station, and getting it upstairs. The work was accomplished by means of a block and tackle. The safe is very heavy and great caution had to be exercised in handling it.

Gigantic Traction Plans.

New York, March 3.—The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. yesterday made public a letter written to Wm. R. Wilcox, chairman of the Public Service Commission, enclosing a gigantic plan to extend their own lines, build new elevated roads, construct and extend new subways both in Manhattan and Brooklyn, which will add twenty-three miles of underground tracks to the use of the public. It is estimated that the completion of the scheme will cost $130,000,000. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. offers to pay half if the city will stand the rest of the expense.

Their plan is briefly to centralize all the traffic in the lower part of New York and, by the construction of new elevated roads, the new tunnel to Staten Island, looping all the bridges and the new subway route up Broadway and over the Queensborough bridge, to carry traffic for five cents from the furthest district in Brooklyn through Manhattan to the Borough of Queens.

The plan covers every part of New York and Brooklyn and establishes sixteen important rapid transit lines It is estimated all the new lines can be built and ready for operation within five years if started immediately.

Kepeer John Ennister has retired from the Kingston penitentiary staff after 25 years.

PUCKLAND

Lakefield News—The Peterboro Ladies hockey team drove up to Lakefield on Monday evening last and played an interesting game of hockey with the local ladies team. The visitors proved to be quite expert at the great winter game and had little difficulty in winning out by 6 goals to 1. In the first half Miss Mann scored twice for Peterboro while Lakefield was unab'e to locate the nets. In the second half Miss Brown scored first, being followed by two goals by Miss Cavanagh. At this stage of the game, the local players woke up and a brilliant rush by Miss Simpson netted a goal.. Peterboro succeeded in scoring another goal before time was called. For the visitors Miss Brown played a splendid game and time after time she would carry the puck from end of the rink to the other. For Lakefield, Miss Mathison in goal put up a good game, and kept the score down, while Miss Simpson was the star on the forward line. The visitors had the weight on the locals and used it with good effect.

THE APPALLING IGNORANCE OF THE CHILDREN OF TO-DAY

In Matters Pertaining to Their Spiritual Welfare

Opening Session of City Sunday Schools Convention

The appalling and almost unbelieveable ignorance which exists among children of the present day, along matters of vital importance and consequence to their spiritual and religious natures, was vividly related last evening at Charlotte street Sunday school by Rev. J. M. Glassford, secretary of the Sunday school convention, which is now in session here.

The speaker knew of the cases of which he spoke; there was no possible questioning of their authencitity, as they had come under his own personal notice during his official travels in connection with Sunday school work in this country and the one to the south of us.

"Eighty per cent of the Protestant homes of Ontario are doing absolutely nothing for the home religious instruction of children," said Rev. Mr. Glassford.

One distinguished gentleman with whom he had been conversing on the subject, told him of an instance of this lamentable ignorance.

This gentleman had occasion lately to ask a class of entrance students who Moses was, referring to the poem found in the readers, entitled "The burial of Moses." Out of this class, only five could give a correct answer. The remainder were of the opinion that he might have been an Englishman who lived within the last 20 years or so.

Referring to Sunday school work in Canada, Mr. Glassford remarked that we were not even second in order of merit or success, to the United States in the same work.

"Over there at a Sunday school convention, the millionaire princes, the very choicest men of the land, attend the meetings and they give largely and generously of their wealth and time for the furthering of the work. Why? Because they realize the vast importance of Sunday school labor and of its significance to the country."

"In the days when I went to Sunday school," said the speaker, "everybody carried a Bible because there was nothing else to carry. To-day a leaflet is put in the hands of the boy; he jams it in his pocket carelessly, knowing that if he loses it he can easily secure another."

"Another matter along which children should be instructed was that of reverence. There never was a time when there was so much irreverance shown in spiritual matters as there is to-day. The young people's lack of knowledge of the Word of God is lamentable."

Rev. Mr. Glassford told of another instance of this ignorance, when only three out of a class of forty-five could tell the story of Ishmael, and two out of the three were Roman Catholics.

Another boy of the eighteen lay on a sick bed in a big city hospital, suffering from a painful and incurable disease. A minister went to see him and read the story of Gideon to the dying lad.

"What book is that you are reading?" asked the boy eagerly.

"Why, the Bible," replied the minister.

"Well, I never knew there were things like that in the Bible," returned the boy. "Please leave it here that I may read more stories," pleaded the lad.

"This happened in Ontario in a Christian city," said the speaker, "and is not such a fact sad to relate?"

"These very things are happening every day in our midst. We are just playing with the whole business, and are shaking our hands in congratulation, foolishly deceived about prevailing conditions, while the devil is laughing at our complacence."

"When I think of the Dairymen holding their conventions, when I think fo the recently concluded Hardware convention here in your city, when I think of the Brewers' Association meeting, which spells ruin for the boys; then let somebody mention a Sunday school convention; watch the noses go up in contempt."

"God will surely hold us accountable for such things."

"The boy twenty-five years from now will be ruling Canada, and unless the seed is sown now, what will be the result? If we can't instill these living, vital principles into our boys now, what is going to be the outcome? There is far more talk and discussion on what the trade policy of the country will be than there is about religion, and some day there will be a tremendous smash if such things continue."

In concluding his eloquent appeal Rev. Mr. Glassford urged those present to have ideals and live up to them to the highest measure possible.

Previous to Rev. J. M. Glassford's address, Judge Huycke delivered a very instructive and helpful address on Sunday school work from experience acquired through practical work extending over a period of 20 years, and which well qualified him to speak on the subject.

"Look at the struggle which is going on between God and Mammon over the world to-day," said the Judge. "It appears to me that the Sunday school is one of the most combative factors of evil.

"There are some rabid missionary enthusiasts who give money generously to foreign missions who never heed the calls of home.

"There are ladies whom the speaker knew would become almost tearful over the needs of the Hottentots, or some other wandering tribes, and yet allow a slight cold or petty reason to keep them away from a missionary meeting. Missionary efforts, like charity, should begin at home.

Judge Huycke also told of many plans which might be used to advantage for the proper instruction of Sunday school scholars.

Mr. F. E. Kerr read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved of. Mr. Johnston read the treasurer's report, which showed a balance on hand.

The convention will be resumed this afternoon in Charlotte street Sunday school.

HOME FROM A SOUTHERN TRIP

R. J. Munro and Miss Ethel Had A Very Enjoyable Time

Slightly bronzed by the sun and wind of southern climes, and feeling in excellent health, Mr. R. J. Munro, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Irene, arrived in the city last evening, after a five weeks' pleasure jaunt down south, where they touched at all important places and points of interest for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

Mr. Munro, when seen to-day, said that the trip was full of enjoyment from the time they embarked at New York on the steamer "City of New York," a large, comfortable passenger vessel, until they again docked there this week.

The climate was all that could be desired, and the trip was made in glorious weather, the passage being not in the least rough at any time.

Neither Mr. Munro or his daughter suffered from sea-sickness.

Nothing eventful occurred on the trip, Mr. Munro said, except that one of the sailors fell overboard, and as it was some time before he was rescued, he was pretty well exhausted.

At Hayti Mr. Munro saw some of the revolutionist soldiers, whom, he says, were very insignificant and poorly trained, disregarding all military discipline and drill.

As souvenirs of his trip he brought home with him numerous interesting picture post cards of places of interest at which the steamer touched.

THE LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVES OF EAST PETERBOROUGH HAD BIG RALLY

ANNUAL MEETING OF EAST RIDING HELD AT NORWOOD WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

Officers Elected and Constitution Changed in the Afternoon---Four Fine Addresses in the Evening on Provincial and Dominion Topics.

THE RESOLUTION THEY PASSED

Resolved that, whereas in the opinion of the Conservatives of East Peterborough at their annual meeting assembled, the reciprocity pact proposed by the Laurier Government administration is against the true interests of Canada, we heartily endorse our representative, Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., and the Conservative Opposition in the House of Commons at Ottawa in their opposition to the consummation of the arrangement.

By a Staff Reporter.

Norwood, March 4.—A splendid gathering was the big Conservative rally here last night, following the annual meeting of the East Peterborough Conservative Association. The town hall was packed, and the audience heard most cordially the four speakers of the evening. It was a most enthusiastic gathering, and the feast of eloquence and flow of political oratory was varied enough to saturate the most capacious appetite. The local members for the riding, Mr. Sexsmith and Mr. Thompson, were given particularly hearty receptions. The president of the association, Mr. Andrews, occupied the chair.

PROVINCIAL ISSUES.

James Thompson, M.L.A., made a neat, telling speech, outlining the work of the Whitney government. He said he was gratified to see so many present, and especially so many ladies. He thought that the more intelligent an audience was the more appreciative it would be, and this audience was no exception. Of the important questions before the electorate, the one of reciprocity overshadowed all others, although we had home rule in Canada, the provincial government's legislation affected our welfare more than any other. The Ontario government is spending $8,000,000 a year now, and the honesty of its administration of the public affairs has never been questioned, even by the opposition in the house. While the Dominion government was being accused of stealing of squandering or stealing the money of the public, not a word could be breathed against the integrity of the Whitney administration. The Whitney government had instituted a principle unique in Canada, and which it had pledged itself in opposition—it never once had sacrificed the interests of the people to the corporations. The hydro-electric policy had been instituted in the face of determined opposition by powerful corporation interests. This opposition had retarded, but not defeated it. The provincial secretary had in his well managed department instituted many reforms. He had placed a tax on bar receipts over $40 a day of 5 per cent. A howl of protest had gone up from the liquor interests, but the government was not to be turned from its course by that. The express companies had been taxed $500 a mile trackage instead of $200, meaning $30,000 more revenue. Double track steam railways were taxed double; stock transfers taxed and race meets $200 a day. This meant an income increased $500,000, yet not one cent out of the people. The minister of education proposed to return a part of this to the people through technical education. The receipts of the province had been increased over $4,500,000 in the last five years, and it was being returned in the form of better schools, better roads, better efficiency. The T. and N. O. railway was working effectively, and would be soon extended to Porcupine and Gowganda. Money had been derived from forests and mines, and in the sale of timber, a radical change had been made. The administration was not selling by the square mile now, but by the thousand feet, giving small dealers a chance, and getting much better prices.

COL. SAM HUGHES, M.P.,
The doughty warrior, who always gets an attentive hearing.

Mr. Thompson described the prison reform work at Guelph, how prisoners were allowed liberty with such good results; how the reformatory boys and girls were proving worthy of the kindness displayed. Mr. Thompson described eloquently though briefly, the benefits Peterborough county was receiving through increased provincial expenditures in schools and roads. Yet of all this $8,000,000 it was not hinted that even a cent was misappropriated or misspent.

J. A. SESMXITH.

Mr. Sexsmith, M.P., was given a very cordial reception. He thought important questions should not be approached entirely from a party standpoint. It would indeed be a sad thing for the electorate to decide questions on just party considerations. Among the great considerations of the day was the Farmers' Bank affair. He stood ready to charge the government with responsibility for the failure indirectly, as had it examined the circumstances surrounding the procuring of the charter with anything like the closeness it examined ordinary land patents, the certificate would never have been granted. Telling some heart-rending tales of depositors losing their all, Mr.

COMMISSION IN CONTROL

They Can Order Wires to Be Strung on Existing Poles or Can Have Poles or Conduits Constructed According to Bill Introduced In the Legislature—Studholme Is Exonerated of Charge of Careless Speaking

Toronto, March 4.—Sir James Whitney made an instructive statement with respect to the privileges of members at the sitting of the Ontario Legislative yesterday afternoon. An important measure defining the future authority of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission was introduced by W. K. McNaught. Considerable progress was made with a number of local municipal bills.

Mr. McNaught moved the first reading of a bill to amend the Hydro-Electric Power Commission Act. It is designed to give the Hydro-Electric Power Commission absolute jurisdiction over the location of poles, conduits and wires of any municipal corporation using power furnished by the Hydro-Electric Commission.

It states that in all cases where, in the opinion of the commission, it is desirable that conduits should be laid or maintained or lines of poles erected upon any street on which other conduits or poles have previously been placed, the commission may order that, notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the poles, conduits or wires of any municipal corporation using the commission's power may be placed at such positions as the commission may order, notwithstanding the proximity of existing conduits or poles.

The commission is also given power to order that the wires of municipal companies may be attached to any existing poles where such poles are capable of carrying the additions, without injury to the property of existing companies. The municipal corporation must pay the existing company such remuneration as the commission may order. If the poles are unable to carry more wires, and it is in the public interest that two lines of poles should not be erected, the commission may order that stronger poles be erected, to be used by both systems. The municipal company must erect the new poles and remove the old ones, making all necessary connections, at its own expense, and shall indemnify the existing company for any expense in connection with the change. The substituted poles become the property of the private corporation, subject to the right of the municipal system to string and maintain wires thereon. The commission's power is extended to cover renewing of polies and conduits.

Allan Studholme was exonerated by the Government regarding the complaint of one of the members that the member from East Hamilton had been quoted in the newspapers as having disrespectfully spoken of the members of the Legislature. He had been reported as saying that the local Parliamentarians were a "lot of loafers" —a term which Sir James Whitney said, in opening the question, the House was not familiar with. "But," added Sir James, "I have examined into the question and I am convinced that the honorable gentleman did not say any such thing."

Mr. Studholme had told a story in which the remark was accredited to someone else. If he had made the remark, it would not reflect upon anyone in particular. Had he, however, made reference to any individual member or members, it would be an offence within the jurisdiction of the Speaker of the House.

"Every member will agree with me," continued the Premier, that if he had made use of this language, in a personal way, it would not go unnoticed.

Mr. Studholme thanked the Premier for taking the common-sense view of the matter. He didn't say it and could bring 1,000 persons to swear that it was untrue.

Guelph Board of Trade shelved a discussion on reciprocity.

The provincial magistrates will meet in Toronto, March 8 to organize an association.

Earl of Crewe Seriously Stricken at Home of Lord Rosebery.

Special to The Review.

London, March 4—The British Secretary for India, Earl of Crewe, was taken suddenly ill last-night while in attendance at a dinner party given by Lord Roseberry, at his residence. It was thought inadvisable to take the stricken Earl to his own home. He is in a serious conditon.

In Graham's Home Town.

Brockville, March 4.—Be it resolved that in the opinion of this meeting, the proposed reciprocity agreement will be a serious menace to the best interests of Canada and the British Empire, and should be opposed by all true Canadians of party allegiance.

The foregoing was the substance of a resolution adopted amid enthusiasm at a mass meeting of the citizens of Brockville and surrounding districts, held last night at the Victoria Hall, and presided over by H. A. Stewart, K.C. It was introduced at the close of stirring addresses by C. S. Goodeve, M.P., Richard Blain, M.P., Dr. Reid, M.P.P., P. A. Donovan, M.P.P., and John Webster.

CONGRESS CANNOT VOTE ON BILL AT THIS SESSION

Reciprocity Shelved for Future Consideration.

Commission to Investigate Tariff Rates.

Special to The Review.

Washington, March 4—The Senate is held up by a "filibuster" and the vote on reciprocity with Canada which it was thought would take place cannot be reached by noon, when the present session comes to a close. The measure calling for a tariff commission was passed this morning with but few amendments. The Bill provides for the appointment of a permanent Board composed of non-partisan experts, to investigate the tariff rates and take action for their regulation. The Bill went back to the House for the consideration fo the amendments brought forward by the Senate.

Sees a New Moon.

Washington, March 4.—Having abandoned hope of seeing reciprocity passed by the present Congress, President Taft late yesterday, after returning from his usual afternoon walk, declared that he had noticed the setting sun, but that he also had seen a new moon in the heavens. The President has not decided when he will issue his proclamation calling the new Congress, nor has the date been fixed.

Couldn't Stand the Cost.

New York, March 4.—The New Theatre, founded by wealthy New Yorkers for the artistic production of the best drama, is to be partially abandoned. The net losses during its two seasons have totaled more than $400,000. It has been almost impossible to fill so large a house, and the running expenses have been enormous. Like Carnegie Hall, it will be let to whomever wishes to use it.

ECHOES OF CRIPPEN CASE

London, Eng., March 2.—It may be a long time before the courts hear the last of the Crippen case. There are now, it appears, to be a series of libel actions. Two newspapers at least have been served with writs, and it is said that there are many more to follow. The alleged libel is something that was sent home from Canada before Inspector Dew and his prisoners had started on the return trip. As it appeared in most newspapers, the first cases will probably decide many others. One of the newspapers proceeded against has paid a sum of money into court, but by no means a large one.

THE FARMERS ARE AGAINST RECIPROCITY PACT 49 TO 31

Two Tests—One on Market, One at Munroe House, Tell Significant Tale of Farming Sentiment—A Most Important Test.

The Review, after having tested the sentiment on reciprocity among the workingmen of Peterborough, concluded that it would try the farmers on the market. Now, the advocates of reciprocity are appealing to the farmer on this question. They claim it is for his great benefit, but the fallacy of the argument has been pointed out frequently.

That the farmers of Peterborough county coming into market do not evidence any great liking for recipro city—this supposed great boon to the farmer—is shown by the following vote taken. A Review representative with a list polled the farmers just as he came across them—all being strangers to him—and found that the farmers are decidedly aganist the agree,ent.

The vote on the market at 11 o'clock was 21 against and 16 for. At the Munro House, where the farmers congregate, another test was taken. It showed a vote of 2 8to 15 against reciprocity, making a total vote of 49 to 31.

This is important, extremely important, in indicating that the farmer of this part of the country is taking with a grain of salt the lurid promises of its great benefits. If the workingmen and city people are solidly against the pact, and the farmers are against it, even by a slight majority, then reciprocity and the government will be lost. Is Peterborough county a representative farmers' county?

BIG CANAL PLANNED TO OPEN UP THE GREAT LAKES

Would Admit of Ocean Shipping to Head of Lakes.

Would be Built Co operatively by U.S. and Canada.

Washington, March 4.—The Taft administration sprang a large surprise yesterday in connection with Canadian relations by proposing co-operation with Canada for the construction of a deep waterway from the great lakes to the Atlantic Ocean via the St. Lawrence, thus making ocean ports of lake cities in both countries, and reducing freight rates to the great advantage of the people of the interior. The proposal came in the form of a resolution introduced in the House of Representatives early yesterday forenoon by Senator-Elect Townsend of Michigan, following a long conference with President Taft on Thursday night.

The resolution for the first time makes public that it is the desire of the administration to open the great lakes to ships of the largest size. It is drawn in such terms, apparently, as to seek to enlist the support of Congress before this important step is negotiated by the executive end of the Government.

"This will be one of the great achievements of our time," said Mr. Townsend, in an interview, "and it will involve benefits to all the people of the great lake country, to Dakota and Montana, and in fact to all the prairie states, as well as to the great provinces of Canada, that will make the tariff features of the reciprocity agreement a mere minor incident. All of us have been startled when we first learned that it is cheaper for the wool-raiser of Utah to first ship his product across the mountains to Los Angeles and then back through Utah to Boston than to ship it direct from Utah to Boston. What makes this low rate between Los Angeles and Boston? Why the competition of ocean transportation. What, then, must be the benefit to the people of the interior of both Canada and this country if we can bring ocean competition into the heart of the American continent? The possibilities simply are enormous.

Special to the Review.

South Bend, March 4—Mrs. Schyler Colfax, widow of the late Vice-President Colfax, passed away here this morning. The deceased was 78 years of age.

ON THE ROAD TO—

(Montreal Gazette.)

The Peterborough Review undertook to gather the views of the local Board of Trade on the reciprocity arrangement which the Laurier Government is trying to fasten on the country. The result was that thirty-one members declared themselves flatly against the scheme, while only eleven favored it. It is not hard from this sort of thing to guess where the road Mr. Fielding marked out for the Government will lead it to.

Arthur Ruffirage was killed, and Dominique Gosselin injured by a train at a level crossing at Verdun, Que.

TAFT TO CALL EXTRA SESSION

Congress Will Likely Meet Again About March 15

Special to The Review.

Washington, March 4.—The announcement was made at the White House to-day that President Taft will this afternoon issue the call for an extra session of Congress to take place probably on or about March 15th.

WOULD NOT ARBITRATE

American Fishermen Can Still do Business in Bay of Fundy.

Ottawa, March 4.—C. Jamieson (Digby) introduced a discussion in the Commons yesterday on the failure of The Hague tribunal's decision to apply to the Bay of Fundy, and asked by whose advice this important body of water had been omitted from the award.

Sir Alan Aylesworth said that the matter was closed when Lord Aberdeen in 1845 addressed a letter to the American ambassador at the Court of St. James, which, while maintaining the legal right of Great Britain to exclude foreign fishermen, agreed to relax these rights in so far as the fishermen of the United States are concerned.

Mr. Jamieson quoted from the correspondence referred to by Sir Alan, to prove that such was not its meaning. He said the fishermen of the bay were anxious to know what their rights are. If the bay was British territorial waters, Canada has the right to control the fisheries from shore to shore. In time of trouble, the fishermen could be relied upon to fight for the Empire, and it was the duty of the Government to see that they got their rights. He believed that in this instance the Government had failed in its duty.

Sir Alan Aylesworth said that the burden of Mr. Jamieson's complaint was that something had been given away in regard to Canada's rights in the Bay of Fundy. He would point, however, that, whatever were Canada's rights before the negotiations, they were just the same to-day. The reference to The Hague tribunal did not affect the Bay of Fundy one way or the other, and there had been no arbitration in reference to it. The position of Canada might possibly be stronger to-day on account of the success attained in connection with the other points dealt with by the award, but otherwise the position was not changed.

When Hon. Mr. Fielding makes his budget speech next month, according to present indications, the surplus of revenue over all expenditure on consolidated fund account should be in in the neighborhood of thiry millions, or ten millions ahead of last year.

For the eleven months of the fiscal year the revenue has totalled $104,302,705, which is an increase of $14,618,245 over the corresponding eleven months of 1909-10, and nearly three millions more than for the whole of the preceding fiscal year.

For the whole of the present year it is estimated that the total revenue will run close to $117,000,000.

Expenditure will probably be about $86,000,000.

MEN CANNOT BE DISMISSED

G.N.W. Company is Checked Till Award is Made.

Toronto, March 4.—International President S. J. Konenkamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union left last-night for Chicago, where he was hurriedly called to confer with federated labor leaders in the matter of the telephone operators of that city, who are seeking affiliation with the telegraphers' union.

As announced yesterday, the committee representing the majority of the Great Northwestern Co.'s telegraphers, applied for a board of conciliation under the Lemieux Act. This course was made necessary owing to the company's failure to meet the operators' representatives to discuss their grievances.

As provided for in the Lemieux Act, after application has been made to the Government for a board, a condition of statu quo will prevail between the contending parties, until a decision has been reached by the conciliators. This means, the men say, that the G.N.W. will be compelled to stop the summary measures they have been using in dismissing the men, at least for the time being.

T. W. Carroll, a high official of the Western Union, who was here last week, is credited with saying that while he did not like the idea of unions dictating their wage scales, that it was the policy of the Western Union to pay as good, if not better, wages than the opposition company. The G.N.W. bears the same relation to the Western Union as the C.P.R. does to the Postal or Mackay Company in the United States.

The local C.P.R. telegraphers are receiving from 15 to 20 per cent. higher wages than the G.N.W. men.

President Konenkamp will be back on Monday to complete the gathering of data which will be necessary when the board of conciliation meet.

Chest Inflammation

Suffered From a Heavy Cold, Pleuritic Pains in Side — Constant Coughing.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

Nerviline CURES CHEST COLDS

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica, and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large bottles, 50c, trial size 25c. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ANOTHER "BOLTER"

It was not expected that Mr. German would rise to the height of Mr. Sifton in the discussion of the Reciprocity proposals; but it was hardly anticipated that he would confine himself so largely to the party side of the question. There is nothing to be gained by wrestling with this problem on the low ground of party. It does not matter two straws what the Liberal party proposed twenty years ago or what the Liberal leaders said ten years ago. Nor is it pertinent to the subject now under discussion what the Conservative party stood ready to do when conditions were entirely different, says the Montreal Star.

Mr. German was wholly in the right when he refused to be bound by the fact that he had advocated Unrestricted Reciprocity in 1891. Much water has flowed through even the Welland Canal since that date. But he was not making the best use of the time of the House and the attention of the country when he went into a laborious defence of the party side of his course, and dug up the utterances of Liberal leaders in the past to embarass them for the moment in dealing with this question.

As we have repeated more than once, this is not properly a party question at all. It is a demand upon our profoundest patriotism, or it is nothing. The discussion at Ottawa—if it is to satisfy the people of Canada—must rise above the intrigues and the pettiness of trivial party advantage, and consider this issue in the clear upper air of national interest, and with an eye on the future rather than on the past. This is no time for personal recrimination or for trying to "put the other fellow in a hole." No one cares who comes out ahead in the comparison of party services and personal records. We should all strive to emerge from this bad business shoulder to shoulder in defence of the nation.

Mr. German deserves great credit, however, for resolutely breaking away from the party ties which he clearly values so highly; and his refusal to obey the "whips" will count as another evidence of the growing antagonism in the country to these proposals. These revolts in even the party-ridden confines of Parliament must indicate a wide-spread revolution in the open country where party loyalty counts for little or nothing. Where the crack of the party whip is not heard there must be thousands of "Germans" who are prepared to throw al' political affiliations to the winds and stand up to be counted for the salvation of the country. The very fact that Mr. German feels the wrench so severely shows how powerful is the force which has torn him away from his life-long alliances.

GERMAN'S ATTITUDE

Here is more evidence of how Liberals are viewing the reciprocity agreement. W. M. German, a strong Liberal M.P., and a man with Cabinet aspirations, had much to say on the question in the House on Thursday afternoon. We quote a few of his more striking sentences—

"With all this prosperity, everything going smoothly, nobody asking for reciprocity, nobody thinking of it, and nobody wanting it, with the sky as clear as noon-day, we get this agreement sprung on this party without consultation and on this country without inquiry."

* * *

"I think the Premier should have said to the Washington representatives what he said to the fruit growers of this country. 'You are too late.'"

* * *

"When they say, if anybody does say it, and I know most of them do, that I am leaving my party, then I say that I am standing by the principles of the party, and it is the leaders who are deserting those principles."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The meaning of the bar will be principally confined to the bar cash register now,

The Matthews Co. employees evidently have a very emphatic opinion of the reciprocity deal—100 to 1.

The East Peterborough Conservative gathering did much to instil new enthusiasm into the members of the grand old party. It brought forth expressions on every side of determination to carry the riding at the next Dominion and Provincial elections for the Conservatives, and to see that the genial twins, Sexsmith and Thompson again come into their own.

The United States secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, says—

"We had reciprocity with Canada not many years ago. That was abrogated more through temporary sentimental considerations than from any other cause. Since that time the Canadians have been rapidly building up their country along all lines."

If we are rapidly building up, why should we change our policy?

The Liberals seem to think there s peculiar significance in the fact that Sifton's newspaper, the Manitoba Free Press, is supporting reciprocity. We do not think, if Sifton wanted to influence the policy of his newspaper particularly, he would find his employes intractable. Sifton has spoken for himself, as guardian of the natural resources of Canada, as the exponent of the men of vision who see the great drawbacks to the consummation of any free trade arrangement with the United States. Clifford Sifton, not being an active politician, can afford to do without even the support of his own newspaper. He commands attention none the less.

GREAT TRIALS ON TRANSCONTINENTAL

Alphonse Jonelle Tells Tale Filled With Human Interest

Hardships attending Work brought on Kidney Disease which threatened his life—Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him,

Chicoutimi Ville, Chicoutimi Co., Que., March 3.—(Special)—The trials trials of those men who push the great railroads through the obstacles Nature thrusts in their way have been proclaimed in many a page of fiction. But no story ever told is of more absorbing interest or teaches a greater moral than the actual experiences of Alphonse Jonelle, foreman on the Transcontinental, and well known here.

"I contracted Kidney Disease working on the Transcontinental, where I am a foreman." Mr. Jonelle states, "My skin had a harsh, dry feeling, and it itched and burned at night. I was always tired. Then came the pangs of rheumatism, and I finally got so bad I could not attend to my work. For five years I suffered, and in the end Bright's Disease developed,

"Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills also cured my wife, who was suffering from Kidney Disease."

From all parts of Canada, and every day, reports come of Kidney Disease cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is never a case reported where Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed. They never fail.

DEAD MAN IS STILL LIVING

Astounding Case of Suspended Animation

South Norwalk, Conn., March 4.—Physicians pronounced Wm. Shirdivene dead seven days ago, and arrangements for his funeral were begun. He still lives, though the same physicians declare he has not drawn nor exhaled breath in all the seven days; there has been no respiration in that time. Doctors say it is an astounding case of suspended animation. When they irritate the nerve centre or the great nerve in Shirdivene's body with a needle some of the muscles supplied by the nerve respond to the irritation. So the muscles are alive. Besides, the deteriorative changes that take place soon after death are lacking. Shirdivene is in the same physical condition as before his "demise." But he answers to none of the severest tests to determine whether or not he lives, except as to nerve irritation.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Assertions that the reciprocity bill would fail and that there were serious doubts about an extra session of congress had much to do with an advance in the price of wheat to-day. The market closed firm, with a net gain of ⅛c to ½c. Corn finished ⅛c to ¼c down; oats, off ¼c to ⅜c, and provisions a rise of 10c to 22½c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ⅜d lower on wheat, and unchanged to ⅛d lower on corn, compared with yesterday. Antwerp closed 1⅛c higher on wheat, Berlin ⅛c lower, and Budapest ⅜c lower.

Swooped Into the Crowd.

Madrid, March 4.—M. Mauvais, a French aviator, while giving a demonstration here yesterday, drove his machine into a crowd of spectators who ran into his path in the aerodrome, killing one woman and seriously injuring four other persons, including Col. Villary Villar, a brother of former Minister of War Villar. Mauvias himself was uninjured.

The accident was due to the spectators rushing out on the field before the Frenchman got the aeroplane well into the air. The woman who was killed was decapitated by the propeller of the machine.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copywright, 1909, by Brentano's.

CHAPTER XXI.

Here Is "the Body Too Many."

IT was an indescribable scene—a moment never to be forgotten. At the gesture of Rouletabille the door of the panel swung open, pushed by an invisible hand, just as it had been on that terrible night which had witnessed the mystery of "the body too many."

And the form of a man appeared. Clamors of surprise, of joy and of terror filled the square tower. The Lady in Black uttered a heartrending cry, "Robert, Robert, Robert!"

And it was a cry of joy! Two Darzacs before us so exactly similar that every one of us save the Lady in Black might have been deceived! But her heart told her the truth, even admitting that her reason, notwithstanding the triumphant conclusion of Rouletabille, might have hesitated. Her arms outstretched, her eyes alight with love and joy, she rushed toward the second manifestation of Darzac—the one which had descended from the panel. Mathilde's face was radiant with new life; her sorrowful eyes, which I had so often beheld fixed with somber gloom upon that other, were shining upon this one with a joy as glorious as it was tranquil and assured. It was he! It was he whom she had believed lost—whom she had sought in vain in the visage of the other and had not found there and, therefore, had accused herself, during the weary hours of day and night, of folly which was akin to madness.

As to the man who up to the last moment I had not believed to be guilty—as to that wretch who, unveiled and tracked to earth, found himself suddenly face to face with the living proof of his crimes, he attempted yet again one of the daring coups which had so often saved him. Surrounded on every side, he yet endeavored to flee. Then we understood the audacious drama which in the last few moments he had played for our benefit. When he could no longer have any doubt as to the issue of the discussion which he was holding with Rouletabille he had had the incredible self control to permit nothing of his emotions to appear and had also been able to prolong the situation, permitting Rouletabille to pursue at leisure the thread of the argument at the end of which he knew that he would find his doom, but during the progress of which he might discover perchance some means of escape. And he had effected his maneuvers so well that at the moment when we beheld the other Darzac advancing toward us we could not hinder the impostor from disappearing at one bound within the room which had served as the bedchamber of Mme. Darzac and closing the door violently.

Rouletabille during the scene which had passed had thought only of guarding the door opening into the corridor, and he had not noticed that every movement of the false Darzac as soon as he realized that he was being convicted of his imposture had been in the direction of Mme. Darzac's room. The reporter had attached no importance to these movements, knowing, as he did, that this room did not offer any way by which Larsan might escape. But, however, when the scoundrel was behind the door which afforded his last refuge our confusion increased beyond all proportions. One might have thought that we had become suddenly bereft of our senses. We knocked on the door. We cried out. We thought of all his strokes of genius, of his marvelous escapes in the past.

"He will escape us! He will get away from us again!"

Arthur Rance was the most enraged of us all. Mme. Edith, who was clinging to my arm, drove her finger nails into my hand in a paroxysm of nervous fear. None of us paid any heed to the Lady in Black and Robert Darzac, who in the midst of this tempest seemed to have forgotten everything—even the clamor and confusion around them. Neither one had spoken a word, but they were looking into each other's eyes as though they had discovered another world—the world which is love. But they had not discovered it; they had merely found it again, thanks to Rouletabille.

The latter had opened the door of the corridor and summoned the three domestics to our assistance. They entered with their rifles. But it was axes that were needed. The door was solid and barricaded with heavy bolts. Pere Jacques went out and fetched a beam, which served us as a battering ram. Each of us exerted all his strength, and finally we saw the door beginning to give way. Our anxiety was at its height.

When the door had commenced to yield, Rouletabille directed the servants to take up their guns, with the order however, that the weapons were to be used only in case it should be impossible to capture Larsan living. Then Rouletabille set his shoulder to the door with one last powerful effort, and as the boards, wrenched from their hinges, fell to the ground, he was the first to enter the room.

We followed him. And behind him, upon the threshold, we all halted, stupefied by the sight which met our eyes. Larsan was there, plainly to be seen by every one. And this time there was no difficulty in recognizing him. He had removed his false beard; he had put aside his "Darzac mask;" he had resumed once more the pale, clean shaven face of that Frederic Larsan whom we had known at the Chateau of Glandier. And his presence seemed to fill the entire room. He was lying back comfortably in an easy chair in the center of the room and was looking at us with his great, calm eyes. His arm was stretched along the arm of the chair. His head was resting on the cushion at the back. One would have said that he was giving us an audience and was waiting for us to make known our business. It seemed to me that I could even discern an ironical smile on his lips.

Rouletabille advanced toward him.

"Larsan," he said in a voice which was not quite steady—"Larsan, do you give yourself up?"

But Larsan did not reply.

Then Rouletabille touched the man's face and his hand, and we saw that Larsan was dead.

Rouletabille pointed to a ring on the middle finger. The collet was open and showed a hollow cup which was empty. It must have contained a deadly poison.

Arthur Rance put his head against the man's chest and assured us that all was over. And Rouletabille entreated us to leave him alone in the square tower and to try to forget the terrible events which had passed there.

"I will charge myself with everything," he asserted gravely. "Here is the 'body too many.' No one will inquire into the disposition which may be made of it."

And he gave an order to Walter which Arthur Rance translated into English.

BOWEL TROUBLE MAKES SICKLY BABIES

Bowel trouble is the cause of most of the ailments from which little ones suffer. When baby's bowels are not working regularly illness is sure to appear, but when the bowels are regular, the little one is usually bright, active and happy. No other medicine for babies has such good effect on the bowels as has Baby's Own Tablets. They make their action regular, sweeten the stomach and promote good health. Concerning them Mrs. Freeman Feener, of Barry's Corner, N. S., writes: "I can heartily recommend Baby's Own Tablets for all the troubles from which little ones suffer. My baby girl was troubled with her bowels and was so small and puny I thought we would lose her. I saw Baby's Own Tablets advertised and began giving them to her, and now she is a big, healthy, happy baby. For this I thank the Tablets and I always keep them in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

It is now doubtful if it will be possible to hold Travers here until that time. He is still held by Judge Winchester's order in the Munro case, but this will be disposed of before the Assizes sit, and it is now a question whether Travers will be sent back to Kingston in the interval.

Strike In Big Hotel.

Toronto, March 4.—One of the largest hotel strikes in recent years in Toronto started yesterday, when over fifty waiters of the King Edward Hotel walked out without giving any notice. Only six regular waiters remained, and last night the service was somewhat impaired. Manager Bailey declared last night that the walkout would not affect the hotel business, as they already had offers of available men from the various hotels in the city. The men take a different view of the situation, and declare that the management must have lost close on to $1,000 last night.

A Richibucto School Teacher

Once a Dyspeptic—Now Well, Thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 11.

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 17th 1909.

Father Morriscy Med. Co., Ltd.,

I have been teaching school for upwards of thirty years, during the last twenty-five of which I have suffered seriously with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia.

I have tried many remedies, and while I would get temporary relief from some of them, yet the old trouble would return, and with it the sufferings only known to the chronic dyspeptic.

Last year I had made up my mind to abandon my profession, feeling that in my condition I could neither do justice to myself or to the many pupils under my charge. A friend suggested to me that I try Father Morriscy's No. 11 Stomach Tablets; I did so, and have continued to use them with the result that my stomach trouble is cured—my indigestion and dyspepsia gone and I feel as well as I ever did.

I have, thanks to the Tablets, been able to continue in my profession, and feel that I am once more enjoying my work and am able to give justice to the fifty-four pupils under my care.

Yours Gratefully,

(Signed) MARY CHRYSTAL.

Are you one of the many thousands who, like Miss Chrystal, are prevented from doing their best work, or really enjoying life, by stomach trouble?

If you are you cannot do better than she did—take Father Morriscy's No. 11 Tablets.

Each No. 11 Tablet, when dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1½ pounds of food—a good, hearty meal—so that no matter how weak your stomach may be No. 11 Tablets will enable you to get the nourishment out of your food and build up your strength, while the stomach, thus relieved, recovers its vigor.

50c. a box at your dealer's or from the Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que.

Sold and guaranteed in Peterborough by McDermid & Jury.

For Woman's Suffrage.

Toronto, March 4.—Sir James Whitney and colleagues of the Ontario Government will receive a deputation at the Parliament Buildings to-day in support of the Studholme-Proudfoot Suffrage Bill.

The deputation will include Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen, president Canadian Suffrage Association; Dr. Margaret Gordon, president Toronto Suffrage Association; Miss Annie A. Gray, president Teachers' Suffrage Association; Dr. Margaret Johnston, president Medical Alumnae of the University of Toronto; Mrs. Flora Macdonald Denison, president Women's Suffrage Headquarters, Ltd.; Mrs. F. C. Ward, president W.C.T.U.

Naughty Town.

Montreal, March 4.—The crowded condition of the Montreal jail has made it necessary to transfer a number of the prisoners to Quebec. This morning Governor Valle visited Chief Campeau and requested that he be given fifteen men for the purpose of conveying 50 prisoners to Quebec to-day. Fifteen men from the different stations in the city have been selected and will convey the party to the capital by special train to-day.

Graft In Chicago Suburbs.

Chicago, March 4.—After investigating charges of graft and corruption at East Chicago and Indiana Harbor, Ind., suburbs, a grand jury returned thirty indictments yesterday and adjourned.

Among those named are Mayor A. G. Schlieker, Chief of Police Albert Lewis and City Clerk Walter Spencer of East Chicago, and Julius Friedman, alleged head of a conspiracy to collect tribute for the protection of vice.

The Czar's Good Intentions.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—In an imperial rescript published yesterday Emperor Nicholas announces his intention to complete his grandfather's work for the emancipation of the serfs by transforming the peasants into not merely free, but economically strong landowners. This may be achieved, the emperor says, by affording the peasants facilities to leave their communes and by improvement in agri[illegible]nce.

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH

Those Who Experience Fullness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders, and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

Operation on Leg

James Gibson, son of Mr. Robert Gibson, Carmel, was taken to Peterborough Hospital on Monday for an operation on his leg which was thought to be tubercular. It was found in cutting into it that it was cancer, and very little hope is held out of recovery. What makes it particularly sad, is that his sister, Mrs. Fred. Challice was buried only a few days ago.—Millbrook Reporter

IMPORTANCE OF TRAINING SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Closing Session of City Sunday Schools Convention

The Sunday School Convention was brought to a close last night, after a session of two days.

At six o'clock, Coleman Bros. restaurant was the scene of a Superintendents' Conference, which was addressed by Rev. J. M. Glassford. The difficulties of a superintendent, were discussed in a heart to heart talk, and each one felt the better able to keep up the good work.

In the evening Rev. R. A. Hiltz gave a very able and instructive address on the "Training of the Teacher." There was no branch of Sunday School work more important than Teacher Training he said. It was a very old subject, but during the last seven or eight years, there has been a great revival. The church and school to day, were beginning to realize that the key to successful Sunday School work centred around those two words. There were two kinds of training necessary for a good teacher, first the teacher must develop his or her own spiritual life, and the more it was developed, the more influence he or she was likely to have for the individual teacher was marked more out of school than when before the classes. The spiritual training in itself was not essential in itself, but the intellectual training was also necessary. The Bible was the chief text book, and to teach, one must know its contents. Many teachers confined themselves to the particular passage of the day, but it was necessary to also know its relation to the other parts, to give an interesting interpretation. As well as knowing, it was essential to be able to impart it to others. Thus teaching was an art as well as science. It was governed by certain laws and principles and the teacher ought to know them. The teacher must know the natures of the developing boys and girls, and how best to treat the characteristics. Some would say that good work had been done in the past without all this bother but we were in a more advanced age, and could not rest upon the merits of past accomplishments. The reason for advocating the "Teacher Training" class in that event, would be to enable those who were doing good work to do better.

The greatest difficulty of the superintendent to day, was how to get competent teachers, and often how to get teachers of any kind. Many suggestions of remedying this difficulty were made, but only one had proved satisfactory—training them!

So great was the task which fell to the lot of a Sunday school teacher, that he or she needed special training They were next to the parents of the homes in the opportunity to lead the child to God.

A boy or girl passed through different crisis' in life, and there was one time in which the truth would be more easily impressed than at other times and the teacher must be trained to understand it.

The proof of the advantage of Teacher Training was only seen in the application, and when such a system was got into the school, it would never be allowed to die out.

After the general routine of business Rev. R. A. Hills, was again called upon for an address on "The Sunday school; It's purpose and its place."

He said that if the founder of Sunday schools came back, he would not recognize them in this 20th century so great were the changes. The starting point was the place it was taking in the church life to day. The Sunday school in its ideal was said to be really the church in training for service. Millions of dollars were being spent in education because we realized that the civic life of the nation demanded it. Fine education included also education in religion and there was no institution which had done more for it than the Sunday school. It aimed to be the teaching department of the church, a school of practice to its members, to minister to the growth and development of religion, and aided at enlisting in the service of the church, the child when it could be influenced. The temperance wave was the result of the inculcation of teaching in Sunday schools. It was to lead its members into a knowledge of the truth, and teach them how to give out that knowledge

ASKED THAT POLLUTION OF OTONABEE BE DISCONTINUED

Mayor Morrow Promised a Deputation That Thorough Investigation Would be Made

Other Business Before Committee of the Whole Council

A deputation from the townships of Monaghan and Otonabee waited on the committee of the whole council last night, asking that the council take such action as would stop the pollution of the water of the Otonabee river.

After stating their case Mayor Morrow informed the deputation that the council would make a thorough investigation, and as soon as the information was secured, advise them.

As a result of the discussion which took place after the departure of the deputation it was decided to notify the Peterborough Light and Power Company to discontinue the present system, by which refuse from the gas works is sent into the river, and make some further disposition other than allowing the refuse to enter the Otonabee.

Also that the M.H.O. take samples of the water from the Otonabee at different points within a distance of from one to ten miles and have them analyzed, and also forward samples to the provincial analyist.

Some time ago a deputation from the above mentioned townships was advised by the Provincial Board of Health to ask the local council to stop the pollution of the water. The Board stated that they would be behind the deputation in the matter.

William Waterman was the chairman of the visitors last night and he stated that there had been trouble with regard to the sewage entering the water some fifteen years ago. The township protested and by arbitration the city was allowed to continue, as before for a period of five years. The speaker said he understood that at the expiration of the five years some other means of disposing of the sewage was to have been made. Nothing, however, was done, although the township had been waiting patiently. Now something should be done to do away with the sewage in the river. The overflows of the water caused the pastures to be poisoned. There were numerous cases of cattle and horses having died. Milk taken to factories had been returned, it being affected as a result of the cows eating in the pastures and drinking the water.

Mr. Clarke the next speaker, objected to the practice of the water being held at such a high mark by the superintendent of the Trent canal, and spoke along this line at some length.

Every spring the trouble occurred and the water was, he said, completely filthy. He himself had lost one cow, and another man four horses.

"Did you get any damages from the government?" asked Mayor Morrow.

"Yes," replied Mr. Clarke, "but they did everything they could to try and bluff me."

William Deyell referred to the bad state of the water and its effects on the pasture and cattle. He was sure that the death of four of his horses was caused by their drinking of the water and eating in the pasture, which had been poisoned in the overflows.

Others of the deputation spoke of the bad state of the water, its effects on the pasture and cattle and referred to the fact of the factories refusing to take their milk unless the cows were pastured where they would not get the grass affected by the water.

It was stated that cream from the townships complaining was brought to Peterborough and disposed of.

Ald. Duncan held that the conditions were disgraceful. The deputation was certainly making a kick at the right time. He held that the flow from the Gas Works should be stopped, and remarked on the amount of grease and scum in the bay near the Matthews plant. Ald Duncan thought a septic tank should be placed for the disposal of the sewage

HOSPITAL NURSES.

Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., was present, and asked regarding the securing of nurses and the help for the Isolation Hospital. On motion the matter was left in the hands of the Board of Management, the personnel of which is recommended by the Property Committee to be Mayor Morrow, Ald. Duncan and a physician, to be appointed by the Medical Association.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

The question is constantly being asked "When are the new books to be placed on the shelves?" The answer is a very simple one and it is easily given. A short time ago the library board made out a list of books and for these tenders have been asked. At the present time nothing definite has been settled and the public are asked wait patiently till the purchases have been made.

But, though the new books have not put in an appearance there is heaps of good literature in the library for those who will look for it in the right way. There is many a book standing on the shelves that has never been taken out owing either to its forbidding title or to the illegibility of it. The only right way to go about getting a good book is to take it from the shelf and examine it. A set of Chambers' Miscellany, which has stood for years patiently waiting to be examined and so far as can be seen nobody has had the least wish or desire to look into one of the volumes. Yet if anybody desirous of really interesting reading, some of it, sensational enough to please the most eager seeker after excitement, would take the trouble to turn over a few pages he would find something to suit his taste and the great beauty of it is that none of it is vulgar. There is reading matter for the children as well as for the grown-ups and even if it is a trifle old in quality it is none the worse for that. We know that old wine is the best and the same is in a large measure true of books.

Next week the annual meeting of the Ontario Library Association (Lindsay District) will be held in the Peterborough Public Library. An extended notice of this will be given in these columns in due course. The meeting is to be held on Thursday, March 9th, and Dr. Locke of the Toronto Public Library is to be one of the speakers.

To-night Ends the MARK DOWN SALE All Over the Store

Monday the Yellow Card Will be Called In

THE Mark Down Sale has more than justified our efforts. You have seen sales start out with a cyclone immensity and end after a week or so with a mere passing out of a breath. You have never seen, nor have we, a mark down sale that ended like this. Every week the new fresh fuel, in the way of bargains, added velocity to the event and served to keep up the public interest. This year we cannot help but mention the fact that 1911 Mark Down Sale has been the greatest since the inauguration of this mid-winter event.

To-night the centre of attraction will be the immense third floor where for the past few days throngs of busy buyers centred and made their spring purchases of house-furnishings, wall papers, etc. Extra attractions will be added for to-night's shoppers. Don't fail to get in line early to-night.

The Millinery and Dressmaking Parlors Now Open

These two important departments of the store are now open under the capable management of Miss Wesley in the Dressmaking and Miss Stobie in the Millinery parlor and a most efficient staff of supporters in each. Watch for later announcement of formal openings.

EVERY GENERAL STORE-KEEPER NEEDS "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

INKERMAN, ONT. Sept. 23rd, 1910.

"I am in the General Store business and have been a resident of Inkerman for thirty-seven years. Since I started this store four years ago, I have found your remedy "Fruit-a-tives" the most satisfactory one I have sold. Many of my customers have used "Fruit-a-tives" with the most beneficial results and I know of two cases that have been completely cured of Dyspepsia.

I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" on every possible occasion and would say that if every general store keeper, who stocks medicine, would keep "Fruit-a-tives" prominently displayed, he would increase his business many fold"

A FINE PLAY AT THE GRAND

A Years Run in Chicago

O. L. Hall, the eminent dramatic critic of the Chicago Journal, in speaking of Mort H. Singer's musical comedy, "The Goddess of Liberty," when that play was presented at the Princess Theatre, Chicago for its year's run, and which play comes to the Grand Opera House on Monday, March 6th, said: "It is well worth a trip to the theatre, to see the one big rainstorm effect, not to mention the multitude of other good things offered."

And the rainstorm effect an idea of Ned Wayburn's, the man who staged the play, is well worth the seeing, because it is just full of realistic touches. You hear the storm coming before it reaches you. There is the flash of distant lightning, the dull rumble of thunder before the storm breaks. Mr. Wayburn forgot nothing.

HOW VESTA VICTORIA GETS HER SONGS

This Famous English Singer Tells Her Story—Peterborough to be a Favored City on March 10th

Someone asked Miss Vesta Victoria the well-known English singing comedienne, how she managed to get together such a collection of successful songs. It was the idea of the person who asked the question that songs were picked up by accident from a variety of sources, but Miss Victoria quickly disabused her questioner's mind. She said: "Fifteen years ago I met two young men, who had written several songs. Their work was very crude, but I thought I saw flashes of genious in the lyrics as well as in the music. The composer had a knack of writing his music a little differently, and the lyric writer displayed a novelty of construction that gave promise of steady improvement. It stuck me as being such a happy combination that I took the pair of them under my wing, so to speak, and all but adopted them. They were in very straightened circumstances, and I was able to do a lot for them. In return they have certainly done a lot for me. All my songs are either written or suggested by them, and very often they touch up melodies and words in a most acceptable manner. That they are wonderful young men is proven by the very good songs they write.

"The old days of poverty have gone by with these gentlemen. Their first success netted them several thousand pounds apiece, and now their income is steady and large. They both still call me their little mother, and whenever they have an idea they come to me with it first. I remember once when I was playing in Glasgow, they had such a good idea that they could not convey it in a letter or telegram, so they called me on the long distance phone from London, and sang me the song. The telephoning cost two pounds ten, but it certainly was worth it. The song they sang to me over the phone was "Poor John" one of the most successful numbers I ever had. Good songs are like good eggs, you can't get them in every store. What the public seems to want is simplicity in popular songs. The moment you have an involved melody, or an ambiguous lyric, commercial as well as artistic vluae of this style of song is gone. If these two young men were to desert me I don't know what I would do for songs.

"It seems to me that we should hear more from Canadian song writers. The people of the Dominion are intensely musical, but I suppose they like their music along slightly more classic lines. However, I am just beginning to get acquainted with the Canadians, this being my first visit to their great country, and it is impossible to form a definite opinion of their likes and dislikes, as far as music is concerned, until one has gone from coast to coast and seen the whole land. One thing I do know, and that is that the Canadians love to laugh. My songs have never gone so well anywhere as they have in Canada, and nightly I am forced to sing almost twice as many numbers as I have been giving in the United States."

Sexsmith detailed the story of the correspondence Travers had with the finance department, and how the latter though repeatedly warned, had wilfully persisted in letting the bank go on.

AS TO RECIPROCITY.

As to reciprocity, perhaps it looked like a great thing—getting into a market of 90,000,000. At first glance it was a fine looking proposition. Hon Sydney Fisber said it would give the farmer two markets. Mr. Sexsmith took issue with him. Perhaps the farmers in the border counties would benefit in some few artcles, but the speaker looked at more than dollars and cents—when it affected the whole nation, the interest of the masses.

Dealing with manufacturers declarations as to benefiting the United States, Mr. Sexsmith told of the effect reciprocity would have on the cattle trade of Alberta, when the Americans would get our poor cattle, fatten them, and reap the profits. He said he was ready to stand by his attitude in opposition to reciprocity and go down with his colors flying if his stand did not meet with the approval of his electors but he thought it did. He told of the forcing of Finance Minister Fielding, to admit that the free list extended to twelve other countries, from which the Canadian farmer would now have no protection. Some of these countries Siberia, Argentine, Denmark, were serious competitors in butter, eggs, and meat. He referred to the condemnation of reciprocity by Sir George W. Ross.

Discussing the visit of E. C. Drury, Mr. Sexsmith said that Mr. Drury was trying to turn the farmers' clubs into Granges, with a political object. He did not represent one per cent. of the farmers. The farmers would suffer more than any other class, if Drury's proposals for free trade, and direct taxation were granted.

W. H. HEARST, K. C.

A magnificent speaker, is W. H. Hearst, M. L. A. of Sault Ste Marie. Mr. Hearst gallantly paid his compliments to the ladies. He was very glad to address them, and to meet the people in other parts of the province, and join in the work which all, as true sons of Ontario, were engaged in working out the provincial destiny. Mr. Thompson sat close to him in the Ontario legislature, and he had to admire and respect the integrity and purpose of the East Peterborough member. He referred to the world wide reputation of Colonel Hughes. Speaking of Whitney, Mr. Hearst declared that the Government forces at Toronto were one happy family, and the opposition could not get up even an interesting debate. In respect to purity of elections, Mr. Hearst defied anyone to charge that the Whitney Government had ever committed the old Ross tricks with ballots. To-day we had purity of elections (cheers.) Whitney had not forgotten his pledges, made in opposition like a certain Government he knew. There had been no effective opposition criticism, though the opposition leader was an able lawyer. No man could do better with a poor brief than A. G. McKay. Dealing with the criticism of increased expenditure Mr. Hearst referred to the establishment of technical education, of increased school grants and good causes advanced. The Government had bled the receipts, why not the expenditure, giving the people the benefit of it. The Liberals had condemned the parsimony of the Government in school grants. As these were greatly larger than the Ross Government's grants, they condemned the former administration out of their own mouths.

SCARCITY OF TEACHERS

The minister of education had been attacked because of the scarcity of teachers, on account of abolishing a number of model schools. More teachers were being turned out now than ever before, and the model schools were not well filled, most students taking the more complete normal course. Other walks of life offered greater remuneration, many were going west. This accounts for the scarcity.

Dealing with cheap school books, Mr. Hearst eloquently declared that Mr. Whitney had amply carried out his pledge. The prophecies of those who said the low price would not last a year, were proven false. They should apologize. Mr. MacKay was one of these.

THREEE-FIFTHS CLAUSE

As to the three-fifths clause, honest opinions might differ. No man was worthy the name of man, who did not treat the question fairly, as it was the cause of more tears, more broken hearts, than any other. The liquor question was a difficult one to handle. It should not lie in the mouth of the Liberals to criticize the three fifths clause. Ross refused to grant prohibition on a vote of 10,000 more than three-fifths on a plebiscite Laurier had done the same thing in a 13,000 majority over the three-fifths. The Liberals would have to get a better platform, and better planks to regain power in Ontario.

Speaking in most eloquent terms, of the Northern country, Mr. Hearst told of the early days of crying need of development. He dwelt on its vast possibilities, told of how it was not the "bare back bone of Ontario" but the lungs, heart and vitals. The T. & N. O. railway, had begun the work of opening up the country, the silver and gold mines, the fertile clay belt, the $500,000,000 of fine timber. He told, in a magnificent peroration, of the development of Sault Ste. Marie of the work of Hon. Frank Cochrane, an expert northern man, in developing the country. He predicted the time when northern Ontario would be the richest part of the whole province. Mr. Hearst touched on the necessity of keeping Canada for the Canadians, of building up a nation here, and closed with an appeal to seek, not possible union with the United States, but Canada's great destiny in the fold of the Union Jack. (Great Cheers.)

COL. HUGHES.

Col. Sam Hughes, the old war horse of the Conservative party, got an enthusiastic reception. He also announced his adherence to the principle of loyalty to the ladies, declaring that he would sooner have the wave of a handkerchief from one lady than 10,000 waves from the ocean. He mentioned that it was on the very platform on which he was standing that Sir James Whitney, then plain James P. Whitney, had made his pledge of smashing the school book ring, and giving the people cheap school books. This pledge had been redeemed, just as the Conservative party always carried out its pre-election pledges. Speaking of the liquor traffic, Col. Hughes quoted from Congressional Records to show that the money paid out for liquor in the United States in 1909 greatly exceeded the amount paid out for any other of the necessities of life.

THE RECIPROCTIY BUSINESS.

"I want to mention reciprocity," said he. "I am free to say that reciprocity will benefit some, and injure some. The question is; which country is gainer and which the loser, I am free to say that I think that in the final analysis of every fair-minded thinker, Canada is the country that is going to suffer."

Speaking of E. C. Drury, he referred to the Grange man as working in the interests of the Liberal party, seeking to turn the farmers' clubs into Grange organizations, where they would be under the political influence of himself and associates. Drury wanted to open the markets to the south, and to open ours. He cared nothing for the industries of Peterborough, Lindsay, Norwood. There was no harm in taking what Drury had to say with a grain of salt. (Laughter.)

Speaking of the naval policy, Col. Hughes thought the government was proceeding along one line, and that the naval policy and the reciprocity pact harmonized with that line. It gave rise to the sinister suspicion that the motive was a desire to take the old flag down.

The day was fast approaching, if nothing occurred to drag Canada away from it, when there would be an imperial federal parliament, when the empire issues would be discussed by people from all quarters of the globe joined together by blood and ties to the British flag.

Col. Hughes told of the talk in 1886 of commercial union and annexation. The best opinion of the best men in the United States was not along the line of annexation. The sentiment that should obtain was a closer and more friendly relation between the nations, but that the two flags should remain distinct and separate.

VENTED ITS SPLEEN.

Canadians had had a reciprocity treaty once before. Even though at that time 100,000 Canadian soldier boys were fighting in the ranks of the northerners, the United States shortly after the war began a policy of venting its spleen on Canada, to force it into annexation. Canadians were handicapped then, but it was responsible for confederation, for the upbuilding of Canada. Coercion was not the way to deal with Canadians. Col. Hughes declared that the British preference in 1897 was given to Britain, not through loyalty to the old land, but through a desire to spite the United States for the turn down and kick out administered to the Canadian emissaries in 1896 at Washington.

Col. Hughes trusted that the Provincial Governments would put on a stiff export duty on pulp wood, to force its manufacture in Canada. ("No fear for Whitney," said Mr. Hearst.)

Col. Hughes told about the liability Canada would be subjected to in the incursion of the meat trust. Australia had to take steps to keep it out. He also condemned the autocratic, secret manner in which the agreement was made, not giving even the Liberal members of Parliament a chance to voice a protest.

He paid his respects to Champ Clark, who wanted to annex Canada, and to Bennett, and to Mr. Macdonald, editor of the Globe, whom he charged with having started the reciprocity deal on his visit to Washington. Col. Hughes thought there were many things more important than trade questions. The country that bowed to Mammon was on the down grade. He quoted instances like Magna Charta, which had a much more important effect than trade. In closing Col. Hughes said that Jim Hill thought that the reciprocity treaty would spike the imperial federation. He would separate Canada and Great Britain if he could.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was devoted to the election of officers, the adoption of a new principle in township organization, to a discussion on reciprocity, and the giving of short addresses by Col. Sam Hughes, M.P. for West Victoria; J. A. Sexsmith, M.P. for East Peterborough; James Thompson, M.L.A. for East Peterborough, and Conservative members of the association.

The presentation of the resolution against reciprocity by H. G. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, seconded by F. Birdsall, of Birdsall, caused some discussion, but it was unanimously passed. It was—

"Resolved, that whereas in the opinion of the Conservatives of East Peterborough, at their annual meeting assembled, the reciprocity pact proposed by the Laurier administration, is against the true interests of Canada, we hereby heartily endorse our representative in Parliament, Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, and the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons at Ottawa, in their opposition to the consummation of any such arrangement."

MR. CARSTAIRS.

Among those present was Conservative Organizer Carstairs, who took a prominent part in suggesting changes in the work of organizing, and in urging the members to get their organization ready immediately. In speaking at the opening, Mr. Carstairs said that recent political events had brought a great change over the aspect. Men no longer squirmed in their chairs when Sir Wilfrid Laurier sneezed. It was important that the Conservative organization be kept intact all the time, not just during the election campaigns. Mr. Carstairs dealt at some length with the systems of organization, and of centrally controlling political work in various counties. It was all important, said he, that things should be put into shape as the Whitney Government would, and Laurier probably would go to the country during 1912.

There was a definite attempt being made now to split the Conservative party over the Dominion, and the only way for it to be effective at the next Dominion election was to remain united and firm. The reciprocity issue was blinding the public to the frauds, the scandals, the immense extravagance of the Laurier Government.

Organizer Carstairs told of the general Conservative enthusiasm following the opposition to reciprocity, six meetings being held yesterday. He paid a tribute to the effective work of Mr. Sexsmith at Ottawa in glowing terms.

CHANGED THE CONSTITUTION

It was decided that a new constitution would be drawn up and it was amended in that the central officers are elected with an executive representative pro tem from each township, that representative to be responsible for the township organization meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows—

Honorary President—F. Birdsall, of Birdsall.

Honorary Vice-President—Dr. S. P. Ford, of Norwood; moved by Geo. Phillips, of Havelock; seconded by Adam Humphries, of Hastings.

First Vice-President—Dr. Fraser, of Lakefield. Moved by Mr. Lillicrap, of Lakefield; seconded by J. A. Sexsmith.

Secretary—E. C. Squire, of Havelock. Moved by Mr. Johnston, of Otonabee; seconded by Donald McNaughton, of Norwood.

Treasurer—C. A. Grant, Havelock. Moved by Geo. Phillips, of Havelock; seconded by F. Birdsall.

Township representatives on executive—J. B. Peebles, Belmont; H. G. Fitzgerald, Lakefield; C. E. Pakenham, Norwood; J. C. Reid, Otonabee; H. N. Drain, Asphodel; Joseph Knox, Havelock; Stephen Miller, Douro; W. R. Parker, Dummer; L. B. Church, Burleigh; Wm. Hale, Chandos; John Lean, Anstruther; Norris Whitney, Methuen.

It was decided, on representation by the Lakefield representatives, that the annual meetings should be held alternately in Norwood, Lakefield and Havelock, and that the convention should always be held in Norwood.

MR. SEXSMITH SPEAKS.

Mr. Sexsmith was invited to the platform, and spoke briefly on the question of reciprocity. After dealing with the great progress Canada had made, and telling of her illimitable resources and great future, provided she stayed clear of injurious trade entanglements, Mr. Sexsmith urged the Conservatives to always carry their good old principles with them. The Conservative party was a party of grand principles, to which every good Canadian could readily subscribe. He would do his part toward upholding those principles. Mr. Sexsmith referred to the defection of Hon. Clifford Sifton in the House of Commons, and to the breaking away of Mr. German, two strong Liberals, on the reciprocity question. In 1891 these men had advocated reciprocity, but as they now confessed, neither one of them had believed what they preached. The majority of the Liberal party to-day did not favor reciprocity, though most of Canada had a National Policy, and it was a foremost principle of that policy to make Canada's tariff at Ottawa, and not at Washington. The makers of the reciprocity agreement had, in order to get free access to the markets of one country, opened the markets of Canada to a dozen countries.

MR. THOMPSON SPEAKS.

James Thompson, the Provincial representative of the riding, spoke briefly. He was glad to see so many of his friends, and he thought as long as they retained their enthusiasm there would be no danger of defeat. The Conservatives had much to fight for. Speaking of reciprocity, the great national question, Mr. Thompson demonstrated that in the case of eggs and butter, American prices were not as good as Canadian, and bacon would be discriminated against. As a lumberman, the removal of the duty would mean $2,500 a year to him, but he did not support it because his own business would be helped, while all the others were injured. Mr. Thompson showed by quoting statistics, that the per capita wealth of Canadians was much greater than that of the Americans. He showed where reciprocity would lose the farmers of the east the intensely profitable horse market of the west, how the prices for dairy cattle would drop to the American level. Canada was at the parting of the ways, and it was about to plunge from great prosperity into what it knew not.

COL SAM HUGHES.

Col. Sam Hughes, who had arrived at this juncture, spoke on the good results of efficient organization. He thought the Conservatives, assisted by solid-thinking Liberals, would turn out the corrupt Laurier regime at the next election. He appealed for good, honest election work, saying that the man never breathed whom he had asked for a vote.

Tea Time Talks

Tea Spoils with Age

No tea is fit to drink after it is two years old. That is the age limit of tea quality and benefit. The best tea is the freshest.

"Salada" Tea owes much of its world-wide reputation to its sale fresh from the plantation. The leaves are fresh picked every week the year 'round; then dried, sorted and packed in air-tight lead packages. Every five weeks a new picking of "Salada" comes fresh from plantation to purchaser.

Bulk teas, carried year after year, lose their freshness.

Yearly Sales Over 20,000,000 Packages

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

LACROSSE

A great and radical change in the rules of Canada's national summer game is being proposed.

A notice of motion has been mailed to the President of the National Lacrosse Union, to the effect that it is proposed to reduce the number of men on a team to ten.

It is also proposed to reduce the size of the playing field.

The idea is to make the game speedier in that manner.

One man is to be taken from the defence and one from the home, and the distance between the goals is to be reduced to a hundred yards. Not only that, but the entire length of the field is to be reduced to not more than 130 yards or less than 120 yards.

At present the length of the M.A.A.A. field for instance is something like 175 yards.

Asked how the M.A.A.A.A. would reduce its field to the proposed dimensions, Mr. Findlay said: "By building a temporary fence."

The plan is to have the support of several clubs.

The Montreal Club will also appoint a new field manager shortly.

The Nationals have signed nearly all their last year's players.

The Examiner Ladies' Hockey Team will use two goaltenders for their game with the Review ladies.

Struck by Auto.

Toronto, March 4.—As a result of being knocked from his bicycle by a speeding automobile on Bloor street near Clinton, at 10.30 last night, Edward Jacobs of 399 Clinton street is lying in Grace Hospital seriously injured, while the two men whose recklessness caused the accident are badly wanted by the police.

The automobile was exceeding the speed limit, and smashed into him, throwing him to the ground and pinning him in the mechanism of the machine.

Bystanders saw the men, who appeared to be under the influence of liquor, jump to the ground, and by main force wrench the unconscious man from beneath the car.

No time was lost in informing the police, and Dr. E. B. Hardy, at the corner of Bloor street and Euclid avenue. He administered first aid and telephoned for the ambulance.

At an early hour this morning the hospital physician said that the man was out of danger, though recovery from his many injuries would be very slow.

CURE THAT COLD

This is Quickly and Pleasantly Accomplished If You Use

Catarrhozone

Catarrhozone will relieve colds almost instantly and in a few hours will cure completely. If it is old-standing asthma or bronchitis its quick and curative results will astonish you.

Catarrhozone is little drops of healing medicine carried by air to the sore and diseased parts. You breathe them through the Catarrhozone Inhaler and they spread throughout all the air passages.

It is sense as well as healing, because Catarrhozone is a germ killer, a healer and restorer of weak tissues, because it is so prompt and certain in its results, better than any other remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is neither alcohol, morphia or cocaine—all dangerous.

Tens of thousands have used Catarrhozone without reporting a single case of failure to cure diseases of the throat and lungs and nasal passages. Remember, CATARRHOZONE is taken in air, and is little drops of healing for the throat, nasal passages, or lungs. It always does cure—is guaranteed.

Price 25c., 50c., and $1.00 at all druggists or by mail, post paid, from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

RHEUMATISM CURED TO STAY CURED

Liniments of No Avail—The Trouble Must be Treated

This article is intended as a talk to the man or woman with rheumatism who wants to be cured. Not merely relieved, not half cured, but actually cured. The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing some thing in the swollen aching joints is a little relief. And all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly seated. Medical authorities now know that rheumatism is rooted in the blood, and that while rubbing on liniments or hot fomentations may give temporary relief, they cannot possibly cure—you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism. They make new, rich blood, which expels the poisonous acid, and the rheumatism disappears. There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains and tortures of this dreaded trouble. Mr Joseph Luddington, New Harbor, N.S., says: "Some three years ago my wife was stricken with rheumatism, and suffered so much that we despaired of her ever getting well again. At first she was able to go about, but in spite of all we did for her she grew so bad that we had to lift her in and out of bed, and finally the pains grew so excruciating that we could only move her little by little, with the sheet under her. Finally we were induced to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her. I do not remember just how many boxes she took, but I do know that they the first medicine that reached the disease, and that she continued to improve until she was again as well as ever, and could do her housework. To us it is simply marvellous what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her, and we are glad to give this testimonial in the hope that it will benefit some other poor sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

St Thomas has a population of 15,200, an increase of 460.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any Case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 Days or money refunded. 50c.

Elevated Railroad For Montreal.

Montreal, March 4.—That an effort is being made to obtain a charter to build an elevated railroad along Craig street, from one end of the city to the other, is confirmed by W. R. Powell, general manager of the Montreal & Southern Counties Railway, but Mr. Powell says that it is not the Montreal & Southern Counties which is looking for the charter.

"The name of the thing," said Mr. Powell, "is to be, I believe, 'The Elevated Rapid Transit Co.' There is some Montreal bond broker interested, but I understand that he is merely representing big interests who are behind the thing."

The general sentiment among the aldermen who were at the City Hall yesterday morning appeared to be opposed to the granting of the right to any company to build an elevated railway system through the city streets.

Honors For Peary.

Washington, March 4.—The plans of the friends of Capt. R. E. Peary to secure Congressional recognition of his polar achievements progressed rapidly yesterday when the House by a vote of 154 to 134 passed an amended Senate bill according him honors. The President is authorized to place him on the retired list of the corps of the civil engineers with the rank of rear-admiral, to date from April 6, 1909, and so as to tender the thanks of Congress for "his Arctic explorations resulting in reaching the North Pole."

A Big Fruit Crop.

St. Catharines, March 4.—The fruit crop of the Niagara district promises to be much larger than last year, judging by samples of buds produced at the growers' convention, which was brought to a close here yesterday afternoon. The frosts of winter have not done the least harm, and unless some unexpected or unforseen danger arises, the fruit will be plentiful next summer.

Coronation Party.

Ottawa, March 4.—The Canadian Parliamentary party which will go to the coronation will probably consist of thirteen members of the Commons and five Senators. Of the thirteen members of the Commons, eight will be Liberals and five Conservatives. The invitation from the British Government asked that eighteen members of Parliament be sent.

INFLAMMATION AND PAIN

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pains in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."—MRS. WM. SEALS, 605 W. Howard St., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Butter Has Risen a Couple of Cents

There was no particular activity manifested on the local market today, although the attendance was fair Eggs and butter have crawled up a little since last Saturday, although the supply was not in the least stinted.

The dearth of fowl was very noticeable, and there was a good demand for them. Turkeys were conspicuous by their absence.

It was impossible to buy apples by the bag, such the scarcity.

Potatoes were slightly higher today, while meat remained about the same.

Following were the prices.

Eggs—26 and 27 cts.
Butter—27 cts.
Pork—12 and 13 cts.
Beef—8 and 9 cts.
Lamb—8 and 9 cts.
Chickens—50 cts apiece.
Hay—$12 a load.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Presentation of Prizes to Successful Students

The Valedictory Read by Miss Wesley

The commencement exercises of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, held last evening in the Assembly Hall, must certainly have proved a source of satisfaction and gratification, both to the faculty of the institution, and the students.

A varied and entertaining program of speeches, musical numbers and presentations, contributed principally to the enjoyment of the affair, and the smoothness and ease with which every number was run off, reflects extreme credit on the committee who were responsible for it.

Mr. John Crane, chairman of the Board of Education, presided in a most acceptable manner, and in a short opening address congratulated the teachers of the Collegiate on the efficiency and high standard of the school. He also urged the pupils to live up to the opportunities which the school afforded and embrace all of the privileges which it was able to offer.

The Collegiate Institute Glee Club, in an opening chorus, performed in a manner worthy of special mention, and their singing showed careful and painstaking training on the part of Mr. Ferguson, the leader.

The awarding of the different scholarships and athletic prizes interspersed between the other program numbers, was apparently the most popular part of the evening's proceedings, and the audience showed their approval in no uncertain way. The various gentlemen who were selected to present the prizes took the opportunity of saying a few complimentary remarks relative to the events for which they were given, and of congratulating the winners on their success.

Mr. Duncan Walker, who officiated at the presenting of the prizes to the winners of the Nichol's scholarships, congratulated the Board of Education and the teaching staff of the Collegiate on the excellent educational advantages which the school was supplying to the children who attended.

The presentation of the Canadian Club historical prizes by Dr. G. Stewart Cameron, president of the club, afforded him an opportunity of explaining what the object of donating the prizes was, and also to give a short sketch of the history of the club in Peterborough.

Mr. J. A. McCuaig, inspector of schools, of Edmonton, who is here on a visit, was prevailed upon to say a few words in keeping with the occasion, and explained his ideas on education in a thoroughly interesting manner. He believed in universal education, and was a firm exponent of the splendid system of education which prevails in our province.

"We have to make our education reflect future activities," said Mr. McCuaig, "and also train our boys and girls to be ladies and gentlemen in the truest meaning of the words."

Miss Stella Sherwin was presented with a medal, which was won by her in the writing competition, the prize being donated by Mr. John Crane.

In a witty and pleasing manner Mr. G. S. Ferguson performed the pleasant task of presenting the prizes to the winners of the athletic contests.

Mr. Herbert Morphet's musical tenor voice was displayed to excellent advantage in a solo. Mr. John Crane acted as accompanist.

A recitation by Mrs. L. J. Petit and a piano duet by the Misses Giroux and O'Brien were both accorded hearty and deserving applause.

Owing to the the absence of Miss K. Burnett, the following valedictory was read by Miss Wesley—

THE VALEDICTORY.

A valedictory is interesting to write, mainly because it brings us back to the Collegiate before we have had time to forget any part of the life there. Two or three years of new surroundings will make a great difference for us all, but going back now, we feel as if we still belonged to the school, and can take as great an interest in it as before. Also, it means more to say good-bye now than in the excitement of last June's examinations, when none of us realized what it meant to leave the Collegiate. Indeed, the last examinations seem just like those of any other year, while we are still at the school, and it is only afterwards that we begin to think of them in a new light. They really mark the end of four or five years that have been important ones for us, and which have probably been marked by more development than any other five years of our life will be.

Most noticeable in this development is the change that comes over our view of what study means. We begin to feel the pleasure of gaining knowledge, even at the expense of hard work. We also appreciate even the stern discipline that there is in all worth-while study, since it makes us capable of clear and intelligent thought.

But the school life itself, quite apart from study, does just as much for us. For we have the constant influence of the teachers, which is one of the greatest elements of school life. Without their interest in the pupils, in the school organizations, and in every part of the life at the Collegiate there could be little progress. Especially in the last two years at the new Collegiate, when a fresh start has had to be made, their influence has stood for more than ever before.

And besides what the teachers do there is the life of the students among themselves. By being together and uniting in common interests, we exert an influence on one another, and often the friendships that we form here last long after we leave. And while these friendships are mainly among the students of separate classes, the whole school also unites in many common interests, such as the Literary Society, in which students from every form take part. The Collegiate paper, too, belongs to the school as a whole. But the students are most closely united in their common love of sport. There his hockey, basketball, tennis and paperchases, in some one of which every one of us has entered with keen enjoyment. And in the annual field day of the Collegiate, we realize how much the different sports contribute towards all-round physical training.

In the Collegiate, then, the life of each student is one among many companions, all united, as it were, into one family by the large interests of the school as a whole, and the smaller interests of each class, while over all is the careful supervision of the teachers and their quiet but far-reaching influence. There comes, then, as the result of Collegiate life, a gradual development in each student, during the five years, from the time he enters until he leaves. Thus we who have just graduated and are entering on a period of new ambitions and wider prospects, feel regret at saying good-bye and leaving the Collegiate, where we have received so much, and where our thoughts often return with sincerest appreciation.

PASSED AWAY THIS AFTERNOON

Death of John Garbutt of Smith —Funeral on Monday

Widespread regret was expressed to-day at the news of the death of John Garbutt of Smith, who passed away at his home this afternoon about 2.40 o'clock. The late Mr. Garbutt had been ailing for about four weeks and was in his 77th year. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Mansen Comstock, 219 Sherbrooke street, at 2.30 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery. Service will be held at the house at two o'clock.

A more extended obituary will be published in Monday's issue

Want More Troops.

Springhill, N.S., March 4.—Following the riot of Thursday quietness prevails at the mines. Men are standing around in groups discussing the situation, but no disturbance took place yesterday. Of twelve strikers who returned to work at the first of the week, five stayed at home, three of them because they would not face the hostile demonstration to which they were subjected Thursday, and two because of injuries sustained at the hands of the crowd. The two were Stephen Kenney, whose back was hurt by a stone, and Howan Koon, struck by a piece of ice in the back of the head.

The charge against Manager Sharpe, who was arrested by the town police, was "inciting to riot."

There will be a requisition for further troops to be sent to Springhill. The force now on the scene numbers 35 men. The strike has now continued for eighteen months.

Marie Goulet, aged 19, after having thirty teeth extracted by a Montreal dentist, died in the chair, while under chloroform. A similar death occurred last week.

Canal Work at Hastings

The work on the locks, as far as the main construction is concerned, was completed on Tuesday afternoon when the west breast wall and mitre sill were finished, and the mixer which has handled most of the cement for the locks is now out on the bank and out of commission. The hoists will at once be taken out of the cut and placed up on the bank ready to allow the water to come in and the lock be filled for the hanging of the gates and fittings.

The coffer dam at the east end will also be torn out and a new dam built along by the foundry and east of it for the continuation of the wall.

There is some minor concrete work yet to be done on the top of the locks and race bridge, but this can be done any time without stopping navigation, all but placing the concrete floor on the west of the lock, which can in emergency be useless a dry dock.

Mr. Haddock and Inspector Jas. McCabe, of Peterborough, came down on Tuesday to put the gates and machinery of the lock in working order.—Hastings Star.

CATARRH DESTROYED MY APPETITE.

PERUNA rarely fails to restore the appetite. Immediately upon beginning the use of Peruna patients begin to eat and digest. This is the universal testimony, coming from all parts of the civilized world.

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of loss of appetite and disturbed digestion. The beneficial influence of Peruna on catarrh completely restores the appetite in such cases.

To prod the digestive organs with medicines that are merely stimulants is a poor way to remedy such cases.

"I am now cured and cheerful in spirits, all through the agency of Peruna, which has cured me effectually and restored my appetite.

"My only regret is that I did not use Peruna sooner and I would have avoided all my previous suffering and misery."
—Mr. Joseph H. Conlan.

Removed Catarrh, Restored Appetite.

Mr. Joseph H. Conlan, 487 7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I suffered from catarrh which completely destroyed my appetite and weakened my entire system.

"I am now cured and cheerful in spirits, all through the agency of Peruna, which has cured me effectually and restored my appetite.

"My only regret is that I did not use Peruna sooner and I would have avoided all my previous suffering and misery."

Torpid Liver, Stomach Trouble.

Mr. James O'Byrne, 626 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., conductor Sante Fe Railway and member Order of Railway Conductors, writes:

"I suffered with a torpid liver and stomach trouble, which made my complexion very sallow, and I felt miserable and tired all the time.

"An aunt wrote me that she was taking Peruna with such good results that she advised me to try it, and I finally bought a bottle, although I disliked to take patent medicines.

"However, I found Peruna very agreeable to take, and effective, as I felt better in a week. I took only five bottles in all and I found that was all I needed.

"I am most grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

Dysentery Entirely Relieved.

Mr. W. N. Casey, Leamington, Ill., writes:

"In two weeks after beginning your treatment I was well. I used nine bottles of Peruna. My case was bowel trouble or dysentery.

"I also tried Peruna for a cough, according to directions, and it exceeds any cough syrup I ever used.

"I wish every one afflicted would give Peruna a trial."

Pe-ru-na as a Tonic.

Capt. R. B. Smith, Greensboro, Ga., writes:

"After using several bottles of Peruna I can recommend it as one of the best catarrh medicines on the market. As a tonic it has no equal.

"Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. Henry Neely, First Lieutenant, Co. "F," 86th Regiment, O. V. I., Box 623, Trenton, Mo., writes: "I suffered for years with catarrh of the stomach. Seeing an advertisement of Peruna, I bought a bottle and every dose made me feel better. Seven bottles completely cured me."

BIG MERGER IS COMING

Bakeries in Big Cities to be Bought Up.

Toronto, March 6.—Rumors were rife on Saturday of a five-million-dollar bread merger to buy up the bakeries in Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa, and a meeting of Toronto bakers at the Fleischman Co.'s offices was supposed to be in connection with the proposed merger. The current report was that Mark Bredin was a prominent factor in the attempt to consolidate the bakeries of the chief Ontario cities.

Mr. Bredin was interviewed regarding the rumors. He laughed heartily at the idea of heading a five-million-dollar bread trust. He said that so far as he was personally concerned he had been spoken to regarding the formation of a bread syndicate by Percy Gillespie. The meeting of Toronto bakers had nothing to do with Mr. Gillespie's project. The Toronto men simply met to arrange for compliance with the bread law, and decided to begin on Monday morning.

HEIR BURIED IN NAMELESS GRAVE

Long Standing Mystery Believed to Have Been Solved.

London, March 6.—What is believed to be the solution of the mystery of the strange disappearance of the Hon. Francis Patrick Clements, brother of Lord Leitrim, and only heir to the earldom, has been found in the Isle of Wight, where in the quiet churchyard of St. Boniface's Church the missing heir is now said to lie buried. Clements left England in May, 1907, in order to earn his daily bread, and at various times since then strange stories concerning him were sent from America, New Zealand and Japan, and it was reported in 1908 that he had died in Kansas City. It is now stated that Lord Leitrim has identified the photograph taken of a man found hanging from a tree in the Isle of Wight and buried in a nameless grave as that of his brother.

ESTABLISHING A QUARANTINE

Alarm is Felt in Austria-Hungary at Spread of Plague.

Special to the Review.

Vienna, March 6—The Austria Hungarian Government has become greatly alarmed at the sweep of the bubonic plague towards Europe, and is establishing a quarantine against the influx of Russian agricultural laborers. Many have been turned back.

I. C. R. Preparing.

Moncton, N.B., March 6.—Anticipating a busy season of summer tourist travel, a large number of passenger cars are being thoroughly renovated and rebuilt at the I.C.R. shops, and there is considerable activity on this account, as it is the desire of the management to have every piece of rolling stock in thorough repair before the rush of summer travel commences. The cars of the Ocean Limited Express are being thoroughly overhauled, repainted, varnished and upholstered, and this famous train will go on the route when summer commences with a thoroughly renewed equipment equal in eloquence and comfort to the best through trains on the continent. A large number of new cars are being constructed at the shop.

FRENCH AVIATOR LOST HIS WAY AND MADE NEW RECORD

Flew Over Mediterranean For 124 Miles.

McCurdy's Recent Record Beaten by 32 Miles.

Nice, France, March 6.—Lieutenant Bague accomplished a sensational and daring feat yesterday by flying over the Mediterranean from Antibes to the little Island of Gorgona, off the Italian coast. He covered a distance of more than 200 kilometres (124.5 miles), establishing a new record for oversea flight. This he did without the assistance of tugs, torpedo boats or any other craft to guide him or add to his confidence by their presence.

Lieut. Bague started at 7.30 o'clock yesterday morning in a Bleroit monoplane with the intention of landing on Corsica and proceeding thence by way of Sardinia and Sicily to Tunis, to visit the colonel of the fourth Algerian rifles, from which regiment he resigned to devote his time to aviation.

In the presence of a few spectators the aviator left the ground, rising at once to a considerable height. He shaped his course southward and soon vanished. Aided by a strong wind his progress was rapid, and a despatch was finally received here that he had arrived at Gorgona. This island lies between Corsica and Leghorn. It is a small wooded rock about two miles long belonging to Italy. Bague landed there as 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the descent being made awkwardly and with great danger to the aviator, on account of the trees and rocks. The monoplane struck heavily and was badly damaged, but Bague was not hurt.

It had been his intention to land at Ajaccio, on the west coast of Corsica, but losing his way the aviator shaped his course too far north. As it was, he covered a greater distance over the water than if he had carried out his original plan.

Lieut. Bague's oversea flight breaks the previous record, held by J. A. D. McCurdy, who, on Jan. 30 last flew from Key West to within ten miles of the Cuban shore, a distance of ninety-one miles. Glenn H. Curtis last August made a flight over Lake Erie of 64 miles, while other aviators have done 50 or more on several occasions.

WILL TAKE BACK STRIKERS

New French Cabinet Will Pursue Peaceful Policy.

Paris, March 6.—The new Cabinet met last night and drew up the declaration which will be delivered in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. This declaration says that in the interests of social peace, the railroad employes of the state who were dismissed at the time of the recent strike will be taken back into service, with the exception of those who were guilty of gross insubordination and destruction of property. The railroads not under state supervision will be requested to act similarly with regard to their employes.

The declaration outlines the Government's policy in respect to the laws, the laicisation of the schools, social reform and foreign affairs. It affirms the Government determination to pursue a policy of pacification, based upon the one hand on a system of ententes and alliances, and on the other on a strong army.

RUSSIAN AGGRESSION IS FEARED BY THE CHINESE

Think it a Design to Alarm Europe and Justify Military Occupation.

Perkin, March 6.—The fear of Russian aggression is increasing here. Reports published in the Russian papers and reprinted in the Pekin papers greatly exaggerate the dangers from the plague. Many of the higher class Chinese fear a design to alarm Europe and justify military occupation. Despatches from Harbin state that Russian military circles are advocating occupation.

The Vladistock newspapers print warnings of the danger of a Boxer uprising, but the Chinese Government emphatically denies the possibility of such a thing, declaring that the entire country is under control.

The measures taken to combat the plague beyond Harbin are not yet satisfactory to Russia, and the frontier is still closed to Chinese. Outbreaks in Manchuria are anticipated later, owing to the distress occasioned by the long stoppage of transportation and the consequent interference with trade. Agitators, probably affiliated with the Boxers, are reported to be rousing the superstitious natives, but the Government, with the aid of the police, is limiting their sphere of activity. Proclamations are also being issued, explaining the nature of the plague and the measures which must be observed to prevent its spread.

The melting snow in many places is exposing to view bodies which were hastily secreted during the early period of the epidemic, so that they might not be burned. These are regularly being collected into piles, and cremated.

MANUEL FOR NAVY

London, March 6.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Lisbon says that King Manuel will accept a commission in the British navy.

TENEMENT FIRE CAUSES DEATH

Occupants Jumped to Try and Save Their Lives.

Special to the Review.

Cleveland, March 6—Six persons were fatally hurt and twenty others badly injured when they jumped, in an effort to save their lives from a burning tenement building, which was destroyed to day. The fire occurred in a foreign quarter of the city.

Sold to a Minor.

Welland, March 6.—Wm. R. Armstrong, a driver for Toynes liquor store was fined $30 and costs for selling liquor to a minor. A large delegation of temperance workers of Welland County had a conference at Welland court house with the license commissioners in reference to the stricter observance of the law and the cancelling of a number of licensed bars throughout the county that are claimed to be merely drinking places.

AUSTRALIA'S NAVAL PLANS

Melbourne, Australia, March 6.—Admiral Henderson, who was commissioned to devise a scheme of naval defence for Australia, has presented his report to the Commonwealth Government, in which he urges the establishment of two principal naval bases, one at Sydney, on the New South Wales coast, and the other at Fremantle, West Australia.

The naval works projected for the eastern side of the continent will involve an expenditure of two millions sterling, and those for the protection of the western coast line one million. Both are so devised that they will enable extensions to be carried out when necessary.

BIG WESTERN CITY VISITED BY MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE

Thrilling Rescues of Women by the Firemen.

Two Lives May Have Been Lost.

Minneapolis, March 6.—One of the most disastrous fires this city has ever known, destroyed yesterday the syndicate block, on Nicollet avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets. The total loss is estimated at $1,000,000, and it is possible that two lives were lost, although this has not as yet been definitely determined.

Twelve persons were rescued from the upper storeys of the building, while the flames were roaring around them. Some of these sustained slight injuries, but none were seriously hurt.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The alarm was given by some passer-by on Nicollet avenue, who saw the flames bursting out of the second storey window. An alarm was quickly given, but before the firemen had arrived, the tenants of the building, who were asleep in the upper rooms, began to appear at the windows, calling frantically for aid.

A strong southwest wind was blowing, and in a very few minutes the west half of the building was a roaring furnace. The entire fire department of Minneapolis was called out, but it was totally inadequate to check the flames. Later a call was sent to St. Paul for help, and this was immediately furnished.

The members of the Franzon family, on the third floor, finding all exit by stairway and front windows cut off, made for the fire escape on the alley side of the building. Elmer Franzon leaped to the fire escape through a blast of flame to a window, out of which was his only escape. Holding to the flat irons of the ladder, he helped his mother to climb through the window and stepped on the platform beside him. As soon as her hands touched the rails, Mrs. Franzon uttered a shriek and would have fallen to the ground, had not Fireman Caldwell leaped to her rescue from a ladder perched against the New England building, which adjoins the Syndicate building. Caldwell made a leap of fully ten feet and took a chance of falling to the pavement forty feet below if he missed the fire escape. Fortunately he struck it right, and reached Mrs. Franzon's side not a second too soon.

He asissted her to the ground, while Elmer Franzon followed, shouting "there are two women back there in the flames, I saw them fall." The firemen made every effort to break into the building at this place, but the heat was too great and they were repulsed. All the occupants of the upper floors were accounted for. It is believed by the firemen and police that young Franzon was mistaken when he said that he saw two people in the building as he left the fire escape.

During the progress of the fire there were several explosions at the west end of the building, the heavy stone sidewalks being lifted high in the air and huge pieces of stone scattered about the street. The explosions were attributed to breaking gas pipes.

Big Lumber Deal.

Fredericton, N.B., March 6.—The negotiations carried on by Donald Fraser & Sons of this city for the purchase of the timber limits and mills at Edmundston, N.B., of James Murchie, Sons & Co. of Calais, Maine, have been completed. The timber limits consist of property about twenty-two miles long and six miles deep, part of the Madawaska River, and part on Lake Temiscouata. The mill at Edmundston is of large capacity, and one of the finest in the northwest section of the province. It employs about sixty men. The price paid for the property is not publicly stated, but is generally believed to have been in the vicinity of $300,000.

Will Visit Canada.

Havre, March 6.—Baron de Estourneles de Constant, judge of The Hague tribunal and president of the French Parliamentary group for international arbitration, was a passenger on the steamer Laprovence, which sailed yesterday for New York. The baron is to deliver a series of addresses in Canada and the United States. After visiting Washington and New Orleans, he will go to the Pacific coast and return east by the Canadian route, visiting the principal cities.

Enlarging the Livingstone Channel.

Windsor, March 6.—This week will mark the beginning of work on the Livingstone channel, and Superintendent Locher expects to have night and day shifts working within a few days. It will take ten days to get the mechanical equipment in order, and only one cableway is now in use.

TRY A REVIEW WANT AD.

TWINS AT 91

London, Ont., March 6.—Mrs. Jas. White, of Westminster township, and her twin sister, Mrs. Mary Jarmain, of Deleware township, to-day celebrated their 91st birthday. Both are hale and hearty.

QUARRELLED OVER GIRL

Now One Man is Held on Murder Charge.

Montreal, March 5.—In the Court of King's Bench, the grand jury has returned a true bill on the indictment for murder against Rossario Casavant charged with killing Ernest Bigras.

The young men had a quarrel over a girl residing in Seigneurs street, with whom Bigras was keeping company. Bigras worsted Casavant in a fist fight, but a few days later Casavant struck Bigras on the head with a stick, in the end of which there was a nail. The nail entered Bigras' head, and four days later he died in the Hotel Dieu from the effects of blood poisoning.

Killed by K. & P. Train.

Kingston, March 6.—Saturday afternoon's train coming in over the Kingston & Pembroke Railway, struck and instantly killed Miss Emma Walker, aged 45, employed as a domestic at the home of Arch. Strachan, customs collector. The engineer and fireman saw her on the track, but not in time to save her. It is not known whether she deliberately stepped on the track to commit suicide or not. On the bank close to where the body was found, was her umbrella, bundle of clothing and Bible.

Judge Girouard Hurt.

Ottawa, March 6.—Mr. Justice Girouard of the Supreme Court was in a runaway yesterday. With Mrs. Girouard he was being driven home from the Country Club, when the horse ran away, throwing out the driver and the two occupants. The judge was found to be suffering from the shock and was cut about the face, while Madame Girouard had her left arm broken. Both were taken to their home on Wilbord street.

Will Use Hydro-Elective.

London, Ont., March 6.—The preliminary decision between Hydro-electric, city and street railway representatives for the taking of the Niagara power by the London Street Railway, took place on Saturday afternoon.

The whole situation was carefully gone into by the engineers representing the Hydro Commission, and a draft agreement submitted to the company. The matter is now in the hands of the engineers, who will report back to the company and commission.

The proposition that has been submitted to the company, is the "universal" one, that providing it is accepted by the Hydro-Electric Commission, will be the one adopted by it as a basis for all negotiations with the city and suburban railway companies.

London is the first "city" system that the system has been applied to, and should the agreement be found to cover the situation locally, when applied, it will likely be adopted without further question.

Gets No Financial Solace.

New York, March 6.—Miss Anne Bertha Grunspen is not entitled to recover damages from William English Walling, the wealthy Socialist writer and worker, for alleged breach of promise of marriage, the jury in the Supreme Court, which has been trying her $100,000 suit against Walling, decided on Saturday. The jury, after an all-night session, brought in a verdict for the defendant.

ZION CITY TO RESIST ORDER

State Board Has Called for General Vaccination.

Special to The Review.

Chicago, March 6—A large number of the residents of Zion City which was founded by the late Alexander Dowie are preparing to make an armed resistance against the order of the State Board which has gone out and calls for a general vaccination at Zion City.

BILL MAY BE AMENDED BEFORE ANOTHER SESSION OF SENATE

Riotous Disorder at Closing of Congress.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, Makes a Lot of Trouble.

Washington, March 6.—The 61st Congress came to an end yesterday afternoon, and the 62nd Congress will be called in special session on April 4, to act on measures which the 61st Congress failed to pass. All the big appropriation bills got through, but President Taft's tariff board measure was lost in the House and the proposition to admit New Mexico and Arizona jointly to statehood was lost in the Senate.

The passing of the 61st Congress was attended by scene of riotous disorder both in the House and in the Senate.

Senator Bailey of Texas, wild with anger because his colleagues would not follow him in opposition to admitting Arizona as a state because of its radical constitution, tendered his resignation, and when Vice-President Sherman refused to accept it sent it by wire to Governor Colquit of Texas. Bailey expects to be promptly reelected by the Texas Legislature.

At the close of Congress on Saturday practically every member was at last ready to concede that they believe that there will be no delay in passing the agreement in the next House, but that as soon as the lower Chamber can be organized the McCall bill will be reported from the ways and means committee, in its present form and run through the House. This will then place it squarely before the Senate, and it is hoped to avoid further hearings in the finance committee. This stimulates the belief that the McCall bill ratifying the treaty will be back again before the Senate in its present position probably a good deal before the end of March, provided that the new session is called as early as is now expected, and is promptly organized.

Reports were current that the President had concluded to accept a few amendments to the treaty, provided the Canadians could be induced to assent to them.

This report was based upon the fact that Consul-General Foster of Ottawa has been called here for conference and that the Canadian Cabinet member is likely to arrive here very shortly. The latter visit will, however, have no direct bearing upon reciprocity, but it is thought possible that the President, when the current conferences are over, may indicate a willingness to accept a few changes in the agreement, provided they are not objectionable to the Canadians. These, it is believed, will be in the direction of freer trade.

If the President should conclude to place such items as meat products, flour and a few others on the free list of the treaty, he would undoubtedly meet the demands of the insurgents, and would take away much of the basis of their argument against the agreement. In that event the document might be considerably strengthened before the country. No such course has been definitely determined upon, but the indications are that even if it is not, the insurgents and Democrats in the Senate will have the votes to amend the agreement in the direction indicated. It would probably be good politics to anticipate them.

There is no positive prediction here in any quarter as to the length of time that will be required to pass the deciprocity treaty in the Senate. There is a pretty general concession that it can be adopted in some form, whether amended or unamended, if brought to a vote. Estimates as to the time required vary from two weeks upwards.

It is already evident that the paper people intend to offer a very bitter opposition to the ratification of the document. They are preparing for strenuous resistance and the latest proposition seems to be that of retaining at least some portion of the existing tariff, Canada, of course, to do the same. Presumably this would not vitiate the agreement, particularly as the Canadians have not shown much anxiety to accept it, and the terms of the document postpone the subject to the indefinite future in any case. This, however, will not be done without a very sharp struggle.

The call for an extra session was as follows:

Whereas, by this special message, date Jan. 26, 1911, there was transmitted to the Senate and House of representatives an agreement between the Department of State and the Canadian Government in regard to reciprocal tariff legislation, together with an earnest recommendation that the necessary legislation be promptly adopted;

"And, whereas a bill to carry into effect said agreement has passed the House of Representatives, but has

TO FIGHT THE TYPHOID

Exhaustive Inquiry to be Made at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 6.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the Commission on Conservation, has offered the City of Ottawa the services of the chief medical adviser of the commission, Dr. Hodgetts, to make an exhaustive enquiry into the source of Ottawa's typhoid outbreak.

To Mayor Hopewell Mr. Sifton stated yesterday that the commission's business included assisting in just such a case as this. Dr. Hodgetts, he said, would be given any assistance he required, and he would be allowed all the time necessary to make a full enquiry.

The mayor and the medical health officer both approve of the suggestion, and so the Board of Health has been called for a special session to-night to consider acceptance of the offer.

YOUNG LAD'S BODY TO BE EXHUMED

It Is Alleged He Died From Wounds Inflicted by School Teacher

Special to The Review.

Ottawa, March 6.—The body of Hector Remil'ard, ten years of age, and a school boy, will be exhumed for an autopsy. The young lad died last Thursday, supposedly from an attack of meningitis, but it has been alleged that the real cause of his death was that he was beaten about the head by the school teacher, Brother Theodore Remil'ard, holding a position at Notre Dame College, in Hull.

Confessed to Murder.

St. Leonard De Nicolet, Que., March 6.—Hormidas Trepanier, a farmer, 45 years of age, of St. Leonard de Nicolet, was arrested at his home yesterday by Chief McCaskell of the provincial police for the murder of Maurice Plouffe, whose body was found on the road between Three Rivers and St. Leonard de Nicolet on Thursday night.

Last night Chief McCaskell stated that Trepanier had confessed he had killed Plouffe by stabbing him in the neck and smashing his skull in with an axe. The murder was committed in Trepanier's stable and the body afterwards taken out and left on the main road, where it was found Thursday night by Joseph Lord, a general storekeeper, of St. Leonard de Nicolet, who was returning from a business trip to Three Rivers.

Wants New Party.

Vancouver, March 6.—Quite a political stir has arisen in Vancouver over a local agitation to enlarge the limits of the city to take in South Vancouver. The latter is now a city of over 40,000, and of three times the area of Vancouver itself. The climax of the agitation came on Saturday night when 2,000 annexationists, at a mass meeting, called on the five members for Vancouver in the Legislature to resign. Mayor Taylor challenged any or all to contest a seat against him, and especially submitted his invitation to Attorney-General Bowser.

The mayor, whose newspaper has always been Liberal in politics, said that he could get satisfaction out of neither political party, Liberal or Conservative, and proposed that a new provincial party be formed to fight both. No action was taken along this line.

THE PRICE OF PLEASURE

Ninety Persons Killed in Moving Picture Show Fire

Special to The Review.

St. Petersburg, March 6— Ninety persons were burned or trampled to death, in a bad fire which destroyed a moving picture theatre at Bologoe, in Novgord province. The list of dead includes a large number of young people and women. Forty others received injuries of a more or less serious nature.

In an effort to escape from the burning building the men, used all their strength and the women and children were struck down in the stampede.

W. H. Eves, of Collingwood, recently found a pearl worth about $150 among some oysters.

John Miller, of Castleton, has been appointed a Dominion Fishery Overseer for Cobourg and district at a salary of $500.

Mr. Miller's sale at Invernuron was a great success, two year old cattle averaging about $60 and the sheep $22 per pair.

SHOOTING PAINS IN SIDE, ARMS, BACK

Prove the Presence of Rheumatic Virus, Which Is Cured Quickest by Nerviline—Rub It In.

Pains in the muscles, in the sides, the back, the neck, or the chest—they always carry with them great discomfort. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense. If allowed to continue they are dangerous. Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation and drives away pain as Nerviline. Nerviline does this because it penetrates so deeply. Nerviline is not only powerful, but soothing. By relieving congestion it cures pain. It does this always. It cannot fail because . is a true antidote for pain. You can scarcely find anybody that will not tell you wonderful things about the pain-curing power of Nerviline. Remember, that there is not an ache or pain that Nerviline will not cure immediately. Nerviline is an anchor of health in every household.

Refuse anything that may be offered you instead of Nerviline, which is guaranteed for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, and all muscular aches and pains.

UNION LABEL

STILL ANOTHER PROPOSAL

One of the great reasons for the opposition of Canadians to the reciprocity arrangement is not the fear that doing a little more trading will be dangerous to Canada; but that it introduces a new and perilous phase of relations with the United States. Reciprocity is being opposed not for what it is, as for what it may lead to.

To get Canada placed in the position where it cannot reject overtures towards further unifying and amalgamating the commerce of the two nations, without shadowing the reciprocal relations, would mean a lot to the United States. It would give the shrewd American politicians a whip-hand with which to work very effectively. A series of such "closer relations" moves will be viewed with the greatest distrust and suspicion by the Canadian people.

We have a very forcible reminder of this situation in the resolution which Senator-Elect Townsend from Michigan, with the approval of, and apparently at the instigation of, the Taft Cabinet, is introducing into the House of Representatives, requesting the President to enter into negotiations with Canada to construct a deep waterway from the great lakes to the ocean via the St. Lawrence river. The United States proposes to help build this costly canal, and to help control it, even though it be through all Canadian territory.

We wonder if the United States imagines that it is going to be able to control canals in Canadian territory. It must be admitted that the attitude of this "loyal" government of Canada is inviting the United States to make any proposal towards closer relations that it deems wise; this, in spite of evidently hostile Canadian opinion. This Townsend resolution providing for the invasion of Canadian territory by peaceful means by a foreign power, will not do. There isn't much danger of it carrying, but it demonstrates the unpleasant position into which Canada will be forced if the reciprocity deal goes through.

Reciprocity is but the tempting bait, concealing the deadly fish-hook to catch the Canadian sucker. We may expect from now a continuous performance by American politicians and people looking each time to more entanglements with the United States, more proposals of generously assisting us into their power: more "good trade relations" tying us to their chariot wheel, to be dragged around at their pleasure.

Reciprocity may benefit one or two little articles of Canadian production, but it means the maintenance by Canada of "a vigilance committee" to seek out the concealed object of each overture. It is going to be a test of Canadian nationality vs. alluring trade enticements.

MUST COMMIT SUICIDE

The Ottawa Free Press, (Grit) intimates that Canada will have reciprocity even if the heavens fall. It says: "If, as stated in a Washington despatch, Sir Wilfrid Laurier were to receive a message from President Taft asking for a postponement of the ratification of the reciprocity agreement until next December, he would probably reply (of course in diplomatic language) that there may be cause for delay upon the part of the United States, but that the Canadian Government proposes to ask Parliament to proceed at once to implement its part of the tariff agreement, which is in these words:

"Such legislation on the part of the United States may contain a provision that it shall not come into operation until the United States Government are assured that corresponding legislation has been or will be passed by the Parliament of Canada; and in like manner the legislation on the part of Canada may contain a provision that it shall not come into operation until the Government of Canada are assured that corresponding legislation has been passed or will be passed by the Congress of the United States."

The Government here will do its part, no matter what may happen at Washington. The reciprocity resolutions will be put into law, and if the United States fails to do its part, the fault will not rest with Canada. In other words, the agreement will take the place of the "standing offer" of reciprocity, which was contained in the National Policy tariff from 1878 to 1896.

Mr. Fielding authorizes a denial of the statements from Washington to the effect that a member of the Cabinet has been sent there in company with United States Consul General Foster. Any correspondence which is taking place between Ottawa and Washington, if there is any (which, of course the Minister will not admit,) is taking place through the ordinary channels, and there is no indication that any serious change has come over the situation in the last few days.

Canada will carry out it's part of the compact; if the United States fails to do its share, Canada will be in no worse position and will have kept faith.

WHAT COMES NEXT?

The decision of President Taft to call an extra session of Congress to pass the reciprocity measure was foreshadowed in many dispatches. The genial president had hoped to force the measure through the Senate in spite of the obstructive tactics of its opponents by the use of this threat, but the bluff was called, and the President forced to make good.

With a Democratic majority in the lower house, and only ten votes less than the Republicans in the senate—where there are some ardent lower tariff Republican senators—the Democrats will be able to do very much as they please with reference to the reciprocity measure. This is in accord with the Democratic policy, but it remains to be seen whether the Democrats will consent to be the catspaw of the President, to pull his political chestnuts out of the fire.

It rather looks as if the Democrats will take their time with the reciprocity measure, and amend it in such a manner that the credit for the lowering of the tariff will not save President Taft's skin, but beautify their own.

Under the circumstances the situation in the United States capital exceeds in interest very much that at Ottawa, although opposition to the agreement by the people has sprung up in Canada with a tempest fury. The United States Senate has saved Canada temporarily, and it looks to political students and observers as if the Democrats will make some alteration, either enlarging the free scope of the agreement or in holding it over, pending a general tariff revision, and thus afford the Laurier government its much desired loop-hole of escape.

The situation in Canada is unique, and of absorbing interest at Washington, where the political chequer board is all awry.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The enormous prices being paid for the use of houses in London for the coronation, certainly indicate that somebody is going to profit handsomely by the great event.

In New York they have a law on the statute books which says that no poster shall be publicly displayed showing a scene of crime. New York prefers to keep them from public view.

The parliamentary coronation party will probably consist of thirty members of the House of Commons and five senators. The senate may have outlived its usefulness, but not at social functions.

The Ontario suffragettes have asked Sir James Whitney for the vote for women. The annual request was not accompanied in this case by brickbats, or anything more violent than a few well chosen words.

A big public meeting at Brockville has denounced the reciprocity act. Hon. Geo. P. Graham's presence seems to be badly needed at home. His constituents seem to be a trifle mixed in their opinion.

The Ontario Premier has denied that there is any split among the Conservative members on the question of reciprocity. The Conservative party is not demonstrating to the country by means of "bolters" that reciprocity is popular—for it isn't.

The United States Senate has whitewashed Lorimer, the corruptionist. We have the Pugsley scandals and other evidences of graft on our own side of the line, but Canada has far from reached the Lorimer stage yet.

Toronto will have a big public meeting to voice its protest against the reciprocity pact. If Toronto isn't careful the government will order its big navy to make a demonstration on the lake and overawe its rebellious spirit.

When the hotelmen threaten higher rates in answer to the new bar tax, they overlook the fact that Sir James might have something more to say on the subject. Hotel rates are plenty high enough now—not the price of booze, every boost of which is another step in the cause of temperance—and we fail to note the hotel men who would be hit heavily by the proposed tax looking anything but exceedingly prosperous.

Thomas Waterhouse, who beat his wife to death with a baseball club at Montreal, has been adjudged insane.

Mrs. C. J. Corrigan, a woman supposed to be wealthy, died at Hamilton and the police are looking for her relatives.

King George will entertain 100,000 children of London, according to announcement, at Crystal Palace on June 30.

It is rumored at Montreal that the Canadian Northern Railway and the T. Eaton Co. are after the St. James' Methodist Church property.

Miss Jeanette Lewis has purchased two buildings on Euclid avenue, Hamilton, and proposes to convert them into an hospital for children.

As a result of the injuries sustained at the Waterous Engine Works, Brantford, an 1,800-pound casting falling on him, Murdock Boss died on Saturday.

News reached Quebec yesterday of the death at St. Jean des Chaillon, of E. H. Laliberte, sergeant-at-arms of the Provincial House. Mr. Laliberte had been ill for only a short time.

Lying unconscious half immersed in the river, and the ice frozen around him, Joseph Brown, aged 50, of Youville, was found by the police of Maisonneuve, Que., on Saturday morning. He may recover.

The death took place at Quebec yesterday of Lady Casault, wife of the late Sir L. N. Casault, the former chief justice. She was in her 70th year. Her death was somewhat unexpected, she having been ill for only a couple of days.

The Port Arthur council will send a delegation to Ottawa to ask the Government to renew the iron and steel bounties and allow the mixing of grain at local elevators to offset any effect reciprocity might have to divert grain to Duluth routes.

Hotelmen to Raise Rates.

Toronto, March .—"The Government is simply declaring itself in as a partner in the profits of business. It takes a share of the profits, but assumes no responsibility for the losses," was the way one boniface expressed himself at a meeting of the Toronto Hotelkeepers' Association held yesterday afternoon at the King Edward Hotel, with President Wm. Hassard in the chair. Both the large and small hotels of the city were represented, and the members present were unanimous in their opinion that the proposed amendments to the Liquor License Act are unjust and constitute a serious blow at the interests of the trade in Toronto and throughout Ontario.

After a full discussion, resolution of protest against the Government's proposals was passed without a dissenting voice. Steps will be taken to put the views of the hotelmen before the Government. Should these fail to receive consideration, a general increase in hotel rates will probably follow, as a committee was appointed at yesterday's meeting to draft a new schedule of hotel rates which would make up the losses imposed upon the trade by the five per cent. tax on bar receipts, should the measure pass the Legislature. The hotel men declare that they will have to raise their rates if the bill is adopted.

Face Torn In Two.

Thornhill, March .—With his face split from the forehead to the lower jaw as the result of the bursting of a circular saw, Warren Page, the eldest son of Lewis Page, of the second concession of Vaughan Township is hovering between life and death with physicians in attendance holding out no hope of recovery.

A remarkable feature of the injury is that the gash goes the full length of his face, and yet both of his eyes escaped injury.

The Perfume of The Lady In Black

By GASTON LEROUX Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."

Copyright, 1909, by Brentano's.

"Walter, bring me the sack which you found at the Castillon yesterday."

Then he made a gesture to which we were all obedient—a gesture of dismissal. And we left the son face to face with the corpse of the father.

The next moment we saw that M. Darzac was swooning, and we were obliged to carry him into Old Bob's sitting room. But it was only a passing faintness, and soon he opened his eyes again and smiled at Mathilde when he saw her beautiful face bending over him with the look of dread in which we read the fear of losing her beloved husband at the very moment in which she had, through a chain of circumstances which still remained wrapped in mystery, found him again. He succeeded in convincing her that his life was not in any danger, and he added his entreaties to those of Mme. Edith that she would go away for a little while and try to get some rest. When the two women had left us, Arthur Rance and myself turned over our attention to our friend. For how could a man whom all of us had believed to be dead and who had been, with the death rattle in his throat, tied up in a sack and carried away have been able to rise again and step down living from the fateful panel? But when we had opened his shirt and discovered the bandage which hid the wound that he bore in his breast we recognized that this injury was not a very serious one. The ball which had struck Darzac in the midst of the savage fight which he had been obliged to make against Larsan had planted itself in the sternum, causing a bad external hemorrhage and weakening the entire organism, but fortunately suspending none of the vital functions.

As we finished the task of dressing the wound I heard steps in the corridor and a strange noise—the sound that one hears when a body is carried away on a stretcher. And I thought of Larsan and of the sack which was holding now for the second time "the body too many."

Leaving Arthur Rance to watch over M. Darzac, I hurried to the window. I had not been mistaken. I beheld the sinister funeral cortege in the court outside.

It was nearly nightfall. A gathering gloom surrounded everything.

Moving onward in the direction of the oubliette, I saw Rouletabille and Pere Jacques—two dark shadows bending over another shadow—a shadow which I recognized and which on that other night of horror I had believed to contain another dead body. The sack seemed heavy. The two men were scarcely able to lift it to the edge of the shaft. And I could see that the little passageway was open—yes, the heavy wooden lid which ordinarily closed it had been removed and was lying on the ground. Rouletabille leaped lightly over the edge of the oubliette and then made a step downward. He showed no hesitation. The way seemed to be familiar to him. In a few moments his figure vanished from sight. Then Pere Jacques pushed the sack into the passageway and leaned over the edge, apparently still holding on to his burden, which I could no longer see.

* * * * * * *

I left the square tower. I went to my own room in the new castle. I stationed myself at the window, and my eyes lost themselves in the depths of the shadows which covered the sea.

All at once far, very far off I fancied that I could see in the narrow red band which was all that remained of the setting sun something that seemed more unreal than a vision.

Into that narrow red band an object entered. It was the shadow of a fishing smack, which glided over the waters as automatically as though it were propelled by machinery, and as its movements became slower and I saw it emerging from the gloom I recognized the form of Rouletabille. The oars ceased to move, and I saw my friend rise to his feet. I could recognize him and see everything which he did as clearly as if he had not been ten yards away from me. His gestures were outlined against the red background of the sunset with a fantastic precision.

What he had to do did not take long. He leaned over and got up again, lifting in his arms something which seemed to mix with his form and become a part of himself in the darkness. And then the burden glided down into the water, and the man's figure reappeared alone, still bending, still leaning over the edge of the boat, remaining thus for an instant motionless, and then once more picking up the oars of the bark, which resumed its automatic motion until it had disappeared completely from the dying glare of the ever narrowing band of red. And then the band of red, too, vanished.

Rouletabille had consigned the body of Larsan to the waves of Hercules.

EPILOGUE.

The reader will recall the finding of a scrap of paper with "bonnet" on it, which was handed to Rouletabille. He unraveled its mysterious significance. Sainclair had picked it up just after he had missed Brignolles and Larsan on the mountain.

Larsan had schemed to shut up Darzac in a lunatic asylum and so get rid of an obstacle in his way. To do this the signature of a relative is required and of a doctor. Larsan induced Brignolles to give his name and himself forged that of a famous alienist. Rouletabille discovered that Darzac had actually been confined in the Mount Barbonnet asylum. He forced Brignolles to confess his crime and through this bit of paper secured Darzac's release.

Rouletabille explained to his friend his purpose when he dropped Rance's cane in front of the supposed Darzac. It was to see whether this Darzac would handle it in Larsan's peculiar way. When in the court he handed it and asked Darzac to loosen the carved stone with heavy blows the real Larsan lost his disguise as he straightened the stooping shoulders of the scholar and flourished the cane with the vigor of a true bandit.

Only one other person noticed the startling transformation and allowed Larsan to see that he was recognized.

That person was Bernier, and his lack of self control cost him his life. In his amazement he stumbled and fell on the flint dagger, which he was carrying, and as he turned over and shrieked in his death struggles he drew forth the ancient weapon from the wound with a violent effort that sent it flying yards distant.

THE END.

The Fruit Crop.

Toronto, March 6.—Reports from the fruit belt on the south shore of the lake indicate that the mild weather during the last week or ten days has had a quickening influence on the fruit trees. In the cherry and peach orchards the buds are already showing, and though hard as yet, are well formed. The best authorities in the district say that the trees never looked better, and all the face signs point to an early spring. A slight fall of snow occurred yesterday, but not enough to affect the ground. The frost is gradually coming out.

DRUNK, REVEALED CRIME.

Pal Convicted of Murder—Intoxicated Scotchman Told Girl of Tragedy.

Calgary, Alta., March 4.—John Fisk was yesterday found guilty of murder for having assisted in the murder of an aged rancher, Tucker Peach, near here. The jury added a recommendation to mercy.

Fisk owes his predicament to another man implicated, John Mitchell Robertson. He will be tried later. Had not Robertson became intoxicated and talked too much to a girl both he and Fisk would probably be today at large.

Last June a headless body was found fastened to a tree root in Bow River, thirty miles southeast of Calgary. There was no evidence of wounds except a little puncture in the body. It was supposed that a prospector had been drowned and his body had floated down in the ice. In November a skull was found near where the headless body had been discovered. A small hole in the forehead indicated murder.

The next step in the tragic drama followed a report from Macleod that a man, while intoxicated, had told a girl that he knew about a murder near Calgary. The girl informed the police, and Robertson was arrested on the charge of intoxication. He was taken to Okotoka, and then confessed that he and John Fisk had killed Tucker Peach.

He said that on the morning of May 19 he and Fisk went to Peach's ranch, that Fisk drew a revolver and shot Peach as the latter was sitting in bed, and that Fisk then handed the weapon to him, Robertson, and told him to shoot also. Robertson said that he obeyed. He believed, however, that the bullet that Fisk fired entered the rancher's head, while his penetrated the body.

Fisk's defence was a general denial.

Young But Wise.

Cute youngsters have been at it again, and here are some of their sayings and doings:

In an office in Toronto is an office boy who has some idea of what should and what should not be coming to him. He never actually objects when anybody asks him to hurry out to deliver a message, but across a paper on his desk he recently wrote, in large, easily-seen letters, "Rush orders a delight."

In a school in a Western Ontario town is a little girl who has not taken quickly to the mysteries of addition. "One 'n one?" asked the teacher, while putting the class through the easiest of the addition tables. The little girl referred to was the only person in the class who couldn't give the answer. "Two 'n one?" asked the teacher. The little girl smiled confidently, put up her hand and, when noticed by the teacher, said "Shoe polish."

Another lad of four years was asked to "stay to tea" at a house in Toronto where he had spent the afternoon with the children of the house. The head of the house being away, the mother decided to have for herself and children a simple meal including cornmeal mush. Not being sure how the little visitor would like the idea, she said to him, "Do you like porridge?" "Yes," admitted the child, and he added feelingly, "But I don't like it when I'm out for tea."—Courier

Died In West Indies.

Montreal, March 6.—News was received yesterday of the death of Chas. Boyd, of the firm of Manderloh & Co., importers, shipping and commission merchants of this city, who had gone to Nassau, N.P., Bahama Islands, to escape the rigors of the Canadian winter. Deceased was born at Lachute, Quebec, and was 63 years of age.

Reciprocity Denounced.

St. Catharines, March 6.—The City Conservative Association Saturday night held a largely attended smoker, when reciprocity was again denounced by Dr. Smellie, M.P.P., Fort William; E. A. Lancaster, M.P., Dr. E. Jessop, M.P.P., and Louis Blake Duff, editor of The Welland Telegraph. Dr. Smellie also spoke on the advancement of New Ontario since the advent to power of Sir James Whitney, the mining, forestry and educational policies all being thoroughly outlined and explained. Dr. Jessop is arranging for the appearance of R. R. Gamey of Manitoulin at the next smoker.

Hot Times Expected.

Springhill, N.S., March 6.—Twenty policement arrived at Springhill yesterday from Cape Breton for the purpose of giving protection to the strikers who want to return to work in the mines. Whether the policemen who come from Cape Breton have the requisite commission to enable them to act legally in Springhill is not known. The town authorities are not in favor of the newcomers and may refuse to recognize them. Hot times are expected.

The flavor, fragrance and deliciousness of "SALADA" TEA make it the favorite of all lovers of good tea. Sealed lead packages only.

CARBOLIC ACID.

Peculiar Effect Pure Alcohol Has on This Irritant Poison.

One of the most frequent irritant poisons used for suicidal purposes is carbolic acid, and a more agonizing death could not be selected. Why any one should select this poison it is hard to understand unless on account of the fact that it is cheap and easily obtainable. This form of poisoning can usually be easily recognized by the odor, which is well known, and by the white burns or marks on the lips and mouth, which are typical of carbolic acid poisoning.

Send for the nearest physician, and in the meantime, as carbolic acid kills quickly, the first aid treatment must be prompt in order to get results. If possible cause the patient to vomit by giving an emetic, such as ipecac or salt and water, a tablespoonful to a pint of warm water. This, however, frequently fails to work on account of the irritated condition of the mucous membrane of the stomach. One of the best chemical antidotes is epsom salt in solution. Another good chemical antidote is alcohol, the only trouble with this remedy being that it cannot be given in a pure form. It has to be diluted with water and for that reason loses its efficacy.

Just exactly why alcohol counteracts the effect of carbolic acid is not known, but if, for instance, carbolic acid is splashed on the hands and they are at once immersed in absolute alcohol there will be no resulting burn.—Dr. H. H. Hartung in National Magazine.

ROUTED THE SINGER.

Tosti's Encounter With a Persistent and Peppery Stranger.

"Tosti used to tell an amusing little story of feminine persistence," says Harold Simpson in his book, "A Century of English Ballads." It was during one of his busiest mornings, with a long list of singing lessons to be got through, that a knock came at the door of Tosti's flat. His valet was ill, and so Tosti went to the door himself. A lady, a stranger to him, stood on the threshold.

"'Signor Tosti?' she inquired.

"Tosti bowed.

"'Oh,' said the lady, 'I am singing your song, "My Memories," at Manchester tonight, and I want you to kindly run through it with me.'

"'Madame,' answered Tosti politely, but firmly, 'I fear it is impossible. I have two pupils with me now, and a third is waiting in the anteroom, while others will shortly be arriving.'

"'But you must!' the lady persisted.

"'I am sorry'— began Tosti again when he suddenly received a violent push backward and the lady walked into the studio.

"Tosti followed, protesting. After a long argument, which threatened to become heated, the lady snapped out:

"'Very well; I shan't sing your song, then!'

"'Madame,' said Tosti, taking her by the hand, 'I am infinitely obliged to you.'

"The lady gave one look at him and fled."

When Lawyers Are Quiet.

One George Wilson, a lawyer, who had much litigation, in some of which he was personally interested as a party or as a trustee, finally passed away, and a short funeral sermon was delivered by a member of the bar in the presence of a few old personal friends. The lawyer told how the old man had been abused and maligned, but that, in fact, he had helped the poor and unfortunate often and was not a bad man.

On returning from the services an old lawyer was asked by another lawyer about the services and what was said. The old lawyer replied, "For once old George could not file a demurrer or motion to any of the proceedings which had taken place."

The lawyer who made the inquiry replied, "Well, this must be the first time George did not move for arrest of judgment."—Green Bag.

Wagner as an Acrobat.

Ferdinand Praeger related an incident of a visit to Wagner at his Swiss home. The two men sat one morning on an ottoman in the drawing room talking over the events of the years. Suddenly Wagner, who was sixty years old, rose and stood on his head upon the ottoman. At that moment Wagner's wife entered. Her surprise and alarm caused her to run to her husband, exclaiming, "Ah, Richard, Richard!" Quickly recovering himself, he assured her that he was sane and wished to show that he could stand on his head at sixty, which was more than Ferdinand could do.

A Hiccough Cure.

A correspondent writes to us to the effect that he has found hanging by the hands with the legs clear of the ground, the hands well apart and the breath held for say fifteen seconds, an infallible cure for hiccoughs. With children, hold them up off the ground by both hands. Our correspondent states that he has never found this method to fail.—London Globe.

Prosaic.

They began their honeymoon trip in the day coach.

"Darling," he murmured, "I can see the coals of love in your eyes."

"Them ain't coals, Jonathan," she said; "them's cinders."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Changed Impressions.

"What has become of that man who talked hard times so vigorously?"

"Oh, we won't hear any more of that from him," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "He's on the other side of the market now."—Washington Star.

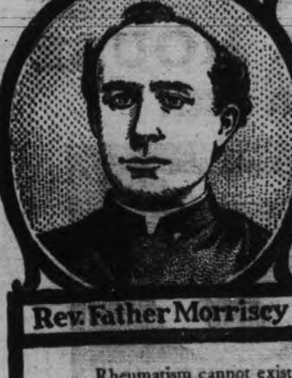
Rheumatism for Several Years—Now as well as Ever



Rev. Father Morriscy

647 Main St., St. John, N. B., Nov. 27. 1908.
Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd.
I am writing to tell you I have been a victim to Rheumatism for several years, and have been treated by seven doctors without finding any permanent relief until I got Father Morriscy's medicine. It has cured me so I am able to do my work and find I am as well as ever in my life.
Yours truly,
JOHN CRAWFORD.

Rheumatism cannot exist when the kidneys are in perfect working order for then they take out of the blood all the Uric Acid, which alone causes the Rheumatism.

Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets

act directly on the kidneys, toning them up and helping them to clear the blood of the Uric Acid. If the Rheumatism is of long standing it may take some time to clear out all the poison, but almost from the first "No. 7" Tablets relieve the pain, and if used faithfully they rarely fail to cure.

Even if other remedies have done you no good, do not give up till you have tried Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets.

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

THE LATEST MUSICAL SUCCESS

Pretty Catchy Songs in "The Goddess of Liberty" at "The Grand" To-night

Mort H. Singer's "The Goddess of Liberty," which musical comedy has a record of 300 performances at the Princess Theatre, Chicago, comes to the Grand to-night.

The play is in three acts, all of which are literally studded with musical numbers. The company presents a sensational array of talent, there being over a score of principals all of national repute as fraceurs, singers and dancers. The chorus which is one of the chief assets of all musical organizations is one of the big features of this attraction and "The Goddess of Liberty" has more pretty girls and more graceful girls in its chorus ranks than any musical offering of recent years.

Among the many musical numbers are the following—

"Don't Choose a Gibson Girl" "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" by request; "Lonely," "What's the Use of Dreaming," "If all the Moons were Honeymoons," "Something," "The Haunted Pool," "Let's Pretend," "The Life Guards," "Here's to the Last Girl," "Tummy Tummy Tum," and "Oskee How—How."

Canadian Authors

The following is from the Quebec Chronicle, Feb. 13.

"It is interesting to note that the three most successful Canadian authors are from the Prairie Provinces. Canada's three best sellers this year are by Western authors. They are "Janey Canuck in the West" by Emily Ferguson, (Mrs. Arthur Murphy of Edmonton); "The Trail of '98") by Robert W. Service, and "The Second Chance" by Mrs. Nellie McClung of Manitou, Man.

Why the Wheat Grower Will Not Benefit From the Reciprocal Pact

Robert Meighen Tells Some Things of Great Interest to the Farmer of Canada

To the Editor of the Globe:

Sir,—I notice that both in and out of Parliament it is alleged by certain speakers that the agreement now before the Canadian Parliament, if ratified, will enable the western farmer to receive a higher price for his wheat.

I have combated the argument time and again. Let me now place before you the strong words and views of Mr. James S. Bell, delivered before a meeting of transportation and milling men in November, 1903. Mr. Bell is president of the Washburn-Crosby Company. They operate by far the largest milling plant in the world, with headquarters and the largest plant at Minneapolis and the second largest plant at Buffalo, with subsidiary mills scattered throughout the United States.

I may say to you that I place Mr. Bell as the foremost, or at least one of the foremost, business men in the west. When he speaks on a business matter his words are words of wisdom, and particularly so when it is a question of the business in which he is engaged. This statement is borne out by facts and the great success he has made of the enterprise of which he is the head. Let us hear what he had to say on the above mentioned occasion. Mr. Bell spoke as follows;

"We have a country to the north of us which raises large quantities of wheat; but there is a barrier between Canada and the United States which prevents our milling that wheat, except in the face of many obstacles. I hope that some day those obstacles may be removed. It is absolutely absurd for the United States to levy a duty of 25 cents on every 60 pounds of wheat that comes into this country. No one needs such protection if you will think a moment. The mills in Canada cannot possibly grind more than a very small percentage of the Canadian crop. Consequently the raw material—wheat—must be shipped to foreign markets. This Canadian wheat in foreign markets comes in direct competition with the wheat from Minnesota and North and South Dakota. It affects the price on the bargain counter in Liverpool, and it makes the price in Minneapolis, it makes the price in Duluth, it makes the price everywhere.

The company which I represent has made experiments in grinding Canadian wheat, and we can say to you plainly that the indirect advantages are many. It enables us to run and operate our mills even in the face of obstacles and it brings that much additional business into this country. The railroads receive that much more additional tonnage; our laboring men have that much more work; our cooper shops and bag factories have this benefit."

From the foregoing you will note the opinion of this eminent business man on the situation. When those words were uttered seven years ago Canada, as he then said, could only mill a small portion of her crop. The Dominion now has a milling plant which, if operated to its capacity, could produce flour to supply thirty millions of people, thereby requiring one hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat annually. We have not yet produced one hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat.

"Now, gentlemen," continued Mr. Bell, "the foreigner does not take both wheat and flour. If he takes wheat he doesn't need the flour. The foreigners have their own mills to grind it. Here in this country—the United States—we have a capacity more than sufficient to grind our entire crop. Some day we hope to educate our elevator men and our transportation to the advantage of holding the wheat back in the country rather than giving extraordinary facilities for the moving of the raw material in preference to the manufactured article.

Mr. Bell is not only alive to the advantages to be derived from grinding their entire crop, but he is also anxious to secure the Canadian wheat to operate the American milling plants to their largest capacity. Shall we commit commercial suicide by forwarding our raw material to the United States to be milled there? As Mr. Bell says, they have the milling capacity to grind more than their entire crop.

This preaching of the doctrine that by taking down the bars the Canadian farmer would receive a higher market value for his wheat is entirely erroneous.

In following the discussion on this question, the crucial point made by those in favor of the proposed agreement is that it would "open an additional consuming market of 90,000,000 of people." While I concede the ability of the gentlemen who take that stand and the plausible arguments they use from their standpoint, while well aware that they are very eminent men and do credit to the universities from which they graduated, yet there is one greater university or college from which, apparently, they have not yet graduated—namely, the world's college. Their arguments are based on theory. They evidently have never handled the animal in his native den—they have only read of it.

Mr. Bell puts this matter very plainly, that at that time we were making the price on the bargain counter in Liverpool, at the mill door in Minneapolis and Duluth, and everywhere. These words are much more applicable to-day than ever before. It is greatly in the interest of the Americans that our wheat be shipped to them in the raw state. They can mill it to supply our foreign customers, diverting the trade from us. At the same time they will enjoy a consuming market at home for the by-products, building up their dairying industry, of which the by-products are the corner-stone.

They exercise great care to maintain a specific duty on Canadian flour at 50 cents per barrel and 12 cents per hundred pounds on by-products equal to $2.50 per ton), enabling them to capture the foreign market for their low-grade flour from the Canadian miller.

Referring again to Mr. Bell. His words, from the business standpoint, are worth more and should carry more weight than the utterances of all the theorists that would stand in double file from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The policy now before the Canadian Parliament I consider, from the Canadian standpoint, commercial suicide. If enacted into law, every farmer in the broad acres of this fair oDminion, from the Atlantic westward to the Pacific, will know it, and know it to his sorrow. Time will tell.

I again repeat that the governments of Great Britain and the colonies should grant to one another a substantial preference in duties, and that, in so far as their respective revenues will permit, the principle of free trade within the Empire should prevail. If the Dominion of Canada take a firm hand on that policy we will yet see that system adopted in the near future.

In a word, let us stand shoulder to shoulder in this very acute crisis and preserve the integrity of the Empire.

Robert Meighen.
President and Managing Director of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., Limited.

A TREAT FOR PETERBOROUGH

Miss Vesta Victoria, who is to appear here shortly, is supported by Ivanowski, the Russian pianist; Van Camp, a Holland psychic with a wonderful repertoire of East Indian necromacy; Frank Bush, unquestionably one of the wittiest story tellers the United States has produced; Johnny Ford, a celebrated eccentric dancer; The Church City Quartette, four melodists, whose home is in New Zealand, and who have gained world's fame for their singing; the Maclaren Family, five Scotch musicians, whose selections are novel and wonderfully well played; Roy Barton, Dublin's famous pianist, accompanist, and the celebrated Australian prima donna, Tillie Terrise.

Altogether the entertainment is one of the most strikingly original and satisfying that has ever been offered to the Canadian public. The seat sale opens Wednesday.

A charity ball held in Brockville, realized $350.50, which will go to the hospital.

FAVERSHAM TO BE SEEN IN THE FAUN

A New Dramatic Novelty Coming to the Grand March 29

William Faversham who will present Edward Knoblauch's comedy, "The Faun" at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday, March 29, has proved since becoming his own manager, that he is not afraid of a dramatic novelty. It is an axiom of the drama that the public is slow to accept anything in the theatre that departs from the conventions. But the truth of the matter is, that while the old and tried will do very well for a time, the playgoer finally grows weary and runs after the new and novel, Mr. Knoblauch's comedy, "The Faun" belongs in the latter category, for it is one of the most unique and original plays that has been seen on the New York stage in our time. Mr. Faversham's impersonation of the faun is a wide departure from anything that the actor has attempted in recent years. While a characterization new to the theatre, it is capitally executed. "The Faun," is the one play fo the decade that, while the auditor is kept in roars of laughter during the progress of the play, causes him to think after he has left the playhouse. The drama is not a preachment, yet it points out in its brilliant lines and diverting situations many wholesome truths.

FAREWELL TO SCOUTMASTER

Boy Scouts Regret the Departure of Mr. Hodges of Winnigeg

About one hundred Boy Scouts gathered at the C.P.R. station yesterday afternoon to bid farewell to their late Scoutmaster, Mr. Hodges, who left for Winnipeg, where he has accepted a position and will reside in future.

His departure was a surprise to most of the scouts, as his intention to leave the city was made known by him only several days ago.

Mr. Hodges gave his farewell address at the Y.M.C.A. Sunday morning Bible class. He expressed his regret at having to leave the boys, but assured them that they would be always in his memory. He also urged them to keep close to their Bibles and continue to help the other fellow.

On behalf of the boys Mr. Tait, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A., presented Mr. Hodges with a purse of gold.

ONE MONTH IN SUNNY FLORIDA

Another Letter From Mr. David Moore Who Has Returned to Toronto

The following is a letter from Mr. David Moore, of the Review bindery, who has returned to Toronto after a visit to Florida—

In the month we spent there, Florida provided a very fine climate, but in many other respects the trip was disappointing to me.

After the first fascination of beholding the semi-tropical foliage, I cannot say that "every prospect pleases," for the scenery generally is of a very flat, uninteresting nature.

We visited some fine groves, and saw the process of picking, sorting and packing oranges, tangevines and grapefruit, and saw the extensive fieldsi n many places where pineapples are grown. This crop is not so profitable, I understand, as it might be, if the Cuba crop was not a trifle earlier on the market, and if Mr. Flagled's railroad did not favor Cuba in rates.

While at Miami I took a trip up the river there and saw the extensive work that is being done by state appropriation in the draining of the everglades. As a result of this draining the land agents are very active, and much land is being taken up by "men from all the earth," who expect to make their fortunes in growing vegetables on the so-called "rich muck lands." To look at the soil, one would say that their chances were good, but for one who has tried it and succeeded a hundred have failed. For the soil that looks so rich requires as much money to fertilize it every year as it originally cost to purchase it, or much more (from $40 to $50 an acre).

I was surprised to learn from one man that he received for his early shipment of string beans a price by the crate that would mean $12 or $14 a bushel, and I began to look for the millionaires. Oh, you fertilizer!

Then to hear some of the growers speak of "the big freeze" of 15 or 16 years ago is pathetic, for ever since, if they are not getting a "freeze" they are constantly in dread of one. And they sometimes get a frost, for one man told me he planted out tomatoes five times in one year. In spite of this, one sometimes sees big things in this line, as, for instance, not far from Boynton a field of three acres of tomatoes under cultivation some ready for picking.

While in Miami I saw and spoke to Mr. Cressman, and met a number at Palm Beach, St. Augustine and elsewhere, whom I knew.

RICH FIND OF GOLD ORE

By American Consular Agent Who Was in the City

Edgar C. Wakefield, American Consular Agent at North Bay, was in the city on Friday and stopped at the White House.

Mr. Wakefield and another gentleman discovered a very valuable gold ore claim in the Porcupine district recently.

A wealthy syndicate at Ottawa heard of the discovery and wired Mr. Wakefield at Port Hope on his way to Peterborough, making him an offer of $90,000 for the claim.

It is not known whether Mr. Wakefield accepted the offer or not.

BASKET SOCIAL A BIG SUCCESS

Young People of Springville Realized $36.70

A basket social was held Friday night in the town hall, North Monaghan, under the auspices of the Girls' Mission Band, of Springville church.

Bert Sanderson, as chairman, called the following program—Music by Miss Olive Tully, Geo. Reynolds and Bert Sanderson; singing by the church choir; speeches by F. Wilson and Rev. Dr. Marsh; readings and recitations by Viola Dobbin, Merton Collins, Greta Clarke, Lillian Hooten; drill by children trained by Miss Tully, and a dialogue in three acts, "Drunkard Saved."

John Marsh was accompanist of the evening.

After the program the baskets were sold by James Marsh, and the refreshments partaken of.

The proceeds netted by the entertainment amounted to $36.70.

THE LATE JOHN GARBUTT

In the death of John Garbutt, of Smith township, who passed away Saturday afternoon at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Manson Comstock, at 219 Sherbrooke street, this county lost a pioneer resident, and one who, in completing his allotted span of life, will long be remembered as one having done everything within his power to promote the common good of the community in which he had lived for many years. His was an enterprising, straightforward and useful life. Well known and respected by all, his passing will be linked with thoughts of a man who had set up high ideals, and lived them out as the days would come and go.

His death was due to a general breakdown. He had suffered from rheumatism for some years, and of late it could be seen that the end was but a matter of time.

The late Mr. Garbutt was in his 77th year, he having been born near Port Hope in the year 1834. His father was the late Isaac Garbutt, an ex-reeve of the township, and warden of the county. When but an infant, he removed, with his father, to the then wilderness of Smith township, and to all vicissitudes and changes which successful pioneers in a new land encounter and overcome. Later he became a prosperous farmer, owning three hundred acres of land, and residing at lot 18 concession 3. He was married to Anne Davidson, daughter of the late James Davidson, who predeceased him some twenty years ago. He interested himself in politics, not purely for party reasons, but to do what he thought best for his township. As an adherent of the Baptist church, he attended regularly until his late illness prevented of such. He took great interest in the promotion of the agricultural interests, was president of the township agricultural society, and had always been regarded as one of the most intelligent and influential farmers of the municipality.

Surviving are two daughters and two sons, who are Mrs. E. F. Mason and Mrs. Manson Comstock, of this city, and Messrs. J. H. Garbutt, Smith, and R. A. Garbutt, on the homestead. The brothers are Messrs. Isaac, of Dummer; Harry, of Smith, and William, of Douro.

The funeral which was largely attended took place this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery, the pallbearers being his two sons, two brothers and two brothers-in-law. Service was held at the home, and at the grave by Rev. J. R. eWbb, pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church.

ELLIOTT'S READY TO WEAR OPENING

Exhibit of New Goods at the Beehive This Week

Elliot's ready-to-wear opening this week will partake more of the nature of an exhibition of the newest things in ready to wear.

The American and Canadian ready-to-wear factories have arranged to send to Elliott's store this week, samples of their most up-to-date patterns in dressy suits waists, skirts, etc. The divided skirt will also be shown.

Everything that is worth seeing in ladies ready to wear goods will be shown. The idea is to show the ladies how moderately priced the newest and most stylish garments can be made for.

The dressy dress that would cost you about $35.00 to 50.00 to get made will be shown to you at for little more than half the price.

In suits, skirts, etc. the same idea is brought out. In the dresses the Charlotte Corday style is shown in pretty black and white effects.

Among the New York patterns, of which there is quite a number, the bead trimming is largely shown, with very fine texture thrown over silk, under lining.

There are some very pretty all over silk embroidered gowns with chantilly lace garniture. Also some very pretty foilard dresses are being shown in the new designs.

In the tailored suits there is quite a large showing. Among them a very fine all wool serge suit in the new tailored design with silk collar, lined with silk, for $15.00.

The new spring coats are being shown in the long and short lengths.

In the blouse section the tailored blouse takes a very prominent place. This dressy blouse is shown in many pretty effects. The majority of them are made from pure linen material. This blouse for regular wear is going to be the most popular style for 1911.

The most prominent feature which will be carried out in connection with Elliot's ready to-wear department is that under no condition whatever, will there be two dresses of the same style and pattern, and therefore there will be no possibility whatever of two ladies having the same pattern. In the children's dress section there is a large showing of some very dainty dresses for little girls, and their bigger sisters.

The altering department will be looked after by expert dress makers and the whole department will be under the charge of Mrs. Russell, who has been for many years an expert ready to-wear specialist in the large centres of the United States.

In Memoriam Class

Judge Huycke will meet his In Memoriam Class at the Y.W.C.A. this evening at eight o'clock.

OBITUARY

Death of Philip Amys

Death claimed an old and respected resident yesterday in the person of Philip Thomas Amys, aged 76 years and son of the late John Hewitt Amys of the Hill, Rickinghall, Suffolk, Eng.

BANK LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP WON BY DOM-OTTAWA SEVEN

Champs Were Ahead 3-0 at the Half and Tallied Twice in Second Period

On Saturday evening the Dominion-Ottawa septet won the championship of the Bank League by defeating the Royal-Commerce aggregation. Score 5—0. The players were inclined to rough it a little, but the referee Bud Kelly, always had the game in hand and delivered penalties without hesitation.

The score does not indicate the play and if the players had paid a little more attention to the playing of the game and not so much to returning trips and slashes, the quality of hockey would have been much better.

For about ten minutes neither side could score, but on some nice combination work the Dominion-Ottawa boys managed to tally. Corkery finding the nets with a side shot. Though the Montrealers had some good chances they failed to count, while their opponents scored twice more before half-time.

During the second period Montreals made a frantic effort to overcome the lead, but their sensational stunts were of no avail as the others were there to stop them, and succeeded so well as to score twice before the final call. For the winners Ross and Corkery were the shining lights, while for the losers "Curley" Elliott was the most conspicuous.

The lineup:

Dom.-Ottawa.		Montreal.
	Goal.
Sawyers		Sheffield
	Point
Radcliffe		Ross
	Cover
Perks		Quinlan
	Centre
Elliott		Thompson
	Right Wing
Fitzgerald		Corkery

SHOOTING

At Yeotes' Gallery

Great interest was taken in the target shooting contest last week at Yoetes Bros.' gallery. The finals which were pulled off on Saturday night, ended in a three-man tie at 58 points out of a possible 60. Hugh McKay, with a score of 50, won the the prize, which was a fine B.B.B. pipe. The following are the scores—

PROFESSIONAL.

Hugh McKay, A. C. Miller, C. Gutterson, 58; J. Wall, Jas. Wilson, John Rose, E. Perry, J. Pearson, 56; F. D. Cole, G. R. Powell, E. Doxsee, C. Callaghan, Wm. Gill, Jas. Luken, A. Reynolds, D. Dennie, Joe Vinette, E. White, M. Kennelly, 55.

AMATEUR.

Ray Perry carried off the honors in this event, winning a fine pipe, while A. W. Brumwell secured second choice—a fine box of cigars. The scores were—

Roy Perry, 59; A. W. Brumwell, 58; J. Reynolds, N. Meeks, J. W. Stewart, 57; E. Hurtubise, W. J. Richmond, J. Huxley, J. Bullied, 56; A. Chapman, H. Blade, E. Edgar, S. Robinson, 55; E. Bidgood, P. Hamlin, 54; A. Andrews, J. McGowan, N. Phelan, Fred Kelly, L. Pitcher, A. Sarels, 53.

This week's contest begins to-day, and the prizes are worth contesting for.

CURLING

Only two games were played in the local bonspiel Saturday night. The scores were—

Fitzgerald		Taylor
Skip......	9	Skip......	12
Medd		Sturgeon
Skip......	13	Skip......	9

The following rinks are drawn for the consolation—

Merritt vs Lang.
McDermid vs Hicks.
Giroux vs Davidson.
Wightman vs J. H. Ferguson.
Neill vs Moore.

Four rinks under Skips Morrow, Matthews, Lockhart and Thompson, are going to Bobcaygeon to-morrow to play the return game for the Fitzgerald-Bottom shield. The locals are up on the games here.

Old Ball Player Dead

Dundas, March 4.—A famous baseball player of the olden days passed away here this morning in the person of Richard W. Williams, at the age of 61 years. He was a builder and contractor by trade, and resided in this district practically all his life. His only relative in this locality is a Mrs. Christian, of Hamilton, who is a sister. The deceased had been six for two months. He was said to be the first Canadian to receive money from United States cities for his services as a ball player, and was the first Canadian to use the modern curve ball.

Port Perry's new post office will have a frontage of 42 feet, a general height of 36 feet and a tower over 50 feet high.

BASEBALL

A special meeting of the Park St. Athletic Club will be held to-morrow evening in the basement of the Church at 8 p.m.

All young men interested in baseball or football, are most cordially invited to attend.

PUCKLAND

The C. G. E. toolroom seven and the Pillpounders meet to-night in a Mercantile League game that promises to be very interesting. Should the electrics come out ahead, the championship of the league will be their's.

Kingston Frontenacs play at home in the final for the Junior O.H.A. championship, with Orillia visiting with one goal to the good. The Orillians undoubtedly are a fast aggregation, but that single tally doesn't look enough for the local dopesters.

Preston will have a large local following at Midland to-morrow night, when they meet Midland for the second game of the finals for the intermediate championship. The invaders have three goals up their sleeve, but bigger propositions have been overcome by teams finishing on their own rink.

The married men and those not so happily fixed, of the Examiner will line-up for an exhibition at Brock street rink to-morrow night.

In a Mercantile League fixture on Saturday night, the Machine Shop team defeated the Lock Works seven.

The special, carrying about one hundred and fifty fans from Orillia, and points along the line, arrived in Peterborough about 11.15 o'clock today. The street cars were in readiness and conveyed them to the Oriental hotel for dinner, after which they proceeded on their way.

The team went to Kingston Saturday night to be in readiness for the game.

Earl of Crewe Ill.

London, March 6.—The Earl of Crewe, the Secretary of State for India, Lord Privy Seal and leader of the Government in the House of Lords, who has recently been suffering from the effects of overwork, was seized with a fainting spell after dinner on Friday night. He collapsed, and in falling struck his head on the floor. A bulletin issued by his physicians yesterday morning says the earl is suffering from concussion of the brain, but that his condition is as satisfactory as could be expected.

It is understood that Viscount Morley, the Lord President of the Council, will take up the leadership of the Government in the second Chamber and the representation of the India Office during the earl's absence, which is likely to last two months.

HOUSE CLEANING.

Commons and Senate Get a Thorough "Rubbing Up" at Christmas.

During long adjournments, such as for the Christmas and New Year holidays, the Parliamentary precincts wear an unusual aspect. The lobbies are given over to charwomen; lordly messengers take possession of Room 16, the Liberal headquarters, read the papers, and puff Laurier cigars. All the machinery of the big building stops, and the hum of the wheels is not heard until, fresh from their holiday festivities, the members troop in from the cities and back concessions, and go through the motions of work once more until the May flowers bloom on the hill. In the Senate the cleaners have again been at work during the past few days. In the main corridor, where hang the oil paintings of Speakers of the Upper House who have gone before, the whirling wheels of the sweeper have been busily engaged in sucking the dust from the red carpet. The gorgeous frames which surround the features of the old-timers have been furbished up, and an evident attempt made to make the Red Chamber and its surroundings lose their previous "morgue-like" appearance. One casualty has been reported. An energetic washerwoman, who was soaping the lion and the unicorn on the top of the throne, used the elbow grease so vigorously that she broke off the unicorn's tail. There was a council of war; old John Carleton, who has been the major domo of the Senate ever since there was such an institution, had a long conference with the carpenter downstairs, who used to be a ship liner on an Allan cattle ship, and between the two they managed to glue on the tail. But for a time the horrible thought that His Excellency might have to sit under a tailless unicorn quite upset the Senate staff. The glue was an excellent idea, as Ottawa stores are not glutted with a stock of unicorn tails. —Saturday Night.

THE JUDICIAL SANTA CLAUS.

Judge Morgan Can Hand Out a Pretty Severe Sentence When He Likes.

Whenever Judge Morgan takes charge of the county criminal cases, there is an outcry from the police and other persons who think too much leniency does more harm than good. The judge never imposes a sentence unless he cannot possibly help it, so thieves and shoplifters like to go before him. His white hair and his flowing white beard are a welcome sight to any one who has a story which will touch his kindly heart, and one little child sized him up very accurately a few weeks ago. A case was being tried, and a little girl who had come to court with her mother sat for a long time and watched the judge intently. Then she said to her mother, "Do you think I can go up and whisper to Santa Claus."

There are times, however, when the judicial Santa Claus shows his severity. Some years ago a young man won leniently by making a very elaborate speech about his desire to reform and to be a worthy son. He touched the judge's heart and was treated to one of his honor's well-known lectures; after which he received his freedom. The news spread abroad later that the young man's desire to reform evaporated at the door of the City Hall and he was boasting how he had pulled the wool over the judge's eyes. A detective picked him up one day when he was bragging to some of his boon companions, and as Judge Margan happened to be conducting court, he was placed in the dock immediately. He discovered that Santa Claus could hand out a real sentence when he saw fit, for the smart youth went down for four years.

Dr. Cash Forgot.

During the tour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party through the West embarrassing experiences were no doubt frequent. The following one is on Dr. E. L. Cash, M.P., Yorkton, Sask.

After the public welcome, speechmaking, etc., his constituents crowded around the doctor with requests that they be introduced to the leader. The doctor willingly complied, and then followed a long and confusing round of introductions. Finally, coming up to a group of men from a distant riding, the doctor found himself unable to remember their names and, stooping down, he went around the group saying, "Name, please; your name, please?" Upon straightening himself again to make the formal introductions, he found he could not remember a single name in the party. Just then one of his near neighbors happened along; the doctor was again forced to ask the name, and confidently affirms that if his own wife had appeared at that moment he would have been unable to introduce her without enquiring "Name, please."

Curiously enough, there's no member of Parliament more deeply interested in his constituents or more likely to remember their names on most occasions than Dr. Cash.

New Use for Electricity.

A new use for electricity has been discovered by an Ottawa man. Dr. Mark McElhinney, a dentist and inventor, has constructed a machine known as "Telelectron," which puts patients to sleep by placing them under the influence of a softened effect of Hertzian wave. The inventor confidently expects that his device will displace ether, chloroform and all other anaesthetics for hospital operations, and will also in time find a place in the bedchamber of victims of insomnia.

Dr. Grenfell's Conversion.

Dr. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist recently told how Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell was converted at a Moody meeting, because Mr. Moody interrupted an old deacon who had prayed all around the world twice and was starting a third time.

"While the brother concludes his prayer," said Moody, "let us sing a hymn." This held Dr. Grenfell and he stayed, and the result was the great work on the Labrador coast.

LEFT ON PATH OF INCOMING TRAIN

Jewish Junk Men Abandoned the Ship and Fled

There was quite a delay caused at the Charlotte street crossing at noon when a couple of Jews attempted to cross the track with a big load of scrap iron. The horse got stuck, and the driver, seeing the oncoming train, became very excited, and tried to force the beast across, with the result that the harness broke.

The owners immediately unhitched the animal from the sleigh and both ran for the stable, leaving the sleigh and load to their fate.

"Charlie" Noyes, who is always on the job, flagged the train, and the sectionmen, under the direction of Mr. Jackson, unloaded the sleigh and pulled it off the track.

When the owners returned, expecting to gather together the fragments, they found that the others had cleared the track and their property was uninjured.

Aim at Common Ends.

Paris, March 6.—M. Pichon, Foreign Minister in the late Cabinet of M. Briand, responding to a toast at a luncheon given on Saturday in his honor by the British and American correspondents, referred to the community of good-will between Great Britain, France and the United States. "During my long and difficult years as Foreign Minister," he said, "I have labored constantly to solidify the friendship between France, the United States and Great Britain. I am not entitled to any great merit in doing this, because how could I have been blind enough to act otherwise? There exists between England, the United States and France so marked an identity of aspirations and solidarity of interests that it would be chimerical to seek to separate these grand peoples who aim ever at common ends—liberty, social progress, democracy, and the maintenance of peace throughout the world."

M. Pichon, in concluding, affirmed that his successor would continue to strengthen the co-operative friendship of these three nations.

A Dark Secret.

Will the engagement be broken? The question is being asked by those who witnessed the incident.

It was at the Bonaventure Station, Montreal. The young man had carried the young lady's grip to her section in the Pullman, and had deposited beside it a suspicious looking box. Then he stood talking on the station platform near the door of the car. The couple apparently had much that they wished to say, but little that they could utter.

"All aboard," cried the conductor.

The young man's feelings seemed to overcome him. He turned away as he held out his hand. Then the girl tittered, and he turned to see that he held not hers, but the itching palm of the colored porter.

Have You Tried It?

More work for the doctors. A consular report from Prince Edward Island tells of a new canned product. "lobster rarebit." A canner has discovered that by a combination of the tail and the liver of lobsters he can make a salable product. The mixture is thus described: "Lobster rarebit is a compound of the meaty layer of the liver and of the roe, to which some spice is added. The first named of the components used is the fattest part of the crustacean; the liver, glandular, is large and retains a high percentage of bile. The number of eggs found in a lobster is estimated from 5,000 to 40,000, according to size. The three ingredients are mixed in these proportions: Six-tenths meat, three-tenths liver, and one-tenth roe."

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble." writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

GOOD SERVICE BY THE "NAIAD"

Patrol Work of Capt. Carson Referred to in Annual Report

In Supt. E. Tinsley's annual report of the Game and Fisheries Department of Ontario, he refers as follows to the patrol service on the Kawartha Lakes:

The "Naiad," which patrolled the Kawartha Lakes and Lake Simcoe, rendered most excellent service to the department. The officer in charge spared neither himself nor crew night or day when duty required. I must especially mention that a particular service on Lake Simcoe during the spawning season of salmon trout when for days and nights the crew had but little sleep, and the consequence was that, with the assistance of the local overseers, illegal fishing at that time (which in former years had been carried on so openly in spite of the local officers, who did their best with the means at their disposal) was practically stopped, and the result of these fish being protected during their spawning season will in the course of a few years be apparent to all.

CHRISTMAS IN BAGDAD

NO TOYS NOR TURKEYS NOR HOLLY OR MISTLETOE THERE.

The Oldest Christians In the World Make of Dec. 25 a Merry Festival and Young Men Walk the Streets Singing and Spending Their Money Like Sailors — Moslems Have Taught Sobriety.

Stowed away in the heart of mystic Arabia lies the city of Bagdad, the home of the Arabian Nights, of Sinbad the Sailor, of Hauroun-Al-Raschild and the entrancingly beautiful Zebodia. Here on the ancient Tigris, the oldest Christians in the world—pure Chaldeans of Bible Chaldean — celebrate Christmas as a festival and a frolic. There are gay and frivolous young cut-ups among the Bagdaddi, according to Frederick Simpich, and they find their way in groups to the district where white lights are even now trying to shine, and raise their glasses in toasts to the spirit of the day.

"The great Arab market place, with its crowds of Bedouins, camel drivers, Jews, Armenians, Chaldeans, Kurds and Persians, is just as busy and as picturesque now as it was 600 years ago, when Marco Polo did his holiday shopping here and sent home gold woven shawls to his Venetian Venus. And this same Mark P. was no mere mad tourist, rushing through this little known east seeking new sensations. Mark was the original bargain hunter, and the Bagdad bazaars made such a hit with him that he stayed here a whole year—and then had to walk out. For there are Christmas bargains in Bagdad that New Year wots not of. Arabs and Jews run the wonderful booth, piled high with prizes of the east, and deny that Christ was the true prophet. But they are a practical lot, these hawk-eyed merchants of Bagdad, and out for the plasters. In the east no money is tainted. If Chaldean Christians will persist in spending hard cash to celebrate a strange day they call Christmas, the wily Moslem shopkeepers sensibly swallow all religious differences and rake in the Christian coin.

"No city in the world has such strange streets as Bagdad — narrow, dark and built like tunnels, walled over at the top with arches of brick or mud and poles. In summer it's 125 in the shade at Bagdad for weeks at a time, and the shops are hidden from the horrible heat by these roofed-over alleys. The booths for merchandise are arranged along the sides of these tunnels, each shopkeeper squatting on a rug before his pile of goods. On Christmas eve torches are put out, fancy lamps are lighted and the Christian colony turns out for a good time. That is, the men do. For Christian women in Bagdad still observe the Moslem rule of seclusion, and are seldom seen unveiled in the street crowds. Think of an Anglo-Saxon crowd on Christmas or New Year's Eve, and not a woman in sight! How long would the male promenade hold out? But in Bagdad's busy throng, no one seems to miss the women.

"Crowds of young Chaldeans, arm in arm with Armenian or Jews, swagger through the narrow, swarming bazaars, shouting noisily, singing with lusty lungs of old ballads of sinful Sinbad's racy age, and performing very much like our own 'Won't go home till morning' parties. Along the river front at Bagdad stretches a row of old coffee shops, built centuries ago when Bagdad was the centre of the great caravan trade between Damascus and Teheran. Here on Christmas eve the young bloods of Bagdad assemble to drink coffee, smoke cigarettes and watch the sinuous dances of the painted Arab girls.

"Few Christmas revelers get tipsy in Bagdad. The Koran says that alcohol is the fountain of all sin, and to drink it is a misdemeanor in Moslem eyes. This idea is so deep-rooted in Arabia that even the Christians have seized on it, and are generally an abstemious lot.

"But all Bagdad does not spend its Christmas eve in the gay round of the coffee shops. Seven churches of the Christian faith hold special Christmas services, conducted by the Carmelite and other priests, and here at dawn on Christmas day are assembled the better element of the several thousand Chaldean Christians in Bagdad. The chants, the sermon and the prayers are all in Arabic, and when they sing of Moses they cal it 'Musa'; 'Yusuf' is Joseph and so on. Little Chaldean boys form the choir, and venerable old priests in that splendor of gold lace so necessary in eastern lands conduct the services. This is one chance the Bagdad Christian woman has to unveil in public without exposing herself to the rude gaze and ruder remarks which would greet her should she appear with her face uncovered in the bazaars. For custom and the unwritten law of good breeding make it bad form to stare at a woman in church; wherein Bagdad is better than the United States.

"So Bagdad keeps Christmas without toys or turkeys, cranberries or Tom-and-Jerry, trees or trailing holly. Camels and donkeys snort in Bagdad streets as taxis snort in the Occident. Santa Claus himself is a myth of the future.. Chaldean children as yet enjoy no such wonderful personage.

"What a treat an American woman would have if she could do her Christmas shopping in Bagdad's big bazaar! Think of hand hammered finger bowls at 11 cents each, all solid brass! Or long, full ostrich plumes selling for $1.25—the kind you pay our milliners $15 for. Of course, the Bagdad plumes are gray with dust and look droopy and whipped out, just as when snatched from the tail of fleeing fowl—glad to get away with only the loss of its tail feathers. But cleaned and scraped—oh, what plumes they are! So it is with silks and rare old Persian rugs; you get them here for one-third of western prices. But the 15,000-mile trip back home, plus excess baggage and the custom duties, takes all the fun out of it."

The proposed telephone line from the 10th concession of Cavan to Millbrook will soon be in operation.

PLAGARIZING AN EPITAPH.

Wag Turned an Old Rhyme Into a Joke on Late R. Walker.

In an article which recently appeared in an English periodical on ancient epitaphs one was quoted which must have inspired a quatrain that attracted some attention in Toronto a quarter of a century ago. The epitaph in question is described by the English writer as "a delicious blending of the temporal and spiritual, and one which shows that in the olden times the spirit of successful advertising was already to be found in the business world." The verse ran:

Beneath this stone, in hope of Zion,
Doth lie the landlord of the Lion,
His son keeps on the business still,
Resigned unto the heavenly will.

Some anonymous joker who lived in Toronto in the eighties was evidently familiar with this epitaph as the following facts show. One of the great merchants who helped to build up the commercial prosperity of Toronto at the time it started to grow in real earnest was the late Robert Walker. The large emporium of R. Walker & Son stood on King street on the site now covered by the King Edward Hotel and the Victoria street extension. Those were the days of trade marks, and the title of the Walker establishment was "The Golden Lion." An immense gilded lion was prominent on the front elevation of the store. Robert Walker was a prominent Methodist and foremost in all religious works. In course of time he was called to his fathers, and shortly after his funeral someone inscribed on the fence of the cemetery so close to his tomb that the allusion was apparent, the following verse:

I am on my way to Zion,
My sons are still at "The Golden Lion,"
Measuring goods and filling the till,
Thus fulfilling their father's will.

Oratorical Bulls.

The Ottawa Free Press thinks that no bulls made nowadays compare to those of Sir Boyle Roche, but they had once in Ottawa an orator who closed an oration by quoting "the historic language of Lord Byron in Paradise Last, 'A man's a man for a' that'." Up at the Canadian Soo they have a close second named John Collins. He attended a political reception given to W. R. Smyth, now M.P. for Algoma, then just elected M.P.P. Collins, among other things, said: "There is an old Greek proverb, 'Vox populi, vox Dei,' which being interpreted means that the Lord is well pleased with the way you voted around here." At another meeting which he addressed, he is alleged to have said: "I see many of you absent to-night that were not present either the last time I was here." W. B. Northrup, M.P., tells one that is good enough for Mrs. Partington. This lady had just returned from a trip through France and was describing the beauties and glories of that magical country. "It was simply delightful," she said, "to hear the pheasants singing the mayonnaise." A Conservative member was once being introduced to Sir Wilfrid Laurier by a Liberal member. "Our friend here," said the Liberal member, "was once a Grit, but he fell from the error of his way." Apparently he had in mind two things, "fell from grace" and "saw the error of his way," and he got them mixed.

Not Puffed Up.

What's in a name. Allen Bristol Aylesworth suddenly becomes Sir "Alan." Dan Mann becomes Sir "Donald." What magic is there in the touch on the right shoulder of the royal sword, which changes the commonplace nomenclature into things of oral beauty? There is no doubt that Dan will still be Dan to the average man, no matter what his official name may be in the table of precedence. And as for Sir Alan, he will continue to be familiarly known about the Parliament Buildings as "old A.B.," the man who spends hour after hour each week in his little private office studying the reports of judges concerning convicted prisoners, weighing every title of evidence to see if by chance justice can be tempered with mercy. He has a great contempt of the little, petty things of politics. And that new bowler hat he bought for his Washington trip is not a whit larger in size for "Sir Alan" than it was for Hon. Allen B. Aylesworth.—Saturday Night.

Emma Came Back.

Captain Jones of the steamship Canada relates the following story illustrating the remarkable sagacity of dumb animals:

Besides the crew of this ship of the White Star-Dominion Line there is a feline supernumerary named Emma. When the boat landed in Montreal, near the close of the past season, Emma, deserting for the time her newly-born family, set out, according to custom, for a walk up Commissioner street. But Emma became so interested in the improvements to the harbor that she lost track of the time and returned to the dock to find that the Canada, her floating home, had sailed. Was Emma perplexed? Well, perhaps; but she was not nonplussed. Strolling along the wharves she took passage by the Allan Line, there until she found her ship, ran up the gangplank and a week later landed in Liverpool, trotted up the quay and joined her family.

His Proper Place.

Mr. George Reginald Geary has received a vaster vote than has been for the Toronto mayoralty. Some years ago, Toronto, in a fit of carelessness, allowed a "Joke" to be elected—and Toronto has profited by the blunder.

On a certain occasion a deputation of ladies waited on the "Joke" Mayor, and promptly appeared at noon—the hour of appointment.

"Ah," said His Worship, gruffly. "I think I'll have to postpone this interview. It's my time to feed."

A bright and disgusted woman who was secretary of the deputation said sweetly. "Certainly, Mr. Mayor. We'd hate to detain you from your trough."

Beaverton local fishermen are hooking plenty of herring and other fish this season through the ice.

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Wheat closed strong to-day at the highest price of the week. The main reason was the defeat of all chance for immediate enactment of reciprocity. Last trades showed a net gain of 1⅛c to 1⅜c to 1½c. Every other leading staple on the board finished also at an advance—corn ¼c to ½c to ⅝c, oats ⅛c to ¼c, and provisions 2½c to 20c. A better tone in flour over Sunday, covering by shorts and decided activity on the part of bull leaders contributed toward forcing wheat to a higher level. Smallness of primary receipts had a part in bringing about the general scamper by shorts. Mills from the northwest led in the buying, and there was unmistakable giving out of bear pressure. None of these conditions, however, had full swing at the start. During the earlier portion of th session, in fact, a weak feeling prevailed, chiefly because of a decline at Liverpool. Various theories were put forward to explain the depression in England, but many dealers here seemed inclined to believe that manipulators on this side were not a little responsible. Buying force gained with the spread of this idea and kept the bears on the run, especially in the last half-hour. Extreme low and high figures for May were 89¼c and 91⅛c, with the latter the ruling ones in the end, which was at a rise of 1-3c to ½c, compared with twenty-four hours before.

The Liverpool wheat market closed today ⅜d to ⅝d lower than yesterday; corn ½d to ⅝d lower. Antwerp closed ⅝c lower on wheat; Berlin, ¼c lower.

Dumas and a Dog.

Dumas pere, designing to be in the fashion during the sporting season, purchased a fine dog at an equally fine price. The next day he set out shooting in the environs of Marly. A partridge rose, and Dumas fired, wounding it. It fell about 100 feet away. Away went the dog, but simply gave the bird the coup de grace. Dumas, enraged, took the ramrod of his gun to whip the dog. The dog took the ramrod between his teeth, rose on his hind legs and began to dance a polka. The famous author then perceived that the dog had not been trained to retrieve. His fame had been made in a circus. Disappointed, Dumas retraced his steps and gave Fido to the first peasant he met.

Protection Spectacles.

Spectacles to aid imperfect sight have, it appears, been in use for more than 600 years; but spectacles merely as a "protection" to the eyes are of much more ancient date. Snow spectacles are worn by the Eskimos, who could not tell you who invented them, and in all Arctic countries not only men and women wear spectacles, but also animals. Farmers who are careful about their cattle will provide both cows and horses with spectacles to protect the eyes from the glare of the glittering snow. The spectacles worn by Laps and Eskimos are not made of glass, but of very thin bone or whalebone, through which it is possible to see clearly enough for purposes of travel or sport.

Music.

Music as defined by the authorities is the art which employs sound as a medium of artistic expression for what is not in the province of literature, of sculpture, of painting, of acting or of architecture. It has been said, again, that music is the embodiment of the inward feelings of which all other arts can but exhibit the effect. In other words, music is an attempt at the expression of the highest aspirations and the deepest fears of the human soul. After we have spoken and written all that is possible and chiseled our finest forms and painted our most beautiful pictures there remains a feeling that is not satisfied, and music is the effort to satisfy that feeling.

Life's Varied Interests.

"The weather's rather bad, isn't it?" said the young woman.

"Yes," replied the nonchalant youth. "Lucky thing it is. Helps conversation. It would be a deadly bore to go on forever saying 'it's a pleasant day.'"

Rapid Action.

"Always think twice before you speak," said little Tommy's mamma.

"Gee, maw," he answered, "if you do that you must do some pretty fast thinkin' sometimes when you git to goin' for paw!"

HAVELOCK HAPPENINGS

Havelock, March 4.—The wedding of Mr. Levi Breen to Miss Alice, youngest daughter of Mrs. C. Cherbonneau Stock, took place on Tuesday last at 10 o'clock, services conducted by Rev. J. S. Quinn at St. Edmunds' church, Stoco. The groom was assisted by Mr. Dan Turcott, of Tweed. The bride carried an ivory prayer book and her dress was of ashes of roses silk with pearl trimmings. Miss Carmel Breen sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a dress of burlap silk with sequin trimmings.

After the ceremony, the guests, numbering about forty, were taken to the residence of the bride's mother where a dainty wedding dinner was was served from a table decorated with carnations. The groom's present to the bride was a set of sable furs, to the bridesmaid a gold locket set with brilliants and chain, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The bride travelled in a delf-blue suit with fur toque to match. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon trip to Buffalo, where they will visit Mrs. Graner and Miss Stella Breen and after will visit the relatives of the bride in Rochester. Many friends in Havelock wish the couple a happy and prosperous journey through life. The young couple will reside in Mr. Wm. Jones' residence on Ottawa street.

Misses Ada Holcombe and Jennie Barlow attended a dance given by the Madrigal Club in Peterborough on Tuesday night.

Miss O. Jones, of Marmora, was the guest of Mrs. J. A. Garrat last week.

Reeve Knox, of town, and Russell, of Blairton, attended a meeting of the Good Roads Association in Toronto last week.

Miss Mabel Lang, of Norwood, is the guest of Miss Pearl Brown.

Miss Marion Gorham, who has been the guest of Miss Leta Herrington has returned to her home in Peterborough.

Mr. Arthur Seawright, of Norwood, was in town last week.

Miss Bessie Rose visited friends in Peterborough last week.

Miss Maggie Little is attending the millinery openings at Toronto this week.

Mrs. Geo. Sharp, of Stirling has returned home after visiting her aunt, Mrs. Jas. Knox.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, of Peterborough, are the guests of their son, Mr. J. E. Fowler.

Mr. Ward Barlow, of the C. P. R. staff, of Sudbury, has been transferred to North Bay as night yardmaster.

Mrs. Stapley died in Madoc on Wednesday last after a severe illness.

Miss Oronrya Garett celebrated her ninth birthday on Saturday afternoon and in honor of the event entertained a number of her friends from three to six o'clock.

INDIAN RIVER

Winter is apparently making preparations for leaving us after a visit of three months. We will be pleased to see her more congenial sister Spring taking her place.

Monsieur La Grippe, who has been making his annual calls, is about to take his departure with his friend, Winter, after seizing many victims, most of whom, however, are now released.

The "At Home" which was given by the Foresters at Westwood Hall a few weeks ago, is unanimously reported to have been very successful.

Frank Elmhirst, who has spent a great part of the winter in hunting and trapping in John Graham's forest, reports game to be rather scarce just now, and thinks he will try his luck a little farther to the west.

Archie Shearer passed down the road not long ago on a return trip from Warsaw.

Louis Comstock passed through the village last week. We were all pleased to see Mr. Comstock again.

Miss Mary Elmhirst attended the social at South Dummer a few weeks ago.

The Baptist church will hold a concert here this month. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

ORGANIZATION OF A GRANGE

To Assist the Farmers in Their Fight for Their Interests and Rights

The forward movement of organized agriculture took root in a tangible manner in Peterborough county Friday night, when the farmers at Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, met and organized themselves into a Grange. G. F. Marsh, of the Canadian Horticulturist, and Chas. C. Nixon of the Farm and Dairy staff, addressed the meeting and conducted the work of organization.

After hearing the addresses of the speakers it was decided by those present that they should organize a grange. The names of those who would join were taken. The others retired from the hall, after which the members were made acquainted with the ritual and the officers were installed. The officers are: Worthy Master, S. Matchett; Lecturer, W. Sisson; secretary-treasurer, Livingstone Stewart; Overseer, Bruce Savigny.

The next meeting is to be called at Stewart's Hall on Tuesday night, March 14th. The meeting will be an open one, to which all in the neighborhood, ladies especially, will be invited. The working of the Grange will then be further explained, and on conclusion of the meeting others will be given the opportunity to join in the Grange, which promises to be of great material value to the farmers in their fight for their interests and rights.

SITE FOR NEW CHURCH

Charlotte Street Congregation Decide Important Matter

The announcement was made at Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday morning by the pastor, that the new church which they propose erecting will be located on the site of the late Aaron Cox property, Simcoe street, instead of on the present grounds, as they first decided upon.

At the time the votes were cast to decide which of the three offers of Hon. G. A. Cox shouldb eaccepted, the majority of the members cast their votes for the present site.

The Hon. Mr. Cox, however, offered to allow the whole of the Aaron Cox block to be used by the congregation for the building, and the committee felt justified in accepting the generous offer.

An architect will shortly be called into requisition to prepare plans for the new structure.

He recently returned from Winnipeg and other western points. He goes to the Hamilton Bridge Co., who are erecting a "jack-knife" bridge in Lindsay.

TENOR SOLOIST AT KNOX CHURCH

Singer of Great Power Was Heard by Large Congregations

Mr. W. McBretney, of Toronto, who sang at both services yesterday in Knox church to large congregations, and who will sing each evening of this week, has a very clear tenor voice that carries its message home with great effect. No one was disappointed. He has had a wide experience in choir work, singing in the Messiah and Elijah for a number of years, and has taken a leading part. Of late he has given himself altogether to gospel singing, and his clear, sweet voice is exceedingly well suited for the reproduction of the gospel story. He shows wonderful range and very effective expression.

He will assist Rev. Mr. Woodside at each service.

Mr. Woodside will arrive in the city to-day. His prominent work in connection with the church entitles him to large congregations, that will want to hear him. The service commences at 7.45 to-night with a song service.

TO DAM THE NILE AND EUPHRATES

Great Undertaking by Sir John Jackson

After the Nile, the Euphrates. Both are to be dammed and both by Englishmen.

Sir John Jackson, the engineer and contractor, has just signed a contract with the Turkish Governor-General at Bagdad for the construction of a great dam at the Hindia section of the Euphrates, with the expected result that Mesopotamia will again become one of the most fertile regions of the world.

This new Turkish irrigation plan is based upon the recommendation of Sir William Wilcocks, and involves the irrigation of over 3,000,000 acres at an estimated cost of $37,000,000.

Since the submission of that scheme in 1908 a large staff of engineers has been at work surveying the ground and studying the conditions with the result that new plans of a more limited scope were prepared and approved by the Turkish government.

The damming of the head of the Hindia Canal forms part of the new scheme. The canal is an ancient cutting which the Euphrates in recent years has followed, in preference to its own bed, with disastrous consequences.

The original Euphrates, passing through Babylon, is now quite dry in summer, all the water flowing down the canal, except in flood time. Cultivation on the Euphrates' banks has therefore been almost abandoned, the population having migrated across country to the Hindia Canal. The canal, however, never having been meant to contain the whole of the Euphrates, has become badly waterlogged, and much good land has become swamp.

The Turks have been trying for years to construct a barrage which would force part of the water back into the bed of the Euphrates and permit regulation of the flow in the canal, but without success. Sir William Wilcock's engineers succeeded in filling up the space between the two arms of the barrage, only to find the structure breached at another point when the water came down in flood. Completion of this scheme will have the important result of restoring prosperity to the banks of the Euphrates proper, and of greatly improving the conditions along the length of the canal.

The principal crops in order of importance that would be planted are wheat, barley, rice, sesame and cotton. It is estimated that about 800,000 acres of land will be placed under wheat, and on a basis of a ton from every acre, the Mesopotamian wheat crop would amount to about 30,000,000 bushels.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The double-header in the City Basketball League Friday night proved interesting. The teams appear to be evenly matched. The first game between the Giants and Fairies wasvery strenuous. The final score was Fairies 24, Giants 20.

Lineup:

Fairies—Hall and Elliott, forwards; Caniff, centre; Fleming and Lumer, defence.

Giants—Loomis and Tait, forwards; Downing, centre; Sisson and McCarrell.

Referee—Murray. Umpire—Davies.

The second game, which was between the Ponies and Pirates, was even better than the first, the teams playing some fine combination. The winners were in doubt to the finish. Final score, Ponies 20, Pirates 19.

Line up:

Ponies—A. Flowers and W. English, forwards; Wallis, centre; M. Turner and Shore, defence.

Pirates—Nicholls and Hastie, forwards; Murray, centre; Hanwell and Fitzgerald, defence.

Referee—D. Loomis. Umpire — G. aHll

On Wednesday night at 9 o'clock the Whirlwinds and Featherweights meet in a league fixture.

YOUNG HOME GIRL SAYS SHE WAS WHIPPED AND ABUSED

Charges That Otonabee Farmer Ill-treated Her

Girl Asks for $100 Due Her for Wages.

Dora Rudd, a Barnardo Home girl, at a session of Division Court this afternoon presided over by Judge Huycke, brought a suit against William E. Stewart, of Otonabee, for wages amounting to $183, which she said were due her for work. The case was heard before a jury of five, Messrs. Harry E. Elpheck, Adam S. Elliott, J. C. Edwards, James Edgar and J. Emmerson. F. D. Kerr conducted the prosecution and J. E. L. Goodwill defended.

The complainant after being sworn told a story of hard work and ill-treatment endured by her while employed by Stewart five years ago.

When hired by him it was on the understanding, she said, that she was to receive $3 a month, the first year and $5 a month after that.

Altogether she was in the employ of Mr. Stewart four years and ten months, and the arrears in her salary, she claimed, amounted to $183. Owing to the cost of a suit of over $100 having to be tried in High Court she withdrew the $83 to enable the case to come within the jurisdiction of Division Court.

According to the complainant's story she has been compelled to perform all kinds of hard work on the farm, including house-work, cleaning outhouses, pig-pens, etc., and helping with the haying in the summer.

She stated that she rose at 4.45 in the summer and 5.30 during the winter. She watered the cows in the winter time, sawed and split wood, and from 7.30 until 11 o'clock p.m. she claimed to have worked out in the wood-shed one night without a light of any kind.

When questioned by Mr. Kerr as to how often she had been in town during the past year, she said only once.

During the term of her service on the farm she had only been to a circus once, and that time she said she had to walk the three miles into town to witness it.

"Did they ever beat you?" inquired Mr. Kerr.

"Yes," answered the girl, "I could not tell the number of times I have been beaten."

Mr. Stewart, she said, had once horsewhipped her over a dispute about one of the children.

One night when a pig escaped and hid in the corn field she stated that her employers compelled her remain out late at night searching for it, and on her being unable to find it, they made her sleep outside, and she spent the night in a buggy.

On going to press the case was still in progress.

WEDDING BELLS

LAING—RODDY

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Charlotte Street Methodist Church parsonage, on Tuesday afternoon of last week, when Miss Minnie P. Roddy, formerly of Kingston, and Mr. Reuben S. C. Laing, of Peterboro were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. The Rev. Mr. Henderson of Charlotte Street Methodist Church officiated.

The happy couple left on the 4.38 train for Detroit and other points south, and on their return, will reside in Peterboro.

A host of friends will join in wishing them happiness and prosperity

Tuberculosis and Peterboro

On Friday evening a meeting will be held at the Council Chambers, at which Mayor Morrow will take the chair, called to discuss the tuberculosis situation in the city. A number of citizens are interesting themselves in the matter and it is expected that a conference will be helpful.

It is felt that Peterborough is behind the times in regard to sanitary methods and a proper conception of combatting this dread disease, and that sound steps should be taken to deal with the matter.

Citizens generally are invited to attend the meeting.

MAGISTRATE SAYS TRUSTS AND GUARANTEE CO. WAS GIVEN AN UNDUE PREFERENCE

Police Court Hearing To-day of Charges Against Messrs. Stratton, Morden, Wilson and Warren in the Farmers' Bank Case---Case Adjourned for a Week.

Special to The Review.

Toronto, March 7.—A mysterious letter which had been ferreted out of a private house by the aid of a search warrant, was produced at the investigation this morning of the charge against J. R. Stratton and Messrs. Morden, Wilson and Warren, of undue preference to the Trust and Guarantee Company in connection with the Farmers Bank account. The letter was read with a great deal of interest by the court, but was not made made public. Travers, in his evidence, said that last year he had collected from the various branches $108,000 in notes, and handed them over to the Trust and Guarantee Company, as additional security. He knew that this was illegal, and would give the company undue preference over other creditors, in the event of the bank's failure, and had discussed this phase of the question with Mr. Morden. When pressure was brought to bear upon him he had changed over the notes.

The magistrate thought there was plenty of evidence to show that undue preference had been given the Trusts and Guarantee Company, but adjourned the case for a week, to find out if such conspiracy was an indictable offence.

IMPROVEMENTS TO HOUSE AT EXPENSE OF GOVERNMENT

Liberal Member of Richelieu Charged With Fraud.

Labor and Material is Said to Amount to $1,000.

Ottawa, March 7.—P. E. Blondin (Conservative, Champlain), upon his responsibility as a member of Parliament, made a direct charge in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon upon Adelard Lanctot (Liberal, Richelieu). Mr. Lanctot was building a house in Sorel last year. He was called out of town before the decorations were completed; he had painters from the Government shipyard at Sorel finish the work with material supplied by the Marine Department. In the formal charge which he read Mr. Blondin alleges "irregularities, abuses, frauds, malversations and robberies" had been committed. He said that goods had been "illegally and fraudulently" taken and conveyed to Mr. Lanctot's house; that workmen employed at the shipyard had, at the Government's expense, and during Government time, worked on the house of Mr. Lanctot; that the value of the material and time so taken would amount to $1,000 or $1,200.

The House was still, scarcely half the members were in their places when Mr. Blondin arose on a question of privilege to make his charge. There were a half dozen spectators in the gallery, and the attention paid to Blondin was apparently so indifferent that one would hardly have thought that he was making a serious accusation against a fellow member, which, if not substantiated would cost him his seat.

Mr. Blondin read his charge in English. He supported it by a number of affidavits by workmen, including the foreman, in French, and ended by asking that the matter be referred to the committees on privileges and elections. He made no comment whatever.

Mr. Blondin also read affidavits alleging widespread demoralization at the Sorel shipyard. These affidavits charge that work was done at Government expense on the house of a man named Lavelee, that a man named Masse sold cement from the Government stores to several persons, that two carloads of timber were sent from the shipyard to the house of a foreman named Lindsay, that during the last two years about $50,000 loss to the Government has been sustained at the shipyard. There are a great many charges of general corruption, and it is stated that there are some thirty affidavits more to corroborate the charges made by Mr. Blondin.

St. Petersburg, March 7.—Ninety persons, many of whom were children, were burned to death, and forty others injured in a fire that destroyed a moving picture theatre at Bologoie on Sunday. Reports of the disaster were received here yesterday.

Liberals Choose Candidate.

Guelph, March 7.—At the convention of the Liberals of East Wellington, held at Elora yesterday, U. Richardson, reeve of Elora, was chosen as the Liberal candidate to oppose Major J. J. Craig at the next election for the Ontario Legislature.

TELEGRAPH BOY MADE FORTUNE

Crooked Work Alleged in Collapse of Exchange Firm.

New York, March 7.—W. J. Ronan, a telegraph boy in the office of J. R. Keene, made $30,000 in Wall street speculations, according to his testimony yesterday at a hearing in the bankruptcy proceedings of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., one of three stock exchange firms caught in the collapse of the Hocking pool. Creditors of the firm are endeavoring to show that Mr. Keene was responsible for the failure of the pool, and that young Ronan, knowing that the collapse was imminent, turned his knowledge to good account.

ENQUIRY IS ADJOURNED

Dead Man Walked Around a Whole Day With Fractured Skull.

Toronto, March 7.—That James J. Henderson of 2 Bishop street walked around for a day with a fractured skull, was disclosed in Coroner W. A. Young's inquest in the General Hospital yesterday. Henderson died on Sunday after an operation, and the understanding concerning him was that he had complained to his folks that he had fallen off a street car on Thursday night. On Friday he was up and about and even came down town. Saturday morning he was taken with convulsions and was removed to the hospital. Evidence was taken yesterday from the superintendent, house surgeon, the surgeon who operated upon the man's head and Dr. Mabee, who conducted the post-mortem. It was revealed that the man had a fracture at the base of his skull and there were two large blood clots on his brain. There are no records through the police nor street railway company to show that there was such an accident on the whole system Thursday night.

The enquiry was adjourned until the 14th inst.

WAS ROBBED BY THE LAWYERS

Estate Signed Away for Only $6,000 by Dublin Man.

Dublin, March 7.—Timothy Healy appeared yesterday as counsel for the petitioner in lunacy proceedings, in which an effort was made to establish that American lawyers had obtained for themselves the greater part of a large estate to which a Dublin saddler was legally entitled. The case came up before the registrar in lunavy and a jury on a petition of E. Corcoran, who sought to have his father, Edward Corcoran, the saddler in question, declared insane.

Mr. Healy said that if the elder Corcoran had his rights he would be worth $250,000. Instead, he had been found with the last three months in a squalid Dublin lodging house, unable to give an account of himself. Mr. Healy said that Corcoran's cousin, John Sullivan, died in Seattle in 1909, intestate. An American lawyer came to Dublin and, continued the counsel, seeing he had an easy mark, grossly misrepresented the value of the estate Corcoran signed away his right to half the property to a man named Lewin he had never seen for $250. Altogether Corcoran got about $6,000. "The rest of it," asserted Mr. Healy, "is sticking in the pockets of solicitors."

Syndicate Got It.

Seattle, Wash., March 7.—Edward Corcoran, who was adjudged heir to the $500,000 estate of John Sullivan, a Seattle pioneer, was in feeble health when he visited Seattle two years ago. The property went into the possession of a syndicate of Seattle men, headed by former U. S. Senator Piles. The syndicate paid Corcoran a small sum of money for his rights in the estate.

May Extend Chelsea Piers.

Washington, March 7.—Secretary of War Dickinson yesterday granted a request of shipping and commercial interests of New York city for permission to extend two of the Chelsea piers one hundred feet in the North River to admit of docking great steamships. The extension will be experimental. The department engineers had reported against the request.

TWO WOMEN LOST THEIR LIVES IN BIG HOTEL FIRE

Efforts of Clerk Now in Hospital Saved Many of the Guests.

Lakeview, N.C., March 7.—Two women lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the new Loch Crystal Hotel, a tourist resort just opened this season, early yesterday.

The fire was discovered about five o'clock and the flames so quickly spread through the large frame building that all effort to check them was futile. Miss Anna M. Barnes of New York, who was on the third floor, could not be rescued and was burned to death. Her body has not yet been recovered from the ruins.

Mrs. G. C. Pettis, an elderly woman of New Haven, Conn., while being rescued by her son, C. M. Pettis, sustained injuries and died from shock, together with the injuries an hour later.

Howard Whitmore, clerk in the hotel, saved many of the twenty-five guests. He is now confined to his bed from injuries received. Mrs. W. E. Youland, wife of the manager, was also badly burned. E. S. Woley of Detroit aided in the work of saving the guest. Those who escaped were only partially clad and lost all their belongings, including large amounts of money.

GIRL BECAME QUITE A BEAU

New York, March 6.—A despatch from Washington to the World says: Because her father was "too strict," Esther Watson, a 16-year-old Philadelphia girl, cut off her curls, traded her skirts for trousers, and came to Washington a week ago, registering at a downtown hotel. She met some girls and became a "beau." She took her girl friends to dances and theatres. She puffed cigarettes in the hotel lobby and seemed to be highly happy.

Ester is at the House of Detention now, waiting for her papa to come from Philadelphia to take her home.

QUAKER OATS CO. PLANT GOES UP IN SMOKE AT BATTLE CREEK

Loss is Over $100,000—Origin of Fire Not Known, But Big Factory is Completely Gutted—No One Was Hurt—Made the Breakfast Food Specialties of the Company.

Special to The Review.

Battle Creek, Michigan, March 7.—The Quaker Oats Company's big plant here was destroyed by fire this morning, and the loss is estimated to be in the hundred thousands.

It is not known how the fire started. It had got considerable headway before the firemen could reach it, and their efforts to prevent the spread of flames was of no avail. All employees got out safely, no one being hurt.

The Battle Creek plant made specialties of the company, such as Appetiso, and its burning will not affect materially the Peterborough plant.

BLOW AT ALL TRICKY THE FIRE INSURANCE POLICIES

Col. Hugh Clark Would Make all Companies State Terms Plainly.

Damage by Lightning Must be Paid For, Fire or no Fire.

Toronto, March 7.—The sitting for a Monday afternoon at the Legislature was one of good progress, with a number of measures. The most interesting to the general public was probably the first reading of Col. Hugh Clark's bill to reform the Ontario Fire Insurance Companies' Act.

The member for Centre Bruce showed that while some companies' policies were clear and concise and confined to the conditions specified in the general act, there were others so complicated and varied that a high court might find them difficult to understand. One company put 23 conditions from the Ontario statutes in its policies and 25 variations! The variations were not valid in law unless approved by a judicial tribunal, but they were used to exact unsatisfactory settlements. There had been many victims by such trick policies. They were also used to delay judgments, and payments were held up in some cases until heavy commissions were paid, running up to as high as 20 per cent.

The bill provides that damage by lightning must be treated as a fire loss whether followed by actual fire or not, and that payments must be made within ten days after proof of loss.

To protect the companies against fraud the bill limits the extra insurance in another company without the assent of the first company insured to 75 per cent. of the value.

The clause prohibits companies issuing insurance in excess of their assets without the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council.

J. McEwing, Wellington West (Con.), criticized the bill. He declared that the complaints should be directed against the old line stock companies and not against the mutuals.

G. Pattinson, South Waterloo (Con.), also put in a plea for the insurance companies. All the parties interested should have a hearing before their rights were altered by legislation.

Hon. J. J. Foy complimented the member for Centre Bruce on the ability shown in the preparation of the bill and its presentation. It would he said, be of valuable assistance to the commission of judges who were revising the statutes. The bill was referred to the special committee: Hon. J. J. Foy, Hon. I. B. Lucas, Messrs. Hugh Clark, R. R. Gamey, G. Pattinson, J. H. Fisher, W. H. Hearst, C. M. Bowman, T. R. Mayberry, and J. McEwing.

R. R. Gamey moved for a return of copies of the correspondence between Ontario and the Dominion Governments respecting fish hatcheries.

Hon. Dr. Reaume in complying with the motion, said that the Ontario Government was awaiting the announcement by the Dominion Government of the international regulations. When they were announced, the Ontario Government will be in a position to see what action to take. The efforts so far to stock the northern lakes with fish from Lake Erie hatcheries had proved rather discouraging. If however, the Dominion Government did not take up the question more generously than they had done, the Ontario Government would have to deal with it. As to brook trout, the Ontario Government had aided the efforts of private parties by granting bonuses.

The bill respecting the licensing of undertakers and embalmers, introduced by W. H. Hearst, Sault Ste. Marie, was given its second reading and referred to committee. The mover explained that it provided for the appointment by the Government of a board of five men to examine candidates intending to engage in the business.

Newspaper Man on Board

Otawa, March 7.—J. C. Walsh of The Montreal Herald has been appointed to the board of investigation under the Anti-Combine Act, to enquire into the operations of the United Shoe Machinery Co. in Quebec. Mr. Walsh is the nominee of the complainants.

Stage Employes Strike.

Ottawa, March 7.—Local No. 95, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, has ordered eleven men of the Russell Theatre stage staff out on strike as a result of the company's refusal to pay wages as high as those paid by other local theatres.

Paris, March 7.—Eugene Renaux, a young aviator, won a twenty-thousand dollar prize to-day for flying with a passenger from St. Cloud, 250 miles to the peak of the Puy de Dome mountains.

Suffocated by Wrappings.

Montreal, March 7.—The act of her parents in wrapping her up too closely for protection from the cold, caused the death of Marie Jeunesse Payette, aged 17 months.

The parents, who live at Pointe aux Trembles, drove to see their brother-in-law. They wrapped the child in blankets, then in a fur robe and placed her in the bottom of the sleigh, where she was again covered with the fur knee robe. On arriving at the destination the child was found suffocated.

Bride Elopes Next Day.

Hamilton, March 7.—On Saturday afternoon Michael Grubisk, a foreigner, was married to Kathryn Mischutin, a pretty Hungarian girl. Sunday morning when the bridegroom woke up, he found that his bride had eloped with a boarder, William Vodorvic, taking with her all his money and valuables.

Constable Exonerated.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 7.—Supt. Joseph Rogers has dismissed the charges brought by Bert Coles, liquor dealer, against Provincial Officer John Pay, alleging that Pay exceeded his duty and influenced foreigners to purchase liquor from a brewing company, to the detriment of Coles' business.

London, March 7—The Earl of Crewe Government leader in the House of Lords, is reported to be improving, but his injuries may make it necessary for him to retire from public life.

CREW IS IMPERILLED

Fishing Schooner Believed to be Caught in Ice Jam.

Curling, Nfld., March 7.—A fishing schooner, now thought to have been the missing Gloucester schooner Ella M. Goodwin, was sighted in the ice off Bay of Islands several days ago, after the Gloucester fishing fleet sailed for home on Jan. 21 last. At that time the icebound craft was believed to be either the Aloha or the Bohemia, but as both of these vessels have reached port and the Goodwin is the only missing craft, the vessel is now believed by Newfoundland fishermen to have been the Goodwin. The ice in which the vessel was imprisoned was taken off shore on the night of Feb. 6, before a strong southeast breeze.

The Gulf of St. Lawrence is blocked with the heaviest kind of ice, and if the Goodwin is in its grip, she will probably not be free before the middle of April. There are plenty of provisions on board and the cargo of fresh herring will afford the crew a constant—if somewhat tedious—food supply.

The schooner is commanded by Capt. James D. Goodwin, a native of Pubnico, and the first mate is Capt. Louis Devine, a native of Barrington, N.S. The others on board when she left Gloucester, Nov. 16, were: John L. Nicholson, cook, a native of Pubnico; Thomas Prior of Bremen, Me.; Albert Blair, Lunenburg, N.S.; Oscar Larkin, Pubnico; Nat Quinlan, Cape Island, N.S.; Alexander Tarr, Liverpool, N.S.; Joseph Brer and Jos. Reed, Newfoundlanders.

Steamer's Hard Voyage.

Halifax, March 7.—The steamship Shenandoah arrived Sunday from London via St. John's, Nfld., after encountering one of the greatest fields of ice that ever floated on the Atlantic. The Shenandoah left London on Thursday, Feb. 16. Heavy northwest and westerly gales prevailed until she arrived at St. John's. On Monday, Feb. 27, when 260 miles east of Newfoundland, the ship plowed into a tremendous field of ice, in which were eight huge bergs, so perilous was her position that it was necessary to lay to all night.

Proceeding on her journey next morning, little progress was made, as she was compelled to completely alter her course to avoid the ice. It was impossible, however, to escape it all and she plowed through many miles of it. So far as the eye could reach nothing but ice could be seen. Anchors were lowered and she remained outside St. John's all night.

The Shenandoah sailed from St. John's on Sunday morning and encountered ice most of the way to Halifax.

MORMONS ACTIVE IN THE OLD LAND

Investigation Will be Made to Ascertain Real Facts.

London, March 7.—Home Secretary Churchill stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the attention of the Government had been attracted to recent allegations of Mormon activity among the women of this country and had begun an investigation.

While he had no official information to support the assertions that young girls were being induced to emigrate to Utah, there was no doubt, the Secretary said, that the matter was causing deep concern, and he proposed to probe it exhaustively.

Gave Up Pint of Blood.

Montreal, March 7—After a brother, and later a nephew, had first agreed to give up a pint of blood on the operating table to a woman who was dying through impoverished blood, Dr. Charles St. Pierre, of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, who is in the laboratory, said he would do it, and the operation took place on Saturday. The doctors believe her life has been saved, while St. Pierre was at his desk yesterday, suffering no ill effects.

HAMIOTA BANK MANAGER DEAD

Committed Suicide by Discharging Revolver at His Head

Special to the Review.

Winnipeg, Man., March 7— A. W. Rutherford, manager of the Bank of Hamilton, at Hamiota, committed suicide here to-day by shooting himself in the head. No reason is assigned except general despondency.

MISERABLE WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" BRINGS THE HAPPINESS OF HEALTH

"Fruit-a-tives" cures Stomach Troubles because it cures the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin.

Indigestion etc. is not usually the fault of the stomach itself. The bowels are irregular—the kidneys are weak or strained—the skin is inactive—and consequently the blood is impure. It is the impure blood that really makes bad digestion.

"Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood by making all the vital organs active and healthy—which in turn relieves the stomach. Take "Fruit-a-tives" if you want to get rid of all Stomach Troubles and faults of Digestion.

UNION LABEL

AVOIDING THE TRUSTS

The farmers of Alberta are not strongly in favor of reciprocity, according to the latest reports from west. Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, says they are, but he says they are, for very much the same reason that Hon. R. P. Roblin, of Manitoba, says they are not.

The news from Alberta indicates that the American farmers—who came to Canada to avoid the operation of the great food trusts of the United States—are objecting to being placed under the same old domination.

Hon. Clifford Sifton says that the reciprocity pact will make the Canadian west the back-yard of Chicago; that the meat trusts will control the Canadian herds to the last hoof. The meat trust will reign supreme in Canada, as in the United States.

If coming to Canada to escape the trusts leads the American new-comers back into the clutches of the great corporations, how delighted they will be with the government of the country of their adoption.

BEATING 'EM TO IT

It is said that President Taft will go far beyond the present tariff relief in his message to Congress when it reconvenes on April 4th. He will propose, not only the reduction of duties as proposed in the reciprocity treaty, but will advocate the reduction of other duties, making this action his card for the 1912 nomination.

Mr. Taft proposes to "beat the Democrats to it" in the downward revision of the tariff. He realizes the swing of public sentiment, and his platform will conform to that sentiment. The Democrats having the tariff matter in their own hands now, are considering what they will do, and the latest reports from political centres of the big republic is that they will pass the reciprocity bill, make two or three of the big changes in the tariff at the same time, and then set to work to put into effect real tariff revision, lowering the duties on nearly everything used by the consuming public.

With the Democrats seeking to apply the pruning knife to the tariff schedules, and a presidential election in 1912, the business outlook for the latter part of this year and part of 1912 is none too bright. The passage of the reciprocity agreement will make for the dislocation and disarrangement of Canadian business conditions, and it is likely that the next year or so will be unrest all over the continent.

CANADIAN FINANCIERS

To the ordinary observer Canada seems to be passing through a severe stage of mergeritis. That the extent of this is somewhat disquieting may at once be admitted, for the eliminating of all competition in certain lines of trade, and the lessening of it in others, is decidedly not good for the country or its ultimate prosperity.

When we see so many samples of this merger fever right in our own blessed country, it should cause us to stop in our rush after money for a moment and think! Who is paying for the hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars that these stock dabblings made for the manipulators? How is it that these men, in possession of a little capital, and control of some of the smaller companies, are able to become almost millionaires over night.

We have in Canada the steel merger, a coal merger, a drug merger, a navigation merger, a carriage merger, and half a dozen or a dozen other big combinations. Every day the newspapers contain the announcement of some sort of combination among the big industries, all with the announced purpose of lessening competition. It is said that the number of industries in Canada in ten years has dwindled from 75,000 to 14,000, in spite of the great growth of the country, of its population, and its great resources. If these figures are correct, then the power of capital is becoming concentrated more in the hands of the few every day.

Nearly everyone in Canada is prosperous, or should be. This very prosperity is liable to breed the contempt of evils which we may later regret. Canadians distinctly do not want a moneyed aristocracy, whose sensations and cavortings are daily thrust in our faces by a yellow press, like the United States is cursed with. The greatest good for the great masses of the people is, and should be, the Canadian ideal condition, and that is why a protective tariff "as high as Haman's gallows" is but a gibbet on which to hang the public.

We believe is a protective tariff, but not the protection which enables the business interests to get more out of the common public than they are reasonably and honestly entitled to, as an adequate return on their investment. If it is the protective tariff which is enabling these Montreal and Toronto financiers—these stock-jugglers—to get through the mergers, it is time to pause and reflect as to whether that tariff is as effectual as it might be. When Sir John Macdonald introduced his National policy in 1878, it was with the idea that infant industries would be fostered, but that they should be made to stand on their own feet as they grew stronger and more self-reliant.

The reciprocity business does not affect this phase of the question very largely. It will kill off some of Canada's best industries, which is to be deeply regretted. It will do an unwarrantable amount of harm to innocent Canadians engaged in hard work to make a living. This is reprehensible. We cannot see why these honest fruit-growers should be so mistreated, when a corporation like the Steel Corporation gets concession after concession, each entrenching it more strongly as a great Canadian steel trust.

If the financiers of Toronto and Montreal will read closely the handwriting on the wall, they will realize that they are creating a dangerous (to them) sentiment. This tariff agitation is but one of the signs of the popular unrest. Let us protect our industries, but let us do it in a way that will make for the benefit of Canadians as a whole, not for the benefit of the favored few.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The efforts of the reciprocity agitators to create antagonism to the manufacturers makes the affair rather a classy one.

This bakery merger in which Toronto, London, Hamilton, and Ottawa people are said to be concerned, is a somewhat overdone affair.

The waiters at the King Edward hotel Toronto, have gone on strike. If their wages are anything like the price of the meals, they certainly have no kick coming.

If the farmers on the Peterboro market are against reciprocity in the proportion of 49 to 31, and the Peterborough cheese board is for it, what's the answer?

An investigator has found out that the people of Yonge Street, Toronto, are nine tenths country born. The rude jibes at the hay-seed are thus rudely punctured. The country-born people are vindicated.

The secretary of state for Britain, Winston Churchill, proposes to investigate the reports that Mormons are busy recruiting in England for their wife-farms in Utah. The polygamous feature of Mormonism is supposed to be dead, but it seems that what is dead still liveth.

The Stratford Beacon publishes a letter from a Toronto manufacturer which it says is a private one to the editor, on the subject of the manufacturers antagonising the farmer. If the letter to the editor of the Beacon is a private one, his observance of the confidence is certainly a most honorable and gentlemanly one, we must say.

The Toronto Star last night devoted the two biggest headings on its front page to efforts to explain how the anti-reciprocity crowd was going to make a complete census in the cities on reciprocity, and how the Conservatives were going to fight the measure "if it took all summer." It is endeavoring to minimise the outburst of public sentiment against the measure, but the effort is hard work. It looks now as though the fight will result in the shelving of the measure for this session at least.

The Ontario legislature is going to pronounce on the question of reciprocity. The Manitoba legislature has done so. The British Columbia legislature has done so. It does not require a mandate from the people for these bodies to express an opinion on a measure of such importance. Sir Wilfrid Laurier apparently thinks it does not require a mandate from the people to shove a two-man secret trade arrangement upsetting the recognised fiscal policy of the country into actual being. Why should the provincial bodies be condemned, then, for merely expressing an opinion?

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Spring-like weather and millers holding aloof made a weak finish to-day for wheat. The close showed a loss of ⅛c to ⅜c compared with forty-eight hours before. In corn there was a net advance of ⅜c to ½c, and in oats a gain of a shade. Provisions were left unchanged 10c below.

The Liverpool market closed to-day unchanged to ⅜d higher on wheat and ⅜d to ⅛d lower on corn, compared with Saturday last. Antwerp closed unchanged on wheat, Berlin ⅛c lower, Buda Pest 1⅞c higher.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, March 6.—Receipts of live stock were 63 carloads, consisting of 1301 cattle, 5 hogs, 110 sheep, 13 calves and 18 horses.

Exporters.

Swartzschild & Sulzberger bought three carloads of exporters thru Rice & Whaley at $6 to $6.05.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' cattle sold at $5.85 to $6; loads of good, $5.50 to $5.75; medium, $5.20 to $5.45; common, $5 to $5.15; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

There were 13 milkers and springers sold at $40 to $70 each, and one at $80; but the average price of the lot was $51.50.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves were unchanged, at $3.50 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn, who handled the bulk, as usual, quoted prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.60.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, sold at $7.05, and $6.75 f.o.b. cars at country points. Thick, fat hogs, over 220 lbs., 50c per cwt. less than the above quotations.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 6.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending March 4 were 1500 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1300 hogs and 900 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 95 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 725 hogs and 150 calves.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for cattle on account of the smaller supplies, and prices show no change as compared with that of last Wednesday. There was a fairly good attendance of buyers, including some from Quebec and Ottawa, but the demand was somewhat limited from local butchers, owing to the Lenten season being now on, which to some extent tends to curtail the consumption of beef and in consequence the trade was rather slow. The demand from Quebec buyers was principally for bulls and heavy cows and Ottawa took a couple of car loads of steers. The indications are that, if receipts are larger this day next week, prices will ease off some. Choice steers sold at 6½c, good at 6¼c, fairly good at 5¾c to 6c, fair at 5¼c to 5½c and the lower grades at 1½c to 5c per pound. Good to choice cows brought from 5c to 5½c, and the commoner ones from that down to 3½c, while bulls sold at from 4c to 5½c per lb.

Altho the supply of hogs was much smaller than it has been of late, a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices declined 10c per cwt. At this reduction the demand was good from packers and a fairly active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $7.40 to $7.50 per cwt., weighed off cars.

The market for small meats was quiet with no change in prices to note. Owing to the continued cold weather the receipts of calves continue light and in consequence prices rule high with sales of good to choice stock at $12 to $15 each and the lower grades at from $4 to $10 each. A few spring lambs are coming forward, which are selling at from $9 to $12 each, as to size. Yearling lambs rule steady, at 6¼c to 6½c and old sheep, at 4½c to 5c per lb.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., March 6.—Quotations on the market to-day were as follows:

Cattle—Receipts, 2375 head; market active and steady; prime steers, $6.40 to $6.60; shipping steers, $5.75 to $6.25; butcher grades, $5.25 to $6.50; heifers, $4 to $5.75; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5.50; milch cows and springers, $20 to $67.

Calves—Receipts, 1100 head; market active, 25c higher; cull to choice, $6 to $10.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000 head; market active, sheep firm, lambs easier; choice lambs, $6.25 to $6.50; cull to fair, $4.75 to $6; yearlings, $5 to $5.75; sheep, $3 to $5.

Hogs—Receipts, 8500 head; market active, 20c higher; yorkers, $7.75 to $7.85; pigs, $7.85; mixed, $7.65 to $7.75; heavy, $7.50 to $7.60; rough, $6.25 to $7.65; stags, $5 to $5.25.

DORINDA

How She Kept a Contract Made For Her by Her Father

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Dorinda Childs and I were born the same day. My father and my uncle, Dorinda's father, made an agreement that we two children should marry on our twenty-first birthday—that is, if such a result could be brought about. When we came of age my father had been dead ten years. A few months before I came to my majority I received a letter from my uncle informing me of the agreement made twenty one years before. We lived a thousand miles apart, and I had never seen either him or his daughter.

I am of rather a romantic disposition, and the idea of this marriage was fascinating to me. I wrote my uncle that I would be pleased to make the acquaintance of the young lady to whom I had been pledged and would as soon as convenient go to pay them a visit. Meanwhile I would like a photograph of Dorinda. My Uncle replied that he had told her to send me the likeness, and it arrived soon after his letter, inclosed with a very few words which did not refer to the contract, but the writer asked for my photograph, which I sent her.

"YOU HAVE BEEN ONLY A DUMMY."

I was delighted with Dorinda's picture. She looked out of a pair of tender eyes at me, either blue or gray, while in the expression there was indication of character. I found myself looking at the picture a dozen times during the day I received it, went to sleep with it under my pillow and dreamed of the original all night. I spent several days framing a letter of thanks.

I received a reply that delighted me. It, too, was noncommittal, but contained very exalted sentiments. It seemed to me that the girl who could write such a letter must be one of the most straightforward creatures in the world. I was tinctured with a very young man's cynical notions about women, especially considering them deceitful. This girl, judging from her photograph and her letter, was evidently the very impersonation of truth. I could not conceive of her stooping to the slightest deception.

Other letters followed, and we soon fell to discussing on paper the matter of paramount interest to both of us. My cousin wrote that she thought we should carry out the contract which had been made for us by our fathers unless we proved to be positively repulsive to each other. To this I demurred emphatically. We were not bound by any contract in which we had not had a part. To this she replied that her dear father had set his heart on seeing before his death the completion of an agreement made with the brother he loved so well. Therefore she confessed that even without a romantic affection for me she would be disposed to yield to his wishes.

One morning on reading my paper I saw that a trust company that had had the care of what property I was to inherit on coming of age had failed. I soon learned that my fortune, some $50,000, had been lost with the wreck. I at once wrote Dorinda to inform her of the change in my affairs and told her that any matrimonial intentions I might have must be put off indefinitely. I also wrote to my uncle to the same effect.

I received no reply from him, Dorinda writing for him to say that he preferred not to influence us in the matter and left us free to act for ourselves. For her part my misfortune had drawn me nearer to her. She had nothing in her own right and would inherit but a small sum from her father, but if I wished a helpmeet she would willingly bear such a lot as I should carve out for myself. She believed, judging from my letters, that I possessed honesty and integrity. If I also possessed energy there would be nothing to fear.

Smarting as I was under my loss, this was just what I wished to hear from a girl with whom I was contemplating marriage. But so long as her action was influenced by her father's wish, that she should fulfill a contract made for her by him, I took no real satisfaction in these manifestations of a noble nature. The sensible thing for me to do, had I not sent my photograph, thus making me known to my cousin, would be to go to her and win her, leaving her to find out my identity after she had given me her heart. I have admitted that I have a lot of romance in me and such a plan appealed to me; but, since the sending of my likeness rendered it impossible, the next best thing to do would be to go and spend some time with her. We might thus confer together and come to a conclusion more advantageously than by standing off with nothing but cold letters between us.

So I wrote Dorinda that if it would be convenient I would make her and her father a visit. In reply I was surprised to receive a letter from my uncle, who cordially invited me to come and make as long a stay as I could. He added that Dorinda would write, but was somewhat under the weather. It occurred to me that my cousin's maidenly modesty had at the prospect of our meeting got the better of her and that this was the real reason for her silence.

My uncle lived in the country, and I was obliged to drive several miles to his house. On turning an angle of the road I saw coming a young man and a young girl. They were hurrying, and when they reached me the young man asked:

"Did you come in on an up train?"

"Yes," I replied, drawing rein.

He turned to the girl with a disappointed look. "There's not another train for two hours. What shall we do?"

She drew him away from me for a whispered conference, casting singular glances at me as if I had something to do with their affairs. The young man came to me and said:

"All the world loves a lover."

"Y-e-s," I assented, thinking he referred to me.

"We are a runaway couple. We have missed our train. There is a down train in seven minutes (looking at his watch). If you will lend me your rig we can make it. If not our game is spoiled."

"Get right in here and I'll drive you to the station."

They climbed up, and we all crowded together on one seat. I galloped the horse to the station, but we had plenty of time, since the train was late. The girl went into the station and on the back of a letter her lover gave her wrote a few lines, putting an address on also. Folding it, she handed it to me.

"Will you deliver that?" she asked.

"I will."

"Before you go anywhere else?"

"I promise."

"Give it to the person for whom it is intended yourself."

The train came rattling up to the platform, the young man loaded me with thanks, the girl looked at me with that singular expression her face wore whenever her eyes were upon me, we all shook hands, and they climbed into the train and were gone. Then I got back into my buggy. Looking at the address on the paper I was intrusted with, I saw the name "Edith Boynton." I asked the station master where Miss Boynton lived, and he described the place. After a twenty minute drive I reached a handsome house and grounds that fitted the description. I drove in under a porte-cochere. A groom held my horse. I went in and sent up the note with my card.

When Miss Boynton came in I was paralyzed with astonishment. She was the original of the photograph of my cousin. She was both blushing and smiling.

"Dorinda!" I exclaimed.

"No. Dorinda wrote this note," she said, glancing at the paper I handed her.

"What does it all mean?" I gasped.

"Be seated," she replied, "and I will tell you, or, rather, I will confess."

I sank into a seat, and she, throwing herself on a sofa, made her confession.

"Dorinda and I are bosom friends. For a year past she has been in love with the man with whom you met her. Her father has been trying to persuade her to fulfill the contract made for her and you when you were born. She concealed her love affair from him and called me in to help her out. It was my picture you received, and it was I who corresponded with you."

I was dumfounded. I sat staring at the girl till she put her handkerchief to her face for a screen.

"Is it possible," I said at last, "that all this deception has been practiced by the girl who wrote those letters laden with such noble sentiments?"

"I was helping my friend," she pleaded.

"But I— Neither of you seems to have considered me."

There was no reply to this.

"May I ask what my cousin said in that note?"

"She wrote it merely to send you to me for an explanation before going to her father. When you proposed to make them a visit I was temporarily absent. If Dorinda had written you in her own hand it would have been a different one from those you had been receiving, so she handed your letter to her father for reply."

"Well," I said, rising, "since I have been left out of this lovers' tale I suppose there's nothing for me to do except to return to my home."

"Why should you be disappointed at losing Dorinda? You have had nothing to do with her."

"But you have been only a dummy."

A red signal appeared in her cheek to tell me that she had not been a dummy. There is much to add to this, but it is a story by itself. She had pretended to be poor, while she was rich. That kept us apart for some time, but not forever. I have the letters she wrote me, and they do not seem so noble now as they did then. Nevertheless we are a happy couple.

Beaverton local fishermen are hooking plenty of herring and other fish this season through the ice.

THE REVIEW

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with headaches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. It made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so weak that I was obliged to wear corsets all the time. But now I do not have any of these troubles. I have a fine strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. A. A. GILES, Route 44, Dewittville, N.Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

Will Not Ask Resignation.

Brandon, March 7.—After three hours' hot discussion the Liberals of Brandon constituency last night endorsed the trade arrangement made by the Government with the United States, but decided not to ask for the resignation of their member, Hon. Clifford Sifton. The Virden delegates and some delegates from the Brandon district held out strongly for his resignation, but the gathering decided to leave it to Mr. Sifton to act upon the matter in the face of the resolution, which was passed on the Government's trade policy.

Killed the Mayor.

Pineville, La., March 7—J. E. Walker, mayor of this city, was shot and killed yesterday by Wm. McManus, following a row about litigation in the District Court. When McManus aimed Walker ran, the bullet entering his back. McManus was captured and placed in jail.

New Cuban Consul.

Toronto, March 7.—Chevalier J. E. Thompson having resigned the consulship of Cuba at Toronto, Chevalier Ricardo Diez Albertini has been appointed to the office and will assume charge of the consulate.

Jeered By the Radicals.

Paris, March 7.—The Ministerial declaration was read in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. Its conservative tone astonished the Socialists and extreme Radicals, who had been expected to support the new Government.

These members interrupted with jeering the reference in the manifesto to the church and schools, in which was stated "we will apply without feebleness and without violence the laws dealing with religious orders and the separation of the church and state. We will protect against all attack our public schools."

It is impossible to determine the precise strength of the Ministry in the Chamber until there is a test vote, which may not be taken to-day.

Regarding foreign affairs, the Government made known its determination to pursue a policy of pacification, made possible on the one hand by a program of ententes and alliances, and on the other by a strong army.

After violent attacks from the representatives of Clerical and Socialist groups, the Chamber voted confidence in the new Government. The vote was 309 to 114.

Catarrh and Bronchitis

The Bane of Thousands, and has Hitherto Baffled the Skill of Medical Science.

Catarrhozone

Dry air treatment is the one treatment that will cure these diseases.

What stomach medicine has ever been known to cure Catarrh or Bronchitis?

Catarrhozone is not a stomach medicine, but an air medicine, that carries to the remotest parts of the throat, lungs, and air cells little drops of healing so curative that whenever it touches germ life it kills and eradicates them from the system.

Thousands of doctors and patients have been disappointed by using stomach medicines for coughs and colds. Have you not found it a rather roundabout way to reach the diseased portion of the throat and lungs?

Why not use Catarrhozone, which is breathed to the very root of the disease and heals so quickly and perfectly that every spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue?

Catarrhozone is the only medicine that will cure. Thousands have testified.

Think for a moment. Is it not sense? Little drops of healing—the air carries them just where disease exists. That is why

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash, after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

McNEILL LECTURE AT MURRAY STREET

Limited Number of Only Five Hundred Seats

On Tuesday, March 21st, Rev. John McNeill will deliver his lecture on "The Making of a Nation," in the Murray Street Baptist Church. The limited capacity of the church makes it necessary to issue no more than 500 tickets.

Over twelve thousand persons heard this lecture, one evening in 1905 in the Royal Albert Hall, London, England, and were delighted with the prophetic placing of Canada, as a part of the British nation.

No subject could be more timely than the one which will be discussed by this eloquent lecturer, and no doubt every seat in the Murray St. auditorium will be occupied.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

F. Steinburg of Tweed is in the city to day.

Mr. T. Dineen of Havelock was in the city to day.

Gerald Eaton of Toronto is the guest of his parents on Boswell Ave. for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Fred. Curry of Madoc was in the city last evening to witness the performance of "The Goddess of Liberty."

Mrs. F. H. Gillespie will receive for the first time since her marriage, at her home, 200 Stewart Street, Saturday, afternoon, March 11, from four to six o'clock.

Mrs. E. L. Russell, ready-to-wear expert, will arrive in the city tomorrow to take charge of Elliott's ready-to-wear department. Coming direct from the big fashion centers in the U.S., she will be glad to consult with the ladies of Peterborough about the new things in fashiondom.

A great many farms have changed hands in the Plattsville district.

PLAYGROUNDS WANTED IN WEST PART OF THE CITY

Auburn Woolen Co. Again Ask for Fire Protection

Unusually Short Session of the City Fathers

The business before the City Council at its regular meeting last night was quickly transacted, the session not lasting more than one hour. Mr. Jas. Kendrey, of the Auburn Woolen Company and Mr. J. E. Hodgson, on behalf of the playground movement were heard, the former asking for fire protection for the property of the company and the latter for athletic grounds for the children residing in the west part of the city.

There were present his Worship Mayor Morrow, Ald. Duncan, Metheral, Buller, Graham, Edgar, Brown, Anderson, Morgan and Kerneghan, FIRE PROTECTOIN.

Mr. Kendrey was heard first. He stated that fire protection had been promised the company seventeen or eighteen years ago. Now the insurance company requested that city water be furnished.

By one council it had been felt that the proper way to make connections was by the Smith street bridge. The matter was very important to the company. Protection had cost $10,000 and Mr. Kendrey felt that the Auburn Woolen Company was entitled to protection from the city. Every other concern had it. Between sixty and seventy thousand dollars was spent annually in wages. He would like to know what action the council would take as soon as possible.

Mayor Morrow answered that the matter would be taken up by the Fire, Water and Light Committee at its first meeting.

PLAYGROUND MOVEMENT.

Mr. Hodgson strongly urged that something be done to provide a place for recreation for the young people of the western part of the city. He referred to the many good advantages to the children from such a project. The petition, largely signed, and read by the secretary, was as follows:

That there is no recreation ground for our boys and girls, between Jackson Park, the north and the King Edward school at the south, although there are three schools districts within the same distance.

That available ground for such a purpose is so growing in value as to soon become very expensive.

That a stretch of ground, centrally located between King and Charlotte Streets, on the Burnham property, is still vacant and suitable for the purpose.

Your petitioners therefore pray that lot 68 to 87, plan 119, be purchased, and such improvements be made therein as are necessary to make same suitable for recreation purposes.

EVERYTHING WENT THROUGH.

Reports of recommendations made in committee were read by the chairmen and all adopted. All details have been published following the committee meeting.

G. W. Hatton wrote, stating that a client, Robert Gibbs, asked from the city $200 to reimburse him for the loss of a horse, which received a broken leg at a trench crossing Charlotte street. The matter was referred to the Legal Committee.

A by-law to authorize a grant of $600 to the Horticultural Society, one to authorize the borrowing of $10,000 to pay for water main extensions, etc., last year, and another fixing the salary of the firemen at $525, $575 and $600, passed their readings.

Ald. Brown suggested that the first clause of the by-law respecting the firemen's salaries be changed so that a first year man would have to work six months before he would receive the wages at the rate of $525 a year. He could be paid the old scale, and at the end of the six months given the amount due him on the increase. This, he thought, would do away with the practice of men coming and going, just to fill in when they could get a job elsewhere.

Ald. Morgan took exception to Ald. Brown's amendment. At the rate the men couldn't live as they should, he said, and the raise had been given on these grounds.

A vote decided the by-law remaining as read.

A DANGEROUS CORNER.

Ald. Graham drew the attention of the council to the condition of affairs at the corner of Smith and George streets, where, he said, a large number of upsets had occurred. The street car track was in a bad position, and he was of the opinion that the company should be asked to make a wider curve at this corner. The matter was referred to the Property Committee.

Ald. Morgan asked regarding the intentions of the council re the market tolls of the year.

It was moved by Ald. Graham and Kerneghan that the Property Committee sell them as in the last year.

The matter of dealing with the disposal of the Dan Spence ambulance was referred to the Property Committee, as was also the dealing with the question of a refuse grounds.

Rutherford Bros. asked for the remainder of their tender for work done at the library. The amount of $300 had been held back. Referred to the Property Committee.

An account of Edwards and Johnston for work done at the library was ordered to be paid when properly certified to.

WEDDING BELLS

CLARK—BENNETT.

A quiet wedding took place last night at the parsonage of the Park street Baptist church, 260 Westcott street, when Rev. W. C. Riddiford united in marriage Miss Rosa Lillian M. Bennett, of London, England, to Mr. James S. Clark, who has resided in Peterborough for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will take up their residence at 483 Albert street.

GIRL GIVEN FULL AMOUNT

Judgment For $100 Against Otonabee Farmer

Miss Dora Rudd, the young Barnardo Home girl, who appeared before Division Court yesterday afternoon asking for arrears in salary from her former employer William E. Stewart, of Otonabee, was awarded the sum of $100 being the amount she asked for.

The jury were only out twenty minutes. His Honor Judge Huycke thought from the evidence submitted and from the girl's own story, that she was entitled to the money.

Chosen Friends' Social

The regular meeting of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends will take the form of a social affair, on Friday evening of this week.

A delightful program of musical numbers, recitations, etc., will be given and afterwards refreshments will be served. An enjoyable time is promised to all.

First service.

A bright inspiring song service opened the meetings in Knox Church last evening, under the direction of Rev. Mr. Woodside, of Owen Sound.

Knox congrgation was well represented and a large number of strangers were present. All joined in the song service under the direction of Mr. W. M. Bretney, who during the service sang several solos. The people were most attentive to the address given by Mr. Woodside, on "Responsibility."

The church needs awakening before people outside of the church can be brought in. They are outside because of business or ease or sin. Christians are not facing their responsibility because they are afraid of the world.

They can relieve themselves by a campaign of invitation.

A large number remained to meet Mr. Woodside in the Brotherhood room. The meeting will commence to-night at 7.45 with a song service.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

REVIEW YOUNG LADIES WON FROM THE EXAMINER LADIES

I remember, I remember the rink wherein we played, and how some youths with butt in checks refused away to fade; the rats again played hide and seek, the ice was far too small. I had the speed, the shots, the wind, and never took a fall. I remember the marks of deepest blue, the deathlike silence, in the rink, as once through space I flew; the way I dropped, and also flopped against the north end door, of how I pulled a lone one off, and made our score one more. I remember, I remember, when once I missed a heave, and with another caught my stick it made her sob and grieve; of how I looked about half time, and also how I felt, and how the ice beneath my skates began to wear and melt. I remember, I remember, the pins and things I lost, and how I tried to win the game no matter what it cost; and how at last I finished strong, I had a bunch of fun, and best of all, we were ahead, the score was seven one.

Composed by Mr. R. Ale. Browne.

The Review Ladies' Hockey Team, with "Mousie," the mascot, as he looked after the game.

There was lots of fun (so they said) at Brock street rink yesterday afternoon, when the young lady hockeyists of the Review, without any particular evidences of over exertion, made their mark in the hockey game, by giving the young ladies from the Examiner a terrible trouncing. The score to be announced is 7—1, but the fair ones from this corner should be credited with another score, which followed a sensational lone rush and was protested by the Examiners, each of whom looked towards the exits, with the probable intention of shedding their accutrements for others, which it is to be hoped they can manipulate with more success.

On their showing members of the Examiner team would be more at home at a rush sale of blouses.

Great indignation was expressed by those who obtained positions in the rink, but who were told ere the contest started, to connect with the exterior. However, several young gallants from our George street contemporary found ample accommodation behind broom sticks, of which they, too, know considerable, and thus escaped the eagle eye of special policeman Larone. At the request of the defeated ones no details of the play will be given; suffice it to say that there was nothing to it but the Review team. As far as is known, none of the players received any serious injuries, although several head-on collisions occurred at intervals. Every one of the seven positions were filled on the Review team, but such was not the case with the Examiner, who besides being one short, tried to put on a rank outsider in the person of Young's Point Heard, who is an impersonator of everything else but a lady hockeyists. Even the rink rats were wise to him and he was banished.

Fred Kelly engineered the fray and made good.

The teams were:

Reviews—Miss M. Hawley, Miss E. Bullen, Miss M. Judson, Miss K. Derocher, Miss M. Callaghan, Miss C. Delaire.

Examiners—Miss B. Crowe, Miss L. Crowe, Miss L. Hurley, Miss L. Whaley, Miss A. Delaire, Miss Hurley.

Manageress Craig's wails were pitiable to behold.

WHERE THEY MIGHT MAKE GOOD.

Henceforth the defeated ones can learn of, and profit by, stricter attention to duties as are shown here.

CURLING

In the second round of the primary last night in the local bonspiel the following games were played:—

SINGLE TAX IN THE WEST

Single tax in Western Canada has passed beyond the experimental stage, and two cities at least, Vancouver and Edmonton, are giving it a fair trial. The former has adopted the single tax in its entirety, and in a recent number of "Man to Man Magazine," Mayor L. D. Taylor tells of its good results, and states that no one, not even extensive land owners, have any desire to return to the former scheme of taxation.

The land owners, as a matter of fact, receive greater benefits from the single tax than even the builders and building owners themselves, for while the tax on improvements has been abolished, the land tax has not been increased, and still remains twenty-two mills on the dollar, just what it was before the single tax was adopted. With the tax remaining the same, whether a site is improved or unimproved, it is readily seen that lot owners would rather have their property improved and bringing in an income. It is simply a question of which is the better policy, to have a dollar lying idle in an old sock, or having it working, bringing in an income at a bank.

Fifteen years ago the city government concluded to encourage building by reducing the improvement tax fifty per cent. The effect was immediate, and huge buildings began to take the place of shacks. In 1906, as a result of the success of the first experi..... an additional decrease of twenty-five per cent. was made in the improvement tax. At once building operations showed another startling increase—an increase that when compared with the increases shown in the statistics of other cities, was wholly out of proportion to the increase of population. Last year, it was decided to eliminate the building tax altogether, and, in consequence, the single tax was adopted in its entirety.

From the beginning the cities of the Canadian West have taken the initiative in promoting the single tax policy, by putting it into actual operation, while other municipal governments have not reached beyond the theoretical. Vancouver's policy of valuing land at full capital value and improvements at only fifty per cent., thereby taxing buildings only half as much as sites, was adopted long before the single tax leaders had begun their campaign of education that to-day reaches round the world.

So satisfactory was this first experiment that when the further reduction to twenty-five per cent. was made, so as to tax the capital value of improvements only one-quarter as much as that of sites, the opposition was so small as to be scarcely worth taking into account. The last step taken—the adoption of the single tax system in its entirety—has placed Vancouver in the unique position of being the only city of metropolitan size on the continent to have elected a municipal government on a single tax platform.

Edmonton is the only other Canadian city in which the single tax system has been adopted without reservation, and there the same effect has been felt. It is not so common now to see property assessed at $250 a foot given over to tumble-down shacks.

Recent dispatches from the Alberta capital state that the program of building construction for this year is an unusually large one. Here is where single tax is producing good results. Speculative holders of real estate, who have been content to wait for a rise in value, find now that it does not pay to leave such property unproductive.

This movement toward single tax is attracting the attention of many other municipal governments throughout Western Canada. A dozen towns could be named which are seriously considering the advisability of its adoption, and it is not at all unlikely that within another twenty-five years single tax will be the rule and not the exception.

PILL TEAM BEAT LEAGUE LEADERS

Tool Room Seven Behind in a Mercantile League Game With 2-0 Score

In a clean, fast game, the Pillpounders defeated the C. G. E. toolroom boys last night to the tune of 2-0.

The feature of the play was the close checking of both teams making combination almost impossible. There were only four penalties handed out. Only one game in the Mercantile league fixtures surpassed it in the small number of penalties.

Not long after the game started, Patterson was ruled off for slashing but the C. G. E. boys could not score, even with this advantage. After ten minuts hard play, in which neither side had much the better of the game, Halpin scored on a nice long shot.

Keneally took a rest for tripping but there was no scoring done in his absence.

In five minutes more, Heffernan of O. H. A. fame made one of his sensational rushes, notching another goal for the Pillpounders.

The first half ended without any further scoring. In the second period the C. G. E. fellows came in determined to overcome the lead of two goals, but the Pillpounders were thinking of tallying some more, with the result that both worked like demons, and the score remained unchanged.

Only two penalties were dished out in this half, the first to Millroy, and the next to Halpany.

For the winners, Macafee in goal stopped some hot ones, while the defence kept the opponents from getting many shots from close in. Grover, Halpin and Heffernan were the pick of the forwards, rushing and back checking continuously.

For the losers, Galvin and Hall were probably the most effective, the former relieving the forwards on nice rushes, but not many got passed Heffernan and Ross.

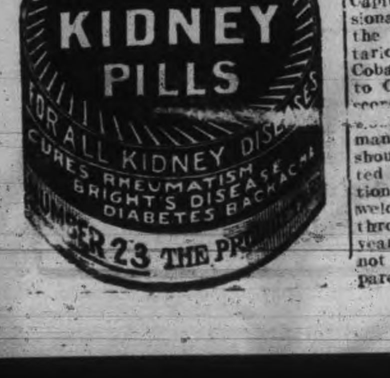
Alvin Sare.s proved a very satisfactory referee.

The winning of the game last night by the Pillpounders, makes a four cornered tie for the championship, and the dope mixers are going to make the others hustle to win out.

The line-up was as follows:

Pillpounders		Toolroom.
	Goal
Macafee		Cassidy
	Point
Ross		Millroy
	Cover
Halpin		Keneally
	Centre
Patterson		Hall
	R. Wing
White		Harris
	L. Wing
Heffernan		Barnie.

Summary—First Half
1. Pillpounders, 10 min Halpin.
2. Pillpounders, 5 min Heffernan
Penalties—Patterson, Kenealley, Millroy and Halpany.
Time-keeper—Leo Deroch r.



ATHLETICS

The February number of the Athletic World has the following to say of Bruce Ridpath—Canada's champion paddler for several years, and formerly a sporting goods dealer in the Queen City. Bruce Ridpath, the Ottawa right wing in the National Hockey Association, though handicapped considerably by his size, is making a big name for himself in the great professional organization. Riddy being known all over the circuit as one of the most aggressive little bits of humanity that ever struck the Capital. Ridpath broke into professional company when he signed with the Toronto professionals in the Ontario pro. league, and later drifted to Cobalt, jumping that team to come to Ottawa. He is very fast, a good scorer, and his gameness is unquestioned. He is slated for the managership of the Toronto seven, should the Ontario Capital be admitted to the National Hockey Association next year, and he will be warmly welcomed by his large quota of friends throughout central Ontario. He is 26 years of age, unmarried, and when not playing hockey, resides with his parents in Toronto.

BASEBALL

Which is the most effective style of offensive baseball—the hit-and-run or the sacrifice?

Ask this question to the manager of one baseball club and he will probably tell you the hit-and-run. Ask it of the next manager you meet and he may say, without a moment's hesitation, the sacrifice. Another will tell you that he mixes them all up. After thinking it over all will tell you the same thing—that the advisability of using either form of play depends upon certain conditions.

For several years the Chicago Cubs used the sacrifice hit almost exclusively.

Why?

Because conditions favored that style of play. When Brown, Overall and Reulbach were at their best, Manager Chance had what, in baseball, is called "air-tight pitching." In very few games did the Cubs' opponents succeed in scoring a large number of runs. Usually only one or two runs were made by the team opposed to the Chicago squad. Is it a wonder the Cubs used the sacrifice hit under the circumstances? Two or three runs were usually enough to win, and these were generally collected without much trouble with the aid of the sacrifice. That is one reason why the Cubs won so many games by one run when going at their best.

Chance depended upon the sacrifice in his early games last season. His pitchers were steaming the ball over the plate in pretty good fashion. Then suddenly the pitching staff got into trouble. Five, six or seven runs were scored by the Cubs' opponents, and hits were needed to win games. Did the Cubs keep right on sacrificing? No, Penelope, they did not. The hit-and-run and straight-away hitting were substituted for the sacrifice, and the Cubs kept right on winning. It was a wise move on the part of Chance and caused the Cubs to keep going when the pitchers were travelling in mud up to their knees.

The sacrifice is a valuable thing in a close game, when your pitchers are almost unhittable, but it isn't a play that is going to bring the required number of runs when your hurlers are being battered all over the lot.

THE RING

Jim Corbett has revealed at last the identity of his mysterious unknown "Hope of the White Race." He is none other than Ralph Barbour, of New York, millionaire boxer and amateur heavyweight champion. Barbour is the son of Colonel William Barbour, head of the great fuax thread industry of Paterson.

"In one year's time," said Corbett to-day, "I could take that fellow and have him beat Johnson. He has everything—youth, strength, speed, weight and a punch. I think he is a wonder. All he needs is coaching.

"No, I never considered seriously Miles McLeod, Carl Morris or any of these other much-touted fellows. Barbour is the man I had in mind all the time.

"I can't see any other man in sight. Bill Lang is a good rough boxer, but that lets him out. Al Kaufman is too slow. The rest of them don't count, unless perhaps this man, Morris should develop. The only one I can see is Barbour, and as I have said with one year's coaching I could make him beat Johnson."

THE MAT

They can put the toe hold in the refrigerator as far as Frank Gotch is concerned. The agitation against twisting the pedal end of the human anatomy isn't worrying a certain person from Iowa. Gotch can get along pretty well under any conditions, and if they want to bar the toe hold he has a few more moves that haven't been uncovered.

"He can stand for the barring of the toe hold," says Emil Klank, his manager. "As a matter of fact, at Kansas City, while throwing 'Americus,' was the first time he used that particular hold in a long time. He threw Zbyszko and Mahmout without annoying their feet and they are considered pretty good men. He made Hackenschmidt quit once twisting his toes and he is called the 'greatest athlete on earth.' The only objection we have to barring the toe hold is the fact that it will make matches resemble the Greco-Roman style. When they once get started to barring toe holds, the next move will be to bar all leg holds. That will make it pretty soft for the big, husky foreigners. In my opinion, a Greco-Roman match is a pretty sad affair. There is no action to the old style of wrestling, and we have discovered that the public wants action. However, Gotch is willing to meet any man in the business with the toe hold barred—if they will only stop at the toe hold."

IMPROVEMENTS TO HOUSE AT

Mr. Lanctot listened attentively. His examination of the circumstances was equally brief as was that of his accuser. It was received with the same measure of silence that was tendered to Mr. Blondin. He had no objection to the charges going before the committee on privileges and elections. He courted a full investigation. He admitted building a house in Sorel in June last. Before it was completed he had been called away to attend his wife, who was lying ill at Saranac Lake. He did not have time to bring painters from any outside place to Sorel, and none could be had in the town except at the Marine Department shops, and the shops of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co. He went to an official of the Marine Department shops and asked him to send a few painters to finish the work when he could spare them, the men went up at various times between July and November. He also asked that an accurate account be kept of the time of the men. The paint, varnish and other materials used were replaced in both quantity and quality.

The men used to go and report at the shop, register their time and go to Mr. Lanctot's house. On several occasions he had asked for his account, but had been told it would be more convenient to send one bill for the whole amount when the work was completed.

When Mr. Lanctot concluded his explanation, he quietly left the chamber, and the motion was adopted without further discussion.

Mr. Lanctot stated that he had paid in full the account rendered to him by the Marine Department, although no specific sum was mentioned.

Richard Blain of Peel read in the House of Commons yesterday an Ottawa despatch from a paper which alleged that there was an abuse of patronage in the selection of the officers for the Canadian coronation contingent. That the selection of the officers had been placed in the hands of the local patronage committee, and that instead of a fine body of men the friends of the Government would be represented.

Sir Frederick Borden replied that the selection of the men was entirely in the hands of the officers commanding the respective corps from which they were to be taken. The headquarters' staff and the Minister had nothing whatever to do with it. No officers would be allowed to serve in a junior rank unless he was within the age limit of that rank, and no officers would be allowed to go as subalterns or privates.

Some regiments had met and passed resolutions. One Ottawa regiment had selected its officers, if an officer was to go from that regiment. Forty-eight officers would be chosen, thirty-six from the militia and the others from the permanent force. He described the despatch as a "tissue of falsehoods." The contingent would be 700 strong.

The opposition to the proposed reciprocal trade agreement are looking to Washington. Just prior to the adjournment of the House of Commons last night Mr. Perley, the Chief Conservative Whip, on behalf of Mr. Borden, gave notice that the Opposition leader would on Wednesday next move a hoist of the consideration of the whole arrangement, pending its adoption or rejection by the United States Senate, which meets in special session on April 4.

The text of the Conservative leader's notice of motion is as follows:—"As the pending reciprocity proposals have not been carried into effect by the Congress of the United States at the sitting which has just terminated, he intends to move on Wednesday next for the postponement of the further consideration of these proposals in the Parliament of Canada."

One thorough application of Zam-Buk at night will bring ease by morning. Zam-Buk stops the smarting, heals the cracks, and makes the hands smooth.

PROOF—Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galesburg, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with chapped hands and arms and nothing ever seemed to heal them thoroughly until we found Zam-Buk. It has cured them. My father has also used it for several skin troubles and injuries, and thinks there is nothing like Zam-Buk."

Mothers should see that their children use Zam-Buk daily, as there is nothing like prevention. A little Zam-Buk lightly smeared over the hands and wrists, after washing, will prevent chaps and cold sores.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin diseases, eczema, itch, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, and for cuts, burns and bruises. 50c box at all stores and druggists, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

MIXED MARRIAGES AND THE CHURCH

(Toronto Globe)

Rev. Dr. William H. Hincks had some strong things to say Sunday night at the Broadway Tabernacle about the mixed marriage decree of the Pope which is now being enforced in Canada as in other countries. The minister took as his text Matthew xix., 6: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." He first praised the Roman Catholic Church, for its stand against cheaper divorce and against fornographic books, especially that class of books advocating marriage on the lease system.

Dr. Hincks said that the Papal decree had been in force in Canada since 1908. "It claims," he said, "that the Roman Catholic Church in Canada has the right to declare a marriage invalid, with all its ecclesiastical consequences, where one of the parties was not a Roman Catholic unless that marriage was celebrated by a priest in a Roman Catholic church. This decree would have been burned by the common hangman in England thirty years ago, but owing to the counter-revolution now going on in favor of the Papacy the Pope has dared to do to-day what could not have been done thirty years ago.

MIXED MARRIAGES RECOGNIZED

"In 1873 a synodical letter, dated August 12, was signed by every Catholic Bishop in England, including Cardinal Manning, recognizing mixed marriages when once legally effected." Dr. Hincks said that the decree was unchristian on several grounds. Christ, in the text quoted, taught that marriage was lifelong. The Pope's decree made marriage uncertain in its duration. In spite of God's injunction that no man should put asunder His sacred institution, the Pope became the author of dissension and separation wherever the decree was enforced. "Through his priest he enters the home and tells the husband and wife that they are living in sin and that their children are illegitimate. The decree encourages immorality by offering a direct incentive to break the marriage vow. It encourages worse than divorce, because an unscrupulous Catholic married to a Protestant girl can throw his wife and children out into the street in the name of his religion and his priest.

A TORONTO CASE

"Rumor has it," said the minister, "that such a case as this has occurred recently in Toronto. This case should be investigated, and if it be found that through a visit of the priest to this man's home the wife and children have been scattered, then the estate of the man should be confiscated to support them.

"This decree is an attack on the civil rights of all Canadians because it stigmatizes honorable marriage, celebrated in accordance with the law, as dishonorable, and the offspring of that marriage, born in lawful wedlock, as illegitimate. It is an insult to every Protestant in Canada, and is directly calculated to stir up religious bitterness among our citizens.

"A year and a half later the decree was issued the German Emperor took such a strong stand against it being enforced in the Fatherland that the Pope specially exempted Germany from the operation of the decree.

"Canada must approach the Federal Government," urged Mr. Hincks in conclusion, "to make it a criminal offence to enforce this decree. Every priest who tries to enforce it so that a home is broken up as the result, and the children scattered, should be made to answer in the law courts, where the Canadian law should be supreme in marriage matters. The priest who suggests that a Canadian marriage is not legal, is not moral, not binding, not Christian, in such a way as to break up the home should be punished with imprisonment at hard labor."

Fire from an overheated stove did $3,000 damage to three firms at St. Catharine and Gray street, Montreal.

CAUGHT BY CIRCULAR SAW

Young Man Severely Lacerated About Arms and Head

Was at Work in Sawmill Near Hall's Bridge

A terrible accident happened to a young man named Allin in his father's saw mill, near Hall's Bridge, about four o'clock last evening, and he is now in Nicholls Hospital.

George Allin, who with his two sons, has been running the mill, had a board put alongside the circular saw, which was used to cut the logs, to prevent the men from stepping in front of or near enough to the saw to be injured. The son thought the revolving saw was becoming hot, and as there was about half an inch of space between it and the guard, he leaned over and placed his hand in the crevice. He had been working, and his hand, being sticky with gum off the logs, and probably from perspiration, it adhered to the warm saw, and he was drawn over against it, receiving painful injuries. His father, who was nearby, caught and pulled him to safety.

Dr. Graham, of Lakefield, was summoned, and he telephoned to Comstock's for the ambulance, which was sent as quickly as possible, but it was a long drive, and the patient did not arrive at Nicholl's Hospital till about five o'clock this morning.

When his injuries were examined it was found that both arms were lacerated rather badly, and that his face was cut considerably.

HELD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Pleasant Evening Spent at Home of Mr. and Mrs W. Jackson 318 Charlotte Street

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson was last evening the scene of a very happy event when they celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. The occasion was honored by about thirty of their most immediate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson received their guests in a very cordial manner assisted by Mrs. H. Falkner and Mrs. J. W. Bryans, of Havelock, and the Misses Flora and Mary Esson, city.

They were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents suitable to the occasion, which evidenced the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends. Including the presents was a piece of silver from Mrs Jackson's mother, Mrs. Spilsburg, that has been in the family over a hundred years, it being a part of a set used in the late Captain Spilsburg's family of Colborne, Ont. During the evening games of different kinds were indulged in. Miss Greta LeBarr rendered two recitations which added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A sumptuous and dainty repast, provided by the hostess, was served and a most sociable and enjoyable time in general was indulged in. The assembly dispersed about mid-night after wishing Mr and Mrs. Jackson many happy returns.

EIGHT CASES OF SCARLET FEVER

There are now eight cases of scarlet fever in the city as far as is known. All the places where the disease has been discovered, have been placarded and the strictest quarantine vigilance maintained.

PERSONAL

Miss L. Lamb has left for a month's visit with friends at Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Brantford.

Mrs. J. W. Bryans of Havelock is the guest of her brother, Mr. W. Jackson, Charlotte Street.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Miller, of Omemee attended the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson, Charlotte Street last evening. Mrs. Miller is a cousin of Mr. Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs F. H. Falkner and daughter, Rhoda, of Havelock, who have been visiting Mrs. Falkner's sister Mrs. W. Jackson, Charlotte St. returned to their home this morning.

THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY

The big musical success, "The Goddess of Liberty," played to a delighted house at the Grand last night and those who witnessed the production cannot speak too highly of the clean, wholesome and high-class fund of entertainment which the performance provided.

There was not a dry or boresome moment during the whole performance.

Probably the most novel and unique arrangement that has been seen for some time in a stage performance was the rainstorm scene at the beginning of the second act. The lightning bolt and thunder were most realistic, and the other effects natural and cleverly conceived.

May Not Suspend Advances.

Washington, March 7.—Denial of the request of the railways of official classification territory that they be permitted to suspend proposed advances in class freight rates from March 15 until Nov. 1 next, was made by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday.

In the decision announced in the great rate cases ten days ago, the commission directed that the proposed tariff's advancing rates be annulled on or before March 10. If this direction were not forwarded, the commission announced that on that date it would issue an order cancelling the rate and putting into effect for at least two years the existing rates.

To-day at the New York Central offices in New York City, a general meeting of eastern railway officials will be held, at which the participants in yesterday's conference will make their report. It is probable that a decision will be reached to cancel the proposed advances in accordance with the direction of the commission and in the light of developments let the future take care of itself.

FIXING THE HOUSE RULES

Premier Talks on the Question of Indemnity.

For Short Session $20 a Day, and $1,400 for Longer.

Toronto, March 8.—Sir James Whitney gave a delicate hint to those members who consider their time too precious to be in their places at prayers, and the opening proceedings of the House. This was yesterday afternoon, in moving the second reading of the bill with respect to the members' sessional indemnity.

The Premier said he regretted the absence of so large a proportion of the members, including the leader of the Opposition, but it was not so important in his case, as he could "pick it up so readily." Hon. A. G. MacKay, however, emerged from the Opposition corridor and entered the House while the Premier was making his introductory remarks.

The bill, said the Prime Minister, was one which the House would be free to amend, as it exclusively concerned the internal management of the Legislature.

The bill was printed with the amount per diem pay and deductions for absence in blank.

In the extremely improbable event of a session lasting less than thirty days, Sir James suggested a daily indemnity of $20. Should the session continue thirty days or over, the indemnity is placed in accordance with the supplementary estimates at $1,400.

The bill allows a certain number of days' absence without explanation by the absentees. Sir James said that, considering the short sessions, six days was, in his opinion, the maximum which should be fixed, especially as the bill allowed one day for traveling to the Legislature and absence for sickness.

A deduction would be made for other absences. The Premier suggested that the House fix the deduction not less than $10 or more than $15, a larger amount would be neither wise nor necessary.

R. R. Gamey, Manitoulin, in support of his bill to amend the Game Act, made some pointed suggestions to Hon. Dr. Reaume. He had good reason for wanting to limit the bag of partridges to 50 birds per man per season — reasons that the members from old Ontario were not in a position to comprehend. They did not know of the wanton slaughter of birds in the newer sections of the province by sports from Toronto and Hamilton. He regarded it as practicable to limit the number of partridge as it was to limit the catch of bass.

"I don't know why I have been left off the game committee, because I come from a great game country, but I think there is much in the Game Act that needs amendment."

A. E. Donovan's (Brockville) bill to amend the Charity Aid Act, so that municipalities may agree to pay a fixed amount towards the up-keep of hospitals, was given its second reading, and was referred to the municipal committee. The bill proposed to tax every municipality 70 cents per patient sent by it to a general hospital.

TOOK POISON IN HIS CELL

Anarchist Who Tried to Kil Alphonso Suicided.

Special to the Review.

Madrid, Spain, March 8.—The anarchist arrested for attempting to take the life of King Alphonso, was found dead in his cell to-day. He had committed suicide by poisoning himself, no doubt with a poison which he had secreted on his person, with the object of taking his own life if caught by the police. He gave his name as Ventura Bagaria.

Harem Skirt In Toronto.

Toronto, March 8.—One of the latest freaks of the Paris modistes, the much-talked-of Harem skirt, worn by one of the chorus girls with the company at the Gayety Theatre this week, was seen on Yonge street yesterday at noon.

Considerable curiosity was aroused, and soon after it was first noticed at Albert street the crowd became so enthused that extra police assistance was necessary lest the daring young girl would be injured. Most of the eager observers were women and the comments made upon the new arrival were anything but complimentary, and it is probable the appearance of the Harem skirt yesterday was the first and last as far as Toronto is concerned.

Early Morning Accident With Three Passengers Injured.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, March 8.—Two crowded street cars crashed into each other at the intersection of College street and Spadina avenue this morning, but fortunately no fatalities occurred. Three passengers, Miss Mae Street, Miss Georgina Smith and John Duncan were rather severely injured and a score of others received bruises. The cars were badly damaged.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER IS BENT ON PUTTING THROUGH PACT

Premier Declares His Policy---Makes Light of Mandate Cry---Delves Into History.

Ottawa, March 8.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a two-hour speech yesterday summed up the reciprocity debate in behalf of the Government. The House was crowded with visitors.

Sir Wilfrid's argument was not forceful nor convincing. It was considered weak. Only at intervals did it touch the salient points brought out in the discussion, and frequently evaded the question. He declared himself in favor of the principle told in the story of the "spider and the fly," by claiming that when the door of opportunity had been opened by the United States it was the duty of the Government to enter.

At the outset Sir Wilfrid Laurier reviewed the discussion of the agreement since it was first introduced into the House by Mr. Fielding over a month ago. It had been discussed and canvassed in the press, in public meetings and in Parliament; and unless he had greatly misapprehended the trend of public opinion and could not read the signs of the times he thought he could venture the assertion that the "policy which is therein involved has met with the appreciation, nay with the enthusiastic appreciation, of a majority of the Canadian people." (Liberal cheers and Opposition cries of "No, no.") In answer to the cries of protest Sir Wilfrid said he would not stop to discuss the merits of the respective opinions on the point. No word of his would change the views of the Opposition, and in that they would persevere until the evening of the next polling day. He was well aware that the policy of the Government had not been universally accepted, and that an organization had been created in Toronto and Montreal for the purpose of fighting the agreement. These people were acting within their rights and although he would not underestimate the importance of the movement, he did not think there was any cause for alarm. Many of the objections to the agreement lacked force and oppositeness; others were worthy of consideration, not from inherent strength but from the circumstance that they were inspired by a strange misconception as to what would be the result and consequence of the policy involved.

He declared that the relations between Canada and the United States were a blot upon our common civilization, and contended that when Sir John A. Macdonald introduced the national policy in 1878 he did so as a means of securing reciprocity. In 1911 we now had it, and yet men doubted and hesitated. The agreement was condemned as unfair and hostile, and men told us, "Stop, proceed no further, let the injustice remain, let the hostility remain, because upon injustice and hostility the Canadian Confederation depends for its existence."

He declined to accept the argument that because this matter had not been discussed before the people, the Government was debarred from entering into the agreement. What mandate, he asked, had Lord Elgin in 1854, when he went to Washington to enter into a trade arrangement? What mandate had the Government of 1864 to put through Parliament the resolution which proposed Confederation? Not a word about it had ever been heard by the people. When Canada assented in 1871 to the Washington treaty of that year, the question was unknown to them.

"In the face of the records on these questions," he added, "it is childish for any man to challenge the right of this Government to follow the course it is doing."

Sir Wilfrid repeated that the object of the agreement was simply to get better prices for the products of the Canadian farmer. This was a proposition so obvious that he was surprised it should receive the treatment it had received on the part of the opponents of the measure. He then outlined the four principal objections taken to the agreement by the leader of the Opposition, and proceeded to deal with them in detail. They were (1) that the effect would be to deflect the carrying trade from Canadian to American channels; (2) that it would destroy our natural resources; (3) that it would imperil our industries; (4) that it would dissolve our autonomy and land us ultimately in the American republic.

In regard to the first objection, Sir Wilfrid said that it might be discussed from two points of view; that of the goods going from Canada into the United States for the purpose of being carried over to Great Britain, and the goods going from Canada to the United States for consumption there. In regard to the first, the situation would not be affected one iota. At the present time goods go from Canada to be shipped from American ports without paying duty, in the same way American goods come to Canada to be shipped out by Montreal, Halifax and St. John, without paying duty.

The Premier agreed with the argument that interprovincial trade was important, but contended that the Canadian people could not consume all of their natural products.

"It has been stated in this discussion, and repeated in the press of Great Britain," said the Premier, "that by this arrangement we were putting an end to every possibility of mutual preferential trade with

DOCTORS ARE DOPE FIENDS.

Boston, March 8.—"Ten per cent. of the physicians of the United States are users of morphine through the hypodermic syringe," said Dr. William F. Boos, an expert toxicologist of the Massachusetts General Hospital, speaking before the Walsh and Ward Society at its 33rd annual meeting last night. He continued, "I know of one hospital where all the physicians, nurses and attaches are users of the drug. Morphine is more dangerous than opium and many cases end in hopeless insanity. There is more smoking than eating of opium, and a great number of young women are smoking opium in this city."

A Sight That Checked Her Royal Ex travagance For Awhile.

We are accustomed to think that th day is long past when a sovereig could oppress and offend a whole king dom by personal extravagance. Bu the late Isabella of Spain belonged i spirit to the sixteenth century. An i

At the morning session, the magistrate reserved his judgment in the case where Messrs. Matthew Wilson, K.C., and W. S. Morden were charged with conspiring with W. R. Travers to induce him to give the trust company an undue preference as a creditor of the bank. In reserving his judgment, the magistrate said that he did not know whether it was an offence for men to go to a bank manager and compel him to commit an illegal act, but that if it is not it ought to be.

The sensation of the day was in a bottle, so to say, for it was sprung when Inspector of Detectives Duncan produced a letter alleged to bear on the conspiracy charge but the admission of which was not sought by Crown Attorney Corley after consultation with the defence counsel. The contents of the letter were not divulged.

A letter from Matthew Wilson to Travers was produced in which he asked him to have a resolution passed by his directors enabling him to borrow money from banks and trust companies generally, advising that the Trusts & Guarantee Co. be not named.

At the afternoon session Travers told how, by depositing the currency of the bank with the trust company, the bank was able to secure funds to meet its daily calls at the clearing house.

THE CHARGES.

The transactions under investigation were carried out in the dying days of the bank, when the securing of legal tender to effect their clearance at the Toronto clearing house was a matter of apparent difficulty for the managers of the bank. Advances were obtained from the Trusts & Guarantee Company chiefly during the months of June, July and August of last year. It was charged that Mr. J. R. Stratton, president of the Trusts Company; Mr. J. J. Warren, general manager, and Mr. W. S. Morden, assistant general manager, received in hypothecation notes of the Farmers Bank in return for advances made to meet these clearing house obligations.

MR. TRAVERS ON THE STAND.

Mr. Travers was the first witness called. He said an arrangement had been made with the Trusts Company whereby the bank would receive funds from them from time to time as they required them, to meet clearing house obligations. The bank had opened an acount with the Trusts Company and it was the practice to make deposits of Farmers Bank notes and occasionally foreign drafts, in return for which they received the company's check, which could be utilized anywhere.

It was the understanding, he said, that the Trusts Company would hold those notes until the bank was able to take them up. The idea was to keep them out of circulation. In course of time the Trusts Company accumulated some $58,000 of these Farmers Bank notes.

KEPT BANK AFLOAT.

Mr. V. R. Burke, an ex-accountant of the Toronto branch of the Farmers Bank, when asked why the Trusts Company had accepted the notes in return for their own good money, replied, "Well, if they had not accepted them they would have had to give a loan."

"Why would they?" asked the magistrate.

"Because it was in their interests to keep the bank afloat."

After some further examination Mr. Corley said that that was his case.

"If that is your case," commented his Worship, "it is not shown that Mr. Stratton is in it."

"Not in any way," put in Mr. Corley.

MR. STRATTON ACQUITTED.

"Not in any way," re-echoed the magistrate. Continuing, he said, "Now with reference to Warren and Morden it looks to me as if notes of the Farmers Bank were placed with the Trusts and Guarantee Company in return for money, and I think the charges against them should go to the higher court. There was another charge against Mr. Morden in the same connection, but this was withdrawn.

LIBERALS PULLING WIRES TO GET ENDORSATION FOR PACT

Organized Campaign Managed From Ottawa to Exploit Opinions Favorable to Deal.

Ottawa, March 7.—It is noticeable that resolutions in favor of the reciprocity agreement are beginning to come in from grain-growing districts. These are not spontaneous. They are part of an organized campaign, inspired by the government and worked by two or three of the Liberal political leaders of the Grain Growers' Association. James Bower and Roderick Mackenzie have been here from the west for some time, and are engaged in what may be described as a political publicity campaign for the exploitation of the Liberal policy and to get the farmers to commit themselves to the reciprocity agreement before they are given an opportunity to understand it.

These two men are Liberal workers of the most pronounced type, and are in daily consultation with members of the government in pursuance of the campaign they have instituted. They are giving out interviews which some newspapers print, but these interviews carefully avoid dealing with the demands of the farmers, as put forward by the big delegation. Bower and Mackenzie have begun to use the parliamentary press gallery headquarters as a centre for their activities.

SAWMILL TRAGEDY

Four Died In One Family.

Toronto, March 8.—With the death of James Monkhouse, 29 Olive street, on Monday, occurred the fourth death in the famil yof Samuel Monkhouse.

Ever since May 20 last, when William Monkhouse, a son of 25 years of age, passed away, the grim spectre seems to have dogged the family. On July 17 his young sister, 6 years of age, was burned to death while playing with matches; in September another daughter, Mrs. Harry Wilson, passed away, after a brief nine months of wedded life. Shortly after her death, another son, Norman, was stricken with pneumonia, and since that time has been hovering between life and death. After Norman was taken down, James became indisposed and gradually got worse, until his death occurred on Monday. Norman is still in a precarious condition.

Samuel Monkhouse, the father of the dead children, is employed at the Vokes' Manufacturing Co.

Reason Advanced for Concentration of U.S. Troops at Mexican Border.

Special to The Review.

Washington, March 8.—Although strict secrecy prevails as to the real reason for the concentration of twenty thousand United States troops on the Mexican border, it is believed in some quarters that the move is meant for an object lesson for the Japanese who have been seeking to establish a naval position on the west Mexican coast. Thousands of Japanese colonists have settled in Mexico within a short time.

German Bank Collapses.

Frankfort-on-the-Oder, Germany, March 8.—The Vereins Bank, which, after experiencing a run, suspended on Nov. 28, was declared bankrupt yesterday. The losses are estimated at $1,000,000, and they involve the total capital of $625,000 and from 50 to 60 per cent. of the deposits, which amounted to $1,250,000 when the run began.

It is stated that the bank invested too heavily in the mortgages of land companies.

WIRED PREMIER FOR RESIGNATION

Telegram Received by Laurier on Reciprocity

Special to The Review.

OTTAWA, MARCH 8.—SIR WILFRID LAURIER IS IN RECEIPT OF A TELEGRAM, THE SOURCE OF WHICH IS NOT KNOWN, CALLING ON HIM TO RESIGN, ON ACCOUNT OF HIS ATTITUDE ON RECIPROCITY. IT IS REGARDED AS THE WORK OF A CRANK, AND NO ATTENTION IS PAID TO THE INCIDENT.

A Working Agreement.

Whitby, March 8.—An agreement was approved of at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the council, whereby the Markham and Pickering Telephone Co. is given a five-year contract to operate a telephone exchange in the town, paying $60 a year for three years, and then give six free phones.

The agreement is not favored by a large portion of the business community, who wanted the independent company and the Bell Telephone Co. to erect a working connection of their lines so that Whitby would have access to the neighboring towns without a double charge.

Solemn Warning by Railway Man—Reciprocity a Terrible National Mistake.

Montreal, March 8.—Considerable interest has been aroused in this city by the publication of a letter from Sir William Van Horne to Mr. Chas. Chaput, secretary of the Anti-Reciprocity League. Sir William says in part:

"Sir,—I regret that, having to leave for England on Thursday, I shall not be able to attend the meeting of the Anti-Reciprocity League next week, and to give my views in person on the question of reciprocity.

"What I have to say on the subject has no reference to party politics (for I have nothing to do with politics), nor to any particular interests. I speak only as an individual who for the past thirty years has been working heart and soul for the upbuilding of this country and one to whom the great development of the past two decades has been a source of immense pride and satisfaction.

"To my amazement and distress, and shame I now see the magnificent work of a generation traded away for a vague idea or a childish sentiment—the splendid commercial and industrial position we have reached and our proud independence bartered for a few wormy plums, and I feel it my duty to join in the protest which is heard from every section of the country.

"To-day we are in an enviable position, with a commerce three times as great per capita as that of the United States, and without a cloud in our sky save the one which has just now been raised. Does not common sense tell us to stay where we are and to let well enough alone?

"Was there ever such an exhibition of crawling and cringing as Canada's representatives have just now given us at Washingtin? We have heard much of the dignified attitude of our Government on the subject of reciprocity—a dignified attitude which was assumed after repeated snubs. We have been told that if there was anything more to be said about reciprocity it must be said at Ottawa; but at the very first signal from Washington we have seen Canada's representatives hurrying there, and, without consultation with one of our business interests, and apparently without consultation with their colleagues, hastily assenting to terms vitally affecting our vast and complicated trade and commerce, and perhaps involving our political future. I refuse to believe that our honored Premier was a willing party to what has been done; but whether he was or was not, the certain consequences to the country are so serious as to quite overshadow all personal considerations and these consequences should be averted somehow, anyhow. The well-being of the country and its self-respect are at stake, and the shameful thing that is proposed is surely against the wishes of four-fifths of its people, and I doubt if it would, if clearly understood, find a dozen supporters in the Dominion.

"Aside from the fisheries, of which I do not know enough to speak, I do not believe that there is any industry anywhere in Canada that cannot find a way to be better off without reciprocity than with it; and with many industries the question is a vital one. And even with our codfish, judging from the prices to consumers in the West Indies and Central America, it may well be that we are, as with potatoes and apples, overlooking what might easily be made our very best market.

"Let us not run away with the idea that if we make a mistake in this matter of reciprocity we shall be able to correct it at pleasure. We may not be permitted to do it. It should be remembered that there are such things as vested interests with nations, real or alleged, are terribly binding upon the weaker party. When Mr. Hill has extended his seven or eight lines of railway into the Canadian Northwest—lines which have for some years been resting their noses on the boundary line waiting for reciprocity, or something of the kind, to warrant them in crossing, and when other American channels of trade have been established, affecting our territory, and when the American millers have tasted our wheat and the American manufacturers have got hold of our markets, is it probable that we shall be permitted to recede? Not a bit of it. We are making a bed to lie in and die in."

Hanged Himself In Cell.

Kingston, March 8.—Just after a guard passed his cell, Charles Goldsmith, aged 35, pulled off his shirt and making it into a long strip, hanged himself. The guard, returning, found him hanging two feet from the floor from his cell door, dead. Goldsmith was sentenced from near London for a murderous assault on a woman, being given twenty-one years and had served fourteen. He acted very strangely at times, and is believed to have been of unsound mind.

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

Nerviline is a Trusty Liniment

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. NERVILINE FOR MAN OR BEAST

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1911.

AN AGE LIMIT

The Toronto World is a faddist, and extremist of several varieties, but there are occasions when it seems to betray some symptoms of intelligence almost human. The World has been known to talk sense, when the subject had nothing to do with public ownership, or with Canada's third party in the House of Commons, or the Hydro-electric Commission.

In discussing the pilgrimage of the two old men to Washington to put through the tariff agreement, the World thinks that an age limit on ministers might come in helpful. It is a question worthy of thought. Hon Mr. Fielding is unfortunately suffering from a malady that is marring his political effectiveness, while Bill Paterson never was known for business capacity, even in his palmy days. The World says:

"There has been some talk in the press about Sir Wilfrid Laurier sending two of his aged Ministers down to Washington to make a bargain with two of President Taft's young and vigorous tariff experts. Hon. W. S. Fielding had just recovered from an enervating malady which for a time threatened to permanently incapacitate him from further service to the country. Mr. Fielding is an old man with set notions of government policy. When he was young and active he entertained decidedly strong opinions of Canadian nationality. It was he who threatened to smash confederation, but when that beneficial union was brought about, he accepted the situation and has since held lucrative offices in the gift of the people, either in his own province of Nova Scotia or in the Federal Government. But it is doubtful if Mr. Fielding ever changed his views. That which a man believes until he is long past the prime of life, he is likely to retain, unless he happens to be a man of wide sympathies and views. In the case of Mr. Fielding he is not likely to grow with the times.

The other Minister, Hon. Mr. Paterson, is also strongly minded and fixed. It is difficult for him to absorb the notions of the times, and he can't shake off the opinions that he held when he was young.

The question then arises: Would it not be well for us to make an age limit for Cabinet Ministers? It might be argued that this would deprive us of the services of some good men, that a man is just as old as he feels, and that at sixty-five or seventy many of our public men are enjoying health and vigor. But whenever a politician's mind becomes stereotyped his sphere of usefulness is correspondly limited and his continuance in public affairs retards measures and policies calculated to advance the national interest.

It is doubtful that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson did not make their pilgrimage to Washington with any intention of entering into a bargain of the particular description which eventuated. They did not reckon with the special circumstances of the Republican party and the determination of President Taft at once to rehabiliate its fallen fortunes and to counter check the effort of the Democratic majority in the next Congress to carry a general tariff reduction. The President diplomatically engineered the Canadian Government into an active alliance with him and at the same time identified Canada more completely than ever before with United States financial movements and disturbances."

IS PARTYISM DEAD?

The Montreal Star says:

Reciprocity has, indeed, shown us anew from ocean to ocean how thoroughly dead Party is. It is first vital issue which has appeared in our politics for a long time and men of all classes—whether public leaders or private citizens, whether financiers or farmers, whether manufacturers or mechanics—are looking at it with free eyes, entirely forgetting whether yesterday they thought themselves Liberal or Conservative. The party "tie" is so slight a thing that most people forget its existence; and "change their coats"—to use a phrase which was once a reproach but is now an evidence of unfearing and independent thinking — quite as calmly in the political as in the sartorial sense.

The Star is rather extravagant in its sweeping assertion that Partyism is dead. From this distance it looks as if there was a great deal of life in the old corpse yet. What was it a few days ago that Hon. Clifford Sifton said about it being a tremendously strong reason that would induce a man to break from his party; about the party ties being so strong?

Is it much evidence that partyism is dead when the Liberal press of the country, the very moment Sifton's attitude became known, started on an organized campaign to discredit him and his utterances, and explain away his criticisms? Why did they wait until he made the break to say all the unkind things they had apparently been thinking?

Is it much evidence that Partyism is dead in Canada that all Senatorial appointments since 1896, have gone to Liberals; that the bolting and prospective bolting in parliament of three or four Grit M.P's. creates such a sensation?

Partyism is dying as far as the electorate is concerned. The Canadian public is beginning to suffer or be influenced by the "swing of the pendulum" also. It is well that the public is capable of turning on big issues such as reciprocity, for public opinion is all that sometimes saves a country from the fatuity of blind or scheming politicians

Except in great issues, partyism can sometimes dance a very lively horn-pipe to the tune of patronage. We admire the spirit of those Liberals who have publicly broken away from the party of their affiliation and adoption on this big trade question. We admire their backbone, their strength of purpose, their patriotism in placing the good of Canada, as they see it, above the mere call of party.

The country itself has not yet spoken, though the deep sentiment that creates political upheavals is undoubtedly in existence. The voice of the people is not always echoed by a screaming, shrieking press, either for or against. The plausible argument does not always carry conviction; the people think for themselves as a whole. The strongest sentiment in Canada to-day on the tariff business is not indignation against the talk of annexation, for that is believed to be "bunc"—as a chorus girl expresses it—it is not fear that reciprocity is going to strain our loyalty to British institutions and the motherland. The strongest sentiment in Canada to-day is a sentiment of "let well enough alone."

"Let well enough alone." You remember the old fable of the boy who put his hand into the narrow-necked pitcher and grabbed a big handful of filberts? He could have secured a reasonably large quantity, but he wasn't satisfied. He wanted to grab all he could lay his hands on, with the result that he got none at all. When the country at large is so prosperous, people do not bother about the little things. They leave the scrapping over the trifles to the politicians. But when you imperil the people's prosperity, when you bring home to the men and women that their chances for employment are lessened; when the dinner-pail will not be so well stocked; when instead of good living, the purse strings must be tightened to make ends meet,—then comes the great public voice.

Partyism is not dead, in the ordinary things, in the spoils of office. Partyism will be dead when the people find their prosperity threatened; and the offenders will go out of office, like the flash of yon lightning and the whizz of the bolt cutting down the noble oak, being the visible sign of the heavens' great commotion.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The mineral production of Canada for 1910 was over $100,000,000. Of which the much knocked and despised Cobalt region contributed a very large proportion.

The Conservation Commission has taken a hand in the investigation of Ottawa's typhoid fever epidemic. There seems to have been something radically wrong with the Ottawa municipal handling of such an epidemic, when a Dominion body has to be called in to save the situation.

A burlesque actress wore the harem skirt in Toronto yesterday. Now Toronto people will put an inch onto their chest measure when they visit their country relations. Toronto is right in line with Paris and New York, and has beaten Montreal. Oh joy!

Leader Borden will to-day move in the House of Commons a resolution calling for no action on the question of reciprocity until there has been an appeal to the country. This is the way to put the House to a test. Are the Liberal leaders willing to take chances on this "popular" agreement to which the great majority of the people are opposed?

L. R. Keogh, teacher of mathematics and English in the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, claims to have discovered the secret of transmuting metals, of turning copper into nickel, and copper into iron. Mr. Keogh has, if his claims can be substantiated, discovered what the savants of the ages have been looking for. Will he be the finder of the long-sought-for philosopher's stone?

James Bower, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, says that those members who oppose reciprocity should be subject to the "recall" system—made to go back to their constituencies and stand for re-election. Why only those opposed to reciprocity? Why not those in favor also? Why should not the whole Parliament be recalled, and let the people vote on the subject? Mr. Bower's suggestion is just in line with what the Conservatives are saying, except that he makes a selection of a few to suit his own particular political fancies.

The Hamilton ministers are objecting to Sunday funerals. It is quite true that Sunday is a minister's busy day, and to crowd funerals on his other duties often upsets the arrangements of his other work. But Sunday is also a day when other people are at liberty to attend a funeral, and pay their respects to the departed. All funerals should be held on week-days if possible, but the very fact that Sunday is a religious day, is in its great favor as a day for the observance of this saddest of all rites, the laying away of the remains of one who but a few days before had possessed life, animation, vitality. We do not think it should lie within the province of the minister to say that there shall be no Sunday funerals, even though it interfere with his work among the living.

Dodd's Kidney Pills the Sure Cure for All Aches and Pains

Mrs. Vaillancourt adds her Experience to the great mass that Dodd's Kidney Pills are woman's best friend.

Lamond, Alberta, March 7.—(Special). That the women of the West are finding in Dodd's Kidney Pills a sure relief from those aches and pains that only women know is becoming more evident every day, and Mrs. Agnes Vaillancourt of this place gladly gives her experience as an addition to the mass of proof that is being piled up

"For three years I suffered intensely with Kidney Disease," Mrs Vaillancourt states. "I had pain everywhere. I only used six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I am completely cured of all my aches and pains. I am in perfect health to-day."

Woman's health depends on her Kidneys. If they are not in perfect order the impurities are not strained out of her blood and she cannot be healthy. She feels it in every part of her body, and the result is that she is weary and worn and full of aches and pains. What every woman should know is that there is sure relief and perfect health for her if she uses Dodd's Kidney Pills.

LAID UP FIVE YEARS

Until Half a Bottle of Father Morriscy's Liniment Cured His Shoulder.

Mr. Jos. J. Roy, a prominent tinsmith of Bathurst, N.B., July 16, 1909:

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without letting you know what benefit I received from your Liniment. For five years I had a sore shoulder, which prevented me from working or from sleeping at night. I had tried everything possible and still could find no relief, until I was advised to try a bottle of your liniment, which I purchased without delay. I only used one half of the bottle when I was completely cured, and now I feel as if I never had a sore shoulder. I would advise anyone suffering from Rheumatic pains to give your liniment a trial, for I cannot praise it too highly."

A liniment that will do that is the liniment you want. It is equally good for sore throat or chest, backache, toothache, ear ache, sprains, sore muscles, cuts, bruises, burns, frost-bites, chapped hands or chilblains. Rub it in, and the pain comes out. 25c per bottle at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co. Ltd., 64

SIR WILFRID BENT ON PUTTING PACT THROUGH HOUSE

Great Britain. The member from Brandon made that argument, and I have heard it from the other side of the House. I take positive issue with that statement, and I say more: that statement does no bear criticism; it has only to be analyzed for its falseness to be shown.

"I now pass to a more important objection," said Sir Wilfrid, "really the only objection of any consequence that I know of. That objection is that this agreement will imperil our industries? This agreement is concerned chiefly with natural products. There are no manufactured products dealt with except agricultural implements. In negotiating this agreement we have adhered strictly to the terms of the resolution which was adopted at the Liberal convention of 1893, in which the Liberal party declared for a treaty of reciprocity in natural products and a carefully considered list of manufactured products. Why did we put this restriction in our resolution? Because there is a vast difference between reciprocity in natural products and reciprocity in manufactured goods. This is the reason we have acted with this prudence.

"The only industry affected is that of agricultural implements, on some of which the duty has been reduced from 17 1-2 to 15, and on others from 20 to 13 per cent. It would have been pleasing, for myself at all events, to have gone beyond that, but we considered that if we did, we would perhaps not do justice to the men who have invested money in these establishments.

"This Government does not exist for the farmers alone, or the manufacturers alone, or for any one class, but for the manufacturers and farmers and for all the classes which compose our nation." (Hear, hear.)

"I now come," said Sir Wilfrid, "to the last of the objections raised against us. Hon. gentlemen opposite find within the four corners of this agreement the latent, the incipient destruction of our industries, but it is still more difficult to find therein the fatal germ which is to dissolve our autonomy and finally land us in the American republic.

"Was there ever, in any land at any time, a reform proposed which was not immediately denounced as revolutionary by the forces of reaction? With this logic we have been particularly familiar in this country ever since the first days of responsible Government.

"There was at one time an annexation movement in this country and it received its first check when Lord Elgin brought back from Washington the reciprocity treaty of 1854. From that day to this the desire of annexation had dwindled until there was not a vestige of it left.

"To the Canadian people I would say," declared Sir Wilfrid, in conclusion, "that if it is possible for us to obtain such relations between these two young and growing nations, Canada will have rendered to old England, the mother of nations, nay to the whole British Empire, a service unequalled in its present effect, and still more in its far-reaching consequences."

Major John Currie (North Simcoe) made a brief but spirited reply. On Wednesday Mr. Borden's motion for delay pending action by the United States Congress, will be debated.

HONORED THE MONKEY.

Origin of the Coat of Arms of the Earl of Leinster.

Most of the wild animals have a place in heraldry, and many strange and impossible creatures, such as griffins, dragons and unicorns, have been invented as emblems of daring and valor. But the donkey and the monkey have not been so used, except in one instance, where the monkey has been admitted to the ranks of titled nobility. The story of this adoption is told by Mr. Curtis in his book, "One Irish Summer."

On the Leinster coat of arms are three monkeys standing with plain collar and chained; motto, "Crom-a-boo," "To Victory." This is the only coat of arms, I am told, that has ever borne a monkey in the design. It was adopted by John Fitzthomas Fitzgerald in 1316 for romantic reasons.

While this Earl of Leinster was an infant he was in the castle of Woodstock, which is now owned by the Duke of Marlborough. The castle caught fire. In the confusion the child was forgotten, and when the family and servants remembered him and started a search they found the nursery in ruins. But on one of the towers was a gigantic ape, a pet of the family, carefully holding the young earl in his arms. The animal, with extraordinary intelligence, had crawled through the smoke, rescued the baby and carried it to the top of the tower.

When the earl had grown to manhood he discarded the family coat of arms and adopted the monkeys for his crest, and they have been retained to this day. Wherever you find the tomb of a Fitzgerald you will see the monkeys at the feet of the effigy or under the inscription.

SPENDTHRIFT ISABELLA.

A Sight That Checked Her Royal Extravagance For Awhile.

We are accustomed to think that the day is long past when a sovereign could oppress and offend a whole kingdom by personal extravagance. But the late Isabella of Spain belonged in spirit to the sixteenth century. An incident of her reckless career—which ended in the loss of the throne—is noted in Munsey's Magazine.

She spent money, pouring it out like water, at a time when the treasury was nearly bankrupt and when the proverb "Poor as a Spaniard" was far too true. All her best advisers urged her to practice economy. Very few of them succeeded, and these only for a short time.

A certain chamberlain of hers once hit upon a plan to make her realize how enormous were the sums that she was spending. Passing through the hall of the palace, she was surprised to see a vast heap of silver pieces, resembling the contents of a great bin of wheat, but piled up in the middle of the floor. The queen summoned her chamberlain.

"What is the meaning of all this money?" she demanded of him.

"Oh," he replied, with a low bow, "this is merely the amount which I have brought out to pay the bill of your majesty's glovemaker."

The queen colored and then laughed, and for several months she was less extravagant in her expenditures for clothes.

E Pluribus Unum.

The country is indebted to John Adams for its national motto, with an Englishman of note sharing in the honor. It seems that while Adams was minister to England Sir John Prestwick, an eminent English antiquary, suggested to him a good motto to represent the union of the American colonies. Adams at once was taken with the idea, which he transmitted to Charles Thompson, the secretary of congress, who on June 20, 1782, reported to that body his design for a government seal. In this the Latin legend "E Pluribus Unum" was to be borne on a ribbon held in the beak of an eagle.

Just where Sir John got the idea is not certain, but it is a fact that the motto was in use on the cover of the Gentleman's Magazine, first published in 1730, and it may have struck his fancy by its applicability to the situation then obtaining in America.

New Zealand's Glaciers.

The great size of the glaciers around Mount Cook, in New Zealand, has been often remarked. The Tasman is eighteen miles long, the Murchison ten miles, the Godley eight miles, the Mueller eight miles and the Hooker seven miles. Most of these glaciers have moraines of exceeding roughness, but the approaches to them are not steep, as is usually the case with European glaciers. The southern Alpine snow line is only a little over 7,000 feet. Glacially polished rocks are rare, and in many ways the mountains are singularly different from those of central Europe.

A Natural Mistake.

"I was just telling our friend here, Molly, that it was storming on the day of our marriage."

"Surely not, Hiram! The weather was perfectly lovely!"

"Well, well! I don't know how I got so mixed up about it; probably because it's been storming ever since!" —Atlanta Constitution.

A Fish Story.

"There are as good fish in the sea as were ever taken out of it," remarked Small to Young, who had been refused by Moneybag's daughter.

"Yes, I know. But they are not goldfish."

Circumstances are the rulers of the weak. They are but the instruments of the wise.—Samuel Lover.

Beaverton local fishermen are booking plenty of herring and other fish this season through the ice.

Think They Have Excuse.

El Paso, March 8.—Many Americans in El Paso believe that the arrest by Mexicans on Texas soil of Lawrence Converse and Edwin Blatt, Americans, affords cause for intervention by the American Government. The American consul in Juarez has proof that the boys were kidnapped in Texas. He wired the State Department, asking that their release be demanded.

Americans here also say that destruction of American property in Mexico might be an excuse for possible intervention. The Mexico Northwestern Railway has been cut to pieces by insurrectos, because it carried Mexican federal troops. The Southern Pacific line in the Yaqui River Valley has been treated likewise.

Many Americans are stockholders in the national lines destroyed.

Swept Through a Sewer.

New York, March 8.—Toddling along at his mother's heels, four-year-old Eddie Burrell plunged out of sight into a man hole in East 86th street, near the East river, and was swept for two hundred feet underground in a snow choked sewer. He was rescued an hour and a half later, huddled on a pile of snow where it had congested the drain. The little fellow was about frozen, but will recover.

Claim Worth $100,000.

Montreal, March 8.—A veteran's claim, which has been transformed into property for which $100,000 has been refused, is the good fortune of Allan Campbell, the owner. He is a traveler for W. Galbraith & Co., of this city.

The claim is in Porcupine, and it transpires that the T. & N. O. Railway has selected the site of the claim for a station.

And Take Mrs. Ripley's Advice

Lots of women are suffering tortures with their backs, when they need not do so. Mrs. Ripley had such frightful pains in her back that she could not do her housework. She tells how she cured herself. WILLIAMSDALE EAST.

"I cannot refrain from writing you about the benefits I have received from taking GIN PILLS. I suffering dreadfully with my back and have suffered with it for twenty years. I tried everything but got no relief, until I bought GIN PILLS. I have taken six boxes of GIN PILLS and now I have not the sign of an ache or pain in my back. I am now 48 years of age and feel as well as I ever did in my life. There is nothing that can hold a place with GIN PILLS for curing Pain In The Back to which women are subject."

How a Local Young Man Made Money

There are many people in and around the City of Peterborough who have money, looking for investment, who prefer a safe investment, such as bonds or low rate of interest, to investing in mortgages or other securities which require special judgment in selecting, and constant and careful watching to avoid loss. To such we would commend the following result to their careful consideration—

A young man of the City of Peterborough had his life insured sixteen years ago last January for Ten Thousand Dollars ON A SINGLE PAYMENT 15-YEAR ENDOWMENT PLAN. The premium paid was $6,460.00. On the 31st of January, 1910, the company paid him $12,116.00 in cash after giving him fifteen years of free insurance. What do you think of that as an investment?

Are bonds or municipal debentures, or even the best mortgages, to be compared with it, when you consider that the risk of the life was carried during the 15 years? And remember, the security is as safe as any debenture or mortgage, and there was no trouble or expense entailed of any kind after the initial investment.

The above result was obtained from the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, under policy No. 47340, W.H.B.

HO! FOR THE HATS MARCH 17 AND 18

Spring Opening Commences in Al Stores on St. Pat's Day

The millinery openings of Peterborough and the spring openings of the big stores will take place on March 17 and 18. This date has been agreed on by the purveyors of the lovely things that lovely woman wears so its ho! for St. Patrick's Day in the marnin'.

The openings will be on Friday and Saturday, as the day which all Irishmen, —and not a few others— celebrate comes on a Friday. It is likely that the stores will be fittingly decorated in green, and that whatever isn't green for that day around the stores (except the buyers) won't be worth noticing.

This combination spring open idea has been finding favor among the milliners and the dress good stores generally. It's great advantage consists in affording the ladies the chance to "do" everything up brown all at one time, instead of dividing up their yearly spring excursion into several trips. It makes a much bigger and better shopping day, and the merchants and the public feel the benefit of it.

The nimble fingers and just as nimble wits of the artistes who handle shape and plume will be working at high pressure for the next ten days, getting ready for the great event of storedom, and the heralding of spring

PLEASANT AT HOME BY LADIES' AID

Of St. Andrew's Church

The residence of Mrs. Archie Moore 260 Aylmer street, was the scene of a largely attended and successful "At Home" yesterday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of St. Andrews Church.

An impromptu program of musical numbers was supplied by several of the guests which contributed greatly to the pleasure of the affair.

A candy booth, presided over by a couple of young ladies was largely patronized, and realized well.

Dainty refreshments were served. The affair lasted from four till six in the afternnon, and from seven till nine in the evening.

Lantern Talk at St. Pauls

Under the auspices of St. Paul's Mission Band, an enjoyable and instructive lantern talk was given last evening in St. Paul's lecture hall by Mr. J. Keyes, of the Normal School teaching staff.

The attendance was very encouraging and the evening was a complete success.

SPRING OPENING OF WOMEN'S WEAR

WE might attempt to give you an idea of the immensity and grandeur of our spring showing of Women's Garments, Coats, Suits, Dresses, Waists, Skirts, etc., but we do not feel like even attempting it. Words cannot possibly give you the remotest idea of the magnificence of the display—not the way the goods are displayed, but the goods themselves—the stunning styles, the dainty, rich fabrics in the dresses, the charming, smart appearance of the coats, and the "something different" in the suits. Our garments are exclusive and high class. High-class does not necessarily mean extreme, absurd styles, but styles and fabrics which appeal to the discriminating taste of women of class and refinement, not in any way the highest priced goods, neither are they the cheap, everyday wearables. They are simply the kind the mass of well dressed women like. Come and see. Watch for our window and interior displays daily.

We have remodelled our spacious Ready-to-wear department and added new equipment for the display of our spring stock. Everything is ready and the best attention will be given all who are interested in the new modes for women. Whether you are a purchaser or not you will find our salesladies ready and pleased to show you through our immense stock.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION MEETING

Citizens Invited to Be Present

A meeting which should be of the greatest interest to all, as showing the splendid work that is being accomplished by the Ontario Library Association, will be that which is to be held in the public library building on Thursday, March 9th, beginning at 10 a.m. Apart from the fact that the speakers and readers of addresses on the occasion are persons well versed in the subjects which they are to treat, and that, therefore, a large amount of valuable information is certain to be forthcoming, there is another reason why the people of Peterborough should avail themselves of the opportunity to be present at the various meetings. We not only possess in the library a building second to none in the province, as regards equipment, but we have a Library Board that it is safe to say is composed of as public spirited a body of men as can be found anywhere. It would be a compliment which they would, we are sure, appreciate to the full, to have the meetings as generously patronized as possible, so that the visitors from a distance may take away with them pleasant impressions of their stay in Peterborough.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, who will be acting president in the unavoidable absence of Dr. Vrooman, of Lindsay, will give an address on "The Library and the People," and other addresses will be given by well known officials of the Library Institute and local speakers.

Needless to say, all the meetings are absolutely free to the public. There is no charge whatever.

DON'T MISS IT

"The Three Twins" on Monday—The Most Popular Musical Comedy of the Season

Jos. H. Gaites' "Three Twins"—that greatest success America has ever known"—a musical comedy by Chas. Dickson, Otto Hauerbach and Karl Hoschna, will be seen here Monday evening, March 13th.

The play is based on that popular old farce "Incog" and carries a clear and logical story. All the complications of the piece centre around twin brothers and a third twin — Tom Stanhope, he having assumed the disguise to win the girl he loves—Kate Armitage, who is a companion to his father's ward.

The first act is a summer hotel. The second act shows "visiting day" at a Sanitarium, and with the pretty girls of the chorus as nurses and attendants the "daffy house" does not appear to be the undesirable place that most people are inclined to regard it. Dr. Siegfried Hartman, a German specialist in charge of the sanitarium, is an amusing character, and General Stanhope a martyr to dyspepsia and the father of Tom is unique. While other characters adding to the enjoyment of the piece are the "laughing girl" and the "cheerful weeper."

The original New York cast and production will be seen here headed by that inimitable star Clifton Crawford.

The scenic production is elaborate and a number of novel electrical and mechanical effects are introduced, including the "faceograph" the huge "airship swing"; the most popular and catchy songs are "Yama Yama Man," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer" and "The Hypnotic Kiss."

Pianos and organs rented from $1.00 per month up. Six months' rent allowed in case of purchase. The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, Charlotte street.

PUBLIC MEETING IS CALLED FOR

To Discuss Tuberculosis Situation in This City and Effect Organization

The attention of the citizens of Peterborough is directed to the meeting in the city council chamber on Monday evening, the object of which is to be the discussion of the tuberculosis situation in the city, and formation of an active and protective organization for combatting the ravages of the dreaded disease in Peterborough.

It is felt that if the citizens will co-operate in the matter and do their best to stimulate public interest, and enlighten the community as to the best methods possible for preventing the spread of the disease and educating patents how to care for themselves and maintain proper sanitary conditions, a great work will then be accomplished.

While Peterborough is not more afflicted by the disease than other cities of a corresponding size, still it is felt that it is not doing its share in endeavoring to block the disease, hence the endeavor on the part of local interested citizens to form the society mentioned.

When the organization is formed and in working order, an active campaign will be commenced in the city against the disease, such as has been carried out with splendid success in other cities.

A district nurse would be secured, whose duties would be to visit patients, and see that proper methods of ventilation, sanitation, etc., were in use, and every care exercised for the safeguarding of the health of citizens from tuberculosis.

If the proper and necessary financial backing for the worthy and commendable enterprise could be secured, the undertaking could be immediately put into much needed use. The assistance of the ladies would also be of very material service.

A sanitarium could be built for the care of sufferers of the disease, such as other cities have, where patients were able to be properly cared for. It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance of representative and interested citizens at the meeting on Friday night.

Mayor Morrow will preside.

ONLY ROUTINE BUSINESS AT BOARD OF EDUCATION

Communications and Reports Dealt With—Easter Holidays Commence on Thursday Before Good Friday

The Board of Education probably established a record last evening, they being about twenty minutes in session.

There were present Messrs. John Crape, chairman; W. H. Hill, Dr. Morrison, L. M. Hayes, Harry Adams, Col. Miller, Robert Fair, B. F. Ackerman.

Only routine business occupied the attention of the Board. On motion of W. H. Hill and Col. Miller, it was decided that the public schools would close for the Easter holidays on Thursday at noon preceding Good Friday.

COMMUNICATIONS.

H. R. H. Kenner notified the Board that Miss Georgie Stevenson has presented to the Collegiate Institute Library a copy of the life of the late King Edward VII.

A report was submitted by A. E. Edkins, assistant chief engineer of the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Co. of Canada, giving the result of his inspection of the new horizontal return tubular boiler, which has been installed in the Central school, and which showed it to be in a thoroughly satisfactory condition.—Received.

The following letter was received from Mr. Hazen Ritchie:
G. H. Thompson, Esq.

Dear Sir,—Will you please convey to the president and members of the Peterborough Board of Education my great appreciation of the honor they have done me in re-appointing me as one of their representatives on the Public Library Board for the ensuing three years.

Yours very truly,
HAZEN RITCHIE.

ONLY ONE SCHOOL PATIENT.

Mr. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, called the attention of the Board to the eight cases of scarlet fever in the city at the present time, and commented on the fact that only one was contracted by a school child, the rest being infants.

COLLEGIATE ATTENDANCE.

A report of the attendance at the Collegiate Institute for the month of February, was submitted by H. R. H. Kenner. Number of pupils on roll, 331; attendance, 308.

BRASS WAS STOLEN FROM C.G.E. CO.

Italian Accused of Theft—Property Recovered

Nicolo Basciano, an Italian employee of the Canadian General Electric Company, is charged with stealing a large quantity of brass from the works, and appeared at police court to-day.

Magistrate Dumble was absent, and City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, who presided, remanded the man until tomorrow morning.

There were other articles discovered when the premises of the accused were searched, which may have been stolen from other places.

SOCIAL TIME BY THE LADIES' AID

Of Charlotte St. Church

The Ladies Aid of Charlotte street Methodist church, held a most enjoyable and interesting social affair yesterday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mrs. Walter Stocker, Weller street.

There was an exceptionally large attendance. A program of musical selections and readings was given by the the following ladies, Miss L. Thomas, Miss Letitia Elliott, Mrs. Lyle, Miss Jackson and others.

Delightful refreshments were served during the afternoon and the charming affair was brought to a happy conclusion early in the evening.

VESTA VICTORIA

PEERLESS SINGER

THE ENGLISH COMEDIENNE SAYS THAT IF IT WERE NOT FOR THE GLORY OF THE STAGE, THERE WOULD BE FEW ACTRESSES—APPLAUSE IS THE SWEETEST THING ON EARTH

"Applause is the sweetest music to the actress' ears," said Vesta Victoria, in response to a question as to her favorite music, "and I have no hesitancy in saying that I have enjoyed an abundance of that sort of melody right here in your dear old Canada. I have every reason to thank the people of the Dominion and I do, both for myself and my company of players. I never had any hesitancy in playing before the Canadians because of their reputation for hospitable treatment, but such an overwhelmingly enthusiastic reception as I have received makes me deeply thankful.

"Money, you know, is not my prime object, although I have received my share of that and perhaps a little more. What I am striving for at all times is an artistic success, and, as I said before, that dearest of all results, applause. It may be a species of selfishness, although I don't think one could call it that with absolute truth, but it thrills my soul to know that my hearers are being pleased, and that they show their pleasure so heartily. If they were cold and silent I would know that my efforts to entertain them had failed, and that they did not care for my work. Can you picture my feelings if such were the case. Thank heaven, that condition has never arisen in my life.

"If it were not for glory in the theatrical business there would be few actresses. If there were no such thing as applause, and there was no way to tell whether you were being appreciated or not, the ranks of the profession would, I am confident, dwindle in a very short time. The fact that there is a popular demonstration when the audience is pleased is also very useful to an artist in getting an idea of what kind of entertainment is desired. For instance, I was very timid about doing any character songs at first. I was accustomed to singing all my songs in a severely proper evening gown, and I hesitated a long time before changing my methods. But, I reasoned, if I am portraying the character of a servant why wouldn't it make the character all the stronger if I dressed like a slavey? After I had banished all my doubts I did it that way and found that I had the real idea at last. And when I heard the tumultuous manner in which my efforts were greeted I had all the proof in the world that I was on the right track at last.

"The study of various characters has been vitally necessary before putting on new songs, and I have often looked for a type for several months before I found the very one I wanted and studied how to costume myself so as to bring about the desired likeness. All the work I did, however, I was well rewarded for in the applause. Don't you remember as a child how happy you felt when anyone patted you on the head and told you how well you'd done something? Well, that's the way I feel when the audience tells me the same thing.

Speaking about the art of make-up and the delineation of various characters, I received a letter the other day from an enthusiastic admirer of mine who is seriously considering a stage career. She asked me if the make-up I used in lining my face for my character songs would have any bad effect on the skin. Really, this was as absurd a question as I had ever had put to me. Could you picture any actress smearing her face with any cosmetic that would injure her skin? Every woman values her beauty and the complexion is the principal attribute to pulchritude, so why spoil it? I wrote the dear child that the grease paints and rouges that I used were all harmless and to give her a demonstration of it I sent her a complete assortment of make-up with instructions for the application of it so as to delineate various characters.

I also sent her a collection of photographs of myself in which there were several pictures of me in boy's costume. I could hardly contain myself when I read her answer. She wrote me that she was very thankful for the make-up, but that since looking at the pictures she would never go on the stage. She said that she had never thought of appearing as a boy, and that she couldn't possibly bring herself to donning such an immodest attire. So the stage lost another possible star, and in her case I'm glad of it because she is so sweet that she will make some good man a fine wife, and one that will ensure his happiness and prosperity."

LOCAL INTERMEDIATES AND TORONTO ALL STAR TO-NIGHT

A Stiff Test With Pick of Senior O. H. A. Players Awaits the Homesters

The Peterborough intermediates and All Stars of Toronto, in playing at Brock street rink to-night, should do so before a packed house, and, judging from the interest displayed by local fans, there will be a large crowd on hand.

The All Stars, selected by Harvey Sproule, will be a stiff proposition for Charlie Ray and his braves, and to-night the attendance will see just how strong a team is the seven that has been representing this burg in the intermediate O.H.A. series this season. Kernel Ridpath, a brother of the famous Bruce Ridpath, of the Ottawa club; Jake Moore, who has been working at rover for Argonauts, and Hal Kennedy, of the Varsity Collegiate champions, all well known here, will figure on the line-up of the visitors. The remainder of the team, while strangers as far as local appearances, are heralded as top notchers.

The team here will be the same as defeated Parkdale seniors last week, and the boys can be depended on to hand out their prettiest exhibition. Each is in good shape and fit to go the limit, or over, if necessary.

The teams will line up as follows;

All Stars.		Peterborough
	Goal
Holmes (Parkdale)		Derocher
	Point
Murphy (Argonauts)		Bond
	Cover
Moore (Argonauts)		Heffernan
	Rover
McClean (T.R.C.)		Ray

Meeking (Eatons)		Park
	Right
Kennedy (Varsity)		Sarels

Ridpath (Parkdales)		Kelly

BENEDICTS WERE ONLY ONE BEHIND

The Belleville Fros Were Outdone —Total Count Was 23-22

The screams came in bagfuls at the rink last night, when the boy wonders of the Examiner and those who once were, but are now doing time, preparing kindling wood, assisting in the weekly wash, etc., etc., came together for a friendly game of hockey. They came alright and then stopped.

The score was 23-22, with the young hopefuls by a terrific spurt in the last two seconds of play, beating Lesuer Canniff with a count, after he had sidetracked an even dozen deadly shots from two feet out. It won the game.

The bout was probably the cleanest game ever put over at Brook street rink. Only one player had to be assisted from the ice and the ambulance service and special medical staff only worked two hours after the fray came to an end. There were only twenty-three sticks broken along with minor injuries to the ice and boards.

For the losers My Land, undoubtedly went the longest, and it is likely that he will be requested to absent himself for the next game. Chubby Sharrard's wing is in splendid shape for the baseball season. if his contributions during the game go for anything. He also skated a couple of feet. The net work of Canniff was wonderful at times and he managed to let the rubber pass on every occasion.

For the winners there were no stars, so far as hockey is concerned. But there are other things to make good at and several of the wonders secured their full share. That dashing and effervescent bepadded and goggled youth, Pink Cat Craig, scored 22 of the goals for his team by his brilliant double crossing. He also assisted as stretcher-bearer, when the victim of too much wood, was carried off the field.

The bunch was as follows:

Bachelors.		Benedicts.
	Goal
Maysoon Craig		Lesuer Canniff
	Point
Neverpay Board		Rightfield Sharrard
	Cover
Chippy Reynolds		Touchmenot Myland

MIDLAND PUT AWAY

Preston Team Are Intermediate Champions — Trophies for Kingston Juniors

Midland, March 8.—Preston, although defeated by Midland to-night by the score of 7 to 6, win the intermediate O.H.A. championship by a margin of two goals, they winning the first game in Preston by a score of 6 to 3.

A large crowd witnessed the game, fully 400 coming from Preston by special train, and their team gave their supporters plenty of opportunities to cheer, they being ahead of Midland at half time by 4 to 2, while with five minutes to play, the teams were tied.

Y.M.C.A. SPORT

The Y. M. C. A. hockey team defeated the East City team at the Brock Street rink last night by 4 goals to 1. The "Y" team lined up as follows: Goal, A. Larling, point W. Irwin, cover, A. Fitzgerald; Rover N. Taylor, centre, C. Nicholls; Wings E. Barry, and N. Carter. Referee Derocher gave excellent satisfaction nothing escaped his eagle eye.

The bowling game between the Lancashire Trio and Millards teams was won by the former with a 1242 score against Millards" 1119.

The game scheduled for to night between the Mivvies and Millionaires will be some game, as both teams have only lost one game, and the winner of to-nights game will be the league leader. Drop around and see the pins fly.

The Featherweights and Whirlwinds of the City Basketball League play a scheduled game on the Y.M.C.A. floor at 9.00 p.m. to-night.

Thursday night at 7.15 the Junior Boys and Business Boys Basketball teams meet in their return game, to decide which team shall play the educational department team selected by Mr. Tait.

Senior Leaders meet to-night at 6.30 sharp for floor work.

The Physical Department Committee will meet to-night at 7.30.

CURLING

The four rinks which went to Bobcaygeon yesterday to play the return match for the Fitzgeral-Bottum shield, were defeated by 22 shots.

As the locals were only five shots to the good here, they lose on the round and the trophy goes to Bobcaygeon.

TURF CLUB IS READY

Directors and Officers for the Year—Matinees During the Summer

A meeting of the members of Peterborough Turf Club was held in the office of the Merton Storey livery Monday night. Those present were W. J. Whitton, M. Storey, E. Jones, Dr. Leach, M. Connors. The officers and directors for the ensuing year were elected and other business transacted.

This promises to be the banner year for the club. They intend holding a series of matinees this summer, beginning May 24. Besides a number of fast horses already in possession of the members, another game little horse, "Jerry Dillard," is to be added to Dr. Johnston's string. This horse, which was purchased from Mr. Acton, of Gananoque, holds the Canadian half mile record on a half mile track, 1.01 1-4.

Two years ago this was the fastest horse in Canada, and it will be a genuine treat for the citizens of Peterborough in watching him travel.

The following directors were elected —M. Connors, W. Whitton, E. Jones; Dr. Leach, Dr. King, Dr. Johnston, M. Storey, J. Sutherland and H. Kendry.

The officers of the said directors are as follows—

President—Dr. Johnston.
Vice-President—M. Connors.
Sec'y-Treas.—M. Storey.

The directors were authorized to dispose of stock shares in the club.

It was decided that the club should meet each month and the meeting adjourned until the first Monday in April.

NO CUP FOR PORT HOPE

Galt Team Holds League Championship—One Arrest Made

Port Hope, March 7.—Port Hope's hopes for the Stanley Cup were dissipated to-night. In the return game in the Ontario Professional League, played here this evening between Galt and Port Hope, the score was tied at 4 to 4. The visiting team came here with a lead of four goals, the score in Galt last week being 8 to 4 in favor of Galt.

To-night's game was characterized by some rough play, which kept Referee Van Horne busy. Galt played a better combination game, but the score would have been less favorable to the visitors if the Port Hope team had not been so badly used up as a result of rough play in the previous week's game in Galt.

At the close of the last period in to-night's game, Murphy of the Galt team struck Carmichael of Port Hope a nasty blow on the head as a result of which Murphy was taken into custody by the police.

Referee Van Horne proved an impartial official.

PUCKLAND

HOCKEY PAYS

Kingston, March 8.—The champion Frontenacs will be given some kind of trophies by the citizens. They will leave here on Saturday noon by special excursion train for Toronto to play the All-Star Western Ontario junior hockey team.

There were exactly 1,806 paid admissions at the Frontenac-Orillia final game. The receipts were $1,074, the largest amount ever taken in at a hockey game here. Fully 800 people were turned away. Each team and the O.H.A. gets $275.

In view of the splendid showing made by "Big Casino Myland" in the backelor-benedict game last night. it is not startling that the rumor is afloat that the Ottawas are doing best to secure the services of this exceptionally talented player for next season.

A Remarkable Flight.

Paris, March 8.—Eugene Renaux yesterday flew in a biplane, with M. Senoukue as a passenger, from St. Cloud, a Paris suburb, to the highest peak of the Puy de Dome Mountains, 250 miles distant. He made the flight with only one stop in 5 hours and 30 minutes, thereby winning the Michelin prize of $20,000—the terms of which required the flight to be made in six hours.

The peak on which Renaux landed is 4,860 feet high. The landing place was only a few yards square and exceedingly rough. The machine alighted, however, without injury. Even a broken wire would have barred Renaux from claiming the prize.

Fell Through Hatchway.

Sarnia, March 8.—William King, chief engineer of the steamer Ionic, of the Northern Navigation Co., who has been working fitting out his boat for the coming season, had to cross the steamers Laronic and Huronic to reach her, when he fell through the hatchway of the Huronic, all but about two feet square of which was covered up, 18 or 20 feet to the steel floor of the hold.

He was last seen on Monday morning about 11 o'clock, and when he failed to turn up, searchers found his body about 3 p.m. yesterday.

St. Paul's Church

The regular mid-week service will not be held this evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Faithful Workers' Mission Band will be held in the Guild room on Thursday afternoon at 4.15.

The preparatory service for the communion to be observed on Sunday, will be held on Friday at 8 p.m., instead of Wednesday, as formerly. Mr. Rollins, of St. Andrew's church, will preach.

SURVEYING FOR DOUBLE TRACK

Preliminary Work on C.P.R. East of Here

Smith's Falls, March 8.—Mr. C. Ramsay, C.E., a C.P.R. engineer, and a large staff are at work near Perth locating the route in that vicinity for the new C.P.R. double track westward. Owing to the broken nature of the country the work is proving rather difficult. Surveys have been made from Glen Tay curve past Christy Lake, then from Perth, beginning at the House of Refuge, crossing the third line of Bathurst twice. A line is now being run between the third line of that township, which means that if the new road goes there Bathurst station would be left to the north and the switch off would be at Perth or Glen Tay.

GLORIOUS HAIR

Any Woman Can Have It

Many thousands of women refined and educated, have learned that it is not hard to have and to keep an abundance of lustrous hair, if Parisian Sage, the hair grower is used daily.

Since its introduction in Canada, Parisian Sage has become a prime favorite with the women who desire luxuriant and radiant hair that will not fail out or turn gray. Used daily as a dressing it will keep the scalp immaculately clean; will stop itching and falling hair and remove every particle of dandruff. Wm. Madill, the druggist, thinks so much of Parisian Sage that he guarantees it to do as advertised. Large bottle 50 cents.

Scored Win Over G.T.R.

New Haven, Conn., March 8.—Parties in the interest of the Vermont Valley Railway Co., a corporation of the State of Vermont, have purchased the interests of the Zollwell estate in the Montpelier and Wells River Railway and the Barre Railway. The properties will be merged into and become a part of the Boston and Maine Railway system.

The announcement discloses a new step taken by the New Haven Co. in its contest against the Grand Trunk. It is understood to have been a valuable feeder to the G.T.R. system, particularly in connection with the Barre quarries.

Free Trade Not Annexation.

London, March 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Westminster Gazette says:—"Still less now than when Lord Elgin gave his famous warning can we say to a self-governing colony we have special interests in colonial trade which require us to regard as an offence to the Empire any particular policy which the colony itself desires. We no more believe that free trade between Canada and the United States means annexation than we should believe in Britain being annexed if Germay opened her ports to-morrow."

Hamilton will get prices on automobile fire apparatus.

RECIPROCITY AT PARK ST. CHURCH

Mock Parliament Held And Bill Discussed

A very successful mock parliament was conducted at the Park street Baptist church last evening by the men, at which the reciprocity question was discussed.

Rev. Riddiford was elected as speaker, Mr. Theobald, clerk, and Percy Hill page.

Hon. Wm. Kemp led the party against the bill and Hon. Jacob Dawson led the party supporting it.

Very able addresses were given by the leaders and the hon. members of each party. Mr. Dawson's opening address was chiefly on the meaning of the word "Reciprocity."

The speakers showed a conversant knowledge of the question before the house and discussion followed discussion as there was always someone to object to the remarks of a previous speaker.

Before putting the matter of voting before the house, Rev. Mr. Riddiford congratulated those who had taken part and said that their addresses were logical in sequence if not in consequence.

The house divided on the question with the result that those against reciprocity were in the majority.

The House adjourned after singing the National Anthem to meet again March 21st, when the matter will be taken up for further discussion.

CHURCH MEMBERS NEED TO WAKE UP

Another stirring Address and good Singing at Knox Church

Rev. Geo. Woodside delivered another stirring address to a large congregation in Knox church last night. He is a very forceful speaker and drives his message home.

Mr. McBretney, the soloist, who is assisting in the services, has a beautiful tenor voice, and seems to put his whole soul into his singing.

The speaker said he wished to continue in his emphasis of the need of wakening the people's responsibility toward God.

He chose his text from Proverbs 11th chapter, 31st verse, "He that winneth souls is wise," and also from Matthew, 14th chapter 19th verse, "And He said unto them, follow Me and I will make you fishers of men."

It was a wise thing on the part of God when He spoke of the redemption of mankind in body and spirit. Wise, also, was the man who looked upon the folly and sin of youth, and upon the vices of the sinking ones, and linked himself with God in an effort to redeem mankind. If God was wise in attempting this work, why would a man be a fool who also took it up. No man would dare take exception to the first part of the text, "He that winneth souls is wise."

It was a pity to see so many outside the influences of God's saving power. If won to Christ in life, you must be spending your efforts in helping to win souls. If anyone had not this purpose his life was as a blank. Many were gratified when they could accumulate an enormous amount of wealth, but when the substance was considered, what good was the money when everything turned to ashes. If we wished to give character to pleasure, wealth and fame, we have to use those qualities for the redemption of mankind. Nothing ranked higher than the seeking of souls for Christ.

$40,000 SURPLUS

Guelph, March 6—The annual statement of the Light and Heat Commi ment of the Light and Heat Commission for the past year, which was presented at the City Council meeting this evening, showed a profit of $39,725.1 out of a total income of $98,117.33. This result is much better than was hoped for, in view of the fact that the service was handicapped by the changing of the power when the hydro came in, and the lowering of rates on gas, which is now 90c per thousand. It has been decided to cut off the elctric meter rent in future, as well as reducing the charge from 10c to 9c or a total reduction of 16 1-2 per cent. New lamps giving greater light at a lower cost will be installed as soon as experiments are completed.

"Marvelous Recovery"

Montreal Man So Ill With Dyspepsia Thought He Would Die.

No more convincing evidence was ever put on paper than the following letter from one of Montreal's well-known citizens, Mr. D. R. Larose, of 338 Jollette street.

"Permit me to write you a few words concerning Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for five years. I suffered so much that I could hardly attend to my work. I was weak and lost all courage. I enjoyed no rest until I decided to follow your treatment, after having read your advertisement in the paper. Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cure Dyspepsia

Once you have used PURITY FLOUR you will readily pay the little more it may cost.

WESTERN CANADA FLOUR MILLS COMPANY — Purity — MANITOBA HARD WHEAT

Until you have actually tried PURITY FLOUR you may demur at the trifle more it costs you than lower grade flours cost—but your first sack will show you why that seemingly higher price is a real economy for you

PURITY FLOUR

That trial sack (which you ought to order this very day) will teach you what Purity Flour is worth to you, as contrasted with an ordinary flour.

PURITY FLOUR is milled from only the kernels of the choicest Manitoba hard wheat—the world's wheat standard.

From the 84 grain elevators which we own and operate, we select the finest wheat of the year's crop. This, at our mills, is so treated that only the most richly-nourishing part of the wheat berry gets into a PURITY sack or a PURITY barrel.

The result is a flour so strong that it produces more bread for the quantity used than ordinary flour

But bulk of product is not all you are to expect of PURITY FLOUR. You are to expect lighter, snowier bread; bread that has the nutlike, sweet, wholesome taste every housewife tries to put into the bread she bakes.

PURITY FLOUR, moreover, is not merely a bread flour. It is an every-purpose flour. It makes the kind of pastry you can be proud of—cake that invites praise—biscuits that suggest an encore.

Not only is PURITY the flour for economy's sake, you see, but the flour for quality baking. Thus, the few extra cents which it may cost you actually insures you against baking disappointments. PURITY FLOUR is the flour you will never be without, once you fully test its unusual merits.

Begin with a small trial sack, if you are dubious. Your grocer can supply you.

CAVANVILLE

Special to the Review.

Cavanville, March 8.—Fred Staples had a very successful sale last Tuesday. He realised over fifteen hundred dollars on his machinery, stock, etc. Mr. Staples is very shortly leaving Cavan and is going to take up a farm in the Northwest. We all join in wishing him success in his new field of labor.

The telephone project is now most likely to materialise. The required number of poles are out and the ground stakes out and all is ready for the digging of the post holes. The line will be operated as far west as Mr. H. Kennedy's, going east then as far as Millbrook via Cavanville.

Mr. J. W. Gardiner and Ernest McKeely were down to Millbrook last Sunday.

Mr. James Kennedy, with the Misses E. and A. Kennedy spent Sunday evening with his brother, Mr. A B. Kennedy.

It is stated that the British navy estimates show an increase of only $17,500,000, the call for new construction not being so insistent as had been anticipated.

ST. PETER'S T.A.S. DEBATERS WON

College Education for Average Young Man Does Not Pay

A very interesting debate took place at St. Alphonse's Lyceum last night. The subject was: "Resolved, that College Education for the average young man does not pay."

The affirmative was ably taken by J. Dorris and Vincent McCabe, of St. Peter's T.A.S., and the negative by Messrs. Donoghue and Collins, of Ennismore T.A.S. The affirmative won by a narrow margin, Dr. MacPherson making a capable judge.

Rev. Father McColl was chairman and called the following numbers:—

Instrumental selection, "March to Delhi—Mr. McKinstry.

Vocal solo—(encored)—Harold Lee.

Vocal duet—Messrs. New and Lee.

Those on the platform with the chairman were Rev. Father Sullivan, Port Hope; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Ennismore; Rev. Father Kelly, Norwood; Rev. Father Bretherton, Hastings, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

The usual congratulatory speeches were made, and the very successful evening brought to a close by the National Anthem."

THE HAREM SKIRT AT THE BEEHIVE

One of the Novelties on Exhibition —It Won't Bite You

The only harem skirt in this city, was shown to a Review representative by Mr. Elliott, of the Beehive, to-day. The mysterious dry goods at first sight didn't cause any great shock, as the "harem" looks like any ordinary skirt at first sight. It is when a demonstration of the effects that may be brought about, is made that you pass it by, and become firmly convinced that it won't be worn here.

This is one of the novelties shown at the Beehive by Mr. Birnie, the expert demonstrator, who will be at the store all this week.

Another design is the Charlotte Corday costume, which owes its origin to the Reign of Terror in France. At that time, wealthy and titled women, to save their lives attired themselves the same as peasants, who found safety in this garb. Charlotte Corday was a beautiful woman, and the costume is called after her.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Templeton Brown Dead

The death is announced as occurring on Tuesday evening, of an old resident of the city, in the person of Mrs. Templeton Brown, mother of Mr. C. N. Brown. The deceased lady was in her personality, a link with the past, and one of the few who survived from the very early days of the district. She was a native of Dublin Ireland, and daughter of Major James M. Frood of the Imperial Life Guards Dublin, and reached the advanced age of 91 years. She came to Peterborough in 1849, with her sister, now Mrs. Jas. Read, of 310 Maitland Ave. In 1850, the deceased lady married the late Templeton Brown, and with him, was identified with the early life and progress of the town. Mr. Brown carried on business as watchmaker and jeweller, and was prominent in musical matters, and gave much encouragement and work to that end. The late Mrs. Brown was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

She leaves three sons and one daughter, William A. Brown of Melbourne, Australia, Chas. N. Brown, of Peterboro; Alfred S. Brown, Vancouver, and Miss B. F. Brown, city. She leaves also two sisters, in the Old Country, at an advanced age, for the family strain included the attribute of longevity.

The funeral will take place on Thursday, 9th, at 2.30 o'clock, from No. 581 Gilmour Street to the Little Lake cemetery.

Death of Richard Anglesey

Richard Anglesey passed away at his late residence, 149 Rubidge street, this morning about nine o'clock, after an illness of one week.

The funeral will take place Friday morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

C.G.E. PROFITS OF PAST YEAR SHOW INCREASE OF $300,000

Will be Able to Add $150,000 to Reserve Fund.

Toronto, March 8.—The fact that a market has developed for Canadian General Electric stock is a sign that the annual meeting is close at hand. It is said that the profits for the year will show an increase of something like $300,000 over 1909; that the company will be able to write off a large amount for depreciation, something in the neighborhood of $175,000, and at the same time, after allowing for a 7 per cent. division, will be able to carry $150,000 to reserve.

LAID AT REST

ANOTHER LIBERAL LEAVES HIS PARTY ON RECIPROCITY ISSUE

He Says He Is Forced for Many Reasons to Oppose His Party — Even Farmers Are Divided on the Subject—Mr. Borden's Motion to Defer Action Is Defeated by a Majority of Forty-One.

Ottawa, March 9.—Two features in the reciprocity debate presented themselves to the House of Commons yesterday. One was the rejection of Mr. Borden's motion for delay pending action by Congress, the other was a sound, well-reasoned, business man's speech by Lloyd Harris (Liberal, Brantford) opposing the entire scheme. Mr. Harris is the third prominent Liberal to take issue on this question with his party.

Mr. Borden's amendment was as follows:

"That all the words after the word 'that,' in the proposed motion, be omitted, and the following substituted therefor, 'that the reciprocity agreement embodied in the resolutions submitted to this House by the Minister of Finance on the 26th day of January last was also submitted on the same day by special message of the President of the Congress of the United States of America, which was, then in session.

"That the said session has now expired, and Congress has failed to approve and carry out the said agreement.

"That a considerable length of time must necessarily elapse before the said agreement can be dealt with by Congress at a special session.

"That the fiscal changes proposed by the said agreement are of a far-reaching character, and constitute a substantial reversal of the policy which has been approved by the people of Canada.

"That in the opinion of this House the said resolutions should not be proceeded with until the electors shall have had an opportunity of pronouncing upon their merits."

The vote stood 70 for and 111 against giving a majority of 41. The division came suddenly after eight o'clock and some members were unable to reach the House.

W. M. German was thus prevented from recording his vote with the Opposition. There were eighteen pairs. Mr. Monk and the Nationalists voted with the amendment, also Hon. Clifford Sifton and Lloyd Harris. A. Verville, Liberal Independent, voted with the Government. W. O. Seeley (Wentworth) who had been talking of opposing the resolution, voted with the Government.

Lloyd Harris (Brantford), on rising to continue the debate in committee on Mr. Fielding's resolution, said he regarded this as the most important question that had come before the country since Confederation. He was not able to support the Government in this, and the circumstances occasioned him considerable regret. He claimed that it was a departure from the policy which he had thought was the policy of the Liberal party.

Dealing with the question as received by the country he said the farmers themselves were by no means a unit in its favor. For instance an agricultural paper had taken a plebiscite of its subscribers, and found one thousand ballots in favor of the agreement with six hundred against.

Mr. Borden, rising to move his amendment, immediately took advan-

36 DAY FAST A FINE CURE

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—Miss Ella Masterson, who lives with the family of S. A. Thompson at White Bear, and who underwent a fast of thirty-six days as a remedy for a general nervous breakdown, says she is satisfied with the result, and "feels fine."

"After the fourth day I had no desire for food," she said, "although I sat at the table with the family and saw them eat. I lost thirty pounds, but did not become especially weak, and my mind was usually clear, in better working condition than before the fast began. I do not say that the fast absolutely restored me to vigorous health, but that I received great benefit from it there is not the slightest doubt."

ANNEXATION LEAGUE BEING FORMED BY NEW YORK PEOPLE

Object is to Get South American Republics and Canada into the Union—Necessary to United States

New York, March 8.—The New York Times says there is in progress of organization in this city, "The American Annexation League," with headquarters at 189 Broadway. The purpose of the league is to agitate for the annexation of the several South American republics and, lastly, of Canada, to the United States.

Geo. W. Gibbons, one of the movers, said all the countries north of the Isthmus of Panama will have representatives at the meeting.

The reporter pressed Mr. Gibbons for information about the annexation league. "Well, you see, it is this way," said he. "The Panama canal is an assured fact. The big republics south of the Isthmus of Panama do not regard the fortification of the canal by the United States with any favor. They have the idea that we are trying to antagonize them, and in this feeling they are encouraged by the English, Germans and French. Why, in the navies of Peru and Chili they have Japanese officers. So the countries north of the Isthmus must be annexed by the United States. Cuba will be taken over in another year or two, and if the reciprocity treaty with Canada goes through Canada, too, will be annexed.

"I tell you, the Stars and Stripes will be floating in all those countries in a few years. It must be done to bring about the commercial supremacy of this country."

Vice-president of the Library Association, now in session.

HAD A TILT OVER PACT

British Parliament Leaders Have Warm Discussion.

London, March 9.—Every time reciprocity is mentioned in Parliament there is a warm passage-at-arms. Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, and Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, had a brush yesterday in the House of Commons over Ambassador Bryce. Mr. Balfour wanted to know what instructions had been sent to the ambassador, and why British manufacturers had not been consulted during the negotiations between the United States and Canada.

The tendency would be for the Americans to put pressure on Canada to raise the duties against the United Kingdom, said Mr. Balfour. The only bright spot, he said, was Premier Laurier's reiterated wish for imperial preference. This question is not dead in Canada and I can assure the Government it is not dead here, he exclaimed warmly.

The Foreign Secretary replied that the Government had not sent any instructions to Ambassador Bryce, and did not propose to, except to endorse entirely all he had done. The manufacturers, he said, had not been consulted because both parties to the agreement were desirous of secrecy.

WITNESSES FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE TO TESTIFY

Stock Promoter Found Many Dupes to Work His Game On.

New York, March 9.—Witnesses from Australia, New Mexico, Canada and many states were on hand yesterday to testify in the U. S. District Court in the trial of George Munroe, who is charged with misusing mails for alleged sales of Marconi wireless stock.

Eight persons, who said they were dupes, told on Tuesday how they had sent from $20 to $2,500 each in response to letters signed "Munroe & Munroe," and got nothing in return.

Addison Kingsbury of South Coventry, Conn., told how he had sent a $100 check for stock which he never received. Barney McConville, a New York detective, stationed in the financial district, recounted his investigations of Munroe's firm and said he had placed the evidence in the hands of the federal authorities.

Chris. Kettridge of London, chief transfer clerk for the Marconi Wireless Co. of England, testified that no stock had ever been issued to Munroe, and that Munroe was not authorized to act as the company's agent in this country. Munroe told doubting clients, according to previous testimony, that the firm was the American agent for the Marconi Co.

Walter M. Watson, a stock transfer clerk, formerly in the employ of Munroe, gave testimony against his erstwhile chief, and was on the stand when an adjournment was taken for the day.

While the Munroe trial was going on Skelton C. Burr, a member of Burr Bros., late dealers in stocks at the offices of which were raided in November last by postoffice inspectors, was arraigned in the U. S. Circuit Court, on an indictment charging misuse of the mails. He entered a plea of not guilty and was released in $10,000 bail.

MUST ASK AN ESTIMATE

One Ratepayer May Apply for Hydro-Electric Power and Officials Will Be Forced to Ask For Terms, According to Hon. Adam Beck's New Measure — Three-Fifths Clause Comes Up For Heated Debate.

Toronto, March 9.—Another Hydro-electric power bill was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the commission. A lively debate on the "three-fifths clause" also afforded the well-filled galleries consolation for the disappointment of those visitors who were on the watch for the anticipated reciprocity debate, which may possibly be reached this afternoon.

Hon. Col. Matheson announced a modification of the proposed tax on trotting horse race meetings. Instead of being required to pay a tax of $10 for a one-day, $40 for a two-day, or $60 for a three-day meetings, the tax will be $10 a day up to four days, a total of $40, with permission for one running horse race each day. The tax for additional days would be $200, the same as for the seven-day Jockey Club meetings.

The new tax of two cents a share on the sale of stocks is not to include bonds or debentures. Its payment on stocks is to be made by the transferee.

Hon. Adam Beck's new power bill provides that any one or more of the ratepayers in a municipality may apply to the municipal corporation for Hydro-electric power, and it will be compulsory for the municipal council to apply to the commission for an estimate.

The commission will furnish an estimate of the cost per horsepower to the council, which will be required to call a special meeting to consider the matter within a month of receiving the estimate from the commission. The council will be empowered, if the terms are satisfactory, to pass a by-law for entering into a contract with the commission, also to issue 20-year debentures to defray the local installation cost.

In police villages in a township, the trustees will have the powers which the act confers upon municipal councils, to make contracts with the Hydro-Electric Commission.

W. Proudfoot (Lib., Centre Huron) moved the second reading of his bill to repeal the three-fifths clause in the local option law. A review of the repeal notes, he said, showed that the three-fifths vote was not required to give permanence to the law.

In the recent reply made by the Premier to the temperance deputation, the leader of the Government had spoken of protecting private rights. Was that an intimation that the Government was considering compensation? Mr. Proudfoot admitted that the five per cent. tax did not indicate a leaning towards compensation to license-holders, but the Government, by its three-fifths clause, had kept scores of licenses in existence. The Government should not only repeal the three-fifths clause, but also abolish bar-rooms from the province entirely.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said he wondered if Mr. Proudfoot would dare to ask even the Dominion Alliance to ask for the restoration of the local option law of the previous period in place of the law as amended in 1906, even with the three-fifths clause. In the old law the local option bylaws were at the whim of municipal councils.

As late as 1903 there were but few local option municipalities, 52 per cent. are without licenses with a population of 930,000.

Hon. Mr. Hanna thought Mr. Proudfoot did not represent his party in advocating provincial prohibition, as Hon. A. G. MacKay had declared local option to be the best law for Ontario.

In Ontario same temperance leaders now approved of the provision, including Bishop Williams and F. Fielding, of the Commercial Travelers' Association.

Hon. Mr. Hanna announced that the Government had decided to amend the law this session by reducing the local option vote strictly to resident voters. This would be eminenty fair to both parties.

Hon. A. G. MacKay and Allan Studholme said they were for one man one vote.

Hon. Mr. Hanna moved the six months' hoist, which was carried.

Valentine Stock will ask the Government if any report has been received on the bi-lingual school question; also for certain particulars in regard to Rideau Park.

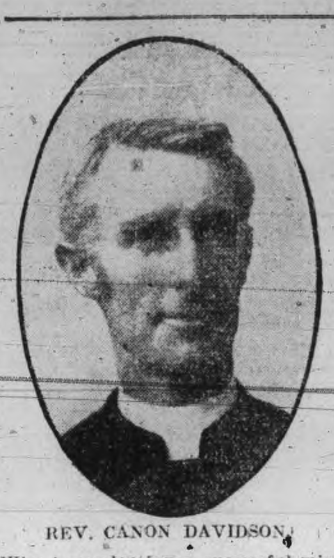
MOBILIZATION OF U.S. TROOPS DUE TO RETIREMENT OF DIAZ



REV. CANON DAVIDSON,
Who is conducting a successful mission at St. Cyprian's Church, Toronto.

He Has Announced That He Will Step Out Within a Fortnight.

Trouble Feared and Presence of Troops is Thought Necessary.

Special to The Review.

Washington, March 9.—The mobilization of the troops of the United States on the Mexican border, is now said to be the result of the intimation received by President Taft from President Diaz, to the effect that he will announce his retirement from the presidency within a fortnight. It is felt that the presence of a large force of soldiers is necessary to protect the foreign interests in Mexico, should a reign of disorder and anarchy follow the retirement of Diaz.

Washington, March 9.—The officers who set the machinery going for the great gathering of United States troops and warships from end to end of the Mexican frontier yesterday drew their first long breath in 36 hours and sat back to "watch the thing work." From all directions trains are carrying soldiers, horses, field guns and ammunition toward the places of rendezvous.

Official Washington still insists, for publication, that the sole purpose of this sudden and unexpected display of the military resources of the nation is to engage in field manoeuvres and practice of officers and men in land and naval activities under service conditions; in private they make little attempt to conceal the relations of the "manoeuvres" to conditions actual and potential over the Mexican border line.

It is significant to notice that the troops are equipped with ball cartridge, although it is invariable practice to supply troops with ammunition for peaceful manuoeuvres.
